Remember This Important Fact

¶ The makers of Cox's Gelatine believe that "Honesty is the Best Policy." It has paid them handsomely to conduct their business along that line—at its inception the founders laid down stringent rules for its safe progress. And they have never deviated from these rules.

COX'S Gelatine

¶ No chemicals of any sort or nature enter into the manufacture of this world famous product. It is as pure as it is possible for a Gelatine to be. And whether you buy it in the shredded or powdered form it is always the same. Remember "Cox's" for its absolute purity.

TWO WAYS of making money selling cigars

The First

Selling cheap goods with a long profit— (You won't sell many)

The Second

Selling a good line with a reasonable profit— (You'll sell lots)

The "second way" is the better—Sure profits and increasing trade.

If you decide on the "second way" you'll have to have our

"ANCHOR CIGAR"

The best 5c. straight on the market—and there's more profit than some other 5c. lines.

THE TEA THAT "QUALITY" MADE FAMOUS

Sixteen years ago the first pound of "SALADA" Tea was offered to the public. QUALITY was the FOUNDATION.

A reputation for reliability, the securing of the public confidence, account for the extraordinary fact that "SALADA" is the only tea in the world that holds the remarkable record of doubling its enormous sales every four years—a fact which proves that the public don't care for imitations, they don't care for fake goods—they want "SALADA" evidence.

Are you giving it to them?

We will be pleased to hear from you.

Profitable Goods

Are the goods that are a little better than the others: goods that will make sales where the others won't. Ozo Brand Pickles are good pickles, and show their quality. We have special facilities for turning out the best pickles, and we have made the most of them. For instance, we provide the seed from which the vegetables are grown and so get the best from the start; the cucumbers go straight from the vine to the factory, so that none of the fresh crispness is lost. We make our own vinegar and it cannot be beaten for pickling purposes. It will certainly pay you to specify that you want our goods when ordering pickles.

Travelers' Annual Banquet

Wit, Humor and Wisdom From the Spee ches at the Big Dinner Last Week—J E. Ellis, Edward Gurney, J. S. Willison and Others Pay Tribute to the Knights of the Grip—A Very Enjoyable Occasion.

The boys of the old brigade, the fully-fledged and the just-hatched members of that great brotherhood of drummers—more properly speaking, the Canadian Commercial Travelers' Association—were all present at the annual dinner in McConkey's banquet hall on Thursday evening, December 26th, and a jollier crowd than the two hundred and fifty knights of the grip who gathered around the tables it would be hard to find.

With President Lewis A. Howard beaming good humor at the table of honor, were, J. F. Ellis, Edward Gurney, Jas. P. Murray, J. S. Willison, Lieut.-Col. Stoneman, Jos. Oliver, Tom McQuillan, E. Fielding, Robt. Algie, and Geo. West.

The dinner part of the evening was pretty well looked after, but, as the gentleman beside The Grocer representative remarked, "It came too soon after the mighty big dinners everyone ate on Christmas day to be thoroughly enjoyed." However, by half-past nine the turkey and ices had been well disposed of, everyone got settled down comfortably with weeds and pipes going full blast, and through the smoke the speakers of the evening poured out their oratory and words of wisdom.

President Howard set the ball a-rolling by proposing the honored toast to the King, and if His Majesty could have heard the way the big family took up the song in his honor he would have wept tears of joy. Then in a few well-chosen words, indicative of material progress and prosperity, the president followed with the toast to Canada.

A couple of bright musical numbers were well received, and then J. F. Ellis, who, by the way, is a charter member and one of the original directors of the association, proposed the toast, "Our Manufacturing Interests." Mr. Ellis didn't seem to think he was expected to stick to his text, and wandered off onto a pet theme of his own, which, however, brought out a forcible point. He side-tracked himself onto the question of the evils and dangers of level railroad crossings and pleaded for the help of the members of the association in effecting a remedy. A membership of 22,000 is a big army, said Mr. Ellis. You travelers can do a great work in this matter by watching for the dangerous crossings, bringing them to the notice of your customers, and to the Railway Commission, and educating the people generally to demand adequate provision for safety. Coming back to the toast, Mr. Ellis said that our three chief industries, farming, fishing and manufacturing, go hand in hand and must be equally developed to develop the true wealth of Canada. With these industries prosperous, the country at large will be prosperous. Our manufacturers are beginning to reach out beyond the home markets and this also means success to Canada.

JACK WILDFONG,

Edward Gurney, in replying, was in a jovial mood. He referred to his early experiences as a traveler, before the days of the association, "A long time back," as some of the boys sang out, and told of some of the things the travelers used to do in those days. Becoming serious, Mr. Gurney outlined the necessary characteristics of a salesman, whom he described as the main factor in business. "He must be a man of good brain, heart, liver, belly, physique," he said, "and with more courage than the most of them. The salesman should honestly represent the man by whom he is employed. This is the essence of his success." Above all, he must "make things git."

Speaking to the toast, Mr. Gurney immediately climbed to his familiar high-protectionist perch and swatted the Government for its seemingly bad policy toward the local manufacturer. "No agricultural country can be a great country," said Mr. Gurney. "What is going to be Canada's future ?. In forty years of business in Canada," he continued, with a wave-like motion of his big fist, "no line of business shows such a small percentage of returns as manufacturing."

In conclusion, Mr. Gurney appealed to the travelers to think and act for themselves. He would rather have the co-operation of the travelers. he said, than of any other body in the country. Because no other body was so close to the factors of business. "Think matters out," he said, "come to a reasonable decision, irresponsive of party, and then let the people feel ye !"

Everybody felt pretty good after this speech, given in Mr. Gurney's characteristically cool and deliberate manner, and they listened with appreciation while Master Wilfrid Morrison, the boy soprano, climbed on a chair on the raised platform and sang a couple of solos in a particularly pleasing way.

"Tom" McQuillan proposed the next toast, "Wholesale Mercantile Interests," in a bright and brief way, and the three cheers and a tiger which were handed out for him showed what a place the past-president has in the hearts of his brother travelers.

Jas. P. Murray, president of the Toronto Carpet Company, who responded, said that perhaps if he had stayed longer on the road he might have obtained a better grasp of the gift of gab, and, speaking to the toast, proceeded to tell something of the position of the woollen industry of Canada. Mr. Murray cited a host of facts and figures, touching principally on the disadvantages which Canadian woollen manufacturers have to contend with, and which are placing the industry in a serious position.

J. S. WILLISON.

After this "Brother" Donald McGregor, always popular with the travelers, stepped up and sang a couple of stirring songs in a way that brought down the house.

E. FIELDING.

Ex-Alderman Joseph Oliver smiled as if he were perfectly sure of election when he rose to propose the toast, "Our Association," and well he might, for as a past president of the C.T.M.B.A. and for himself he was given a mighty encouraging reception. He modestly and wisely refrained from any reference to municipal politics, and getting down to business at once, made a neat speech, remarking that Mr. Ellis and his associates had built better than they knew when they had organized the association. With the financial status and the number of members the body was now able to boast, it could justly be called a big and growing success.

E. Fielding, the association's financial watchdog, reviewed the growth of the body, in a comprehensive manner, and spoke of the features by which the organization was superior to an insurance company, from a financial standpoint.

Following this came a generous—in point of length—selection by Highland Piper Hay, late of the Black Watch Band, which some of the "boys" liked exceedingly, and some didn't like at all. It all depended on one's bringing up, as more things do than we usually realize. They all were eagerly expectant, however, when Lieut.-Col. Stoneman, one of the old brigade, was called on. The colonel turned his remarks into a recitation taken from "Songs of a Sourdough." To be definite, he told the vivid story of the "Shooting of Dangerous Dan McGrew," and made the "wild-eyed stranger" who pounds the piano, and the "lady that's known as Lou" do their parts in a manner worthy of an Irving. As a response to a more than hearty encore he gave the familiar and inimitable "How Bill Adams Won the Battle of Waterloo."

Then came the necessary toast to "The Press," proposed by George West, who spoke in an appreciative way of the merits of this influential factor in society.

J. S. Willison, of the News, was there to respond, and he did it jovially and characteristically. But he didn't stick to his text, either, and wandered off into a story of how he began to learn salesmanship as a book agent, and after "falling down" very abruptly, left the business of canvassing for something more congenial. Mr. Willison has a good opinion of the travelers. "I suppose they represent a higher average of intelligence than any other group of men in the country," he said, "and they're just enough mellowed to make 'em fit for companionship." It was pretty risky to tell a story, he thought, because they knew all that ever were, some that were suitable and some that were not. And everybody laughed. Referring briefly to the Press in a manner that no one could regard as serious, Mr. Willison said that it had its virtues and defects, was sometimes devoted to the interests of the public and sometimes to itself.

BILLY COLVILLE,
Who Responded to the Toast to the Ladies.

W. H. Seyler, manager of The Grocer, spoke on behalf of the Trade Press, which he characterized as the organ of business, and, therefore, a supporter and aid to the traveler. As an old traveler he appreciated the joys and sorrows, principally joys, he said, of the traveler's life, and knew what it meant to be "up against it."

Robert Algie, the father of the "snack," who, as he said, had been "gathered in off the street" that evening, was called on and made a telling speech, reviewing the points of the previous addresses, and emphasizing particularly the fact that travelers should think, act and vote for themselves. In response to a request he gave a selection, also from the popular "Sourdough Songs," "The Cremation of Dan McGee," a humorous tale of the north, in a manner which was thoroughly appreciated.

Then followed a couple of musical numbers, after which John Charles, with his face even rounder and rosier than usual, and with good humor radiating from every pore, jumped up to propose that always last and inevitable toast, "The Ladies." Why they chose Billy Colville to reply to this The Grocer couldn't guess. In spite of the fact that indications pointed strongly to a probability that he would be leaving Canadian civilization shortly for an extended trip around the world, Billy got up and after gulping down a good deal of water, spoke of the great advantages of married life, the indispensability of the ladies, and, as a grand finale, handed out a lot of good advice to those already married and to those contemplating the happy state.

This, with a vote of thanks to the speakers and entertainers, and cheers for the Association, brought to an end a late end, by the way, one of the finest dinners the members of the Commercial Travelers' Association have ever enjoyed.

Through the Smoke.

You just ought to have heard those travelers sing. The way they caught on the chorus of the Maple Leaf and two or three of the popular songs made you think of angelic choirs—or something else.

Did you ever notice how many stout travelers there are? It was quite evident at the dinner. And the fatter they get the jollier they seem to be. Look at Billy Anderson and John Charles, for instance.

Billy Colville didn't look a bit as if he wanted to leave his wife and family to go round the world, when he was replying to the toast to the ladies.

JOHN CHARLES.

John Charles noted that they always put the ladies and the press together. We wonder why?

Songs of a Sourdough was pretty well advertised by the two recitations from its pages. But they were good human stuff, and took well.

Isn't it funny that these travelers who can talk like a streak by the hour when they are selling sugar or dress goods always get cold feet when they try to make a speech?

"And I can well remember my first sale," said Edward Gurney, when speaking of his apprenticeship as a traveler. "We all do," came back in a chorus that rather surprised him. We wonder what Mr. Gurney really did do on that first trip to New York.

Jack Wildfong, whose broad shoulders carried the responsibility of the chairmanship of the general committee, and who was also chairman of the entertainment committee, was here, there and everywhere, applying oil to make the function go smoothly. He deserves a good deal of credit for the success of this year's dinner. Mr. Wildfong wears even a wider smile than usual when he thinks how well things went.

TRAVELERS' ANNUAL MEETING.

The thirty-fifth annual meeting of the Canadian Travelers' Association was held in St. George's Hall, Toronto, on Friday afternoon last, and was one of the best attended and most enthusiastic meetings in the history of the organization.

The financial statement as presented was most satisfactory, showing a reserve fund of $576,489, the largest in the association's history. Last year's death claims numbered 72 and $45,812 was paid to beneficiaries. The membership of the association has now reached 8,531.

Several matters of particular interest to the traveling fraternity were discussed. Regarding the matter of accommodation in local option districts a resolution was passed to the effect that the board ask the government to add to the local option by-law a clause which will provide for the ample accommodation of both man and beast and if not that the by-law be declared null and void. The resolution also asked that an inspector be appointed to see that such accommodation is provided.

Reference was also made to the growth of the Northwest Commercial Travelers' Association, and it was held by several speakers that unless better care was taken of that part of Canada the association had better withdraw.

The president's address referred to the questions of fixing Thanksgiving Day and dates of general elections on Monday or days convenient to travelers and these were heartily endorsed and will be acted upon.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Lewis A. Howard, Toronto, re-elected; vice-presidents John Gibson and Robert Gemmell; treasurer, E. Fielding; Toronto directorate, Messrs. S. M. Sterling, J. H. Wildfong, Geo. W. Moore, James G. King, W. J. Nicks, James H. Lumbers, C. J. Tuthill, Harry Ellis and A. C. Rogers; Hamilton vice-presidents, John H. Herring and Robert M. Stuart; directors, Messrs. Arthur F. Hatch, W. H. Dean, E. O. Zimmerman, George McGregor, John Stoneman and P. A. Somerville; Montreal board, vice-president, S. O. Shorey; director, William Cauldwell. Auditors, W. H. Cross and H. Barber.

A 1908 WINDOW

Timely Attraction for the New Year Affording Opportunity for Excellent Grocery Display—Good Suggestion From Contemporary Journal.

Here's a suggestion, borrowed from the Modern Grocer, one of our esteemed American contemporaries, which should prove of value to a good many Canadian grocers who want a striking and attractive window for use early in the New Year.

Unfortunately it appears a little late to be used exactly as was intended by the original designer, but it will prove attractive, however, as a reminder to customers, and is novel enough to attract a great deal of attention.

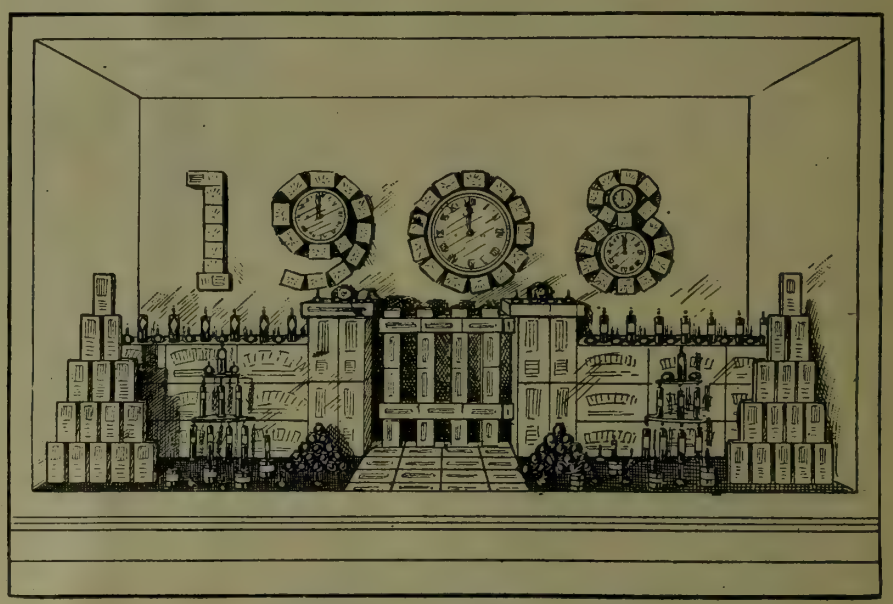
The numerals are built by tacking cartons to a frame in the rear of the window. Care must be taken to get the figures well proportioned and not too small. If the space for each figure is painted or covered with cloth of a dark color and the cartons are light, the effect will be much better.

The original idea was, of course, to have the clocks set at a minute to midnight, signifying an approach to the New Year, but since the immediate occasion for this application has passed, the clocks might be omitted without great loss in attractiveness.

The gateway leading to 1908 may be readily made from small cartons, as shown in the engraving, while the wall on either side may be built, say of packages of breakfast food. If perfect security is desired, the cartons composing the gate and the wall should be tacked to a light framework behind.

In the foreground of the window and even on the gateposts and wall, bottled and canned goods may be displayed to great advantage.

The floor or covering of the window should be of dark cloth or paper to secure good results. A few pounds of sand, covering the boarding, to represent earth, would be considerably more realistic. Indeed, the grocer can make the suggestion given here lend itself to any number of plans which may occur to him and may suit his particular ideas.



An Attractive New Year Grocery Window.

ARRANGED FOR "SNACK."

Drummers' Annual Outing in Alton to be Held on July 24th and 25th.

An enthusiastic meeting of the "Snack" Club was held in the King Edward hotel, Toronto, on Saturday, to discuss ways and means for the drummers' annual summer frolic at Alton. Mike Malone occupied the chair, and Vice-president Cecil Hunt made himself evident, as did also Bob Asher, the Toronto secretary. The following worthy upholders of the Snack were present:—From Hamilton, Bay Hill, Geo. Smye, Pete Smith, Court Thompson, Col. Stoneman and Neil Tufford; from Alton, Robt. Algie and Amos Mason, and from Toronto, Bob Keyes, Billy Colville, Geo. Campbell, Billy Meen, Jack Wildfong, John Charles and others.

The date for the outing was set for the last Friday and Saturday in July.

The financial report proved exceedingly satisfactory, there being over $100 to the good above last year's expenses.

Several committees were appointed to carry forward arrangements for this summer's frolic. One is to consider the matter of issuing souvenir programmes similar to last year. The Toronto side of the concert programme was left in the hands of "Brother" Donald McGregor. The Hamilton end is again left in the dark, but it is known that this always turns out most satisfactory. Billy Colville was made chairman of a games committee, and others appointed to prize, printing and publicity committees. Bob Asher and John Charles will look after the matter of badges.

The next meeting will be held in Hamilton early in May.

DO YOU KNOW WHERE YOU STAND?

This is a question for every grocer to face at the begining of a year's business: Do you know where you stand financially? Have you any definite statement as to just how much stock you have packed away in the back cellar and in the second storey of the warehouse? Do you know how much this stuff is really worth?

Here is one point where a great many grocers go wrong and get into further trouble. They neglect to take stock. A merchant ought to know at least once a year, and better, every month or every week, just where he stands. Hundreds of the assignments which occur could be avoided if this matter were attended to. Find out what goods you really have on hand and clear it out before you let the travelers load you up with new stock.

And now is the best time of the year to do this work, in January, the slack winter month after the holiday rush is over. The matter is one which cannot be too strongly emphasized.

SET THE DATES ON MONDAY.

A matter brought up at the annual meeting of the Canadian Commercial Travelers' Association last week is worthy of consideration by the powers that be. The travelers suggest and will try to arrange that the dates of Thanksgiving Day and of at least general elections be set so as to give them a chance to take advantage of the privileges enjoyed by the "non-drumming" public. The travelers are at home at the end of the week but Monday seems to be the day which would be most satisfactory.

The request seems only a just one. Th travelers are away from their homes and families all week and where such an arrangement is possible should be permitted to spend an extra day at home instead of idling at some point on the road. There are now over 22,000 travelers in Canada, a class which is large enough to demand, and to deserve that its requests should receive consideration.

OUR CHRISTMAS COMPETITIONS.

Grocers all over the country appear to have taken a great deal of interest in the Christmas window dressing and advertising competitions, which have been talked about in these columns for several weeks. Photographs and sample advertisements have been arriving with more or less regularity for a couple of weeks, but early this week every mail brought large numbers of entries for both competitions, and the matter of judging promises to be no small item.

With the unusual rush incidental to the holiday season it has been found impossible to acknowledge the receipt of each of these entries, but every care has been taken to check each arrival and full justice will be given in every instance. In two or three cases photographs and letters regarding same have not made connection, but every effort is being made to trace these, and it is hoped that they can be straightened out.

In the Window Dressing contest the entries have been chiefly from the smaller towns, showing the popularity with which the idea of dividing the prizes was received. In the Advertisement contest, as was to be expected, the majority of entries were received from city grocers.

The work of judging will be proceeded with at once and the successful contestants will be announced, along with reproductions of the prize-winning windows and advertisements, just as soon as the matter can be satisfactorily arranged.

THE AMATEUR GROCER.

"What about the man who starts in the grocery business in a small way and untrained?" we were asked the other day. We answered that such a man ought to be as kindly as possible discouraged. There are too many such grocers in Canada, and they do the legitimate trade a good deal of injury. A farmer, for instance, who has gotten tired of the plough and hay fork, and has a few hundred dollars in the bank, comes into town and starts a grocery. Or a mechanic, say, who has been able to scrape up two or three hundred dollars in the last ten years, knocks the corner out of his house and has the parlor for a store, leaving his wife to run the place while he is at work. Cases such as these are occurring all over Canada every day. Anyone, of course, can run a grocery.

And it is just these people who injure and handicap the best interests of the trade as a whole. They are probably willing to stay open all evening, and thus undermine any early-closing compact. It is this class of people, too, who are most likely to resort to price-cutting. Their expenses are low, wife or daughter tends shop during the day, probably they have no delivery wagon, and consequently they think they can, and they can afford to undersell the larger stores. It is this class, too, who refuse to join and to act with the associations.

It is true that in some cases the business established in this way is successful and grows into larger and better quarters and becomes well established. But in a good many cases the result is very different, and in a few months the business goes into the hands of a receiver and several parties suffer.

Wholesalers very often act commendably when in touch with the beginners of such businesses by discouraging, as far as possible, the opening of a store. And in doing so they perform a service which should be repaid indirectly by their legitimate customers. The matter is one which may be advantageously discussed by grocers' and retailers' associations generally.

It is not the purpose of this article to discourage the man who, with some training, begins a grocery business in a small way, with the purpose of building it up. We merely wish to discriminate against the cases similar to those mentioned above when the business is opened as an incidental, or as a scheme, to add a little more revenue to the family purse.

BARRIE.

Two of our local merchants have had during the holiday week a good business drawing card in the way of a guessing contests. One merchant had a large glass confectionery jar filled with small white beans, and the person guessing the nearest number of beans in the jar received a handsome china set and likewise the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th competitor nearest the number. This scheme proved very good for business. The merchant said that his business was doubled by it.

Another confectioner had a large sugar cane in his window, which measured about six feet long by four inches in circumference. The person who again guesses the weight of this cane received the cane free. He also said that it was a great boom to his business.

John Jamieson, Fred Grasley, Wm. Maley, Louis Fraser are some of the grocerymen who spent their Christmas at home here.

The increase in the quantity of oranges that are now brought into Barrie in the last few years is quite noticeable. Where a few years ago one car of fruit was sufficient to go round the different merchants at Xmas time, now at least five times that amount arrived this year, two merchants buying a car apiece. Other fruits seem to arrive in about the same proportion.

KENTVILLE, N.S.

Three inches of snow on Monday, the 16th, made a week of excellent sleighing and made business brisk. The weather was all one could wish until Monday, the 23rd, when heavy rain fell and took off all the snow. The day before Christmas was mild and wheels were in use, but buyers were out in force. The trade commenced early this season and the merchants were in a position to wait on all customers.

The stores about town have never been so attractive and careful attention was paid to the details of window dressing. The goods on sale, as a rule, were of much better quality than usual, and cash was in good supply. The valley has not felt the tightness of the money market, as good returns have been received for apples and potatoes. The poultry market had a fine display, and the supply was much larger than a year ago. Turkeys retailed at 20c a pound; geese, 18c; chickens, 15c. The appearance of valley poultry is much more attractive than that brought from Ontario, and all classes here demand the best.

The merchants have taken a forward step in the town, and with the New Year will close every night, excepting Saturday. This move will be a great help to the clerks, and, it is believed, will be no loss to the employers. This closing will be for January, February and March. Christmas day was like Indian Summer and the lawns as green as in May. It has been so far a most remarkable winter, not a day near zero, and very little snow.

Grocers at Christmas time are paying more attention to keeping a higher grade of confectionery, and are utilizing the advice given by The Grocer from time to time.

Merchants all report a most satisfactory week's business, and are pleased at the way it was done, as customers did not put off their buying until the last few days.

We have no poor in this section, and our merchants are not cursed by having to give all their profits in gifts to customers, as was the case a few years ago. The prospects for next year look bright and if collections are promptly made 1908 should be all right.

THE BIGGEST HOLIDAY TRADE.

The following item from our correspondent in Vancouver sums up pretty satisfactorily the local situation:

"When every dealer, wholesale and retail, tells you that the holiday trade has been 'the biggest in their experience in Vancouver, there must be the natural reflection that the financial stringency one hears so much about has had little effect on the Pacific province. And this is strictly true. The attitude of the business public is one of watchfulness, standing ready to meet dull times if they come, but there is nothing in the local condition to warrant anticipation of dull times. Even the temporary close-down of the big smelters and the mines they serve in the Boundary country, has not been a serious matter. The mines and smelters are starting up again and the local difficulty of wage scale is capable of settlement."

NEWCASTLE, N.B.

Christmas business last week was (especially on the 24th) the greatest that has been done here for some years. The rush was on the 24th, as bare roads and soft weather had prevented many farmers coming to town sooner.

Meat and fowl sold several cents a pound cheaper than last year. Owing to decline in rate of wages, the prices of all lines of provisions have slumped a little this month.

Last year the north shore counties of New Brunswick caught about 2,662 tons of smelts, which sold on the ice at 5 cents a pound, but this winter weather conditions are against the fishermen, and the price is hardly half of that of last year.

Beef and pork were very plentiful in most places this week, and prices went down to 7 and 8 cents by the carcass, for pork, and 6 and 7 cents for beef.

The list of creditors of Samuel Robinowich, of Chatham, N.B., dealer in furs and hides, gains daily. His debts are $20,000 and he took about $15,000 of goods with him. The Bank of Nova Scotia has a bill of sale. J. B. Snowball Co. and the pulp mills are also heavy creditors and are seeking to have the bill of sale set aside.

George Stables has had his large grocery store rearranged, giving much more show room for his increasing business.

Thomas Maltby, lately employed with Miller Bros., has engaged with Baird & Peters, branch wholesale store here.

F. C. Dennison has on behalf of Baird & Peters, St. John, applied to Campbellton town council for a license to carry on a wholesale grocery there. That will make three wholesale groceries for Campbellton.

The price of milk, seven cents a quart here, has been raised in Chatham to eight cents a quart.

Smelts here continue an extra good catch.

PERTH.

We hear considerable talk of "hard times," but Perth's turn to experience real difficulty has not yet come. No factories have closed down and the standing ads. in the local papers "Girls Wanted" and "Boys Wanted," have not been withdrawn. It is true that crops in this district have not been up to other years and that some farmers have to buy hay and straw, but what a good thing it is that they have the money to buy these things, with and have still some left for groceries.

Almost all grocers in Perth advertise, not only at Christmas, but also all the year round. In fact, I can think of but one grocery of any size in Perth which does not advertise regularly.

*Contributions are invited from grocers or clerks in small places or where there is not a regular correspondent of this paper.

Christmas trade, as far as groceries go, has, I think, been up to former years. Most grocers speak of business being just as good as last year, and as there are two new groceries in town this is a pretty good showing.

Perth has many pretty grocery windows. All the grocers seem to realize that window advertising pays and so make use of their windows to display and sell groceries. I hardly think any of them can, like your Toronto grocer, trace $400 to a single window, but I think every one of them have had people ask for a bottle of stuffed olives like those in the window, or a dozen of those oranges in the window.

Early closing has a pretty firm hold here. Though there is no by-law, most of the stores close Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6 p.m. Formerly the month of December was excepted, but last year we had early closing till the 15th of the month, and this year we have early closing between Christmas and New Year's, so that Perth stores are open every evening only ten days in the year.

PETERBOROUGH.

There is a by-law in Peterborough to the effect that merchants and others living within a prescribed area must keep the pavement in front of their premises entirely free from snow. The enforcement of the by-law is proving a hard task for the Chief of Police. Some of the merchants believe that the walking is better when an inch or two of snow is left on the sidewalk and appear to be ruled by their own opinion and not by the by-law. There is considerable discussion over the matter and in some quarters the City Council is being censured for passing such a law. The police were kept busy warning merchants after the recent snow storm.

One of the most popular local grocery clerks is Fred. Walker, who is now employed with R. A. Dutton, George St. It was just thirteen years ago last Saturday since Mr. Walker sailed from England for Canada and he has always been connected with the grocery business since coming here. Mr. Walker is quite pleased with Canada—and Peterborough.

STRATFORD.

The merry Christmastide has come and gone, and everybody is happy, and the smile of contentment is seen on the faces of almost all the merchants of this banner city. "The best Christmas in eight years" was the statement of a prominent merchant to The Grocer representative the other day when asked in regard to the Christmas trade. And it has been a busy season. Immense crowds have been flocking the city streets during the week just closed, chiefly visitors from the outside surrounding points, and the purchases of the citizens were far outnumbered by those of the visitors.

From all appearances there did not seem to be very much of a money stringency; in fact the purses seemed to be fat ones and the purse strings loose. But, as another merchant remarked, "the people this year are not buying so many frivolities. They are purchasing more substantial goods and the class of goods that are not only suitable, but useful." And such was the case, generally speaking.

The reports of sickness in the city (smallpox) which have been circulated throughout the county, have to a certain extent injured the trade of local merchants, but during the days just previous to Christmas, there was no indication of any depression in business, as store after store along the main streets was crowded with buyers. The immense market on Saturday brought out a large crowd of people from the surrounding districts and every township in the county had representatives in the city who were all gathered together for one common purpose—that of purchasing Christmas gifts for their friends and relatives, such as could not be secured at the smaller population centres.

There was a great variety of dainty Christmas windows this year, more so than in other years, as your correspondent was told, and certainly they were of a bright, cheery nature. Many women put off their Christmas shopping to the very last day. They cannot make up their minds what to buy, what to give to their many friends, and they delay, procrastinate, forgetting that the longer they delay the more difficult it will be to get what they really want. However, the merchants did their share to help everybody to decide what they wanted. The grocers of the city were not slow to touch up their Christmas windows and give them the proper spirit. The Christmas shopper has recourse to the advertising columns of the daily paper, and it is on the data found there, in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, that the list of holiday buying is founded. One of the other best mediums is the catchy Christmas window.

Perhaps nowhere could one find a more complete and attractive window than that of the Barnsdale Trading Co. It was a good one. It is understood that this window was entered in The Grocer's Christmas window competition, and certainly if the judge was to visit Stratford and see it with his own eyes he would surely award the prize to Mr. Williamson, the popular manager of the company.

W. J. Norfolk, proprietor of the "Clean Grocery" also had a spiff window for Christmas, and many a pedestrian passing by stopped to take notice and no doubt walked in and made a purchase. It contained a splendid assortment of goods necessary for Christmas.

McCully & Haugh, Beattie & Co. R. L. Jones and other grocers also had sprightly and very attractive Christmas windows.

The Christmas market here last Saturday, Dec. 21, was a very large one, being largely attended by both sellers and buyers. The sellers commenced to arrive very early in the morning and soon the whole market area was jammed. The sellers were lined on both sides of the "midway" and also along both ends, while another long string circled the city hall. Everybody was happy. There was produce galore, chiefly fowl. Every rig, or almost every one, contained several fowl. Turkeys, as might be expected, were very numerous. Geese, chickens and ducks were also in abundance. The quality was also of the very best, nice plump birds.

SASKATOON.

A new grocery store has been opened on Avenue C by Mr. Creighton. It is also intended to add a poultry and meat department.

The Heagle Cigar Co. have moved their plant from Twentieth Street to premises on Avenue F.

A. Poole has sold his bakery business to Mr. Booth. This is the second business Mr. Booth has bought recently, but will still make his headquarters on Second Avenue.

A wagon load of big game attracted considerable attention on the streets a few days ago. This was the result of an expedition of a few local men to the woods north of Prince Albert. Two moose, two deer and an elk were secured.

The Saskatoon Flour and Milling Co. will extend their premises in the near future, and already a new boiler and stack has arrived.

It is now definitely known that the C.N.R. will build a station and freight sheds here next year.

Santa Claus appeared in a good many of the store windows during last week, amongst the Christmas decorations, to the delight of the young folks especially, but several times it was noticed that the sidewalk in front of Cairn's was crowded with grown-ups, who were anxious to renew their acquaintance with the old fellow who sat within, enjoying himself in a rocking chair.

A good deal of enterprise wae shown during the holidays as regards window dressing in all lines, and several neatly trimmed windows were to be seen. During the last day or two, however, frost on the windows marred the effect from an outside point of view, but inside was all hurry and bustle, especially with grocers and dry goods men up to a late hour on Tuesday night. Many who could not come earlier did their shopping that night and shelves are now considerably lighter. There was a good trade done in poultry, with which many of the dealers were well stocked. Turkeys sold from 18c. to 23c., geese 16c.

to 20c., ducks 15c. to 18c., and chickens 12c. to 15c. There was a liberal supply of fruit on the market for the Christmas trade, and taking things all round a good business was done by the grocers. It is to be expected that trade will be quiet for the next month or two but that will give merchants time to take stock and put in a fresh supply of goods for the spring.

The first freight train to come in over the Grand Trunk Pacific lines pulled into Saskatoon last week. The train consisted of sixteen cars of wheat from different points along their route in this vicinity. Although the Grand Trunk is not yet in operation, an effort has been made to relieve the farmers of their wheat in the districts through which the new system passes. The wheat will be handed over to the Canadian Northern here for shipment to the east. It is the intention of the company to meet the requirements wherever possible, of the points within their reach, until the regular service commences next year. Both the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific, although not nearly complete, are putting forth some effort to relieve the wheat situation in the districts through which they run. One of the towns greatly in need of relief was Asquith, on the C.P.R., where wheat had been collecting for some time, awaiting the arrival of cars. When a dozen cars arrived last week to relieve the elevators, they were pounced on by eager farmers, who were anxiously waiting to dispose of their wheat. In several districts the elevators are still full, notwithstanding the relief which has come, but it is gratifying to see that the railways are getting a move on for the disposing of the crops means everything to the west. If the farmer is given his money he will be in a position not only to settle old scores, but to purchase the necessary equipment and materials for the coming season.

The seed fair held here on the 9th inst. was very successful in every respect. There was a list of exhibits more than doubling in number those of last year, and a good turnout of men, who showed great interest in the competition and discussions which followed.

F. Holmes has added a flour and feed department to his grocery and hardware business.

Barber & Smith's butcher shop was broken into and a quantity of butter stolen. The thieves gained entrance by picking the lock on the back door.

In the Prince Albert Council for next year is one general merchant and one flour and feed merchant. There is plenty of scope for them to work during the coming year as a good many matters will come up for discussion and settlement.

At a recent meeting of the Agricultural Society at Prince Albert, the question of establishing a market was discussed. The following resolution was moved and carried unanimously: "Resolved that in the opinion of this meeting of the Prince Albert Agricultural Society, the time has arrived when a public market, centrally located in the city of Prince Albert, is necessary for the development of the city and district, and that the city council is respectfully requested to take steps toward the immediate establishment of such a market." This is a matter for the new council to take up and if they have the interests of the community at heart, as they undoubtedly have, steps will be taken for locating a market where produce can be bought and sold.

GALT.

Christmas has come and gone, and the Galt merchants are well satisfied with the season's business. They are quite willing to admit that business has not been quite up to former years, owing to the financial depression during the last two months of the year, but they are not making the fact a public issue. If one should go into any store in Galt and ask how business had been, each and every business man would reply that he had no reason to complain. The Galt business men recognize the fact that making a long face and complaining does more to injure business than anything else. If the public can be made to believe that business is good and that there is no financial stringency there would be an end to the present depression, as men in authority, thinking men, have come to realize the fact that in reality there is no stringency.

Oliver Chapman, a former member of the staff of Sloan's grocery, now studying for the Baptist ministry, preached in the local Baptist church on Sunday last, and his many friends were pleased to note his rapid progress.

Deans & Walker had two very prettily decorated Christmas windows.

A local grocer is not inclined to agree with the remarks of your Guelph correspondent to the effect that the giving of calendars at Christmas time is both troublesome and detrimental to business. "There is," he said, "not the slightest doubt that one and all of us like to be remembered at the Christmas season. If I get out a neat little calendar and present it to my customers, does it not signify my personal appreciation of their patronage, and the fact that I wish for a continuance of the same? And, even though it be only a calendar you can be assured that it is appreciated and the receiver is pleased with the fact that his patronage is appreciated. I am quite willing to admit that it is rather troublesome, but who will say that the effort is not worth the recompense? Not one grocer in every ten."

The business in Galt is enjoying its yearly week of rest from the importunings of the traveler. The week between Christmas and New Year's has generally become to be known as the week wherein the man with the grip fades into oblivion, and it goes hard with the drummer who has the audacity to intrude his presence during this week of retirement.

Acting on the advice of the Chief of Police the majority of Galt business men leave a light burning in the rear of their store all night. In this manner the work of the night officers is greatly facilitated, as they can command a view of the interior of the entire store.

Owing to the many requests made on behalf of charity for poor families, the retail merchants have decided on a scheme, which, it is hoped, will eliminate this almost necessary evil. The merchants do not object to giving, but their objection is based on the fact that the merchants, and the merchants only, are asked to contribute, while the citizens at large are never approached. The association intends to have each merchant set aside each year a certain sum for charity. This sum will be lumped together and will be distributed by a committee of members of the association, who will look into the merits of each case.

VANCOUVER.

On the coast the situation is absolutely the same as it is every year at this time. The mills have nearly all closed down for a few weeks, for the annual overhaul. The logging camps always do shut down for the holiday season, so that the shut down of the mills is not the direct cause of cessation of work in the woods. To hear the confident tone adopted by the lumbermen, there is no fear of dullness in their line next season.

In building lines the expansion continues and there is as much work as ever under way and projected. In railway building there is considerable prospect of unwonted activity next season. One line alone, the electric tram from New Westminster, 60 miles up the Fraser valley, is bound to have a strong effect on local conditions, opening as it does a magnificent rural district which has been sparsely settled heretofore. In all parts of the province agricultural and horticultural interests are going ahead very rapidly. An entire change in conditions as to farm products is marked by the developments of the past two seasons, and the beginning only has been made.

Flour prices have again been dropped back 20c. to $7 per bbl. for leading brands.

In provisions there is some shading of prices on hams, which are quoted all the way from 15 to 17½c. Bacon is 18½ to 20½c.

Butter stocks show slight variation, nothing coming forward from eastern sources at present. Local fresh butter is in small supply. There is a considerable quantity of Australian creamery on the market. A large consignment arrived by the S.S. Moana to-day. The price of this will be: Local creamery, fresh, quoted at 40c.; local dairy, 35c.; eastern creamery, 30 and 32c. Eggs are easier in local circles, as some supplies of fresh ranch eggs have come in. They are now quoted at 45c. wholesale, a decline of 5c. Case eggs still run from 27 to 32c.

Local apples continue in large supply. The poorer qualities are hardly quotable, as they sell for whatever they will bring. There is a considerable quantity of good stock, however, which is bringing from $1 to $1.75 per box. Japan oranges are a leader yet, though no more will arrive until after Christmas. They are selling down to 45c per box, with 50c for an average. Very good California oranges are coming in now, a car of particularly choice ones having been distributed this week. They are better colored and matured than early shipments. They are selling well for the Christmas trade. The price is $3.25 to $3.75 per box. Grape fruit is 50c cheaper this week, being quoted at $4.50 per box. Lemons are now $5.50 and $6 per case. There are some local cranberries selling at 8c per lb. Eastern cranberries are $12.50 to $13.50 per barrel.

A few hot-house tomatoes are being received, but the price is high, $2.25 and $2.50 per box. Lettuce is plentiful, both from Burnaby and Victoria, at $1 per crate. Ashcroft potatoes, $26 per ton; locals, $18 and $20; cabbage, 2½c per lb.; carrots and other roots, $1 per sack; onions, $2.75 per cwt.

ST. CATHARINES.

St. Catharines merchants made every effort to furnish their customers throughout the district with goods suitable for the Christmas and holiday trade. They spared no pains to make their stores attractive and the window displays were the most artistic that have ever been on exhibit. It is almost useless to point out one individual grocer, for that would not be doing justice to the others. They all deserve great credit for the pains they are taking to bring St. Catharines to a high tone in this respect. I venture to say that few places of the size and population can equal our merchants in their window display. Take for instance ex-Ald. J. T. Petrie. His is a fine frontage, with two large windows, so that he has the space to make a fine display in china, crockery, earthenware on the one side, and toys and fancy goods in the other window. The grocery department is in the basement and fancy goods on the ground floor. Our merchants stick to the rule of opening business at 8 o'clock in the morning and closing at 6 o'clock in the evening, Saturdays excepted, when they keep open till later hours, excepting the McLaren & Company departmental store, which opens at 8.30 o'clock a.m. and closes at 5.30 p.m. each day, Saturday excepted, when the business closes at 9 o'clock p.m., sharp. These hours give the employes some time for rest and recreation. This firm has lost nothing by this radical change, though they have a large staff of employes. The old system of giving presents to customers, no matter whether heavy or light buyers, has almost passed into oblivion, and now the presentation of calendars has become the custom though all customers are not served with this emblem of friendship and of those who are left off do not take the offence lightly, but they are few in number and do not carry much weight.

St. Catharines has lost one of its busiest and best paying manufactories, the automobile works, in which a number of Toronto capitalists are interested which has closed its doors. The plant has been removed to Toronto, presumably considered a more central point, and with a much larger surrounding to make the concern pay larger dividends. By the stoppage of this plant several hundreds of skilled and well paid mechanics have been thrown out of employment. The company employed skilled labor with a few exceptions.

In other branches of business the sharp, cold weather coming on suddenly, has compelled carpenters, masons, bricklayers and painters to suspend operations, though there is a large quantity of unfinished work which in all probability will remain unfinished until weather permits next year.

Mr. Balfour, the well known grocer traveler, of Hamilton, was in town a few days ago, taking orders from his customers.

The canneries have about concluded a busy season of operations and in the numerous factories a large number of employes were engaged, who are now thrown out of work. Navigation of the Welland Canal having closed for the season, and with its employes and masters and sailors having laid up their boats, two other large batches of busy people will be idle until 1908 navigation season opens.

The natural gas supply has become a burning question among its users and many people have removed the fixtures and resumed burning coal. It was expected that when the two companies amalgamated there would be a sufficient supply for all purposes. The amalgamated companies expected to procure an extra supply of gas from the McGillivray Company, but as the latter has a contract with Buffalo—some of the shareholders being Buffalonians— they would not furnish the home company with the required supply. This failure to supply gas to their St. Catharines customers became so keen that the matter was brought to the attention of the city council, who authorized Mayor Riddell and City Solicitor Connor to proceed to Ottawa and if possible have the ministry check the exportation of gas. Philip I. Price, manager, and H. H. Collier, solicitor for the combined companies, went also to state their side of the case and Mr. McGillivray on behalf of his company, was there to place his side of the question on record. The minister promised to look into the matter and report later on as to his view of the situation.

The Saturday market was a busy day with the farmers and hucksters who come to St. Catharines to sell their products. Though the day was blustery with a heavy fall of snow, it did not deter these people from remaining on the market grounds until they disposed of what they had to sell. Eggs were sold at 40 cents per dozen, butter at 32 cents to 35 cents per pound. Hay sold at $17 per ton. Other articles remained stationary in price.

Ex-Alderman Joseph Hodgins, the popular fish and poultry dealer, who has been critically ill, is on a fair way to recovery.

CHATHAM.

Civic nominations took place here on Monday last. In addition to Ald. Wm. Potter, for three years past a member of the city council, who enters a three-cornered race for the mayoralty, quite a few members of the grocery and allied trades are listed for the aldermanic race. The list included Grocers J. N. Massey and H. A. Andrew, Confectioner E. A. Mounteer and Butchers J. N. Edmondson and Anson Mounteer. Whether or not all will stand is a question, but the fact that they have been placed in nomination is ample evidence that their friends want them to do so. J. N. Edmondson and E. A. Mounteer are both ex-aldermen; J. N. Massey served on the 1907 council, and Harry Andrew was at one time a member of the school board, while Anson Mounteer, before entering the meat business, was the city sanitary inspector. Hence all have been more or less in touch with municipal affairs before.

After January 1st the stores at Port Lambton will close at seven o'clock on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. This step is in line with a movement which seems to be growing universal in rural centres, to set apart three nights a week as the merchants' own.

The grain business hitherto conducted at Wallaceburg under the name of Armstrong & Son will henceforth be known as R. Armstrong & Co., Limited. The management will continue practically the same as heretofore, however.

Last week the premises known as the Alexandra block, owned by J. B. Stringer & Co., the well-known grain dealers, were visited by a disastrous fire. The two upper storeys, occupied by roomers, were pretty well gutted, and the downstairs, including the firm's offices, were also damaged. The loss to the firm will be about between $6,000 and $8,000, pretty well covered by insurance. Messrs J. B. Stringer & Co. have secured temporary offices and the fire will not interfere in the least with their grain business. They will rebuild at once.

A well decorated Christmas interior was that of Mounteer's meat market, conducted by V. C. and A. T. Mounteer. A nice, clean, good-looking meat display was enhanced by the addition of many-colored tissue streamers. The firm have reproduced their display on souvenir post cards, which they are handing out among their customers—a neat advertising dodge which should serve to keep the enterprise of the firm in the customer's memory.

That grocers are appreciated in fraternal circles is shown by the fact that when Courts Chatham and Kent, Canadian Order of Foresters, were recently amalgamated, the three senior offices in the new Court Chatham were all held by grocerymen. The three officers were, R. I. Weaver, chief ranger; J. W. Dyer, vice-chief ranger, and Fred. Ward, financial secretary. An interesting coincidence is that the two first named carry on business on St. Clair street, within a stone's throw of one another, and that Mr. Ward, who is the popular clerk in Harry Andrew's grocery, resides a block away from his fellow Canadian Foresters on the same street.

Harry Andrew, of the Liverpool house, is mourning the loss of his big Maltese cat. The animal, which was a noteworthy mouser, passed away a few days ago at the advanced age of fourteen years. It is generally believed to be the dean of the Maple City's grocery cats.

WHAT TO DO IN JANUARY

Pertinent Hints for the Mid-Winter Slack Month.

Good Resolutions and Stock Taking.

The Christmas season has come and gone and with it the anxiety and troubles of the grocer during the busy December days. For a few weeks there is generally a lull in business, a relapse from the Christmas strain. And it is right here that many grocers make a serious mistake. The majority of men enjoy a rest, especially after some strenuous work. The grocer is no exception and is human to the finger tips like all his brethren. Naturally, he is prone to take things easy and enjoy a well-earned rest, if, indeed, dullness in business may be aptly termed "rest," But while resting, he should be doing something more. He should be laying his plans for the New Year, studying the situation before him and profiting by his last year's experience, he should map out for the ensuing year a plan of campaign, as it were, by means of which his business could be materially strengthened. Unfortunately, many grocers either forget or neglect this very important task. "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof," apparently is the motto of many. As a result, they do not make the best use of the advantages offered by the quietness in business prevailing after the Christmas rush and face the New Year in a happy-go-lucky way without any definite plans.

The Time for Resolutions.

Why not, in the first place, try a few New Year resolutions? Even if you are firmly convinced of the frailty of human nature and, above all else, of the weakness of New Year's resolutions, what's the matter with making some definite decisions about your business methods? And, having made some judicious resolutions, why not strain a point or two to see them fulfilled and have the immense satisfaction of realizing that your New Year's resolutions were composed of more solid matter than that gaseous article known as "hot air?" There's no harm in it. On the contrary, there is every probability of gain.

"But," asks the grocer, "what resolutions can I make?" Reflect for a short time and gradually a series of suggestions, gleaned from past experience, will arise in your mind. Try, for instance, a few "don'ts." Don't neglect to keep your store neat, tidy and bright in every detail. Maybe in the past you have been rather indifferent as to the appearance of your store. But with the New Year make it a special point to cheer the hearts of your customers, especially the ladies, by maintaining a well-ordered grocery. Too much stress cannot be laid on this feature.

Of paramount importance is the store window. Don't forget to give this the closest attention and make it, as it has proved in many cases, a business-bringer and a money-maker. Don't allow it to become a rendezvous for dead flies and such truck. By dressing it frequently and artistically, you put the window to its proper use.

Improve Business Methods.

Don't neglect to study carefully and judiciously your business methods. Possibly you have some bitter recollections of being "done" through being careless in giving credit. Know your customers and be sure of their worth and honesty before allowing them to run up a nice account. Maybe you have good reasons for abolishing credit wholly and placing your business on a strictly cash basis. No better time is offered than January for so doing. Should this be your intention, endeavor to live up to it, even if at times it should appear to be a step in the wrong direction.

It is needless to give fuller details of the "don't" resolution. If you are worthy of the name "grocer," you can easily think of many others which arise. With them mix a good quantity of "do" resolutions. For instance, be civil and courteous in your dealings. Be straightforward and honest, so that your customers can rely fully on your name. Be pleasant and agreeable with your customers and clerks, too. It pays. Have a system in your store and make it real. Be a "live 'un" and break away from the class of "has beens." You have, doubtless, many plans along the lines mentioned. Start January and a New Year with such resolutions. The gain will all be yours.

Make Use of January Slackness.

Having laid careful plans for the ensuing year, commence the work in earnest. Make good use of the slackness in January. Straighten up your books, and see to it that last year's business is in a satisfactory shape. Clean out the pigeon-holes in your desks and make good use of the waste paper baskets. Have everything in tip-top condition for a New Year's business. Do the same with all the contents of your store. After the hustle and bustle of December days there is bound to be untidiness in the store. Use your spare time in January to get your store in good shape. If your store requires new fixtures or remodelling, a suitable opportunity is afforded in January.

Don't Neglect Stock-taking.

Another most important task for January is taking stock. There is no more opportune time in the year than this month. Even if you have never followed this in the past, turn over a new leaf and begin right away. You don't need to be a big fellow to do this. It is just as essential for the small as the big grocer, for by taking stock the grocer can tell definitely where he stands, what progress he has made, what is his exact profit and loss, and incidentally can put his stock in trim for the next twelve months' battle. There is always spare room after the Christmas season and this facilitates stock-taking. As he proceeds with this work, the grocer soon discovers what lines of goods are "sticking." There are generally some slow sellers and these are brought to light when taking stock. As a result, the wise grocer will take the necessary steps to push such goods and guard against being loaded with "sticky" articles in the future.

Clear Off Holiday Goods.

Another item worth considering in January is the question of fancy holiday lines unsold. It is hardly possible that the Christmas buying will clean out such choice goods as raisins, peels, nuts and fruits, which have been stocked in anticipation of the holiday trade. Such lines are bound to become "wasty" if left on hand. Raisins, for instance, will become sugary and dry. The grocer should lose no time in pushing the sale of these goods and clearing out the remainder of his holiday stock. Knock the price down to cost and clear them out. It is better to have the hard cash than goods which will lose money and be a drug on your hands.

And remember the good resolutions.

THE WOMAN CLERK.

The following item, clipped from a recent issue of the New York Journal of Commerce, one of the most reputable and highly regarded market and financial journals of this continent, shows how far The Grocer's prestige extends and also how this large journal watches our columns:

"The Canadian Grocer, which, by the way, is one of the best grocery papers printed on the continent, breaks forth in its current issue into the discussion of a brand new problem in the life, trials, joys and tribulations of the retail grocer—the woman clerk. According to a writer in that paper, the woman clerk in the grocery store has become something more than a theory and is a factor to think about.

"A few years ago no first-class grocery store would have lady clerks," he writes, 'but it is entirely different now They have come to stay, and while one used to feel jealous of the ladies, they have made a distinct place for themselves in first-class stores and don't interfere with the male clerks. A good, cheerful, hustling young lady in a store can sell as much as a man and can explain the different processes of cooking different articles better than some men. She can dress a silent salesman or showcase neater, and keep the store more clean and tidy and also put new ideas into the boys' heads on window dressing. She also adds a cheerfulness to a store that no one man can.

" 'But one of them is plenty, generally, as where two or three are gathered together there is too much talking and laughing among themselves, which is not good for any business. Then again, the young lady does up spices, pepper, starch and other light goods, keeps the store dusted and sees it is done, besides a hundred and one things too numerous to mention, and after five years' experience I am glad to say she is a great help in a grocery store, and if you have not tried her it is not too late to and be convinced that she has a place there.' "

The article in question was contributed by our Guelph correspondent and was only one item on a subject which was discussed by several correspondents. It is our intention to take the matter up more fully in some future issue.

Markets and Market Notes

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—
Green Teas—Advanced ½c.
Nuts—Lower.
Evaporated Apples—Easier.

Montreal, January 2, 1908.

Orders of the same nature as those received Monday and Tuesday preceding Christmas were dealt with by the wholesalers the first two days of this week. Business since New Year's Day has not been up to much. City trade has been fairly satisfactory, but country orders were practically nil. English jobbing houses are either taking stock or just finishing, while most of the French wholesalers are waiting for the end of this month before beginning. Collections on the average appear to be satisfactory.

Green teas have been advanced ½c a pound, while all other grades are firm in feeling. Sugar is steady at the old prices. Evaporated apples are easier by ½c. Beans continue to be quoted about the same, while peas are also unchanged. Nuts are easier in almost every instance, owing to the holiday trade being finished. Coffees and spices are quiet. Rolled oats is unchanged, while flour is dull. Manitoba feed has declined. Whiting is up 10c per 100 lbs. One line of chocolate is slightly advanced.

SUGAR—A fair movement is noticeable in sugar, but prices are unchanged. An advance was talked of at one time, but for the present it seems to have fallen through. It is possible some change will take place in the near future, but by no means certain.

TEAS—Green teas are ½c higher than at the time of last writing, and probabilities are that they will be even further advanced shortly, owing to small crops. Planters are going in for black tea more and more, with the result that green is being neglected and supplies are running short. On all grades of tea there is a noticeable tendency to higher prices than now rule.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS AND NUTS—Dealers in dried fruits are handicapped in late holiday trade owing to lack of stock with which to fill the last orders of the wholesale trade. There was during the early part of the week a good demand for all kinds of raisins, but stocks held locally were light, and orders were filled with difficulty. This applies especially to sultanas, for which there appeared to be a brisk demand, for the season, though brokers were not able to supply customers very easily. There is some talk of a break in California seeded raisins, but it does not look as if anything was going to come of it. Currants have not changed much since last report. Two more steamers have arrived in New York with cargoes, so that the market there is pretty well supplied. The third date steamer has arrived in New York, and as a result brokers there are in a position to shade prices on Khadrawis and Sairs, though they are firm in their views of Hallowees. Some figs arrived recently, which will help matters out as stocks here were not large. Demand is not great though. Some special prices on nuts, for delivery any time now are being made. Grenobles are offered at a price which would mean 13½c to the retailer; marbots at 10½c; cahors at 10c, and French at 9c. There is an easier feeling in Brazils also, quotations being one cent off. Pecans are slightly easier and holders would shade ½c to 1c on quantities. Filberts are not quite so firm.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—
Sugar—Firmer.
Beans—Declined further.
Currants—Scarce.
Collections—Slow.

Toronto, Jan. 2nd, 1908.

Wholesalers are stock taking this week, making good use of the time not occupied with the usual business. They have had lots of time to devote to it, too, for the holiday quietness expected has been very materially felt. Small rush orders for staple goods have been about the only business requiring attention.

The financial side has been, perhaps, a little less encouraging than last week. Collections seem to be a little slower, though renewals are no more frequent.

The wholesalers, however, are almost unanimous in the expectation of a good opening early this month. Considering the excellent Christmas business done by the retailers and the fact that their buying was more conservative than usual, their stocks in many lines must be getting well down, and they will require new supplies early in the year. The threatened financial stringency is beginning to lose its effect and the fact that the public generally have considerably more confidence than was evident a month ago, indicates a good spring's business. The majority of the houses are planning to send their travelers out at the beginning of the week, some even started out on the day after the holiday.

TEA—An advance of half a cent on several lines of greens in local markets was made during the week in accordance with the general appreciation recently in other teas. Late advices from London, dated Dec. 16th, say, regarding the current situation:

"The rather larger quantity put forward for the closing sales has sufficed to check any further upward movement in prices, although last week's rates have on the whole been strongly maintained, especially for the lower descriptions. The three weks' interval will no doubt pave the way for a good re-opening of the market, especially if the much desired reduction in the bank rate has by that time come into force. Sellers will then no doubt profit by their experience of last January and refrain from offering too large a quantity in any one week.

"The question of a further reduction in the duty is one which will no doubt be occupying attention in the New Year, and it is to be hoped that organized and sustained efforts will be made to secure the removal of at least 1d. from the present impost. With the public in all probability compelled to pay appreciably more for their tea in the near future, there is a danger of a falling off in consumption, while the fact that the profits of distributors in the lower priced canisters are practically nil should suffice to secure the support of all sections of the industry in any endeavor to secure relief. Again, it is a generally accepted theory that a high duty tends to enhance the values of the inferior grades at the expense of the better sorts, and that a low tax has the converse effect, so that any proposal which might improve the comparatively low basis of good teas should be welcomed."

COFFEE—Willett & Gray, in their weekly review, say:

"The crop movement at Rio and Santos for the second half of the season will be small, the receipts still pointing to a crop total of less than ten millions. From what is now known about the mild crops harvested the yield is very much behind last year in the East and West Indies, as well as Central America, Venezuela and Colombia. Commencing with this month there will be a constant inroad upon the world's visible supplies, the hand to mouth takings by the trade for actual necessities being much in excess of the coffee coming into sight. Latest advices of a reliable character touch upon the prospects of a smaller crop again next season and while as usual a divergence of opinion at this stage exists, experts tell of the irregular flowering from which only a small to moderate fruiting can be expected.

On the scale of present consumption Rio and Santos crops of 10,00,000 bags are far inferior to requirements of those grades, now calculated to be 14,000,000 bags a year.

SUGAR—Local markets are firm, but with no change in quotations. Regarding the situation in raws, Willett & Gray say:

"The closing week of the year, as usual, is very quiet, with little desire to do business; hence there is no change in quotations or the week, except in the New Orleans market, which declined 1-32 per lb. for 96 test, due to large receipts of Louisiana sugars.

"The features to note are that the Cuba crop grinding is far behind last season's, there being only 15 centrals working now against 112 last year, with receipts for the week at the principal ports of only 1,000 tons against 23,000 tons last year.

Indications are that the supply of Cuban sugar for the next few weeks will be comparatively small, and this gives a firmer tone to the market.

"Also it is noticeable that the European markets continue their advance, and beet sugar quotations rose from 9s 8½d to 9s 10½d for the week, closing strong.

A review of the raw prices during the year says:

"The year opened with centrifugal sugar, 96 degree test basis (the standard for raw sugar), at 3.65c per lb., declining during last half of month to 3.48c; average for January, 3,513c per lb. February declined to 3.38c, averaging 3.416c; March was higher throughout the month, closing at 3.58c and averaging 3.512c; April continued the advance to 3.765c, averaging 3,696c; May further advanced to 3.92c, averaging 3.855c; June reacted to 3.70c, averaging 3,792c; July recovered the decline and advanced to 3.94c; averaging for month 3.871c; August went no higher, remaining about steady, averaging 3.917c; September proved the highest month of the year at 3.95c, and averaging 3.943c per pound; October declined to 3.90c, averaging 3,922c; November made rapid decline to 3,625c under financial stress in United States, averaging 3,769c; December, with easier money affairs and partial supplies, recovered and closed the year at 3.85c per pound, only 10c per cwt. below the highest of the year; December average, 3.793c.

The lowest point of the year was 3.38c per pound (February 21) and the highest point 3.95c (September 11 to October 14). The average price for centrifugals in 1907 was 3.756c per pound, against 3,686c in 1906; 4.278c in 1905; 3.974c in 1904; 3.72c in 1903; 3.542c in 1902; 4.047c in 1901; 4.556c in 1900; 4.419c in 1899."

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 noon Thursday, Jan. 2, 1907.)

John T. Persse, of Teese & Persse, wholesalers, and president of the Winnipeg Board of Trade, stated to The Grocer representative that from personal observation and knowledge, he knew that the grocers of the west had enjoyed a holiday business this year equal to any previous season's. Winnipeg and the west, he said, were apparently not feeling the effect of the alleged monetary stringency, and he was confident that succeeding months would continue to show an increase in the volume of business.

All prices are holding firm this week, with the exception of sugar, which has made a decline in all grades of five cents. All India and Ceylon teas have advanced one cent, and the quotation on prunes is somewhat higher than last week.

A SAMPLE OF WESTERN FLOUR.

The Winnipeg Free Press has a delightful custom of sending out to its friends every Christmas season some memento of the products of the West. One year a small bag of "No. 1 hard." Western wheat was sent, another time a bag of pemmican, on another occasion an old-fashioned flint and steel, and quite recently a quill pen, manufactured from the feather of a prairie chicken.

These remembrances were always greatly appreciated, and it seemed each year the best had surely come, but this year's gift has again surpassed all the others. The Free Press has sent out this year a little barrel of flour made from wheat grown and milled in the Peace River country. The Hudson Bay Company's mill, in which the flour was ground, is at Vermilion, and is the northernmost mill on the continent. It is situated just 700 miles north of the American boundary, 400 miles south of the Arctic circle, and 650 miles west of Hudson's Bay. The little barrels were brought from Norway. "Nearer than Norway the Free Press found it impossible to secure them," it says.

With the delightful little gift is sent a booklet about wheat, which tells a romantic story of the use of the grain in the countries of ancient civilization and from the primitive methods and here leads up in a brief but most entertainingly-written history to the modern methods employed in the industry in our Canadian West. The booklet also gives some very interesting facts regarding the possibilities of wheat growing in Western Canada.

The little gift is so delightfully unique and, withal, so acceptable, that we feel many of our friends who are interested in the milling industry will miss much if they do not see it. It may be possible that the Free Press has a number of these favors left on hand, and we are sure that if this is the case, and if a request, mentioning this journal, as an assurance of good faith, is sent in, the sender will, if possible, be put in possession of this year's remembrance.

TORONTO ELECTIONS SATISFACTORY.

Thos. E. Lytle, the large pickle manufacturer, was re-elected alderman for Ward Four with a good vote in the Toronto municipal elections on New Year's Day. Mr. Lytle has been a careful and successful business man and has already made a good record for himself in the council.

Mark Bredin, the baker, was elected alderman in Ward Three. He was backed by the bakers and made a good showing. Frank Johnston, the only representative of the grocers, made a good showing, but entered the field rather late.

The elections generally were pretty satisfactory and with Mayor Joseph Oliver at its head, Toronto council should be able to transact civic business pretty satisfactorily during 1908 and should carry forward the various large projects which the city is just now facing.

Some Bookkeeping Pointers

Learn the principles that govern correct systems—Who should pay exchange?—The draft system and its advantages—Very useful information compiled by Howard R. Wellington.

It is much more important to learn the principles that govern correct systems of bookkeeping, than it is to learn any particular form according to which books should be laid out. Any intelligent man may learn bookkeeping by acquiring the fundamental principles of scientific accounting, and draw up his own forms according to those principles, the idea being that no one set of books and forms is applicable to every business. For this reason a knowledge of the principles and methods that are used by the best bookkeepers in any business will enable anyone to vary the forms so as to apply them to any other business.

In a general way, those forms are best which require the least copying, the fewest entries, the least ruling; which require the books of original entry to be posted direct to the ledger, and in which the journalizing is done by means of ruled columns. The best forms should also facilitate, so far as possible taking balances and ascertaining losses and gains. If the bookkeeper criticizes his forms on these six lines and finds them satisfactory, while they show all the results that the proprietors wish to ascertain, he may be satisfied with his work. Although the merchants accounts are his private records, they also partake of the nature of a trust, and should bear evidence of being kept honestly and in good faith.

If errors are made, they should be so corrected as to show the original error and the reason for its correction. Account books should be so plain and clear as to be understood at once by a stranger who sees them for the first time, and explicit and ample enough for the guidance of an outside party who comes in to take off a statement.

When an error is made in posting, above all things never erase the original amount entirely. Some bookkeepers do this, but it should be avoided, for the reason that if someone is called in to audit the books, no trace of the amount is found, although it can readily be seen that an erasure has taken place, the impression being left that something is wrong. Then again the same bookkeeper who makes the erasure, although familiar with it for a short time, will likely lose track of the instance in time, and become confused as to the cause.

The object of bookkeeping in any establishment is primarily to know the proprietor's financial condition—what he owes, what he owns, and what is due him. If goods are sold, the record should show: (1) That the goods are actually delivered; (2) That the correct charge is made against the buyer; (3) That he receives proper credit when the account is paid. Modern bookkeeping is trying to reach these ends in the shortest possible way, and with the least expenditure of time and labor.

Exchange—Who Should Pay It?

You may say that exchange on drafts and cheques is a small matter anyway, and it really is immaterial who pays it. As a matter of fact, the exchange item in a large house collecting the bulk of its accounts by drafts runs up into the hundreds of thousands. The question is, who should pay the item—the buyer or seller?

The practice, largely in the United States, on drafts to Canada and also to some points across the line, is to add exchange charges to the draft in payment of an account, thus making the receiver or purchaser stand this expense. This seems a reasonable custom, as goods are purchased in a certain city and should be paid for in the funds of the same place. The reason why this plan is not general in our own country is probably on account of the fact that wholesalers find it necessary to adopt some systematic method of collecting accounts, and as the draft system supplies this need, rather than leave accounts outstanding indefinitely, a wholesaler would prefer to stand the exchange on each draft sent out to a customer and have accounts collected when due.

Of course on a small account, where the goods are sold on a close margin, sometimes there is actually a loss involved, when it is necessary to make a draft for from $8 to $10 and pay exchange. Suppose an article costs $6 and is sold for $7.50, leaving a gross profit of $1.50. The cost of selling would be about 10 per cent., or 75 cents; the inside expense, including stationery, postage and cash discount, on an average about 8 per cent., or 60 cents, and the exchange on draft or cheque in payment of the account to 25 cents, or a net cost of $1.60, with an actual loss on the transaction.

It is hardly fair for a merchant to remit by cheque on his local bank, when the account is a small one, nor is it right that the seller should be obliged to pay exchange on a draft. Of course in a large amount there is a difference for the reason that a large account can be put through at practically the same expense.

The Draft System.

Most merchants to-day prefer to settle accounts by draft rather than by cheque or money order remittance. There are a number of reasons why the draft system has become so popular:

First: Because the buyer has no difficulty in looking after his cash discounts, as the seller makes the draft (unless otherwise advised) so as to enable the merchant to take advantage of his cash discounts every time.

Second: Because it saves a great deal of labor in making up remittances of cheques or money orders and mailing the same so as to reach the seller before the cash discount period has expired, for all that is necessary is to sign the draft and keep a record of the amount and due date.

Third: Drafts accepted, and honored at maturity, are a good advertisement for a merchant's credit. Of course we expect some dealers to take exception to this method of settling accounts, but these cases are very rare to-day, and only occur when a merchant is not convenient to a bank, or, in the case of larger houses, a certain day or days are set apart each month as "payment days," when all "passed" accounts are paid by cheque.

A very good plan for keeping a record of all acceptances or notes payable is by the use of a small diary, entering on the due date of each acceptance the amount due and the names of the parties making the draft. The bill must of course be recorded in the bill book for posting in the ledger, but the diary will keep the merchant informed from day to day of certain accounts payable becoming due, and preparation can be made several days ahead of time to take care of the paper, rather than have it returned. This small diary may be bought at a very low price and may be used for innumerable purposes as well.

THE REASON OF POOR CLERKSHIP

One may go into the stores of the city in search of good clerks and find them—occasionally. There is a dearth of good ones, but plenty of the kind which we would class as a failure.

Why do some clerks prefer to talk to one another than to pay attention to customers? Why do they sometimes stare haughtily at poorly dressed customers? Why are some of them continually losing sales because of their languid indifference? There is but one answer to all these questions, one reason why there are so many poor clerks.

The reason is that they have no interest in their work. They work because they have to have some money, and that is the sole cause of their presence behind the counter. They do not care whether a customer is pleased or not, so long as they get their pay envelope Saturday night. Their chief hope is that their idleness or offensiveness will not call down on them the wrath of those in authority.

Until an employe can find interest in the work there is absolutely no hope of that employe's becoming an efficient clerk. Do not imagine the customers do not know the difference—they do. They resent inattention, superciliousness, rudeness, languid lack of interest, impatience. They may say nothing about it, but they know.

Nor do we desire to gloss over the trials of the clerk. They are many. There are fussy customers who frazzle out the patience of the best. There are rude customers and unreasonable customers. But think that if all customers were machines, if none of them showed any feeling, if all were alike, no chance for skill in salesmanship would ever come. A machine would be invented to wrap up goods and hand them out.

The clerk has wonderful chances for becoming proficient. Without interest in the customers, in the goods and in the work there can be no good salesmanship.—Oregon Tradesman.

NEW DESK FOR THE NEW YEAR.

T. Kinnear, sr., of the firm of T. Kinnear & Co., wholesale grocers, sits at a bran' new desk this week and smiles broadly every time he thinks of it. On Tuesday morning, Mr. Kinnear was called out before the office staff and travelers and presented with a new roll-top desk, a regular beauty, in quarter-cut oak, with rounded front and drawers, specially fitted for his requirements. The presentation was made by W. B. Campbell, the firm's oldest employe, who spoke of the gift as an evidence of the employes' regard for the head of the house. Mr. Kinnear made a characteristic reply. He is so delighted with the new desk that he has about all his visitors sit down in front to try it.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

Firmness has characterized the cheese market during the past couple of weeks despite the usual holiday dullness. Transactions have not been numerous since the beginning of the last week in December, nor is trade expected to brighten up very considerably until next week. Some sales have been made, however, and sellers have obtained their price.

The knowledge that the market here is not overly well supplied has resulted in the market holding more firmly than otherwise it would. It is admitted by everybody that stocks are low, considerably below what they were this time last year and the receipts are practically nil. With the best part of the winter to go through one can see that cheese dealers are rather anxious about the situation.

From England comes the news, more strongly confirmed each week, that the make there has turned out not nearly so large as it was reckoned. And the English trade is depending more upon Canadian cheese than they thought they would.

Any cheese which leaves Montreal will be sold at a good price, for stocks are in the hands of strong men who can afford to carry the goods for a price.

Prices range from 13c to 13½c this week, the latter figure not being easily obtainable. It is expected that a firmer feeling will prevail after the middle of the month, while present prices will certainly hold steady in the meantime, if one is to judge from present conditions.

Receipts of cheese last week amounted to 1,471 boxes, against 970 boxes previous week, and 739 boxes same week last year. Total receipts for the season amount to 2,052,851 boxes, against 2,347,464 boxes same period in 1906.

Holders of October creamery butter are quoting around last week's figures, 28c to 28½c, with 29c asking for small lots. Continued demand locally and for the west is eating up the stocks here, which are not large by any means. It is generally expected that there will be a shortage before the new season's butter comes on the market in any quantity. Opinions as to stocks held vary considerably. A conservative estimate places holdings around 30 000 to 35,000 packages, while others place the stocks at higher figures, one house of standing being of the belief that there are fully 45,000 packages obtainable in Montreal.

Those handling current receipts are somewhat easier in their views, but there has been no material change in quotations, which run about the same as last week. Some are getting 27c for what they have to offer, while more are selling at figures ranging between 26c and 26½c.

As is usual at this season, trade is not particularly brisk. Retailers have secured stocks sufficient to carry them over the holidays and are paying more attention to fancy lines than to staples such as butter and cheese. About the middle of this month, however, they will again be in the market and business will pick up considerably.

Meantime the make is not large. Several creameries will be shutting down about the first of the year and receipts will be slight during January and February as a result.

Figures show that 2,249 packages were received last week against 1,815 packages same week a year ago. Total receipts for the season amount to 404,930 packages, against 598,664 packages same period 1906.

Dairy butter is quoted about the same as last week, 24c to 25c, according to quality and quantity. Rolls are selling around 24½c and 25c. Stocks held are light.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

The hog markets have felt very seriously the dullness which has been affecting holiday business generally the past week, and things are very quiet among Canadian packers. Just how quiet matters are can be seen from the statement of a leading packer this week. Our average receipts, he said, are around 2,000 hogs. Last week we got only two cars, or 120. Farmers seem to be too busy observing the holiday season to pay any attention to delivering hogs, evidently expecting better prices at the turn of the season.

Prices have advanced slightly since last reports. F.O.B., country points, are bringing $5.50, fed and watered, about $5.75, and at factory, $5.90.

The provision market, indeed, seems quite everywhere. The English people, as is well-known, pay a good deal more attention to celebrating Christmas than we do here, even to the point of neglecting business altogether. As a consequence, the English market last week was in an unusually quiet condition. Other causes also contributed to this. Danish deliveries were less than 40 per cent. of the usual aggregate, and American shipments also were exceedingly light.

The following paragraph from the New York Journal of Commerce summarized the week's situation in the American market:

"There has been very little interest in hog products the past week, which has been duller even than holiday custom, as nobody would buy anything beyond this year's requirements on account of January settlements with tight money, while prices have been so high as to prevent any anticipation of future wants by dealers. Packers have shown little disposition to interfere with the course of prices either way by buying or selling more than necessary for hedging against their current production, which has been, perhaps, more general than usual owing to the late tightness in money. Prices of hogs have been a little higher in the West on less heavy receipts than the previous week, and there has been less manipulation of prices of both hogs and products than for the last two months; and both seem more settled, though it may be simply the holiday inactivity awaiting developments after the new year. There has been no feature in the cash trade worth mentioning, except that late last week, and not reported till this week, the United Kingdom took 700 boxes of bacon in the West, the first in some weeks; and city curers have been after green meats, as offerings have been light both of city and Western and prices firmer, while cured meats have been easier owing to indifferent demand since the panic and for the holidays."

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—Owing to the holiday in the middle of the week trade was quiet, smoked meats hardly moving. Heavy lines were quiet also, while there was a fair trade in lard at the old quotations.

BUTTER—There has been a somewhat easier feeling in fresh made butter, but prices have not been affected. Fall make continues steady at old quotations with stocks gradually becoming very low. Dairy is scarce and firm. Nice fresh rolls are very hard to procure and command a good price.

CHEESE—Firmer feeling is noticeable in cheese this week, though dealers have not advanced their prices. Stocks held are considerably below what they were a year ago and it is likely that there will be a good demand from England after the middle of this month, when the retail trade will also begin to buy again, so that there may be a shortage, and possibly higher prices.

and receipts are almost nil. One house is holding quite a lot of pickled eggs for higher prices, which must be obtained unless the eggs are put on the market at a loss.

ARTIFICIAL HONEY.

German Professor Tells of Process Which Simulates the Bee's Product.

Prof. Herzfeld, of Germany, recently brought out some interesting points regarding the manufacture of artificial honey in Europe. It is noticed that when we bring about the inversion of refined sugar in an almost complete manner and under well determined conditions, this sugar solidifies in the same way as natural honey after standing for a long time and it can be easily redissolved by heating. Owing to the increased production of artificial honey, the bee cultivators have been agitating the question so as to protect themselves, and it is proposed to secure legislation to this effect, one point being to oblige the manufacturers to add some kind of product which will indicate the artificial product. On the other hand, it is found that the addition of inverted sugar to natural honey tends to improve its quality and especially to render it more easily digested. Seeing that sugar is about the onlv alimentary matter which is produced in an absolutely pure state, its addition to honey cannot be strictly considered as an adulteration. Bees often take products from flowers which have a bad taste and the chemist Keller found that honey coming from the chestnut tree sometimes has a disagreeable flavor. From wheat flowers we find a honey which has a taste resembling bitter almonds, and honey from asparagus flowers is most unplatable. Honey taken from the colza plant is of an oil nature, and that taken from onions has the taste of the latter. In such cases, the honey is much improved by the addition of inverted sugar. Prof. Herzfeld gives a practical method for preparing this form of sugar. We take 1 kilogramme (2.2 pounds) of high quality, refined sugar in a clean enamelware vessel, and add 300 subic centimeters (10 fluid ounces) of water and 1.1 grammes, (17 grains) tartaric acid. This is heated at 110 deg. C. over an open fire, stirring all the while, and is kept at this heat until the liquid takes on a fine golden yellow color, such operation lasting for about three-quarters of anW hour. By this very simple process we can easily produce artificial honey. Numerous extracts are now on the market for giving the aroma of honey, but none of them will replace the natural honey. However, if we take the artificial product made as above and add to it a natural honey having a strong aroma, such as that which is produced from heath, we can obtain an excellent semi-honey—Scientific American.

The following article seems to strike on the head the cause of the so-called financial stringency which is being felt to some small extent in Canada just now. It is well worth being spread broadcast. It would be well worth the trouble on the part of our readers to take this issue to the editors of their local newspapers, draw attention to article and induce them to publish it. It will be just as useful to the publisher as to the retailer :

Panics are always irrational, because they are born of unintelligent fear, or because they greatly increase the possibilities of peril. There are many occasions which justify a panic. When a real danger comes, the first duty is to keep one's mind at the highest point of intelligent action, and to keep one's emotions out of sight and hearing. In the face of a great danger a man ought to listen to his judgment, not to his emotions. The worst feature of a panic is that it makes men cowards when it does not make them brutes ; and the special form of cowardice which comes with financial stress is unwillingness to part with money, the tendency to hoard what one has and increase the peril, instead of generously giving it out and thus removing the cause of the peril. In every stringency a host of people begin by not paying small bills even more than large ones which prolongs hard times, and unjustly and unnecessarily lays a heavy burden on the backs of some of the most prudent and honest members of the community. An honest man always pays his debts. If misfortune overtakes him the day of the discharge of his obligation is only postponed ; it comes as soon as he can make ready for it. But in a time of panic it is every man's pressing duty to pay his debts with the utmost promptness.

There are hosts of people to-day who have money in hand and are letting their grocers, butchers, milkmen and others who supply the necessities of life go unpaid simply because they are timid and, like some country and city bank, want to collect and keep as much money on hand as possible ; as if money were for hoarding and not for circulation. This small-minded precaution is bringing misfortune to many industries and faithful men and women. Those who supply the means of life, whose coming and going from the house are part of the daily routine of keeping the family alive, ought to be the very last to suffer from delayed payment. As a matter of fact, they are the very first. People who can still spend money upon the theatre, the opera, concerts, and other forms of entertainment, are letting their grocers, butchers, and milkmen go unpaid, thus contributing to the very condition which makes them cowardly. There is no longer any reason for timidity ; but if there were, the duty of paying one's small debts with as great promptness and as deep a sense of responsibility as one pays one's large debts would press still more imperatively. It is a great deal more honorable to have a small bank account and no unpaid bills in the house than to have a large bank account made up by keeping money which belongs to other people. The first duty of an honorable man in a time of stringency is to see that he is not transferring to those who furnish the necessities of life the burden which he ought to bear himself.—The Outlook.

Wheat Market Stronger, Though Holiday Dullness Continues—Visible Supply of Wheat and Corn Greater, Oats Less.

The dullness usual at the holiday season prevails in Canadian markets this week. Though many mills have closed down for the holiday season, business seems to continue encouragingly steady. The wheat market, however, has shown signs of greater activity, probably on account of a stronger tone in the west, and if this feeling continues it seems likely to result in an advance in flour immediately after the holiday season.

Shipments to Great Britain and Europe have fallen off considerably as a result of the great interference with business caused by the holiday season there.

About 30 per cent. of Saturday's inspections graded "northern," with a slightly higher percentage of inferior. Intermediate grades were more conspicuous than usual. Returns showed inspections of 132 cars, against 107 for the corresponding day last year, Gradings were: No. 1 northern, 6 cars; No. 2 northern, 15 cars; No. 3 northern, 19 cars; No. 4, 14 cars; No. 5, 15 cars; No. 6, 12 cars; winter wheat, 6 cars, and other grades, 45 cars. Eighteen cars of oats, 4 of barley and 7 of flax were inspected.

The visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States increased 1,342,000 bushels, compared with an increase of 891,000 a year ago. Corn increased 568,000, compared with 114,000 last year. Oats decreased 157,000, and last year increased 44,000.

World's shipments of wheat during the past week were estimated at 8,307,000 bushels, America contributing 6,488,000 bushels toward this total. For two consecutive weeks there have been no shipments of wheat from India. Stocks of wheat at Port Arthur and Fort William increased 1,224,000 bushels during the past week. There are now 5,850 bushels of wheat in store at the head of the lakes.

MONTREAL.

KINGSTON CORRESPONDENCE.

Who said "limerick?" Whoever started the scheme should get a pension. Sir Thomas tried hard to get the silver cup with his yachts, failing which, he turned all his attention to the china tea cup, and if advertising will win, he deserves to get them. I tell you, when dollars are held up, people look up to them. My, how they jump! Even in church, when the minister is trying to impress people with the importance of the future, they are trying to think out something that will rhyme with tea. But limericks will have their little day and then cease to be, like all such schemes that set the public crazy in trying to get something for nothing. Last year it was the gold mine craze, when everybody emptied their pockets, and, if the truth was known, this had a lot to do with the present crisis.

Travelers tell me they never in all their experience, found collections so bad. Credit system again. Retailers push their customers for money, and the wholesaler pushes the retailer. A big failure is reported near Pembroke, in which Kingston and Toronto merchants can sympathize with each other.

Kingston has too many grocery stores and yet there are wholesalers who encourage men to open up if they think they have a few hundred dollars in cash. Everything looks lovely, for the first few months. The new man does a big trade. All the no-goods are patronizing him. They then open up accounts and he goes behind and has a long list of bad debts and a long face and he wants to sell out, and there is always someone ready to be talked into taking it off his hands by some slippery tongued real estate agent.

Holiday time is here again with all the flurry and excitement it brings. Dressing windows and stores, placing pine and holly here and there and all over. Calendars fill the air, greetings on paper and greetings substantial exchanged, hand-shakes, neckties, braces, and embraces and nice things for little and big. There have been a few well-dressed windows, notably J. S. Henderson's, dressed by John Marshall, and Jno. Redden & Co.'s, by J. Baker. Two windows of J. Gilbert's grocery are attracting much attention, dressed by R. E. James, of Liverpool, formerly with Mae Symons & Co., of that place. The windows make English folk feel as though they were in old England again.

J. Leach, of London, England, has bought out J. Salter, auctioneer, and intends making things hum.

Three or four grocers here seem, by their talk, determined ta sell for cash only after the first of the year. May others follow. There is not a grocer in town who does not wish for it.

The body of Will Shaw was last week laid in his last resting place. Will was a grocery clerk here years ago, but for some years past was manager of one of Woolworth's 5, 10 and 15-cent stores in Boston. He was one of the best they had and they feel his loss keenly. Will had a cheerful disposition and was never known to lose his temper.

Kingston is becoming an important trans-shipping point. Up to December over 16,000,000 bushels of grain was received, having passed through the Welland canal. 53,000 tons of coal was landed here last year.

The Golden Lion grocery block is up for auction this week. It is a very fine brick block and would make an up-to-date hotel, which Kingston needs badly.

Thos. Gibson, of Portage la Prairie, has been here seeing old friends. Tom has a big farm near Portage, and by sobriety and attention to details has made his pile. He is taking a carload of fine young horses with him.

Over-stocking in stores is like over-eating and over-drinking. It means sure death. Every merchant nearly buys teas, soaps, spices, etc., to last six months. Now wouldn't it be wiser to buy enough to last a month? It would mean less risk in case of fire, more cash in the bank, fresher goods. Some will say, "I am offered snaps and pick 'em up." Yes, it's true, but it loads you up, and dead stock is an eating moth. Goods do not improve, and I think, to buy as you go is best, after all.

DOMINION TRAVELERS DINE

Members of the Eastern Association Get Together in Jollification in Their Thirty-third Annual Banquet at Montreal.

Over three hundred travelers and guests sat down to the thirty-third annual banquet of the Dominion Commercial Travelers' Association, which was held in the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, on Monday evening, Dec. 23rd.

President W. J. Egan occupied the chair of honor at the chief table, while seated on either side of him were Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture in the Dominion Government, and R. L. Borden, leader of the opposition in the Dominion House.

In his opening address the president cordially welcomed the guests of the evening and expressed his satisfaction at the progress which the association had made during the past year. Then he called upon S. J. Mathewson, vice-president, to make the toast "Our Country," as represented by the Dominion Parliament, coupling with the toast the names of Hon. Sydney Fisher and R. L. Borden. This Mr. Mathewson did in a happy little speech, which was heartily applauded.

Hon. Mr. Fisher, replying, spoke in an able manner, dwelling briefly upon the present prosperity of the country and by numerous quotations from the Blue Book, he illustrated the remarkable development of Canada during the past few years.

Some Interesting Figures.

Referring to the recent money panic he pointed out that Canada did not suffer, in proportion, nearly as much as did the United States. Not one bank had failed in the Dominion, while there was no lack of currency in the country, as the banks were working within $13,000,000 of their possible currency issue and were quite in a position to well take care of the needs of trade.

For evidence of the wonderful growth of the country they had but to look up the assets of the banks. These amounted to $460,000,000 in 1900, while in 1905 they amounted to $878,000,000, and last year totalled $970,000,000. During the last ten months the average monthly bank returns showed an increase of $63,000,000 over last year.

The foreign trade of Canada, which is largely illustrative of the growth of the Dominion, had materially increased since 1870, in which year business to the extent of $122,000,000 had been done. This had grown to $336,000,000 by 1900 and to $519,000,000 in 1906. Such figures were most interesting to every Canadian who had the welfare of his country at heart, as they showed that Canada was not being left in the rear in the race for commercial success with foreign countries.

The internal trade of the Dominion was satisfactory also. In 1900 the trade as shown by the clearing house returns, amounted to $1,390,000,000. In 1906 it amounted to $3,950,000,000, while the returns for the first ten months of this year showed a further increase of $300,000,000.

Taking up the question of manufactures, Hon. Mr. Fisher said that there had been an increase in this direction also. In the census report of 1900 it was shown that Canadian manufacturers employing five or more hands used a capital of $447,000,000, while in 1905 the same class used a capital of $834,000,000, which must be considered a very substantial increase. Truly enough, the number of employes had been increased by but 44,000, but the products had grown in ratio to the increase in capital, increasing from $481,000,000 in 1900 to $766,000,000 in 1905. In concluding, he drew attention to the increased immigration from the United States.

Mr. Borden a Traveler.

Replying to the same toast, R. L. Borden was given a very cordial reception. He referred to his recent tour of the Dominion, and humorously compared himself with the commercial travelers, as he had traveled some 12,000 miles and presented his samples to 100,000 customers.

Proceeding, he said he was struck, while in the west, by the optimism of all classes there, despite the recent financial stringency. He referred briefly to the injustice which was done commercial travelers in that they frequently were not allowed to vote, owing to their absence from home, thus being deprived of their franchise. He stated that he was ready to support any reasonable measure which would make it possible for travelers and business men away from home to vote and have their say as to who should be their representative in parliament.

Max. Murdock proposed the Quebec Legislature, which toast was responded to by Hon. W. A. Weir, provincial treasurer and P. E. Leblanc, leader of the provincial opposition. In the course of his remarks the provincial treasurer referred to the taxation problem as it concerned commercial travelers. The Quebec Legislature had never for a moment thought of taxing the native traveler. It was true that one financier devised the plan of taxing all foreign commercial travelers coming within the limits of the province, but he found his troubles had just begun, as, in the first place, he had to catch the traveler, and this was by no means easy. For that reason he was glad to abolish the tax in question.

"The City of Montreal" was proposed by John Paterson, Ald. Clearihue replying on behalf of the mayor. Mayor John T. McBride proposed "Trade and Commerce" in a nice speech and George Caverhill, of the board of trade, replied as did also C. H. Catelli, president of the chambre de commerce and Hon. J. D. Rolland, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. Ed. Duckett proposed "Transportation" and Wm. Stitt and George Ham responded. "The Press" and "The Ladies" were also fittingly toasted.

The table was quite up to the standard set by the association, thanks to the dinner committee, which was composed of: Max. Murdock, convener; L. W. Anderson, S. J. Mathewson, E. D. Marceau, Major John T. McBride, Geo. A. Mann, W. J. Egan, J. S. N. Dougall, F. S. Cote, R. Dionne, J. F. L. Dubreuil, J. Fred Dugan, A. L. Friedman, J. B. Giles, Ludger Gravel, F.

S. J. MATHEWSON, VICE-PRESIDENT.

E. Guilbault, D. M. Lefebvre, H. M. Levine, John Paterson, F. N. Picard, Jas. Robinson, Leon Rolland, O. A. Thibault, R. C. Wilkins.

Mr. Edward F. Qau has returned from the Northwest and will join the selling force of the MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co., Limited, on January 1st.

A winding-up order has been issued for the placing in liquidation of the Horace L. Boisseau Co., Montreal, dealers in wines and groceries. The assignment was demanded for H. Lapointe, whose claim amounts to $269. The liabilities are estimated in the neighborhood of $3,000, and most of the creditors, it is said, are merchants in France. Napoleon St. Amour has been appointed provisional liquidator.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Firmer Tone in Orange Market, Business More Quiet in Vegetables — Fish Market Featureless This Week.

During the past week a firmer feeling is noticeable in the orange situation. Prices have, no doubt, touched the bottom. Dealers look for a steady advance and the market will become normal before long. Business is reported quite satisfactory for the holiday season and heavy trading occurred in nearly all lines of fruits. Lemons are easier, due to regular shipments of new crop. Apples are not so firm. Bananas are in fair demand. Choice strawberries have been on the market, but are slow.

The vegetable market is quiet. Potatoes have declined. The supply is good. Domestic vegetables are not selling briskly. This is natural at this time of the year. Some fancy imported tomatoes, lettuce, onions and parsley are being offered.

Business is not so brisk in fish. No changes in prices have occurred. Supplies of ciscoes and whitefish are scarce. Fresh Labrador herring is arriving. Oysters are reported to be selling well.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—Strawberries at 80c a quart were offered to the trade as a New Year novelty, but sales were not numerous, partly because the lots brought on here were not large, but more owing to the fact that the price was entirely beyond the trade of the average grocer. Apples are somewhat easier. Oranges are selling fairly well at prices quoted. Lemons are lower and pineapples advanced.

VEGETABLES—California celery has declined 25c, wnile Florida tomatoes and Boston lettuce are also easier. There has been a drop in New Orleans shallots, while green peas have declined $1 to $1.50. A very nice trade is being done, though the holiday reaction has set in and resulted in a diminishing number of sales, especially of high priced truck.

GREEN FRUITS—The chief feature of the week is the firmer tone of oranges. It was impossible for oranges to remain at the rock-bottom prices being quoted a fortnight ago. A reaction was bound to set in and it looks as if the prices will make a steady advance. At present they are selling well at higher prices. Lemons are easier and have declined. This is only natural as the new crop of Messinas are beginning to arrive in good quantities. A further decline is practically certain. Grape fruit is meeting with a good demand. Bananas are steady. Cranberries are a shade easier. Almerias remain unchanged. Tangerines are rather scarce.

Other lines of domestic vegetables remain stable at unchanged prices. THE SITUATION IN THE WEST

Christmas Trade Up to Expectations—Air of Cheerfulness Prevails—Wheat Market Stronger.

By our Special Winnipeg Correspondent.

The last three days of the Christmas trade proved fully up to expectations and though, of course, there is a profound lull this week there is a general air of cheerfulness, and stocks are being gone over in anticipation of the usual January sales. Staffs in a number of the department stores are being reduced and in this respect things are being cut more finely than they have been for some years, and that is at the present practically the only indication of hard times, so far as the retail trade is concerned.

The lessening of staffs, however, is not confined to the retail trade, but is quite general throughout the city.

All the large western mills, except the Ogilvies, have closed for a period, the Lake of the Woods Milling Co., at Keewatin, having closed for a week. It is expected, however, that they will reopen very early in the New Year.

The wheat market has been remarkably steady all week, in fact, it is about the steadiest and strongest holiday market that anyone on 'Change can remember. The feature of the market is the excellent cash demand for all grades of wheat, but more particularly for low grades. Receipts for the week have been very good, though not as large as for the preceding week, although the movement continues good.

The weather was very mild up to the day before Christmas, but when the west got up Christmas morning it found a drop in temperature that was more in keeping with the season. The day after Christmas was very mild again, but since that day it has been sharply cold, with the clear blue sky and gorgeous sunshine so familiar to the old-timers. The winter is well on its way and the drop in wood prices is a pretty good guarantee that there is no danger of a fuel famine, so far as the city is concerned at any rate.

The "Forward Winnipeg" movement is receiving a great impetus just now. There was a meeting called in the Walker theatre for Friday evening, 27th inst., to listen to addresses about what Winnipeg could and should do and to look at pictures of what Winnipeg had done. The meeting was a very notable gathering. The theatre was packed to the "gods" with a splendidly representative audience of men and women, the speakers were well chosen, the addresses short and pithy and the spirit of the whole meeting excellent. If any one down east is feeling blue about the west it is a great pity that they could not have attended that meeting, it certainly would have proved an inspiration. One thing is sure, whoever is feeling blue about Winnipeg, that city is not feeling that way itself, and in passing it might be remarked, she is on the spot and in an excellent position to know how things really are. The definite object of this meeting was to form a community club, which, as a matter of fact, has already been formed and has something over 2,000 members, men and women pledged to promote the advancement of the city in every way possible, to believe in it, and to help others to do the same. The little pause that has come with the present financial stringency has given the westerners time to get a second wind, count their mercies and their opportunities and go ahead. Perhaps the most sane and forceful statement made at this great meeting fell from the lips of John W. Dafoe, editor-in-chief of the Manitoba Free Press, who had been asked to speak on "The Best Type of Citizen." Mr. Dafoe said: "The best type of citizen to-day is the man who is as far removed on the one hand from recklessness as he is on the other from cowardice. The conditions that have alarmed the timid are only in a very slight degree attributable to local causes, and while the present may be a period of anxiety, there never was a time when the future of the west and therefore the future of Winnipeg, was more assured than it is to-day." In giving voice to these sentiments on the platform Mr. Dafoe was but giving sound to the written policy of the great paper over which he presides. This has been to tell the truth without fear and without apology and to re-affirm continually that in spite of any temporary drawbacks the west is all right.

Before this reaches readers of the column it will be 1908, but not too late to wish everyone, east and west, a very Happy New Year.—H.

GOOD PROSPECTS IN NOVA SCOTIA

Christmas Trade the Best in Years—Money Circulating Freely—A Revival in Agricultural Interest—Meeting of Provincial Fruit Growers.

(By The Canadian Grocer's Special Correspondent.

Halifax, N.S., Dec. 30.

That the Christmas trade in Halifax was the best in years is the general report made by the merchants of this city. The rush of Christmas shoppers on the opening days of the week was very great. In fact business was so brisk that merchants would give no guarantee for the delivery of goods on the day of purchase. Money was circulated freely and the goods purchased were of a high class. The only firms complaining of any slackness in trade were the dealers in rubber goods and the furriers, but the dullness in these lines was due to the unseasonable weather. There has been no snow in Halifax to speak of and very little frost so far this season, and in consequence winter goods have been in light demand thus far. Poultry was very plentiful and the price much lower than at the same season last year. Turkeys sold for 15 cents, which is seven cents lower than the price quoted during the Christmas season of 1906. Other lines of poultry were also proportionately low. The grocery trade was good and the fancy bakers and the confectioners and fruit dealers also found trade quite brisk. Confectionery was much higher than last year, chocolates in particular showing a heavy increase, but this did not seem to have any effect on the demand, the sales of high class box goods being very large.

Some of the largest firms found the trade so brisk that they arranged to feed their employes on the premises, while others sent their help to nearby restaurants. This is an innovation on the part of these merchants and it proved most satisfactory to both employers and employes.

Notwithstanding the mild weather and the hens being out of doors, the receipts of eggs do not show any increase, and the price for fresh stock is very high. Quite a lot of choice dairy butter in small tubs was marketed Christmas week and it found a ready sale at 30 cents.

Sylvester Archibald, of Lacombe, Alberta, is visiting his former home in Truro and friends in other parts of Nova Scotia. Mr. Archibald left Truro about ten years ago and since then has been engaged in the dairy business in the west. He is now manager of the Ferry Bank Dairy, which has lately been started by the government. Mr. Archibald says that dairying is one of the great growing industries of the west, and the future for it looks very bright.

That there is a revival in agriculture in Nova Scotia is shown by the large number of applications received by Principal Cumming from intending short course students at the Agricultural College, Truro. The number to take the next course exceeds that of any previous year in the history of the institution and they are coming from New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia. The course opens on January 2.

The annual meeting of the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers' Association was held at Berwick last week and representatives from all over the province were present. Among the many excellent addresses delivered was one by Lieut.-Governor Fraser, who urged the farmers to keep their sons at home on the farm. Nova Scotia was rich in soil and as a fruit growing country, it is not surpassed in the world. The association will make a determined effort to rid the province of the brown tail moth, which is so destructive to fruit, and with that object in view has increased the bounty from three to ten cents for the destruction of nests.

IMPROVEMENTS IN FACTORY AND STORE.

An automatic fire sprinkler system is being installed in the "Surprise" soap factory, at St. Stephen, N.B. Last year, extensive enlargements and improvements were made in the factory to take care of the increasing trade on "Surprise" soap. This sprinkler system protects the factory against fire, which would mean interruption to business and consequent loss of more or less trade.

The St. Croix Soap Co. state that they have now the most complete and best equipped laundry soap plant in Canada.

The Hudson's Bay Co.'s stores at Portage la Prairie have been completely remodelled during the past season, also a large addition, which will about double the company's stores. The store throughout is being fitted with the most up-to-date facilities, which include a full car of Weir wardrobes and silent salesmen, manufactured by Jones Bros., Toronto. The company's store now at Portage la Prairie is one of the best departmental stores in Manitoba, and a flourishing business is being done.

G. H. Ramsay, manager of the Ingersoll Syrup Co., Montreal, has returned from a trip to Toronto and western Ontario.

R. J. Helstrop, representing E. W. Gillett Co., Ltd., in Nova Scotia, favored The Grocer with a call this week. Mr. Helstrop reports that business generally is satisfactory down by the sea, and taking everything into consideration, trade conditions down east were better than is reported in other parts of Canada. The fishermen had a good season and prices received were good. His observations in the fishing ports all tended to confirmation of this report. Mr. Helstrop will return to his ground about January 5.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK IN NEW BRUNSWICK

Christmas Trade Very Satisfactory— New Year Will Open Well—Flour and Cereals Advancing—Large Winterport Business.

Special Correspondence of The Canadian Grocer.

St. John, N.B., Dec. 30.

The retail grocers report that the Christmas trade of 1907 has been very satisfactory, and fully up to previous years. The year has been a very successful one, both in retail and wholesale circles. The local merchants feel much gratified that business has been so good in view of the fact that in other portions of the Dominion and the United States there has been such a depression.

Frank E. Williams, of F. E. Williams & Co., said their business had been very good, a large percentage better than last year. This was so in the pork packing and wholesale fruit trade, as well as the retail grocery business. Mr. Williams said he thought trade generally was very satisfactory and he could see no cause for the alarmist reports of hard times. He thought the outlook for 1908 was very good.

W. Alex. Porter reported business about equal to other Christmas seasons. There was possibly a little falling off in cash business on account of the loss of sleighing, which prevented many of the country people from getting into the city. The outlook for the coming year was considered very encouraging.

Walter Gilbert said the Christmas trade with him was the best he had ever had and he had no reason to complain.

P. Nase & Sons, whose business is largely with the up-river country people, said their Christmas trade had been very good, considering the absence of snow, which naturally kept many of their customers away. They, however, found business about up to the average and were anticipating a good year in 1908. Previous to the close of navigation, they did a very satisfactory trade.

In wholesale circles, it has been quiet during the past week. The travelers are all in and many of the dealers are busy taking stock. Some of the jobbers still wait until January 31st to make up their yearly statement, but the majority close their books with the end of the year. It will, no doubt, be quiet for some days yet, as the travelers do not start out again until the first or second week in January.

There have been scarcely any changes in prices. The flour situation is very strong. Wheat has been advancing daily and an increase in the price of flour is looked for shortly. Sugars are very firm and an advance is looked for early in January, if not before.

In the country market there was quite a noticeable advance the day before Christmas. Turkeys, which had been selling at 17c to 19c, jumped to 22c and 23c a pound, and other lines of poultry also advanced. Dealers think that these high prices can hardly be maintained for New Year's trade. Turnips, potatoes and squash have all advanced in price. As for potatoes, they are now quoted at $1.50 to $2 a barrel, and dealers say they will not likely be any cheaper, as there is no more stock left in the country.

In Carleton county, oats are now quoted at 40c, and it is thought they will drop to 30c. Hay is lower, and is now off $2 to $3 a ton. Butter has dropped to twenty cents a pound.

Despite the discouraging reports the winterport business keeps well up to last year's mark. In fact, at the time of writing, is ahead of last season. The total exports through this port up to the present time, according to returns made at the customs house, from sixteen steamers is $3,000,173, as compared with $3,000,621 in nineteen steamers last year. The same number of steamers, nineteen, have sailed this year, as last year, but three of the vessels this year are not included in the total of exports. Oue of these steamers sailed in ballast, and the other two were West India boats, which did not load here.

Wm. Ferguson, Canadian manager of A. Klipstein & Co., was in Dundas for New Year's.

Frank Stafford, one of the progressive Barry's Bay grocers, was in Montreal the other day.

A Man's Evening Pipe is most enjoyed when it is filled with delicious

USE PROCESS IN CANADA.

New Fruit Drying Process Not Confined to California.

The following letter from a reader of The Grocer draws our attention to Canadian enterprise in manufacturing industry :

"Editor Canadian Grocer :

"Noticing a small item in your interesting periodical of the 13th inst., entitled, "New Process of Fruit Drying," which deals with what is supposed to be a new method of drying fruit by artificial means, viz., a forced draft of hot air, which has recently been tested in California, I would like to say that it might be of interest to many of your readers to know that this process has been successfully used in Canada for the last three years. The writer, in company with an expert on forced draft experimented with this system in 1904 and applied it to evaporating that king of fruits, our beautiful apple, and this has been the means of producing the highest weight a finer quality of goods, and quite equal to the green fruit when cooked. This fruit is now evaporated by the forced draft system in a specially prepared plant erected by the Biggs Fruit & Produce Co., Ltd., at Burlington and Georgetown, Ont. These driers have been fitted up with the latest improved devices in the way of power machines, elevators and carriers, to facilitate quick and clean work. The superiority of the outfit is partly due to this as the rapidity of the process of drying prevents oxidation and decay and also allows the retention of the natural bright color of the apples.

There are other very important features in this system of drying which it would be well to notice. For instance, in the primary stage of evaporating apples, intense heat is necessary for the fixing of the volatile oils, to which aroma and flavor are due. This can be accomplished with the hot draft system without danger of burning the fruit, thus obviating an occasional loss through direct fire heat.

"Again, during the season just past, somewhere in the vicinity of seven or eight evaporating plants have been reduced to ashes, and as far as I know they were all using the direct fire heat system, which is most dangerous, and this great loss individually and collectively might have been largely avoided by using the new process. whieh reduces this danger to a minimum.

"Hence, the recommendations of the new process are better goods, larger output, fire danger reduced to a minimum, and the California driers do not seem to be quite up to date.

A. C. Biggs."

Burlington, Dec. 28, 1907."

DISCUSS FRUIT-GROWING.

Annual Meeting of Quebec Pomological and Fruit-growing Society.

The annual meeting of the Pomological and Fruit Growing Society of the Province of Quebec was held at St. Anne de Bellevue, at Macdonald College, December 18 and 19. There was a good attendance and several subjects of interest to fruit growers were discussed. Several interesting papers were read.

Prof. W. Stuart, of Burlington, Vermont, in his paper on "The Growing of an Apple Orchard," expressed the opinion that sufficient young orchards were not now under cultivation to take care of the needs of trade, and recommended greater care and study on the part of growers in order that the industry should not be allowed to fall off in volume or quality of fruit produced.

An interesting talk on the fameuse apple was given by R. W. Shepherd. He traced its growth in commerce from its discovery, and called attention to the danger of the fameuse becoming extinct. He said that many trees had been killed by winter frosts and that orchardists had not been exercising proper care in the growing. The price of fameuse apples would increase yearly, and in his opinion the grade would be quite scarce in this province in 1930.

"Co-operation in the Marketing of Apples," was the paper read by Prof. John Craig, of Ithaca, N.Y. In pointing out the advantages of co-operation he said that each grade could be made the best of its class, and uniform, while the appearance of the package was materially improved. In this way the confidence of buyers was secured. Again, the cost of transportation was lessened, and better prices were obtained, while it was possible to make quite a saving in the growing of fruit through co-operation in the buying of supplies.

Speaking of winter killing of trees in this province, Prof. W. T. Macoun, of Ottawa, commented on the great loss suffered yearly by orchard owners owing to the damage done by frost. This could be avoided if the hardiest trees were planted. C. P. Newman, Lachine, stated that the Ben Davis apple was more liable to danger during the winter than any other. In his orchard about 60 per cent. of these were destroyed annually.

A daintily printed "Season's Greeting" folder was sent out to the trade by the Canadian Canners last week. It is worked on deckle-edged paper with a wreath of holly in colors and the company's trade mark in gold trimming.

Butchers who bring their meat into the market for sale are said in many cases to be weighing their meat short. As a rule the quarters are weighed before being brought in, and it is stated that often quarters weighing 16 or 17 pounds are ticketed at 20. A local butcher states that he had a large quarter brought to him marked 75 pounds, which weighed only 45. The producer, when questioned, declared that the scales must have been wrong. As a rule, buyers never weigh their meat, and never know how many pounds they are getting. A moveable market scale is suggested as a remedy, to enable buyers to weigh their meat, and other market produce as well, when purchasing.

W, C. Crawford, the well-known Tilbury general merchant, announces his retirement from the reeveship. During his eighteen years at the council board —nine as councillor and nine as reeve— he has been a big factor in Tilbury's municipal life ; and at the same time he has built up a business and conducted a store which are the admiration of city people. Had he chosen to remain in municipal politics another year, he would in all probability have been warden of Kent for 1908.

Amherstburg and Essex both report brisk little meat wars of late. In the former place steaks fell from 15c to 12½c; lamb chops from 18c to 15c, and other meats in proportion. In Essex the trouble was caused by a Colchester North farmer who moved to town, opened a butcher shop and proceeded to cut prices. Goslin's meat market forthwith retaliated by putting the best cuts, and chicken as well, down to 8c, and veal and pork to 10c. This disgusted Darius Hapgood, the other established butcher, who, rather than meet the prices, closed up his shop.

The new system of inspecting dressed hogs in Kent and Essex is now in full swing. Inspection is required only of such carcasses as may be destined for packing establishments in which inspection is maintained under the Act. As a result of the examinations, in Chatham, on Saturday, Nov. 30, the following have been appointed inspectors under the Meat and Canned Foods Act : Dr. W. B. Rowe, Blenheim ; Dr. M. B. Perdue, Chatham ; Dr. W. Clapp, Dresden ; Dr. Jones, Windsor ; Dr. Boyd, Tilbury. The change in the local regulations should logically allay the resentment of a majority of the hog raisers. The indications are, however, that nothing will allay their resentment except a rise in price.

The transient trader complaint has now arisen in the county, outside Chatham. At the meeting of Kent county council last week Barrister R. L. Brackin presented a petition signed by some 113 merchants, representing every section of the county, who requested an increase of the present license fees to a figure which will more adequately represent taxes, insurance and other expenditures to which resident business men are liable.

Two classes are aimed at. The first are Assyrian and Italian peddlers, who go about the country with one or two packs, peddling cheap ornaments and jewelry. The second were general dealers with one and two-horse rigs, who drive around the country taking orders. The present fees range from $1 for basket peddlers to $45 for two-horse rigs. No figure was specified in the petition, but a recent increase of the Lambton license fee to $100 was evidenced.

A surer and better supply of ice in the summer is now promised Chathamites, who have occasionally suffered from lack of ice in the past. Fleming, Tillson & Co. are erecting permanent modern ice elevators at their houses near the civic sedimentation basis, which will greatly facilitate their work in handling the crop. They have added a 2,000 ton house on Adelaide Street and their capacity equals storage for 5,000 tons. With their Erieau supply to draw from in case of necessity, their customers are assured of an adequate supply.

WHAT ABOUT THIS?

The following from our Pembroke correspondent in regard to a much-discussed subject, seems to hit the nail on the head :

"Re the remarks I have read about accommodation for customers waiting and the recommendation for placing magazines on tables, etc., don't you think that instead of placing such goods for the customers, it would better serve the purpose if an extra clerk were employed to attend to the requirements of those patient ladies who would content themselves to sit down and peruse the pages of a magazine. If the suggestions of your correspondents were carried out, one could almost imagine a store being converted into something approaching the ante-room of a busy surgeon or dentist, and a boy approaching a lady with the statement, 'Your turn next, madam.' I certainly agree that the inside of a store should be made as attractive as possible, but I think that the employment of a good salesman would be of far more profit than any suggestion already put forth, or if, after this, it is still found that customers were still kept waiting, why not have a young lady, who would offer a cup of tea to those who cared to take it, and at the same time inform them that it is, 'Our special 50c tea,' or whatever price it may be, made from, and thus advertise an article that 'should pay' for the little expense incurred."

The name of Caleb Wheeler, of the Wheeler Cold Storage Co., has been frequently mentioned for the post of game warden for Kent and Essex, in succession to the late W. D. Wigle. Mr. Wheeler is a fish and game enthusiast, and is well posted on the subject. He has, however, written Hon. Dr. Reaume withdrawing his name, at the same time stating that in his opinion the duties of the position might conflict with his work as a friend of fish and game.

Dressed hogs have reappeared on the market, where they have been rather scarce of late. They brought $6.50 per cwt. last week. Live hogs brought as high as $5.50, though the price ranged pretty steady at $5.25. Prices seem to have taken an upward trend.

SASKATOON.

Construction work on the Goose Lake branch of the Canadian Northern Railway has ceased for the winter. When it became known amongst the farmers of the district that work had stopped a mass meeting was held and delegates appointed to interview the company, for it was understood that the line would be completed and in operation by the end of the year. This line was intended to tap a vast wheat growing area and settlers are anxious to get their wheat marketed. If there is no railway it means hauling the grain for fifty or a hundred miles, which causes great expense and inconvenience. Besides the grain question, all supplies, coal and lumber, have to be taken out in wagons and it is doubtful if any part of the west is in more urgent need of a railway than this district. At the meeting held three delegates were chosen to interview the Provincial and Dominion Governments, and if necessary, the Railway Commission. Funds were raised to defray expenses and the delegates have started on their mission, with instructions to leave no stone unturned until some satisfactory understanding is reached.

The elevators present a busy scene these days and strings of wagons may be seen wending their way thither loaded with grain. Most of the elevators in this district are already full and for some time there was a shortage of cars at the different points. This has now been somewhat relieved, but as thousands of acres have been under crops this year more than last, ample accommodation should have been made in the way of cars and elevators at an earlier date. In many cases there is no room to store the grain, which means that the farmer cannot get the money to pay his bills and provide for new supplies. This is most disappointing to the farmer and will have a bad effect on the stores in all lines. Some farmers complain that their grain is being graded too low, but in some districts it has been badly frozen and buyers say that they are giving all that it is worth. A number of farmers have stored their grain in large bins which they had built for the purpose in order to hold it until prices advance. At Asquith several wheat granaries are being built for the use of farmers until a regular train service takes place. Very little wheat has been sold from the Elstow district, farmers preferring to wait until the Canadian Pacific Railway is in shape to handle the grain.

Speers & Paul are clearing off their stock on First avenue at reduced prices. They recently built new premises and it is their intention to have both branches of their business in one building after the first of the year. A portion of the new store is being partitioned off to be used as a meat department in connection with their business.

H. S. Hughes has opened a small grocery store. Some hardware is also carried in stock for convenience to the residents of the north end.

A new confectionery store has been opened on First avenue to be known as the Bell confectionery store.

A new bakery known as the Crescent bakery has started business on Spadina Crescent at the south end.

The A. J. Purdy Bakery Co. will shortly open a new bakery in Prince Albert. The building has been erected and will be equipped with the latest machinery, and an experienced baker has been engaged. It is purposed later to add a wholesale and retail candy factory.

G. C. MacDonald has announced to the public of Prince Albert hereafter he will conduct a strictly cash business and offers unquestionable advantages by the new system. The cash system is becoming more in vogue each year and the pity of it is that every storekeeper cannot adopt it. Strenuous efforts have been made in this direction from time to time, but it seems impossible to close the books against farmers, and especially large contractors who need large weekly supplies of provisions. Your Woodstock correspondent asks what is a merchant to do with a customer who has always paid cash, but who in these days of short hours and a tight money market is up against it. This problem is no doubt facing many storekeepers throughout the land and each has to solve it in his own way according to circumstances. One store here, known to your correspondent, treats the case in this way : If a customer comes and asks for credit the storekeeper explains that he is conducting a cash business and that no accounts will be opened under any circumstances. If the case is a needy one he tells them that they can have the goods, but that they will not be charged, and he has been known to do this repeatedly.

The citizens feel that the money has been well earned, the mayor having done his duty exceptionally well, a great many improvements having taken place.

A letter has been received here from the manager of a flour mill in Marquette, Kan., who inquires for particulars regarding the starting of a flour mill. He is anxious to know if the citizens of Saskatoon would be sufficiently interested in the project to subscribe stock to the amount of $30,000, instead of giving a bonus, the stock to be preferred stock. The writer thinks the plan would be better than having a bonus, and the stockholders would get their money back in the course of time. The communication is in the hands of the Board of Trade and will likely be considered at their next meeting.

At Lumsden the Hall Milling Co. are preparing to enlarge their premises, which have been found to be too small to cope with the increase in business this fall. A vast amount of grain continues to come to elevators in Lumsden and vicinity as it is said better prices are paid by the local dealers.

Walters & Sons, merchants, of Grenfell, have enlarged their premises. The seed fair held on the 10th inst. attracted a good deal of interest.

The Canadian Pacific now runs a passenger service through Lanigan, which means everything for the little town. Many new buildings have been erected lately, but now that there is a train service the place will grow rapidly. Several parties have secured sites and both business premises and dwellings will go up in the spring. Good water has been found in the locality.

From some complaints made by farmers it is evident that this has been a good season for grain buyers. In the absence of the competition of the commission man, and with so many grades to work on, the buyers have had it nearly all their own way, and have not hesitated to make hay while the sun shines. There has been some cause for grumbling on the part of farmers about the grading that has been done this year. The question of grain shipping and selling might well be taken up by the different boards of trade to find out if there is some way of standing by the farmer to see that he gets justice. If the seller does not get full value for his product, from which he earns his living, he suffers in consequence, his funds are low and he does not spend as freely as he would otherwise do. If the boards of trade are unable to do anything in the matter it might pay the farmers in some districts to have an experienced representative to look after their interests.

Do you know how cheap Electricity is? Ever think of using it to Grind Coffee? Ask the Manager of the nearest Power House. He will post you on the convenience and economy of Electricity in your business. An will save your clerk's time, your customer's time, and advertise your store. Write for catalogus describing our various Electric Mills, with capacities for granulating from 4 oz. to 9 lbs. of coffee per minute.

The illustration shows our double mill, No. 08712 with motor for direct current; one mill fitted with grinders for granulating, and the other for pulverizing. Each iron hopper holds six pounds of coffee. There are two speeds, fast and slow, which can be instantly changed from one to the other; at fast speed this mill granulates three pounds of coffee per minute. Fitted with ¾ h.p. motor for direct current, or ⅓ h.p. motor for alternating current. The latter for slow speed only. Can be regulated while running for grinding either fine or coarse.

We will gladly give any information desired about these mills.

Have You An Oil Tank Like This

Then you are losing from $50 to $500 a year

You are losing this amount through leakage, evaporation, spilling and careless handling. Besides the wasted oil, there is the time and labor lost in drawing the oil, measuring it and washing the hands after every operation.

HERE'S THE REMEDY

It's the Bowser Self-Measuring Oil Tank. In one operation it will pump the exact amount of oil desired directly into your customer's can and at the same time compute the money value. You can sell every drop of oil you buy, none of it is lost. You can sell the oil with as much cleanliness and convenience as though it were sold in package form.

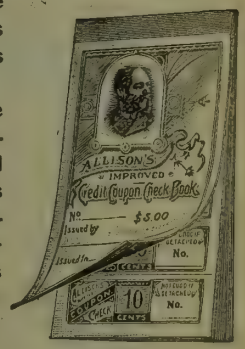
Allison Coupon Books

The time the books save is worth many times their cost.

This fact alone is enough to warrant their general use. But there is the added advantage that the account keeping is done better and business friction eliminated.



If a Man Wants Credit

for $10.00 and you think he is good for it, give him a $10.00 Allison Coupon Book, and have him sign the receipt or note form in front of book, which you tear out and keep. Charge him with $10.00, no trouble. When he buys a dime's worth, tear off a ten-cent coupon, and so on, until the book is used up. Ther he pays the $10.00 and gets another book. No pass-books, no charging, no lost time, no errors, no disputes.

Allison Coupon Books are recognized every where as the best.

Lucky Canners

We know of some canners with headquarters in Ontario and the West who are shaking hands with themselves to-day. Because their foresight was as good as their hindsight, and, foreseeing a scarcity and likelihood of increased prices in the East, they put large quantities in our storage warehouse, where from time to time lately they have been letting them out at increased profits.

At times last year we had as many as 60,000 cases for different enterprising canners.

We have special facilities for storage of Canned Goods, Teas, Coffees and all Grocer's Sundries, Wines, Liquors, etc.

Deliveries and transhipments to all Steamship Lines, Railroads, and Merchants in the city and vicinity.

Lowest rates of Insurance. Loss by vermin and deterioration reduced to a minimum.

Customs, Storage, Cartage, Transhipping and Delivery of Goods, Insurance and Warehouse Receipts arranged by one Company, by one Letter. Less worry for merchants and manufacturers when dealing with a Company of large financial responsibility.

Naptho SOAP

MADE IN CANADA

In every walk of life there are men who stand out prominent among their fellows. They possess something which distinguishes them from all the rest.

It is so in things that men produce, as for instance, Laundry Soap; the public are quick to recognize the best from the second best or lower grades.

NAPTHO IS A SOAP that was bound from the first to be successful because it possessed just those qualities which make it stand out above others.

Windsor Salt

There wasn't a cent's worth of Windsor Salt found in the stock of John Smith, the grocer, who failed last week. Way up on the shelves, though, were no less than six different kinds of salt under various names—every package, box and bag of it was dirty and fly-specked.

Seems as if every successful retail grocer in Canada sold Windsor Salt—grocers who are not tempted to buy "just as good" kinds for the saving in price. Poor John Smith was tempted too far! No Windsor Salt for him—rather have dirty salt, salt that cakes, salt that's not all salt, salt sold for its attractive name than the pure white, dry salt crystals of Windsor Salt.

Profitable Goods

Are the goods that are a little better than the others: goods that will make sales where the others won't. Ozo Brand Pickles are good pickles, and show their quality. We have special facilities for turning out the best pickles, and we have made the most of them. For instance, we provide the seed from which the vegetables are grown and so get the best from the start; the cucumbers go straight from the vine to the factory, so that none of the fresh crispness is lost. We make our own vinegar and it cannot be beaten for pickling purposes. It will certainly pay you to specify that you want our goods when ordering pickles.

Can We Afford to Be Dirty?

The Discriminating Public Will Buy From the Clean and Honest Grocer—It Will Pay to Sell the Best Goods and to Use Up-to-Date Methods in the Handling of Goods.

An article in the January issue of the Woman's Home Companion, one of a series, by the way, of a campaign designed to educate the public to buy from clean and reputable grocers, contains a good deal of information which should be read with interest by grocers in Canada. The article, which is headed, "Can We Afford to be Clean," though it is written for the consumer, shows the manner in which a buyer regards the goods sold and methods used in good and indifferent grocery stores. The examples cited therein are applicable in hundreds of towns in Canada. We are reproducing herewith the paragraphs which seem to be of particular value to our readers.

She is one of those delightful, old-fashioned housekeepers, aged twenty-eight, who still regards the Saturday-night bath as a family institution and who fights incipient pneumonia with onion poultices. Her income is small. Her energy and resourcefulness are boundless.

We stood before a model grocery in a summer resort within easy access of Philadelphia. This grocery was not the largest store in the little suburb—it was, however, a clean store. One window, sparkling like rain-washed crystal, was filled with glass jars containing preserved peaches, canned fruit in iridescent juices, maraschino cherries, mint jellies, etc. In the other were forts and barricades built of imported and domestic canned goods of standard brands, from the humble sardine to pate de foie-gras.

"The height of my ambition is to trade in that store. Only the summer colony folk can pay their prices, but if ever John and I get rich——"

The pause and sigh of happy anticipation were eloquent of the joys which that model grocery would then unfold. Whereupon we turned our backs on temptation, cut through an alley to the street where native marketers congregate, and entered a grocery—which was not a model one. The windows needed washing; so did the counters. Barrels were uncovered, dust filtered into everything, boxes of crackers and breakfast food, piled in hopeless confusion, were fly specked, and in many instances cartons were broken by careless handling, so that dust could enter unchecked.

A side of bacon lay on the ground near the meat block, and clerk after clerk kicked it aside because his hands were too full to pick it up. Flies swarmed on half a ham which lay on the meat block. The floor was as dirty as a combination of sawdust which had not been renewed for days, bacon rind, mackerel brine and tobacco juice could make it. I remembered my hostess' immaculate kitchen, and wondered.

Then her earnest tones broke into my thoughts:

The Lure of the Milk Pitcher.

"You're sure it is good tea? I would like to have that nice milk pitcher—Bobbie broke mine only yesterday—but I want good tea, too."

"The best package goods in the market, English breakfast and Oolong, perfectly blended, special for to-day, only seventy-five cents—and the pitcher."

"Well, I never paid seventy-five cents a pound for tea—but that pitcher certainly is lovely."

So the bargain was closed. The pitcher had won.

That night at supper the man of the house made a wry face and asked whether the tea had been boiled. The old-fashioned housekeeper looked at the new milk pitcher, and two lines came into her nice white forehead. Later, when we were doing the dishes together, she " 'fessed up."

"That is the first time I ever bought premium goods. John always says you can't get china and quality for one and the same price, but that horrid grocer would not sell me the pitcher. Well, I suppose I'll have to give the whole package to Mary Miller."

Admirable arrangement for Mary Miller, the washerwoman, but at least fifty cents must be charged to waste, for the pitcher could be bought at any china shop for a quarter or less.

It seemed the psychological moment for my experiment, so I said:

"Did you keep your sale slip with the prices of those groceries we bought to-day?"

With a moist hand she tossed me the slip of pink paper.

"To-morow, just for fun, we will take this list and go to the store where the summer colonists trade."

The old-fashioned housekeeper gave her tea towel a parting twist, flung it over a rack, and announced:

"Now, my dear woman, I don't intend to let you do anything reckless."

"For the good of the cause," I begged; and then she murmured something about folks with theories, and laughed like a child who had been promised a visit to the circus.

And on the morrow we went to the model store.

Here are the lists:

Sale Slip from Untidy Store.

1 lb. premium mixed tea	75c
1 lb. Our Own coffee (M. & J.)	34c
½ ib. American cheese	9c
1 pkg. macaroni	12c
1 salmon	12c
1 lb. prunes (Calif.)	12c
3½ lbs. gr. sugar	19c
1 jar sweet pickles	25c
1 bt. vanilla	9c
½ doz. lemons	13c

Sales Slip from Model Store.

1 lb. mixed tea, No. 3 quality	63c
1 lb. Mocha and Java coffe (ground)	30c
½ lb. American cheese	9c
1 pkg. macaroni	12c
1 salmon	12c
I lb. prunes	12c
3¼ lbs. gr. sugar	17c
1 jar sweet pickles	25c
1 bt. vanilla	10c
½ doz. lemons	15c

For her original purchases at the untidy store, my hostess paid $2.20. The duplicate order at the model store footed up fifteen cents less, or $2.05. Allowing that the milk pitcher was worth twenty-five cents on the face of the sale slip, she paid ten cents more for the goods purchased at the model store than for those bought at the less desirable grocery.

But the prices attached to the articles do not always represent their true household value.

Premium Tea.

To begin with, the "premium mixed tea," on examination by an expert, proved to be not a mixture of Oolong and English breakfast (a most remarkable combination, by the way), as claimed by the oily grocery clerk, but a low grade of Oolong and green, with a considerable proportion of what is known as "siftings," the whole worth not a penny over thirty-seven cents a pound. The sixty-three-cent mixed tea bought at the model store, was well worth in brewing strength and fineness of flavor at least double the inferior brand, and was a real bargain at its price.

But that is not the whole story. Every woman knows that when you use an inferior brand of tea you lose both flavor and strength, and the average housewife uses once and a half the quantity of cheap tea she would need of a better grade. However, if we leave this latter point out of the reckoning, the difference between the price charged for the premium tea, seventy-five cents, and its worth, thirty-seven cents, was represented by a china pitcher which could be dupilcated for twenty-five cents. Actual loss here thirteen cents, to say nothing of the difference in flavor.

The second purchase, "Our Own Blend" coffee, put up in an attractive tin can, proved to be not pure Mocha and Java, as was claimed, but a blend of Mocha, Java, Rio coffee and chicory, which could have been sold at a profit for twenty-five cents. The Mocha and Java coffee purchased at the model store came out of the test with flying colors, two-thirds Java and one third Mocha, with no adulteration, yet it was sold at four cents a pound cheaper.

Now, I hold no brief for Mocha and Java coffee. There are many households where Maracaibo or Rio coffee at eighteen or twenty cents a pound is preferred to Mocha and Java at thirty, but this is not the question at issue. This particular housewife thought she was buying pure Mocha and Java coffee at thirty-four cents a pound, and instead she was receiving an adulterated article.

Perhaps the grocer knew this, or perhaps he had bought the coffee in all honest ignorance. But after long months of investigation, during which I have bought goods in all sorts of stores in many different parts of the country, the conclusion is forced upon me that not only is the average dirty grocer willing to force upon his customer an inferior article in return for a big profit, but he is forced to do so in order to make a living. This is a day of system in the grocery business, as elsewhere. System means order, and order in a grocery store requires cleanliness. The unclean grocer is not a systematic grocer, and the unsystematic grocer loses money in his buying in the conduct of his store, and in the treatment of his customers. The trade which he loses through untidiness and incapacity, to say nothing of the waste of stock through careless handling of his goods, makes it necessary for him to sell at a higher profit than the man whose store is run methodically, systematically and cleanly.

Oiled Paper Versus Thumb Marks.

To return to our price lists, the cost of American cream cheese at both stores was the same, as was the quality, but there was one important difference. The cheese from the model store was delivered in a wrapping of oiled paper. It had been cut with a clean knife. The cheese from the dirty store had been sliced with a rusty or dirty knife, which left a grayish-brown streak on one side of the piece, and there was an ugly thumb mark near the rind. This dirt my hostess sliced off with infinite care. We weighed these parings, and they tipped the scales at nearly an ounce. Provided my hostess received sixteen ounces to the pound, or eight ounces for nine cents, she lost nearly an eighth of the cheese bought at the dirty store, or more than a cent's worth.

The purchase of macaroni in the package could not be expected to produce startling comparisons between the two stores, because goods put up in packages even from a dirty store are protected against the rusty knife and the smutty thumb. The two batches of macaroni were therefore much alike in point of cleanliness and were just the same in price, twelve cents. However, our housekeeper was still being cheated out of two cents by trading at the dirty store, because there she had obtained American macaroni, which should sell at ten cents, at the higher price of the Italian brand. This wasn't a question of quality—many prefer the domestic brand prepared under our pure food laws—but it is a question of ethics.

Salmon at twelve cents a can at both stores showed practically the same difference in quality. There was half a cupful of waste, skin, bones and fat, in the can bought from the dirty store. The can delivered from the model store was solid, meaty and better flavored.

The difference between the two grades of prunes at twelve cents a pound was more marked. Those from the dirty store were obviously of an old vintage. They were shriveled, dusty and encrusted with bits of stick, stone and uncatalogued scraps of dirt. The rinse water from the first washing was indescribably dirty. They required three washings, and they did not "plump up" nicely in stewing. The prunes from the model store were not the finest sold in that establishment. They were offered as "seconds," but they were infinitely superior to the prunes described above. One washing sufficed; a few twigs, evidently of the prune tree, were dried in with the fruit, but there was neither dust nor stone. And by actual count there were four more of the better prunes to the pound than of the inferior.

At the dirty store, granulated sugar was sold at five and one-half cents a pound. At the better store it cost four and six-sevenths cents a pound.

The sweet pickles were priced the same at both stores, but one jar bore the label of a standard firm; the other bore no firm name at all, just a fancy label. The reason for this was obvious when we served the two grades of goods at the same meal. The pickles from the dirty store were soft and overseasoned. The pickles from the model store were firm and properly flavored.

The standard vanilla at ten cents a bottle was a third stronger than the vanilla in the nine-cent bottle—this by chemical test.

A Difference in Lemons.

The difference between the lemons purchased at the two stores was a revelation. Those from the tidy store were firm, yet full of juice. Those from the dirty store though apparently the same size, were either dry and hard or soft and pithy. The average lemon from the good store yielded two and one-half tablespoonfuls of juice; those from the cheap store produced less than a tablespoonful and a half, or a loss of seven tablespoonfuls of juice on half a dozen lemons.

Barring the ubiquitous milk pitcher, these figures prove that the housewife saved in cash, flavor and strength at least one-third by trading at the clean store.

It must be understood that these results were not obtained merely by careless shopping at the two stores, but through honest, practical household test of the articles purchased, backed by chemical analysis.

After it was all over, the old-fashioned housewife remarked that she had often wondered why she could not get the brands of corn starch, vanilla, cocoanut and chocolate used by her mother. She had actually begun to think that they were no longer on the market. She never dreamed that the untidy grocer, who had enjoyed her trade for three years, was foisting "seconds" or inferior makes of package and bottled articles upon her because his disorderly methods of doing business had forced him to squeeze an excessive profit out of each sale in order to support himself and maintain the business in which he was working industriously but unwisely.

It must not be said that all dirty grocers are unscrupulous. Many of them are either ignorant, lacking in judgment or easily influenced by the bland and specious arguments offered by unscrupulous jobbers and wholesalers. The man who does not display the intelligence and the good management essential to keeping a store clean generally lacks the intelligence and judgment to buy to advantage. Just as the slovenly housewife wastes the income placed at her disposal by a hard-working husband, so the grocer wastes his capital and stock by injudicious, unintelligent buying. He may not know that the package coffee which he sells at a few cents higher than his rival, the clean grocer, or the bulk coffee, in bean, ground or pulverized, is adulterated; but it is his business to know this.

One or Two "Specials."

A store whose untidy appearance is often overlooked because of its "sales," advertised a special in peas, two cans of A1 peas for twenty-five cents. The labels on these cans were non-committal as to the name and fame of the canning agents—a point on which you cannot be too careful to make sure that you have the guarantee of a standard firm. At a tidy store a can of the same size prepared by a well-known house was bought at the standard price for that brand, fourteen cents, and the two cans were compared. The "bargain" peas smelled almost rancid when the can was opened, so the juice was poured off and the peas carefully rinsed. Then the cause of the strong flavor was discovered. The peas were of various sizes, a full dozen of very large, hard yellow peas were discovered. The peas from the clean store were subjected to the same rinsing process, and were found to be of uniform size, a trifle larger than the French pea.

As we have seen before, this disaster might have been avoided by a careful housewife if she had known just the brand of canned peas she wanted, and had insisted on getting that brand. This is the safest way to trade at any store. When you find that your grocer is honest enough to give you just the brand you ask for, and no other—when, in other words, you know your grocer—then, and then only, can you afford to try a brand from his store about which you know nothing. Perhaps you have found the exceptional grocer who has invented some canning process of his own, the superlative merit of which will some day win for his goods the fame which years of experience have awarded to the brand which you have always used and know you want. Perhaps, too, this is not so. At any rate, the grocer who, for the sake of a bigger profit, slips his own make of any prepared food in the place of a standard brand for which you have asked, is not honest enough to make his brand worthy of your patronage.

But how about the things which we prefer to buy in bulk? With these there is no hope except in the clean methods of your grocer. For instance, loose soda crackers at ten cents a pound, purchased at a clean grocery, proved crisp and palatable. The lid of the tin box holding the bulk crackers had been kept tightly closed. The same brand of crackers at the same price purchased at a slovenly looking store proved flat to the taste and moist to the touch.

Just one more example—butter. At a model store in October butter was purchased at thirty-two cents a pound—creamery tub butter of excellent flavor sweet and palatable. Just around the corner, in one of a great chain of untidy groceries, hung a sign. "Special to-day. Best Creamery Tub Butter at 29 Cents a Lb. Done Up in 2-Lb. Cartons. Only Two Cartons to a Customer."

Women were flocking to that sale and arguing volubly with the clerks for the privilege of buying just one more carton. Six pounds: Why, that will keep! A single carton was purchased and analyzed. It proved to be what is known as June butter, which had been kept in cold storage four months. In June butter is cheap, partly because milk is plentiful and partly because the cows, turned into fresh pastures, eat so many strong weeds that even the butter is tainted with the flavor. Butter which had been bought to sell at twenty cents a pound had been marketed, after lying four months in cold storage, at twenty-nine cents, and in competition with absolutely fresh, untainted creamery butter at thirty-two cents a pound. Which is the real bargain for the fastidious housewife? And how many women who carried home the precious two-pound cartons, "only two to a customer," wound up by turning their bargains into the jar which holds the cooking butter, or, more likely still, handing it on to some Mary Miller, to whom cold-storage butter is far superior to no butter at all.

In the face of all these examples and after months of earnest investigation, the Woman's Home Companion is convinced that not only can the economical housewife afford to trade with the clean grocer, but that she cannot afford to trade with any other. By withholding our trade from the dirty grocer, and giving it to the clean grocer, we have it in our power to make every grocer clean and honest—to eliminate the unsanitary grocery store, where dirt endangers the family health and substitution strikes at

THE WEST INDIES AND CANADA.

Address by Sir Daniel Morris to Leading Body in Barbadoes.

Sir Daniel Morris, the Imperial Commissioner of Agriculture for the West Indies, who was in Canada during the summer and early fall, has been speaking enthusiastically concerning trade between Canada and the West Indies since his return to Barbadoes. From a recent issue of the Barbadoes Agricultural Reporter of Nov. 30th, which has been kindly handed us by Geo. Musson & Co., we cull the following paragraphs from an address given by Sir Daniel before the Agricultural Society and commercial body at Bridgetown on November 22.

Dealing principally with sugar, he said:

"The consumption of sugar is rapidly increasing in Canada. For the past five years there has been an average increase of 8,000 tons per annum. In a few years it is highly probable that Canada will be in a position to take all the sugar produced in the West Indies, which is estimated at 240,000 tons per year. During the past year Canada has imported 212,000 short tons of sugar. Of this 166,000 tons of refiners' and muscovado sugars were taken direct from the West Indies and British Guiana, all of which were admitted under the preferential tariff. Some 18,000 tons of refined sugars were taken from Great Britain. Besides about 6,000 tons of refiners' crystals were admitted under the preferential tariff from Fiji and landed and refined on the Pacific coast. Practically, therefore, Canada has imported 90 per cent. of the sugars consumed by it from British sources.

One important reason why the West Indies have found such a favorable market in Canada is that the German beet sugar is shut out, not only by being placed on the general tariff, but by having a surtax imposed upon it. Should this surtax be removed the result would be injurious to the West Indies. The general opinion in Canada is that while that country was taking 78 per cent. of the total sugar consumed direct from the West Indies and British Guiana under a preferential tariff, the return trade was comparatively small. As a result there was a feeling of disappointment in Canada. Canadians, on the whole, are very sympathetic towards the West Indies, and are prepared to help the West Indies, but it is not prepared to keep on doing so unless the West Indies, including British Guiana, come in as a whole and make some representations. It is necessary for the West Indies to obtain all possible information regarding the trade of each colony. The position should then be summarized with regard to sugar and other products and there should be taken into consideration what Canada can take from the West Indies and what it is desirable for us to take from Canada.

In his address Sir Daniel referred to two expositions he visited in Canada, at Toronto and Montreal. Either the reporter or the speaker became mixed, for, speaking of the exhibition in Montreal, the article goes on to describe minutely the exhibition at Toronto. Sir Daniel strongly emphasizes the benefit the West Indian growers and merchants would reap by sending their goods up to this exhibition.

PRESENTATIONS—GOOD CHEER.

Head of Firm and Manager Remembered by Red Rose Tea Staff.

There have been presentations, compliments and general good cheer flying around generously at the Toronto office of Red Rose Tea during the holiday season.

For instance, last Friday evening the firm's Ontario travelers surprised the head of their firm, T. H. Estabrooks, of St. John, who had been in the city for a week arranging business for the New Year, with the gift of a splendid dinner gong. The gift, which was made to Mr. and Mrs. Estabrooks, was accompanied with an address, illustrative of the travelers' appreciation of the firm's kindness and generosity during the year. Beside wishing Mr. Estabrooks and family "much happiness and prosperity," it hoped that "every time the gong was heard ringing they would think of the boys in Ontario." The presentation was made by R. Pratt, and Mr. Estabrooks, after he had recovered from his surprise, voiced his appreciation of the remembrance.

He showed it in another way, also, by inviting the travelers over to a luncheon at McConkey's at noon on Saturday, when good cheer and compliments were interchanged freely, the function being, as several present expressed, "a fitting wind-up to a good season's work.

At Christmas time, also, the travelers and staff of the Toronto office remembered their manager, Geo. Campbell and Mrs. Campbell, with a gift of a handsome Brown Betty deposit service, hand-worked in silver. Good feeling is certainly very evident in this firm.

Red Rose travelers made good use of their two weeks' holidays at the holiday season. For instance, Ben Miller and his bride were down at his home in Lindsay; Geo. Taylor was at Fingal and Port Stanley, and Joe Boyd was at his old home in Acton for a few days.

The place left open by the withdrawal of Walter Gaden from the Red Rose staff in Montreal, has been filled from the Ontario staff, J. W. Nobles, who has had a good many years' experience and is pretty well known, went down last week to make things boom at the Montreal office.

Toronto Experiences No Delay

Matter of Tea Inspector is of Little Interest, Say Local Houses—Satisfaction is Expressed With Present Methods, Particularly Since Arrangement to "Free" by Wire.

Considerable notice has been taken in The Grocer recently of the demands of the Montreal tea importers for a local tea inspector. With a view to finding out how the situation stood in Toronto a representative of this paper a short time ago called on a large number of the importers and his findings are given herewith:

The situation in Toronto seems very different and much more satisfactory than that reported by the Montreal firms. Almost without exception the Toronto dealers are quite satisfied with present arrangements, particularly since the new arrangement of "freeing by wire" was arranged by the Government. Some firms are exceedingly enthusiastic over the way this arrangement works and the concensus of opinion seems to be that nothing further could be done or is necessary to facilitate tea inspection as far as Toronto is concerned.

Speaking regarding the situation in Montreal, as shown by the representations of the trade there, the majority of importers expressed themselves as being unable to understand the cause of the difficulty. It was suggested that possibly the delay was caused in the local customs-house, either through the appraiser or the clerks. Looked at from a Toronto standpoint, no blame for the delay can be placed on the inspector at Ottawa.

Here is the way the matter worked out in Toronto, according to the testimony of several of the largest firms: Samples of the tea to be tested and taken from the shipments by the appraisers at, say, three o'clock in the afternoon. These are gotten off on the evening mail, reach Ottawa and are delivered to the chief inspector by ten or eleven next morning. If the inspector gets to work with them immediately and he seems to be pretty prompt in the matter, a wire "freeing" the teas tested reaches the Toronto importer sometimes by noon and usually by two or three o'clock the same day. Where the matter is not urgent and reply is sent by mail the return is, of course, not so prompt but in no cases recently has it taken more than two or at the most, three days to "free" any particular shipment and no delays such as the Montreal firms complain of have been experienced.

It is a fact, of course, that the Montreal houses import a much larger quantity of low-grade teas, which require inspection, than comes into Toronto. And this, some suggest, may have some bearing on the trouble. Otherwise, the matter seems inexplicable.

The opinions of several of the Toronto importers are given herewith:

R. C. Larkin, of the Salada Tea Co., says: "No, we have no trouble whatever in the matter of facilitating inspection. In fact, we are very pleased with the way the Government has handled the matter. Very frequently samples are taken from our shipments in the afternoon and a wire from the inspector at Ottawa "freeing" the teas examined reaches us at noon next day. I cannot understand what ground Montreal merchants have to object to the present system as they are considerably nearer Ottawa than we are in Toronto and should get their returns more quickly accordingly." Speaking of the inspectors at St. John and Winnipeg, Mr. Larkin continued: "They seem to be needed there as these places are so far distant from Ottawa and hence conditions will be different."

J. L. Watt, of Watt & Scott, brokers, said. "There seems to be no necessity for an inspector in Toronto. Indeed, the Government seem to trust us very generously in this matter. I have experienced no trouble whatever."

Fred Dane, grocery broker, said of the matter: "I have nothing to complain of. There have been no delays recently under the new method which has helped matters very greatly. I cannot see any reason for desiring an inspector in Toronto."

Geo. H. Campbell, Toronto, manager of Red Rose Tea, also expressed himself as well satisfied with present conditions. "We do not have much occasion to trouble the inspector," said Mr. Campbell, "but when the occasion has arisen the matter has always been attended to satisfactorily."

J. F. Eby, of the Eby, Blain Co., said "Those Montreal houses should raise the quality of their imports so as to escape so much inspection. Our firm has not experienced any particular difficulty in this matter but if Montreal is to have an inspector we ought to have one in Toronto also."

James Ince, of Perkins, Ince & Co., said: "We did experience some slight difficulty some time ago, but no trouble has been met with recently. The trouble in Montreal must be caused by delay on the part of the appraisers or in the local customs house."

J. W. Musson, of Geo. Musson & Co., said: "They do a very great deal more business in the lower grades of teas in Montreal than the Toronto houses. This may account for the delay there. We have heard of similar trouble in Toronto."

H. P. Eckhardt, of Eckhardt & Co., when questioned said: "We have had no trouble of the kind you mention and cannot see what is the trouble in Montreal."

Several other firms gave practically the same answers and from this it seems conclusively evident that there is not much interest in the matter of the placing of a Government tea inspector in Toronto.

The following letter, which has been received since the above was written shows the attitude of one Toronto house in the matter:

Editor Canadian Grocer, Toronto:

Dear Sir,—We have taken considerable interest in the series of articles you have been publishing re an inspector of teas for the ports of Montreal, Toronto, etc., and in justice to the customs department, we intended writing you sometime ago to point out that there is absolutely no delay caused by the Government with regard to the delivery of teas arriving in Canada.

We are able to get our teas the moment we have passed the entry, that is, if we can persuade the railway companies to hurry up and deliver them, the customs authorities being quite willing to hand them over without awaiting the report of the inspector at Ottawa.

Now, as this is so, and is distinctly stated in the Hon. Mr. Paterson's letter in your last issue, what earthly reason have importers to complain of delay in the inspection of teas?

We think the Minister of Customs deserves the best thanks of importers (and he has ours) for removing all restrictions, thus enabling us to get our teas promptly on arrival, whereas, in the United States, we cannot get them until they are examined and freed by either the inspector at New York or Chicago, which often takes days.

Yours truly,

P. C. Larkin & Co.

A GOOD CHANCE FOR THE RETAILER.

There is an advantage for the retailer to read the advertisements published in connection with the future moving of the firm of Laporte, Martin & Co., Limited. This week teas and canned goods are put forward with notable reductions in prices in order to avoid cartage and storage expenses. The retail trade has a great profit to secure by following regularly these weekly announcements.

J. W. Arnold was in Toronto last week. J. W. represents John Taylor & Son, soap manufacturers, in St. John, and was up at headquarters for the annual "talk."

A CRISIS IN TEA PRICES.

With the steady, though gradual, advance in the prices of teas in the world's markets during the past year, which have been noted from week to week in our market notes, the situation, as it stands at present, is critical and is exceedingly interesting to the retail grocer. Speaking generally, the prices of teas to-day are higher and materially so, than they have been at any time since 1899.

In common teas the difference in prices between January, 1906, and those quoted at present, show an appreciation of fully 100 per cent. The advances have been most noticeable on the lower grades of Indians and Ceylons. As an instance, common teas, which were quoted in the primary markets last year at 4 pence, cannot now be bought for less than 8 pence.

This means that while retailers were buying common teas for 16 and 18 cents last year, they are now paying 21 and 22 cents for the same goods. In most cases the consumer is getting teas at the same prices as a year ago. Who is losing?

Various reasons are quoted for those advances, but getting to the bottom of the matter the real reason seems to be that demand is increasing faster than production. Great Britain and the continent of America have largely increased their consumption in the last two years, and another most important factor, Russia, is becoming a great tea buyer. Returns up to November show that Russia's purchases of Ceylon and Indian in 1907 were fully 50 per cent. larger than in 1906. In the lowest grades the purchases of 1906 have been almost trebled. Last year Russia took practically the whole crop of fine China teas, even at the enormously high prices, and this growing business seems bound to extend.

Keeping this situation in view, it seems that in all probability there will be no immediate relief from the present high prices. They may go still higher, and, in any event, will remain at their present level for some months at least. Indeed, the opinion is expressed by some London firms who are usually conservative in their remarks, that no level can be expected for several years.

We must, therefore, consider, whatever fluctuations may occur, that a high level of price has been established on a permanent basis, and, according to this, the only relief to the wholesale and retail dealers will come from the establishment of a higher scale of retail prices.

The packers of tea whose selling price has been fixed, but whose cost has increased as the market advanced, have been doing business at a serious loss for some time past. This condition cannot be continued indefinitely.

Again, in Japans, which are not put up in packets, the profit to wholesaler and retailer alike, has been reduced to a minimum in the effort to maintain the same price to the consumer, and this also cannot go on very long. With these matters in view, retail dealers will see that in their own interests they must be prepared to establish a higher retail price.

The fact that the advance has been greatest on the lower grades of teas makes these grades relatively poor value and the retailer will be really giving the consumer better value for the money, and, at the same time, reaping a much better profit for himself by inducing his customers to buy higher priced goods. This will be true in even greater degree if the retail price of the lower grades is advanced from the present standard of 25 cents to 30 cents, as every cent additional paid in the first cost brings a tea intrinsically worth several cents more in actual drinking quality.

ANNOUNCEMENT NEXT WEEK.

The results of the grocers' Christmas competitions, both of the window dressing and advertising contests, will be announced in next week's issue, with reproductions of the various successful windows and of a couple of the advertisements. It was hoped that the matter could be included in this issue, but details of the contests could not be arranged in time to permit of engravings be made in sufficient time. Considerable interest was shown in both contests, entries being sent in from all parts of Canada, and next week's announcement will doubtless be looked forward to by a good many grocers and clerks.

AN ADVANCE IN SUGAR.

The feature of the week in the grocery markets has been a general advance of ten cents on all lines of sugars. The change seems to have been made in sympathy with the American markets, and the advance there is probably the result of speculation on the part of several New York refiners. With the high prices in raws, however, the small number of centrals operating in Cuba, and the rather unfavorable reports regarding the European beet situation, this advance was to be expected and sugar is now on a more satisfactory basis.

Prices now are almost exactly even with those quoted the corresponding week last year. Then, on January 12th, a drop to $4.20 was noted, and an advance on this followed shortly afterward.

As far as can be prophesied, the prices reached this week should be steady, for some months, at least.

AN UNEXPECTED BENEFIT.

Some of the larger grocers, who have the patronage particularly of the wealthy class, tell us that they have benefited instead of suffered from the recent brief period of financial stress. This seeming anomaly they explain by saying that this year the families of many of their customers who usually go to Europe or to the southern states for the winter, remained at home on account of the threatened crisis in financial matters and thus kept their grocery bills going. The result is as peculiar as it was unexpected, but it stands as another proof of the adage about the "ill wind that blows nobody good."

J. McFarlane, Calgary, Alta., has taken over the grocery trade of A. F. Mutton.

New Year Resolutions

Sensible Advice Given by a Toronto Preacher—"Don't Worry and Don't Stick too Close to Your Desk," the Lesson to Be Learned From the Experience of New Yorkers.

DON'T LIVE TOO FAST.

There is a lesson and a warning for business men in the fact that there were 186 deaths from heart disease in this city last week, says the New York Herald, an increase of thirty per cent. as compared with the corresponding week of last year, and that the figures for the entire twelvemonth will very nearly equal this ratio of increase.

While the average duration of human life has been lengthened three or four years during the present generation the number of deaths from heart disease in New York and other American cities has steadily increased. This is admittedly due to the stress and strain of modern life, but more than all to the "worry" it entails among business men.

As experts point out, the anxiety and strain caused by recent monetary troubles has undoubtedly been the cause of many recent deaths from heart disease, especially among men advanced in years. Heavy financial losses in some cases, in others worry over apprehended disasters that will never occur cause loss of appetite and sleeplessness and a general lowering of vitality which renders the subject an easy prey to any prevailing disease, or if the heart be weakened by a long period of improper living it gives way.

Physicians have long been preaching the doctrine that American business men live too fast. With the telegraph, the ocean cable, the telephone and other modern facilities the man of affairs can do in one hour work that formerly would have occupied six. It might be thought his working day would be correspondingly shortened. Nothing of the sort has occurred. The speed with which trade can be effected has simply accelerated his pace, and he not only works faster, but more hours than ever, with corresponding increase of business and responsibilities. To keep up this energy he eats too much, sometimes drinks too much—for a man who spends most of his working hours at his desk and takes no open air exercise. Physical deterioration is inevitable, and when a period of more than usual stress and anxiety arrives he is liable to succumb.

Even from a sordid money-grabbing point of view his manner of life is a mistake. The day's shooting, yachting, riding or golf and an occasional change of scene give new strength and vitality and a clearer brain. In perfect health and possession of all his faculties the man has an acuter insight for the direction of affairs and can accomplish more than if he spent the whole time in his office or counting room with his nose to the grindstone. The man who thus preserves his health pooh-poohs as mere spectres a host of things which otherwise would worry him into his grave, and he will be living, active and prosperous for a generation after the survivors among his unwise colleagues have passed into a wretched and enfeebled premature old age.

What American business men must learn is to slow down, take wholesome recreation and above all quit worrying, even over real troubles when they come, whereas most of them now worry over troubles that never come.

GO SOFTLY IN 1908.

Let them snicker at your New Year's resolution if they will, but make it, and publish it, and keep it.! said Rev. Byron Stauffer, of Toronto, last Sunday. Man goes forward by plodding and by leaping. It is a mistake to imagine that no one can get goodness in a single bound. There is the army mule's tug and the kangaroo's leap in a man's moral evolution. A man needs the mule's tenacity to keep the ground he has gained ; he needs the kangaroo jump once in a while when he decides to go forward. Make a leap onward and upward this New Year, and then doggedly hold the ground.

And what shall you resolve ? To work harder ? Well, maybe that is needed in your case. True, the man that really succeeds in making progress never did trust in the eight-hour day overmuch. But likely you're working hard enough. To save money ? Perhaps, it's for you, but my opinion is you're doing fairly well as it is. To save a little is the safe road to competency, but to try and save much is the sure road to misery.

But twenty-five hundred years ago a king wrote in the front of his diary these words : "I shall go softly all my years." It will do for you and me today and it may well be our New Year resolution for 1908. "I shall go softly." The same word is used once in the Old Testament where a man speaks of velvet. So the phrase means, "I shall walk in velvet shoes all my days." "I shall handle folks and problems with kid gloves during 1908."

I shall go softly, gratefully, not grumblingly ; humbly, not proudly ; thoughtfully, not rashly ; prudently, not recklessly ; gently, not roughly. Activity stands in danger of being boisterous. The touch of intensity is often harsh. The brisk word is sometimes brusque. In our physical strength we forget the power of kindness.

Make the resolution on account of the manners it will give you. If two countrymen, equally uncouth, were to be put into Toronto's finest drawing room, the quieter-voiced of the two would attract the least notice. The soft word will reform the world. Scolding won't do it. The shriek of the impassioned declaimer won't do it. But the kind word will be a lever that will lift a thousand times its own weight. The wind howled over the lakes the other week. With its roar it beached a few small craft and wrecked a steamer or two. But today ten thousand ships are awaiting the great arm of the silent moon in lifting the whole ocean in order to carry them from their ports ! Say it to-day: "During 1908 I shall go softly."

PASS THIS ALONG.

The following practical advice, printed on a card for enclosing in envelopes containing receipts for remittances, issued by the Penton Publishing Company, publishers of the Iron Trade Review, Cleveland, is worthy of being passed along by readers of this paper :

"If all business houses and business men in America will do their level best at this time to pay every bill, large or small, as fast as they can, it will help very materially in the prompt restoration of confidence.

"We are doing all we can to help our customers on the one hand, and on the other, the money you have sent us will be paid out by or before this reaches you.

"This money panic must quickly pass by, and then, with confidence restored, your customers and ours are going to begin to place orders, and the establishments which supply the best goods and seek the hardest for business, will get there first."

TEAM WORK.

No one thing is so essential to the prosperity of a business establishment as team work. By this is meant the performance by every member of the force, in every department, of his assigned duties promptly and cheerfully, and further than this the co-operation of one department with another.

There is no unimportant work in connection with the manufacture and sale of goods. Evety detail, no matter how apparently trivial, is essential.

These details are the result of experience and thought. They usually grow out of troubles which have arisen and must be guarded against in the future.

Orders are not issued for amusement or to provide somebody a job. They are intended to fulfill a definite purpose, and it is only by good team work in carrying them out, all along the line, that the house is kept running smoothly.

Good customers are often lost for a time—sometimes permanently—through a lot of insignificant little things, not important in themselves, but far reaching in their effect.

Business is made up of little things, and no one can say how comparatively important they are. Trifles make for perfection and nothing is perfect unless perfection is carried through all of its parts.

It is in carrying out the details, one man working with another, that team work counts.

News of the Grocery Trade From All Sections of Canada—Business Somewhat Quieter After Holiday Rush, But Outlook is Exceedingly Encouraging.

CHATHAM.

Amid a circle of loyal and congratulating friends, around a table burdened with the choicest products of culinary skill, amid tasteful decorations, with a spirit of good cheer and happiness pervading all, Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Bosworth celebrated on the evening of Jan. 2 the fortieth anniversary of their wedding.

They were married in Newmarket, England, coming to this city 18 years ago. Until four years ago Mr. Bosworth was G.T.R. baggageman, and since then has conducted a prosperous grocery business on William street. Three of the five children were present, the remaining two sending congratulatory messages.

F. Charlan, tobacco expert of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, recently visited this section. He reports the tobacco crop much better than was anticipated at the outset of the season. Earlier planting and earlier harvesting are recommended.

Chris. Farrell has inaugurated his grocery business in his new brick block on St. Clair street.

E. Omstead, the Wheatley general merchant, has purchased the general merchandise stock of S. Anderson & Co., of Harrow. Mr. Anderson will return to Wheatley, from which place he removed some eighteen months ago to set up business in Harrow.

A. B. Lounsbury, who has for over twenty years conducted a successful butcher business at Wheatley, has purchased the butcher business of Mr. Torrance, at Leamington.

W. S. Downham, of Essex, has purchased the Harrow cheese factory and will operate it as a creamery next season. Mr. Cunningham will remain as manager.

An interesting point of law in connection with exempted industries has just been decided by Judge Bell, senior county court judge. Last June the county council, in passing their assessment equalization by-law, added $400,000 to the Wallaceburg assessment. Wallaceburg appealed against this decision. Though the judge has sustained the appeal, he has added $88,700 to the former Wallaceburg assessment. Wallaceburg, some time ago, passed a by-law exempting the Wallaceburg Sugar Co.'s premises and plant from all assessment over and above $20,000. The judge places the value of the building and taxable machinery at $108,700, and this, less the $20,000 already included, has been added to the Wallaceburg assessment. In a word, the judge holds that in towns not separate from the county local by-laws exempting industries from municipal taxation do not bind the county, and that such industries are liable for the county rate on their full assessable value.

Lamon Bros., bakers, are now issuing handsome aluminum bread tickets in place of the pasteboard tickets formerly in use. Aluminum is healthier, and means a saving in the long run.

W. Linder, of Toronto, representing Maconochie's, visited Chatham, Wallaceburg and adjacent points early this week. His friends in the trade—and they are legion—were immensely pleased to see his smiling face, and feel his warm handshake Mr. Linder reports business to be pretty good this trip, and has seen practically no trace of the depression so much talked about last fall. Incidentally, few things are more remarkable than the way the Maconochie products have come to the front in Chatham. A few years ago they were unknown outside a few stores. To-day there is not a store of any standing that does not handle them, and there is a steadily growing public demand. Evidently, Maconochie's turn out the "proper stuff."

The municipal elections on Monday decided that Ald. Wm. Potter is not to sit in the mayor's chair. The popular groceryman went up against a hard combination of circumstances, and had the bad luck to finish last in a three-cornered contest. Ald. Potter had many qualifications for the post. He was the hardest worker probably that the city council ever knew. Incorruptibly honest, and ready to stand up for his opinions on all occasions, he had given five years of faithful service to the city. Probably no man had ever so deservedly earned the post. This fact was admitted even by men who voted against him. His successful opponent, ex-Ald. Thos. Scullard, had many strong elements in his favor, and the contest just concluded is scarcely a genuine test of the regard of the Chatham public for "Bill" Potter.

But if they did not land the mayor's chair, grocerymen find consolation in the outcome of the aldermanic contest. J. N. Massey, chairman of the railway committee in last year's council, and one of the city's most progressive grocers, headed the poll, rolling up the phenomenal vote of 1,069. Ex-Ald. John N. Edmondson, the popular St. Clair street butcher, who went down last year, redeemed himself this year by winning second place, being only 50 votes behind Ald. Massey. Harry A. Andrew scored well for a new man, securing sixth place with 900 votes. Ald. Andrew's only previous experience in municipal affairs consisted of a year on the school board under the old ward system, and the big vote he secured in this year's contest from all parts of the city is very pleasing.

WHAT ONE MAN THINKS OF IT.

Here's what one man out West thinks of The Grocer.

"The MacLean Publishing Co., Winnipeg:

"Gentlemen,—We have been subscribers to your weekly newspaper, The Canadian Grocer, for about six months, and are very much pleased with it, in fact, we should have been taking it years before. It is worth five times the money."

J. McINTYRE & SON,

BARRIE.

The two by-laws which were voted on last Monday, the local option by-law and the Aerial Ladder & Auto Truck Co. loan by-law caused quite a lot of excitement in town, especially the local option one, which has been a fight all along between the hotelmen and merchants and the general temperance people. It was, however, defeated by a majority of 66. The other by-law was carried by a majority of 82, and Barrie will now have the only factory in Ontario where electric and hydraulic automatic fire engines will be manufactured. A few more of this kind will make us, now a city, into one of the best in the province.

Never before inside of one week did the price of poultry in general rise as it did from the holiday week till last Saturday. The Christmas turkey, that sold for 10c and 11c, jumped to 15c.

Robert Beath, who opened a grocery store on the corner of Mulcaster and Dunlop streets, last spring, has sold out to J. Colwell, of this town, and late turnkey of the Barrie gaol.

difference between confectionery and biscuits, and our genial Artie will have our best wishes for prosperity and success.

Among some of our merchants who will serve their term on our council this year are James Fair, 2nd deputy reeve; Wm. D. Bothwell, alderman for ward 3; John Little, alderman for ward 6; John Coffey, 1st deputy reeve. J. H. Bennet beat Richard Powell by a majority of 336.

The chickens, that sold for 8c and 9c, went to 12½c and even reached the 13c mark; geese from 8c to 10c, went to 12½c lb.; ducks in about the same proportion. Butter remains firm at 25c to 26c. The new laid eggs are beginning to make their appearance and are selling at 30c a dozen, while the others are selling at 20c a dozen.

Nearly every merchant in town reports a real good holiday trade, up to the average of other years, but most of them say that it has dropped off more suddenly than is usual, but they say that that is a good sign for an early good spring trade. We are not as badly off in the way of laid-off men as other places and it is very rarely that a good laborer is seen idle in town today.

GUELPH.

I have been asked to give a reason for the scarcity of money and for hard times in Guelph. The fact of the matter is that we positively have not got any hard times in Guelph. The grocers all report the Christmas trade as good and better in some cases than ever and are well satisfied. The first week in the new year has started off fine and some grocers report taking in more money than for a good many ordinary weeks previously. The public seems to feel that the backbone of the long winter is broken as soon as Christmas is over and have begun already to spend more freely, as is evidenced in the size of the orders being delivered in the city. The banks may not have so much spare capital, but there is a good reason for that. For instance, look at all those new factories, extensions to old ones, new machinery and also the large number of new houses, (the greatest in the history of Guelph), built this year. We cannot build new houses, shops, etc., and still keep our money in the bank. Keep it circulating and the banks will look out for themselves. The banks are all right, but the money was needed. We have it and have made good use of it and also have something to show for it. Besides, look at the large number of men we have kept busy the last two years on new buildings.

J. A. McCrea & Son did something unique in the way of business for a retail firm by buying a carload of oranges for the Christmas trade. That is the way we do it in Guelph.

W. H. Fielding has just completed putting in a beautiful oak platform and back in his store window. The back is all beveled mirrors and makes a handsome fixture, and was also made in Guelph by the Clemens Co.

Alderman Robt. Simpson, of the R. and J. H. Simpson Co., wholesale grocers, has been returned by acclamation. Alderman J. A. McCrea has decided to retire from his aldermanic duties, but we did expect to see him out for mayor.

Charlie Smye, of Balfour, Smye & Co., and Wm. Tobias, of Todhunter, Mitchell & Co., were the first two knights of the grip to make their appearance this year. Both got off to a good start on January 2.

We see and hear a good many comments on the large number of failures as seen in The Grocer lately, of grocers in the newer districts. Is it the fault of the grocers or the wholesaler? Some cracking good men go under in these failures each year, who, if given a chance would make good and it is very often the best of them are down and out as it is not frail concerns that are closed up always as the wholesalers know they can get more out of them by jollying them along, than closing them up, and the better man has property to help him to whack up and he has to do it, while the weak concern gets the extended time.

The 125,000 dollar by-law for the extensions to our waterworks plant was carried to-day by a majority of 737 and the Niagara power by-law was also carried by 870 of a majority on Monday, which shows the people's confidence in the good management of our commissioners.

There is a good movement started by a local grocer in insisting that all the fowl he buys have their heads off before marketing. His customers here all dropped in line and if others would take the matter up it would only be a short time till all the fowl brought on our local market would have the heads off. One leading shipper has also dropped in line and wants his with the heads off also. They certainly sell much easier and look far nicer and more salable. the family purse.

STRATFORD.

Just at present the merchants are experiencing the usual dull period, which prevails generally all over the land after the exit of the merry Christmastide. But when the dull period is expected, it does not become so black. It is when the dull seasons come with rude unexpectedness that the grumbling is heard.

But in this dull period (it does not last very long) how many grocers are there who grasp the opportunity to devote their attention to some particular part of the business, which, in the past, has been neglected and allowed to degenerate. The present season is a good time to make yourself generally useful in that department of your business. Figure out how best you can bring that particular unpaying and neglected part of the business up to the standard it should be at. Then go to work zealously and proceed to make it pay.

Then, again, immediately after the Christmas and New Year's trade is over is oftentimes a good time to take stock. Stock taking is a necessity to the essential success of any business and should be taken when the proprietor or business manager can best spare the time, and also when there is no great rush of business going on. There are a few grocers in this city who take stock several times a year. They are the successful merchants.

How important it is that the clerks in stores, groceries included, should know the value of being patient and of "keeping their heads" when waiting upon customers. Just the other day a customer entered one of the city stores and got flustered over a remark made by the clerk, whose patience was sorely tried by the same customer. The customer left the store in a rage and has not returned since. The man or clerk who allows himself to get angry too often says things he does not mean. The best thing to do is to hold that rebellious temper in check. It is costly in business. Not only do such incidents make unnecessary enemies, but they cost good, hard cash. The even dispositioned clerk is the one who draws the salary—the one who pleases the customer. Practice curbing that quick temper.

Since Christmas the market has not been very large. Last Saturday there were very few fowl on sale, and the market, on the whole, was rather "skimpy."

CALGARY.

The splendid weather which has prevailed throughout Alberta for the past month made business in all lines excellent. The season has been so mild and springlike that the ranchers have come in for their shopping for Christmas for a radius of a hundred miles. Merchants in all lines agree that in spite of the money stringency which is so much spoken of, cash receipts for the month of December exceeded all previous years.

As an indication of the business being carried on by the grocery trade in this small but growing city, one firm, Georgeson & Company, to-day received three carloads of coffee. The spice factory now being erected by this firm is nearing completion, the machinery is being installed, and everything will be ready to open up in three weeks. The company will grind their own coffees, spices and manufacture extracts, jellies, baking powders and all grocers' sundries.

Apples are plentiful. The trade is well supplied with Ontarios in barrels and Washingtons in boxes.

Japanese oranges are not at all satisfactory this season, the condition in which they have been received has been anything but good, and the importer is complaining as much as the housewife is grumbling.

There is a great scarcity of butter and eggs here, the prices are high and the quality not at all good.

SASKATOON.

Once more the holiday rush is over and for the next two months business is expected to be comparatively quiet. Grocers interviewed by your correspondent state that the holiday trade has been better this year than ever. There was a good demand for fruit and poultry, and bon bons and confectionery found a ready sale. A good deal of local advertising was done just previous to the holidays by the merchants, which helped to bring customers to their stores. Stores are also decorated and made to look as attractive as possible, and in some cases extra clerks were engaged. Calendars are given away freely, the one issued by Currie Bros. being of specially good design. It is made up of four long panels which are tied together with ribbon, with three months on each panel, and one which will be appreciated by all who received it.

A branch of the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada has been organized here with P. H. Currie as president. Very little active work has as yet been done but one of the objects of the association will be to form a black list as a protection against people who get goods on credit and who fail to pay for them. It will also help in cutting out the credit system and this should be the aim of each member. To have a successful and beneficial association it will be necessary to have the co-operation of all the business men of the town.

A good deal is being said these days about doing business on a cash basis. That the cash system is the most businesslike way of transacting a business is very evident. It is also the safest in the long run. Whether a man maintains a cash system depends a good deal on how he meets his customers. No one can take blood out of a stone and no one can get money out of people who haven't got it, but people can be trained to always keep enough money on hand to puchase the necessaries of life. If it is to be cash let him nail up his colors and stick to them. This has been done by Freeman & Co., of this town. Miss Freeman, who conducts the business has had a good experience of the trade and anything she does not know about a general store is not worth knowing. Years ago credit was given but it was decided that all accounts should be closed. This was done and although many customers kicked, the business has been carried on along cash lines ever since. It was found that the people who objected to paying cash down were the people who were most likely to cause bad debts, and the other fellow was always welcome to their trade. That the cash system is coming more into vogue is quite evident. It would pay most merchants to do a strictly cash trade, turn down those who ought to be on the black list, save a book-keeper's salary and run no risk from bad debts.

The plans of the new milling and elevator company for Saskatoon are maturing. The company is composed of local men and a mill will be erected here. Elevators are planned for several other points but the headquarters of the company will be here and operations will commence as soon as the weather will permit in the spring. It is the intention of the proprietors in the meantime to erect an elevator at Deliske, another at Zealandia, and one in the vicinity of Lanigan. It is also possible that one will be erected at French on the new line of the Grand Trunk Pacific at some future time. Through the foresight of the promoters in thus establishing these elevators at various places in the vicinity they will greatly enlarge their field of operations and increase the volume of business in the city here. This season there was not enough room in the elevators to accommodate half the wheat brought in by the farmers so that there is ample room for an industry of this kind. If there was sufficient elevator capacity in the country districts in which to store the grain, the scarcity of cars would not be felt so much. It is gratifying to know that a few influential local men are the promoters of the enterprise and it is to be hoped that before next fall they will be ready for business. They evidently have the interest of the community at heart and deserve a fair share of the public patronage.

KINGSTON.

A great many think there will be a big slump in prices shortly. Many wholesalers are filled up with canned goods and many other lines and they are moving off slowly. Rolled oats went up by jumps but rolled back again. The 5-lb. packages Banner, Beaver, Quaker, etc., went up to $4.90, but you could get them right along for $4 or less. Certain lines of raisins, such as Malagas in 1-lb. packages, are sugared and look like last year's fruit, and many grocers would not handle them, but preferred going a little higher and getting California raisins, which turned out very satisfactory. Some currants sent in as cleaned, turned out very dirty.

Many wholesalers are cutting out a lot of accounts of the slow pay kind, like the wise gardener trimming his trees to have less fruit but of better and larger quality. It would pay many retailers to do a little trimming. There is too much reckless credit nowadays.

Sam Wilson, who made such a success of a cash store in Gananoque, has sold out to Smith Bros., and joined the Washburn Fruit Co., of Brockville. Bright prospects are ahead for this new firm, Mr. Washburn has had twenty-two years' experience and traveled a long time for Hart & Tuckwell. Sam Wilson has been in the grocery business since he was a very young lad and when in Kingston was popular and well liked by everyone, He is bound to succeed on the road.

J. Y. Parkhill has bought the imposing Oddfellows' block and intends moving into the corner part of it. It has great cellar room. He intends putting in a large refrigerator to meet the wants of his increasing trade.

Jas. Redden & Co. have placed a bacon cutter on their counter, and they are well pleased with it.

A by-law to make better roads in Kingston is to be voted on by the electors in January. We have very bad roads and the grocers' wagons know it.

One of the nicest calendars we get every year is from D. Stratton & Co., the fish dealers. It is generally a lady's head with a "salmon" colored hat on. Capital joke, but a lot of truth in it, nevertheless.

Chas. Saunders, Princess street, has notified the people through the press that on and after January 1st he gives no more credit. There are quite a few holding back who would like to come forward and do the same thing. If the grocers would do it there would be no trouble. The shoe dealers were unanimous in adopting the cash system and they are delighted.

The calendar fiends are around already booking orders for 1909.

The chocolate and candy trade for Christmas is not much good any more for there are too many at it, fancy goods men, druggists and others. Some have a big stock left over and many things are unsaleable and expensive. Better stick to staples. We all have a weakness for buying and the drummers know how to make one feel he needs the lines he offers. Grocers should be firm. A grocer told me on the market he thought he had about $3,000 stock, and found after taking stock he had over $5,000. He said: "I only need $3,000, and if I had the other $2,000 in the bank I could sleep better and get discounts."

Good butter is scarce. Most of the product has a stable flavor or turnipy taste. I am told that even turnips won't flavor if fed at the proper time.

W. P. Wood, Livingstone avenue, has sold out to Marshall Reid, who formerly ran a grocery store, but for many years was gate-keeper at the penitentiary. He is well acquainted in the district and should get his share of the trade in good things to eat.

A stone quarry has been opened up to give employment to those who cannot get work. Many emigrants from old London wish they were back again. Many are receiving poor relief. They all claim to have been in good positions and were induced to come out by the Canadian agents, who told them they could pick up gold on the streets in Canada.

Two men were learning to speak French. One said, on parting, "Au reservoir." The other said, "Tanks." So good-bye for this time.

ST. CATHARINES.

Since the holiday trade has passed, at which time there were brisk sales, St. Catharines has assumed a peaceful aspect. The changeable weather, with bad and indifferent roads, has had something to do with the lull. Yet, on the whole, this town is no worse than other places.

John Parks has purchased the wholesale and retail grocery business from M. McGuire, on St. Paul street, west, and is conducting the trade on the same lines as his predecessor. Though M. McGuire & Company have disposed of their grocery business, they still continue the jobbing trade.

John McClive, late of His Majesty's customs, has branched out as a customs broker and real estate agent.

Among those who fell at the recent municipal elections, and which was not expected, was Ald. Charles A. Gibson, one of our prominent young grocers, who had been an efficient legislator during the year now closed.

William A. Sherwood was another grocer who fell in the municipal battle. This was the first time that Mr. Sherwood sought office, and, of course, his first defeat.

Ex-Ald. James T. Petrie, one of the leading grocers, concluded to offer himself as a candidate for municipal honors and was a successful winner, and heading the poll in St. George ward.

The mayoralty contest was most keenly fought, the contestants being Ald. John S. Campbell, barrister, and ex-Mayor W. B. Burgoyne, one of the Standard newspaper proprietors. Ald. Campbell was the winner, Mr. Burgoyne taking his defeat in good part.

TORONTO.

Now that the holiday rush is over, grocers have more time to "sit up and take notice." And among the many things they have made special note of is the fact that the purse strings of the consumers' pockets were not limited by the bogey of "hard times." Talk of financial stringency seems to be in high favor in certain circles, but finds little credit among Toronto's grocers. In concurrence with the reports of grocer correspondents all over the country the general opinion obtaining among grocers here bespeaks a highly satisfactory holiday season. Everyone can compare this year favorably with last year, while not a few claim increases. All lines of fancy fruits and eatables moved freely. Collections were good, which is another evidence of the inconsistency of the "hard times" argument.

A few weeks ago considerable comment was to be heard about the numbers of unemployed in the city and some harrowing pictures of their sufferings were drawn. It is gratifying to note that recently this cry has become weak. People are getting more sane and looking to the bright side of things. The grocers of Canada may justly feel proud of themselves for their optimism and hopefulness. Being in such close touch with the general public they, no doubt, have had a far-reaching influence in passing around encouraging words.

Out along College street there are a number of as fine grocery stores as could be desired. Bright, attractive windows, with goods well displayed, evidently are recognized in their proper light as business eye-openers. Especially so was this during the holiday season, when the results of artistic windows are so much in evidence.

One window that won much admiration and praise was that of J. Hickman, 374 College street. The proprietor of this up-to-date grocery has been for years in business in Toronto. But years have not affected his ardor and, unlike some grocers who have served many years of faithful service behind the counter, he is fully alive to the times and the demands of a fastidious public. The interior fittings are attractive. Everything is spick and span and creates a good impression on entering. In addition to handling groceries, this successful grocer manufactures an enviable line of marmalade and jelly, which has captured first prizes at the National Exhibition on several occasions and which, by the way, aided considerably in the success of his Christmas window.

GALT.

Trade has brightened up considerably since the opening of the new year, and the prospects are that the end of the present year will see an advance over the previous year. The factories are receiving numbers of orders and the number of unemployed men is steadily decreasing.

For the first time in a number of years a Galt grocer takes his seat at the council board. At the municipal elections on Monday, Mr. Pat Radigan, the popular Main Street grocer, was returned at the head of the poll for Ward One, the largest and most influential ward in the town. Mr. Radigan did not seek the position, and that his election is popular was evidenced by the hearty cheering with which he was greeted when he expressed his thanks in the town hall, after the meeting. For a number of years he was a member of the Separate School Board, and successful in his own business. He should be a valuable acquisition to the town council.

Geo. B. Elliott, another grocer, made a try for the Council, and while making a good run, was a few votes short of the required number.

PRINCE ALBERT.

"The Store of Plenty" as G. C. McDonald's new store is termed is now established in new quarters. Mr. McDonald conducts a departmental business and on a cash basis. The grocery department occupies the north side and extends back forty feet, and is well equipped in every way. The fittings were supplied by the Walker Bin Store Fixture Co., of Berlin, and are most convenient. Bins of all sizes are to be seen, from the small ones for spices to the two-barrel bins for flour and sugar. They are fitted with glass fronts which show the contents of each and are balanced so that they can easily be swung over when anything in them is required. There are two tiers of these bins and above them are the shelves for canned goods, etc. There are also a number of show cases and everything is dust and mouse proof. Mr. McDonald declares that he handles the best quality and selling for cash, can give a lower price. One feature of the store which will please the farmers is that when they bring in their butter and eggs they get cash down, and the chances are that they will leave most of it in the various departments before leaving the store.

Chapman's new cafe in the Baker block was thrown open for public inspection on Monday and found to be modern in every way. The rooms are furnished with mission furniture and a heavy cork carpet covers the floor. Near the entrance is a handsome soda fountain with mirrors and tile and marble fittings. In the summer ice cream and sodas will be served and in the winter hot drinks. A special Christmas dinner was served, the menu being of somewhat lengthy dimensions.

Generally speaking, the volume of business done in Prince Albert this year exceeded that of last, although the Christmas trade did not come up to its usual briskness. It is the general opinion that people did not spend money so freely during the holidays as they have been in the habit of doing in previous years, although quite a trade was done in toys, bonbons and goods of a suitable nature for gifts. Things are usually quiet for the first two months of the year but merchants feel that with the moving of the wheat and the loosening of the money market business should soon pick up again.

Within two days there were three outbreaks of fire in Battleford last week. The largest fire occurred in J. R. Chisholm's lumber office. The building, valued at $6,000 was destroyed, as well as the stock of doors, mouldings and lumber. J. Haywood had his store completely destroyed, including the contents, and several others suffered loss to some extent. The outbreaks are supposed to have been of incendiary origin and the council is making enquiries into the matter.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL—The demand for canned fruits is fair; moderate on vegetables. Sardines and salmon are picking up and are in good demand. Other lines are featureless.

TORONTO—The majority of wholesale houses report business better than it has been for several weeks. This demand extends to practically all lines. The Canadian canners have distributed among their customers this week a letter giving a review of the situation. Statistics taken from a couple of American journals regarding the aggregate pack in 1907 was 205,000 cases less than in 1906, a decrease of 21.5 per cent. In 2's corn the pack was 100,000 cases less, a decrease of 21.5 per cent. and the pack of peas is 50,000 cases less or 14.0 per cent. These figures, it says, correspond closely with their own estimates, and it seems probable that before the end of the season there will be more or less of a shortage in all these lines.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—

Collections—Fair.

Toronto, Jan. 9, 1908.

As predicted in recent issues, business at the first of the new year has opened well. Wholesalers generally are quite enthusiastic this week over the orders coming in and regarding the outlook. A good many firms sent their travelers out immediately after New Year's Day and the business they brought in was in a good many cases surprising. The retailers seem to have bought on a hand-to-mouth policy during November and December and after the large holiday business which was done everywhere their stocks seem to be pretty low.

The financial side of the business also seems pretty satisfactory. Collections are good, so most of the houses report, and renewals have scarcely been requested at all during the last week.

The retailers seem to be recovering quite rapidly from the feeling of any impending financial difficulty and there seems to be every indication that there will be no bugbear to interfere with business during the year just opened.

The feature of the week has been the 10 cent advance in sugar, which is general, and appears to be a movement of sympathy with the American markets. Beans and evaporated apples are higher. Butter and eggs are firmer and cranberries, which have been exceedingly high since the season opened, have dropped from 50 cents to $1 per barrel.

TEAS—The local market continues quiet at the prevailing high prices.

Late advices from London, reviewing the situation, say :

"The average price of tea in 1907 was the highest since 1899. At first sight this would seem to imply good results for all producers, but this is not necessarily the case, because one of the chief features of the past year was the high price ruling for common grades. Undoubtedly gardens with this class of tea should be prospering, but as the price of medium kinds was unduly depressed, estates producing such teas will not do proportionately so well.

"Taking the industry as a whole, there seems every probability that the depression, which has ruled for many years, has at length passed away, for production has shown little increase during the past twelve months, while consumption, both at home and abroad, has materially increased, and very little additional land is being placed under tea cultivation."

Gow, Wilson & Stanton, in their last return, give some interesting figures in regard to production in the world's markets. They say :

"The output in India for the current season is likely to be rather below last year, while there has been an increase from Ceylon, the total from the two countries being about 417,909,335 lbs., while the year's consumption was about 422,637,000 lbs.

"Indian—The quality, although fully up to average, has not been as good as in 1906, when the crop from Assam was particularly good. Darjeeling flavor was not equal to that of last year. Dooars was hardly up to 1906, while Cachar and Sylhet have probably been rather better. Travancore should have done fairly well. The average price of Indian tea during 1907 was 8.32d., against 7.48d. in 1906, and 7.80d. in 1905; from 1st July to 31st December 1907, 8.34d. against 7.95d. in 1906 and 7.80d. in 1905.

"Ceylon—The quality has not shown material change, being of a satisfactory nature. Some of the higher grown estates have as usual given nice, flavory teas, while those in the low country appear to have derived benefit from the higher cultivation of recent years. Average price for 1907 8.00d. against 7.19d. in 1906 and 6.99d. in 1905, and from 1st July to end of December 7.91d., against 7.34d. in 1906 and 7.20d. in 1905.

"Natal—Another feature of the past year was the quantity of Natal tea sold in London. This is doubtless to some extent owing to the higher prices obtainable for this class of tea.

"Green Tea—Both India and Ceylon continue to manufacture this, but not upon the scale of some four or five years ago. The total exported from India during the year was about 1,500,000 lbs., and from Ceylon 5,250,000 lbs.

"Java—The output continues to increase and appears likely to show further advances during the next few years. Tea exported in 1906 was 27,760,000 lbs. The tendency of the quality has been towards improvement, owing to the number of gardens planted with Indian seed. These teas are now largely used in home consumption. Average price during 1907 7.37d., 1906, 6.00d. and 1905 5.70d.

COFFEE—Business locally is quiet at steady prices. In regard to the general situation Willett & Gray, in their weekly review, say :

"The speculative markets have ruled steady, but in consequence of the holidays the business done of late was unimportant. In the actual market, however, quite considerable transactions have been put through by some of the larger houses in the trade, who not only wish to be provided for the improvement in business, but appear to attach due importance to the better sentiment that prevails regarding the general position of coffee. The merchandise is carried with greater ease financially than any other commercial commodity, and the relation of production to consumption is such that a heavy reduction of stocks must occur from month to month. As an evidence of the commencing smaller crop movement the stocks at Santos and Rio have decreased during December about 500,000 bags, and the markets there as a result are firmer, with a good demand. In fact, there is a large inquiry for nearly all grades of good quality, selections bringing increased premiums.

"This foreshadows a closer competition from consuming markets, for it is well known that the range of selections in port stocks in this country and in Europe is very limited, outside the Government coffees, and these are firmly held out of the market, with no idea of selling them unless at much higher values than now and until the trade shall seek the coffee at those prices. The Government project is strongly adhered to and is now much more apparent of ultimate success, since it was based upon decreased production now so certain, when two crops together (the current and next Rio and Santos crops) will probably be no more than the one large season of 1906-07, and consumption larger from year to year. In the meantime the mild coffee countries report smaller crops, and especially this season.

"The coffee trade starts the new year with good prospects on the natural influence of supply and demand."

SUGAR—An advance of 10c on all grades was made at the end of the week. This seems to be in sympathy with the American markets, and the advance there seems to be the result of speculation on the part of New York refiners. The long-looked-for official estimate of the Cuban crop was issued last week by Messrs. Guma-Mejer. They estimate that there is sufficient cane to make a crop of 1,165,000 tons. This estimate is somewhat in excess of that of some of the principal planters. In any case, the quantity named may be regarded as the maximum production attainable under the most favorable conditions.

SOME NEW MARKET REPORTS.

Cotton, dropping; particularly in shirt collars in warm weather.

Groceries, with a downward tendency; all good groceries have this tendency, particularly sugar and preserves.

Mackerel, without change; but they have a good many greenbacks among them.

Oats, dull; the horses are of quite a different opinion. So are all young gentlemen who "feed their oats."

Flour, quiet; except when mixed with yeast; then it rises and is anything but quiet.

Shingles, steady; when they are well nailed down; otherwise the wind is apt to blow them off.

Pork, heavy; it should never be eaten for supper as it is apt to produce nightmare.

Corn, active; all corns are particularly active as the season advances.

Whisky, unchanged; except when made into whisky punch.

Wool, quiet; except when people get into each other's wool.

STOCK-TAKING DINNER.

On Friday evening last, the staff of W. G. Patrick & Co., manufacturers' agents, Toronto, were very hospitably entertained at the residence of the firm's head, it being the occasion of their annual stock-taking dinner. A pleasant feature of the gathering was the presentation of a water-color to Mr. Patrick, made on behalf of the staff by F. J. Blackburn, an evidence of the esteem in which the recipient is held by his employes.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

Both cheese and butter have been gradually growing firmer during the last two weeks and this week has seen a further appreciation. In regard to cheese this seems to be the result primarily of the fact that the Canadian market is known to be none too well supplied. It is readily admitted that stocks are low and with this and the estimates of the lower than usual make in England the situation, just now, in the middle of the winter, with receipts exceedingly light, is rather precarious.

Receipts of cheese last week amounted to 127 boxes, as against 256 boxes in the corresponding week a year ago. Total receipts for season May 1st, 1907, to 4th January, 1908, were 2,052,978 boxes, against 2,347,720 for the same period a year previous.

The receipts of butter for the week ending Jan. 4, 1908, were 976 packages, in comparison with 1,857 a year ago. Total receipts for season, May 1st to Jan. 4, 1908, were 405,906, as against 600,521 during the same period last year.

Creamery is quoted about 2c above last week's prices. Dairy is somewhat more plentiful and has advanced a cent.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

The dullness in the Canadian hog markets still continues, though the situation is slightly better than at last report. Notwithstanding the fact that prices offered have been gradually climbing up the farmers still seem to be indifferent as to selling their hogs and deliveries have been exceedingly light.

Prices offered in Ontario are much in advance of those in the United States where deliveries even at the lower levels are quite free. "Why," said a large local packer to The Grocer yesterday, "if this condition of affairs keeps on here the American packers will be dumping hogs in here on us before we know what we are doing." The situation is very peculiar but will probably be relieved shortly.

The British market is still depressed and is about on the same basis as during the last two or three weeks. The Danes still keep shipping about the usual supplies, last week's killings being about 35,000.

Prices offered for hogs locally are as follows: F.O.B. country points, $5.50 to $5.60; fed and watered, $5.75, and off cars at factory, $5.90 to $6.

The American situation is summed up by the New York Journal of Commerce as follows.

"The past week has witnessed increased activity in future hog products on increased receipts of hogs. Packers have been free sellers of products, without apparently raiding the market to break hogs further, the present basis of prices seeming to be acceptable to both farmers and packers. Stocks of lard decreased sharply during the month, but there was only a small falling off in pork and a sharp gain in meats of all kinds. Home consumption has been reduced by the late panic, while the cash trade are carrying no stock beyond immediate wants. There has been some improvement in the demand for domestic cuts of meats since the new year, as stocks had been nearly exhausted previously and there is a better jobbing demand and packers are holding prices more steadily than for the last few weeks, but they have not recovered from the recent decline. Exporters have taken a little city lard and some beef, but otherwise have done very little."

MONTREAL.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

The chief event of the week in the grocery trade is the advance of ten cents in sugars. Coffees are also a little higher and the prices of teas are fully maintained. In other staples there is very little change.

Wholesalers who have figured up business of the past year express themselves as most gratified with the showing, increases being general. One firm offered a gold watch to the traveler bringing in the most orders during the year and the result of the competition that ensued is seen in a most substantial increase all round. Travelers are all out on the road again after the holidays, and every one of them is optimistic as to the outlook. Collections are fairly good.

The two big grocery manufacturing concerns appear to be flourishing as never before. Gorman, Eckert & Co., in their new and larger premises, find increased business equal to their enlarged facilities and should they outgrow them they will be equal to all emergencies. The London Spice and Grocery Company is another concern that has had a good year, their sales having been some ten per cent. in excess of last year. They, too, regard the outlook as bright; in fact, throughout the trade here the feeling is one of optimism.

The assignment is announced of R. J. O'Neil, grocer, West London. The evident cause is that there were too many in the business in the former suburb. There are still four grocery stores over there and enough to meet all needs.

The chief business to come before the Retail Grocers' Association at the regular meeting on Wednesday night is the proposal to admit travelers to membership and the annual banquet. Regarding the former there seems, as far as can be learned, no objection to taking in the men with the grips. As for the banquet it is proposed to make it a big affair, and a strong committee of arrangements will be appointed. The function will likely take place before the snow leaves.

There does not appear to be the amount of fresh sea fish in the stores that has been seen in other winters. Ordinarily at this season of the year, fresh cod, sea herring, etc., are easily obtained; this year people have to be satisfied with haddies and canned goods. The latter, for some reason or other, appear to have lost favor and sell very slowly, so that the haddie has the call. The mild weather is given as the reason for the scarcity of fresh sea fish.

WILL THEY PAY IN SUGAR?

Peculiar Situation Among Beet Growers in Ontario.

The growers of sugar beets in Ontario county are facing a queer situation. A rather fair acreage was sown last year and the beets shipped to the Berlin factory in good order. No returns were got from the company as yet, and the latest reports are that the farmers will have to take their pay out in sugar. Tae company claims that sales are dull and that the banks will not advance on the sugar.

This means much to many tenant farmers, who have been expecting to pay their rents and fall expenses with these returns. Other farmers have gone extensively into the growing of beets, and they feel the inconvenience great. One person, near Pickering, has about $700 coming to him, and if this has to be paid in sugar, it would mean a great inconvenience and loss.

Many questions are being asked by farmers as to the legality of the thing. Will the farmers have to accept the sugar or nothing ?

BUSINESS IS BUSINESS.

Chicago News :—"You butchers certainly have a snap," remarked the grocer.

"How do you figure that out ?" queried the man behind the meat block.

"Why," answered the grocer, "you weigh the bones with the meat and charge meat prices for them."

"Well," rejoined the butcher, "I don't see where I get the bulge on you. When you sell cheese don't you weigh the holes and get cheese prices for them?"

C. L. Nicholson, general merchant, of Riceville, Ont., has assigned.

The grocery store of S. M. Fleet, Ingersoll, was damaged by fire last week.

DEATH OF TORONTO WHOLESALER.

Wm. Scott, of Scott Bros., Grocers, Passed Away Last Week.

On Thursday, January 2nd, death claimed another victim in the person of William Scott, of Scott Bros., wholesale grocers, Toronto. A few days previous he had been at his usual work when he was attacked with pneumonia and passed away suddenly. His death removes a prominent figure in business life.

For forty years Mr. Scott has been in close touch with the grocery and provision trade of Toronto. He was first associated with Thos. Davidson in the produce business and also in the manufacture of soap on Front St. east under the name of Davidson & Scott, and after the death of the former he continued in partnership with Wm. Davidson. Eventually he established the wholesale grocery firm of Scott Bros. and continued as head of the firm until his death. Mr. Scott leaves a widow and three sons.

CEREAL MARKETS FIRMER

Flour Markets Very Strong With Some Advances—Cereals Recovering After Holiday Dullness—Inspections Continue Large.

The markets generally are recovering more or less rapidly from the dullness experienced during the holiday season. Grain of all kinds has advanced slightly and the flour markets have recovered very rapidly and at time of writing are exceedingly strong. Prices have advanced at Montreal and eastern points but Ontario as yet continues on the old basis, though it may follow suit at any time.

Wheat inspections at Winnipeg on Monday were as follows: No. 1 northern, 6 cars; No. 2 northern, 11 cars; No. 3 northern, 46 cars; No. 4, 34 cars; No. 5, 39 cars; No. 6, 29 cars; winter wheat, 19 cars; other grades, 86 cars. The receipts were 270 cars, as against 256 last year. Other receipts were: Oats, 52 cars; barley, 7 cars, and flax, 16 cars.

The visible supply of wheat in Canada in passage between Toronto and Winnipeg and to the United States increased 1,820,000 bushels, compared with an increase of 1,041,000 in the corresponding week of 1907. Corn increased 994,000 bushels, compared with an increase of 1,204,000 a year ago. Oats increased 904,000 bushels. The supply of wheat at elevators in the two countries now is estimated at 48,481,000 bushels more than in 1907.

World's shipments during the week were approximately 7,963,000 bushels, compared with 8,680,000 bushels last week and 9,312,000 a year ago. With the exception of Russia, all of the various countries reported decreases. There were again no shipments from India.

Wheat on passage to Europe decreased 144,000 bushels, while corn increased 566,000 bushels.

The expansion in the milling industry in Western Canada during 1907 was remarkable ,and if it continues to develop at a similar rate during the next few years, the West will receive a double return on a large portion of its wheat crop. No less than 13,600 barrels have been added to the daily capacity of mills west of the great lakes, an increase of about 40 per cent. The daily out-turn of flour now amounts to 46,222 barrels, compared with 32,677 barrels a year ago.

SEIZED HAMILTON TEA.

United States Government Brings Action to Confiscate Large Shipment.

Recent news advice from Buffalo note that the United States Government has brought action in the United States District Court there to have declared forfeited thirty-one and a half cases of Ceylon tea seized at that port on May 14th last by Collector of Customs, Murray. The tea was brought into the country from Hamilton, Ont., by the firm of Balfour & McLaren.

It is claimed by the Government that the tea was first landed at New York in 1906, and because it was inferior in purity and fitness for consumption was rejected by the United States Board of General Appraisers and exported out of the United States to Canada. The Government alleges that this was an attempt to reimport the tea into this country after it had been condemned.

DEATH OF DR. F. J. SMALE.

Assistant General Manager of Davies Co. Succumbs to Operation.

The news of the death of Dr. F. J. Smale, assistant general manager of the William Davies Co., Toronto, on Friday, Jan. 3, was received with regret, not only by his associates and friends in the provision trade but also by a large circle of Toronto citizens.

Dr. Smale had been in poor health for some time and was forced a couple of months ago to leave business for, as was expected then, a short period. Six weeks ago he underwent an operation in Toronto but this not proving successful, he was taken about two weeks ago to a specialists' hospital at Rochester, Minnesota, and as a result of a second operation there he died on Friday, Jan. 3rd.

Dr. Smale was well and most favorably known among members of the packing trade. After an excellent education with scholarships which afforded him opportunities for technical work in Germany, he was employed for some years as lecturer in chemistry on the staff of the University of Toronto. Seven years ago he entered business life, beginning as chemist in the employ of the Wm. Davies Co. Here his talents and striking personality at once made a success and he was later promoted to the position of assistant general manager.

Outside of business Dr. Smale's admirable qualities gained him the regard of all who knew him. He was a man of sterling principle and this with a brilliant mind made up a most striking personality. He leaves a widow and four small children.

The funeral was held on Monday afternoon from the family residence, 76 Glen Road.

A BOOKLET ABOUT CREAM.

The Canadian Grocer has received from Fussell & Co., the manufacturers of the "Butterfly" brand of cream and canned milks, an interesting little booklet entitled "All About Cream and 70 Useful Recipes."

This is a neat little brochure, printed in red and black, with an attractive pale blue and gold cover. The earlier pages are devoted to a chat about cream, wherein it is claimed that the "Golden Butterfly" brand of cream is not in any way a substitute, but the genuine article, put up fresh and mechanically treated in sterilized tins. Not only can it be used for every purpose to which fresh dairy cream is put, but it is stated that it constitutes an excellent infants' and invalids' food. There is a couple of pages of testimonials from the press and other sources, followed by seventy recipes, demonstrating how Fussell's Pure Thick Cream can be used with sweets, soups, fish, savouries, etc. The latter part of the booklet deals with Fussell's "Green," "White," "Silver" and "Red Butterfly" brands of natural, cream, evaporated and condensed milks. Copies of this booklet for distribution may be had on application to the firm's headquarters, 4 Monument St., London, England and by mention of this journal.

GATHERING OF TRAVELERS.

Three New Men Added to Melagama's Toronto Staff.

The offices of Minto Bros., proprietors of Melagama Tea, Toronto, were pretty well filled on Saturday by a gathering of the firm's travelers after a couple of weeks' holidays.

Three new men have been added to the traveling staff recently, Robertson Morton, and Messrs. Percy and Dailey of Buffalo, and these were there with the old men.

F. J. White, the company's manager, who has just returned with Mrs. White from a two weeks' trip to Atlantic City and other points across the border, spoke to the "boys," telling something of the growth of the firm during the last two years and instilling some new enthusiasm for the work of the new year.

R. Y. Fish, general merchant, of Linwood, Ont., has made an assignment.

The National Matza and Biscuit Co. has been recently incorporated with a capital of $40,000. The object of the company is to manufacture all kinds of foodstuffs and supplies used in Jewish festivals. The head office will be in Toronto.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Cranberries Weaker and Quotably Lower—No Noticeable Changes in Vegetables—Fish Business Brisker.

A lull is to be observed in the fruit market. This is natural after the heavy holiday buying. Business will likely be slow for some time. Oranges are steady and firm. Mexicans have advanced some points. Murcia oranges, a sour, Spanish variety, somewhat like Valencias, are on the market. The first shipment of Arizona navels has arrived. Lemons are fairly steady. A decline in the price of cranberries is to be noted. This is not unexpected, as the ruling prices have been too high for the retailer to handle them profitably.

Vegetables are rather slow. Potatoes have a firmer tone. No advances have resulted. A steady demand exists for all lines of domestic vegetables. Imported lines are arriving freely, and meeting with a fair demand. California celery is selling well.

Business is brisker in all lines of fish, and shows a marked improvement. Ciscoes and whitefish are scarce. Shipments of herring, halibut and cod arrive regularly.

MONTREAL.

FISH—The demand for fish during the last two weeks has been quiet, owing to the holiday season showing preference to turkeys, chickens and geese. However, trade is now rapidly picking up and shaping round again. Quotations show many changes over those ruling one week ago.

GREEN FRUITS—Business is quieter which is only natural after the hum of holiday trade. Oranges are firmer, though no noticeable advances have resulted. What is claimed to be the first solid car of Arizona navels arrived during the week. Murcia oranges, a sour Spanish variety, are being quoted. Lemons remain steady at old prices. Grape fruit is in fair demand. No material change is reported in bananas. Almerias are moving fairly freely. APPLE SHIPPERS BLAMED.

Liverpool Buyers Complain Seriously of This Year's Grading.

For some little time past there has been a strong feeling of disappointment among Liverpool fruit buyers in regard to the grading of Canadian apples, says a recent number of the Liverpool Journal of Commerce. It is understood that some representation has been made to the Canadian Agricultural Department. In the course of an interview on the subject with a representative of the Liverpool Journal of Commerce, Mr. William A. Crouch, of Messrs. Smith & Crouch, said :

"So far as the quality of the Canadian apple crops is concerned, the reports which were sent to us have turned out correct. But unfortunately the packing has been worse than can be remembered for many years. This is unfortunate in the extreme, because for some years past we had been able to rely upon Canadian apples as regards quality, packing and grading. This year however, grading is seriously at fault, whilst the barrels are incorrectly branded, which causes endless inconvenience and annoyance, insomuch as practically every barrel has to be opened and examined before a dealer dare send it from his store.

"Such a rigid examination as we now have to enforce was unnecessary in previous years, as well known brands could always be relied upon to turn out up to the original sample. On the grading system that was adopted Canadian apples were branded No. 1 and No. 2, the former being the first quality and the latter the second quality. This year in many instances the barrels branded No. 1 turn out No. 2 and very inferior even at that. How this can occur with the supervision that is supposed to exist in Canada it is difficult to understand. The general result, however, is that the various fruit trade associations will enter vigorous protests to the Canadian authorities, who are supposed to supervise the packing of apples previous to shipment, whilst packers branding barrels unfairly will be mulcted in heavy fines. There can be no doubt that the results this year show a serious laxity somewhere, and its continuance will mean serious financial trouble for growers, packers and shippers."

MEMBERS MAKE MERRY.

Montreal Board of Trade Celebrate Passing of the Year.

Members of the Montreal Board of Trade made merry on 'Change, December 31, for the time being forgetting that they were sedate business men with extensive interests commanding their care and attention. From the oldest member to the newest, from the president down, everybody forgot about, and cared less for the price of corn, the sugar market, the metal situation, to become a boy again.

They gave the old year a vigorous push as they annually do. There was singing, piano playing, a snowshoe race, and a tug-of-war, to say nothing of the "fluctuating" grain which was flying in all directions, some of the time virtually "raining."

The tug-of-war was between the bald-headed men and those with hair on their head. When this was announced a great many donned their headgear, while those with a luxuriant growth ostentatiously took their hats off. The bald-headed team won. "Jack" Reid, the tea man, was on the winning team, and is now trying to explain to his friends how he comes to possess a fine head of black hair. Perhaps the fact that he has good pulling strength will explain matters, when considered with the fact that bald-headed men were very scarce when the call for volunteers was made.

THE KINNEAR HOCKEY TEAM.

Officers Elected at Annual Meeting Last Week.

The hockey enthusiasts of the T. Kinnear Co. have been busy recently, and at the annual meeting on Monday evening, December 30th, the year's outlook was outlined.

Among other business the following officers were elected:

Hon. President, Thomas Kinnear; Hon. Vice-President, James McLean; President, W. B. Campbell; Vice-President, A. E. Cutler; Secretary-Treasurer, G. H. Rennie; Captain, Tom H. Kinnear; Patrons, F. Anderson, A. G. Fleming, W. J. Ramsay, J. Weater, B. Keyes, A. H. Lawson, G. J. Gould, E. G. Bingham, Geo. T. Morris, J. B. McRae, E. J. Peters, J. G. Hardill.

The Kinnear team will be a strong one this year, and it hopes to wrest the championship of the Toronto Wholesale Grocery League from the Grocery Brokers, last year's champions.

GAVE DINNER TO STAFF.

Toronto and Winnipeg Members of Holbrooks, Limited, Enjoy Dinner and Theatre Party.

The blending of all the good things that go to make up Holbrooks' Sauce must have an inspiring effect upon its representatives, if the dinner given by its Canadian manager, H. Gilbert Nobbs, to the company's Manitoba agents, Brock & Kirkland, is a criterion. The dinner was held in the French room of the St. Charles, Toronto, on Thursday evening last, and a jolly time was spent. Afterward, Mr. Nobbs, who is characteristically an enthusiast, gave a stimulating address to the staff, encouraging them to more active work in the New Year.

Afterward the party adjourned to the Royal Alexandra Theatre and occupied a couple of boxes for the performance of "The School for Scandal."

Those present included H. Gilbert Nobbs, Canadian manager; W. H. Seyler, of The Canadian Grocer; H. Musham, superintendent of demonstrators; Mr. McLean, representative for Western Ontario; A. Smith, city representative; Mr. Lewis, Eastern Ontario; Mr. Porter and Misses Langton and Davis, demonstrators.

OYSTERS

Few people realize the amount of labor and capital required to produce a first-class grade of cultivated oysters. To obtain their proper size they must be 5 years old; be transplanted at least twice when they become too thick to other grounds; the grounds must be continually patrolled and dragged to capture the spear fish, which pierces the young oyster and destroys it. They must be gathered, opened, washed, measured, shipped, practically the same day to ensure freshness.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

Wholesale trade is now experiencing seasonable quietness, stock-taking being the order of the day in the warehouses. Payments are generally good, and travelers will return to the road on Thursday, full of confidence as to the future.

Retailers, who have figured up the results of the Christmas trade, report receipts to be about equal those of a year ago. One well-known Richmond street grocer remarked: "There is scarcely a dollar difference between our receipts this season and last." Said another: "Business has been even better with me this season than last—at least, my books show it." In other lines of trade business has been far less satisfactory than a year ago. One grocer explains this thus: "You see, the Christmas sales of the dry goods, the hardware, and other dealers are largely what might be termed extra purchases—that is, goods intended as presents, and if people run short of funds the effect is more seriously felt in those lines than in ours. The grocer deals almost exclusively in necessaries, which, of course, people must have. Moreover, the man is hard up indeed who will stint himself in eatables at this holiday season; so that we feel the money tightness very little." Retailers, as a whole, are optimistic as to the future.

In the eastern and southeastern sections of the city are a few grocers who rely for trade almost entirely upon the employes of the big industries near by; when any of the latter close down the grocer feels the pinch. Just now several factories have ceased operations, presumably for stock-taking, and if they do not resume pretty soon there will be an impairment of credit among the idle ones, which cannot but be to the disadvantage of all concerned.

Chas. H. Lee, who until a few months ago conducted the New York store, (grocery), on Dundas street, has purchased an interest in the Canada Spice & Grocery Company, and is now acting as assistant manager of that concern.

A prominent resident of St. Thomas is trying to interest London capitalists in a proposition to establish another big canning factory here. He has had wide experience in the canning business, and is interested in several of the largest companies in the province. It is understood a meeting will be held shortly with the object of forming a company.

Some price-cutting is being openly done in the outskirts of the city, but, to their credit be it said, none of the members of the Retail Grocers' Association are concerned in it. Efforts are being made to bring the offenders to time.

The Travelers' Club held its annual meeting on Saturday night, December 28th, and elected these officers: Hon. president, Hon. C. S. Hyman; Hon. vice-presidents, H. E. Buttrey, Donald Ferguson, C. W. Wood, A. H. Moran, F. S. Fisher, J. M. Ferguson, E. Paull; auditors, J. T. Green, J. R. Spry. The finances of the club were found to be in a splendid condition. C. W. McGuire, J. L. Whitehead and F. J. Lind, the retiring president, auditor and secretary, respectively, were during the evening made the recipients of handsome presents.

HOCKEY SEASON BEGINS.

Schedule of Games in Toronto Wholesale Grocers' League.

An enthusiastic meeting of the subcommittee of the Toronto Wholesale Grocers' Hockey League was held on Monday evening to arrange the schedule of games for the year, which is given herewith. As will be seen, the first game is to be played to-night, from 9 to 10 p.m., at Varsity Rink, between the Brokers, last year's champions, and T. Kinnear & Co. C. S. Morrow, the league's official referee, will be on hand.

The schedule is as follows:

January 10th—Brokers at T. Kinnear & Co.
January 17th—James Lumbers Co. at Brokers.
January 24th—T. Kinnear & Co. at James Lumbers Co.
January 31st—T. Kinnear & Co. at Brokers.
February 7th—Brokers at James Lumbers Co.
February 14th—James Lumbers Co. at T. Kinnear & Co.

The games ought to be mighty close this year, and should draw a good deal of interest, as there will be several new faces on each team.

TRADE NEWS OF NEW BRUNSWICK

New Year's Trade Good, Though Business is Now Quieter—Oatmeal Declined—Fish Receipts Continue Light.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 6.—There has been somewhat of a lull in business since the holiday season, and merchants are recovering from the strenuous work incident to supplying their customers with the good things demanded at the festive season. As was the case with Christmas, the New Years trade was about equal to previous years, and now that the rush is over accounts are being sent out and preparations made for stock taking.

The majority of the wholesalers have finished taking stock and the travelers have again resumed their pilgrimages to various points in the Maritime Provinces.

There has been little or no change in prices lately. Oatmeal has dropped 25 cents a barrel, and middlings, in carlots, is off somewhat. Oatmeal is now quoted at $6.25 to $6.30 for roller, and $6.75 to $6.85 for standard. Granulated cornmeal is offered at $4.25 to $4.50. Manitoba flours are offered at $6.75 to $6.85, and Ontarios at $5.65 to $585. Sugars hold firm, and are quoted as follows: Standard granulated, $4 to $4.50; Austrian granulated, $4 to $4.10; Bright yellow, $4.20 to $4.30; No. 1 yellow, $3.90 to $4. Paris lumps, $5.10 to $5.25; pulverized, 5¾ to 6 cents.

The receipts of fresh fish during the past week have not been up to the mark, as the weather has been unfavorable. All down the bay, high winds and gales have prevailed, as well as rough, thick weather. No increase is looked for until after the middle of January. Many schooners have taken up lobster fishing. There has been no marked change in price and the demand is light.

Local retailers report a good business in oysters, which, owing to the scarcity, sell at 75 cents to $1 a quart, the latter price for P.E.I. stock.

DINNER TO TRAVELERS.

New Brunswick Firm Entertains Salesman and Presentation Follows.

The home of Harry W. de Forest, the proprietor of the Union Blend tea establishment, was the scene of a very enjoyable gathering on Friday evening, December 27, when he entertained his salesmen at dinner. A pleasing feature of the event was the presentation to Mr. de Forest of a very handsome picture, entitled, "Troubled Waters." During the evening plans for the new year were talked over and some very excellent musical numbers were rendered by members of the staff. Several congratulatory addresses were made and the function proved very enjoyable.

Those present were: Mr. Mattheson, of the Boston branch; Mr. Sellers, of Newfoundland; Mr. Chapman, of Maine; C. H. Howell, the local manager; Noel F. Sheraton, bookkeeper at the St. John office, and Messrs. Brown, Ellis, Sinclair, Clements, Williams and Chesman, the Maritime Province representatives for Mr. de Forest.

During the morning following this function the members of the staff called upon Manager Howell and presented him with a nicely framed picture, as a token of their good will. Mr. Howell, though taken completely by surprise, expressed his appreciation in a brief but appropriate address.

NOVA SCOTIA TRADE EXTENSIVE

Something About Business With West Indies—Business Prosperous in All Lines —Sugar and Molasses Imports.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 6.

The grocery trade in Halifax during the holiday season was very good, but since then the usual quietness at this time of the year has prevailed, and will likely continue for some weeks. The grocers are now busily engaged in taking stock, and putting their stores in shape after the rush of business.

In every particular, Canada's trade with the West Indies during 1907 exceeded that of any previous year. Not only was the business done in the usual line away ahead of former years, but several new lines of trade were opened up and an extensive business was done. Last year, for the first time, Canadian sheep, poultry, swine and cattle were sent to the West Indies, while in return cotton was received here for the first time.

Business has prospered in all lines, said W. A. Black, of Pickford & Black's steamship line. "The importations of fruit have been well above the average, particularly bananas, oranges and pineapples. More sugar has come up than in any previous year, while the importations of cocoanuts and peanuts have also been large. Cotton has been brought here for shipment to England during the past year. This is an entirely new industry in the West Indies, and its success will prove a great benefit to the islands.

Agricultural products, particularly flour, oats and butter, were also the chief items of export during the past year. A new departure has been taken by the Governments of Trinidad and Tobago during 1907 in importing swine and poultry for the government experimental farms. Choice stock only was wanted, and as much of this was secured at the Maritime Winter Fair at Amherst, N.S., this opens up another possibility to the farmers of the Maritime Provinces.

Many choice beef cattle were also imported during the year. Another article shipped for the first time was barrel staves, of which a considerable quantity was sent south. "The outlook for trade in the islands is very bright," said Mr. Black, "and one of the chief reasons why Canadian merchants are finding an increased market there, is the improved methods in shipping."

"Canada would benefit by a reciprocal trade arrangement with the West Indies," said Mr. T. M. Cutler, manager of the Acadia Sugar Refining Company, to The Grocer correspondent. "But to what extent I am unable to say until such arrangement is given a thorough test."

"There is no reason why Canada's trade with the southern British colonies should not be largely increased," declared Mr. Cutler, but to bring this about our transportation facilities will have to be very greatly increased. At the present time the steamships and the railways are unable to handle the business expeditiously, and until there is some improvement along these lines any trade arrangement would not bring about the desired result. Of course, faster boats and a weekly service in place of a fortnightly service would be bound to improve trade, but these fast steamers would, no doubt, have to be heavily subsidized, as there may be periods during the season when full cargoes would not be available.

"Then, again, the railways cannot commence to handle the business. In fact, at the present the railways have all they can do to keep up with the business. It is true that some improvements have been made at Halifax, the line double-tracked from here to Windsor Junction, and also another section from Painsee to Moncton, which relieves to some extent the congestion that existed in the past, but before freight passing through this port can be handled promptly, the whole section of the line will have to be double-tracked, and more motive power procured.

"The Maritime Provinces are the natural ports for the handling of all West India traffic for Canadian points. Some time ago," said Mr. Cutler, "the Canadian Government offered a preference on West India products landed at Canadian ports, but owing to the lack of transportation the most of this freight has been lost to our ports. Instead it has been taken to New York and carried on to Montreal. The handling of large quantities of West India products through Maritime ports would build up the business, and give a large amount of employment to our laborers. Besides, business men want their goods delivered promptly, and the transportation companies must keep abreast of the times."

The total imports of raw sugar at the port of Halifax for the year ending December 31, 1907 from the British West Indies and British Guiana, were 45,880 tons, a decrease of 3,464 tons, as compared with those of 1906. The imports of molasses show an increase of 3,313 puncheons, 847 tierces, and a decrease of 7,547 barrels.

W. A. Major, R. G. Dun & Co.'s manager in this Province, in his annual review of trade, says: Nova Scotia, on the whole, appears to be upon a substantial basis—the manufacturer and wholesale trade, have, for some time, been preparing for a temporary financial tightness, and the majority of the retail storekeepers are not stocked up beyond prudent limits. There has also been less of a speculative movement apparent during the past three or four years, and the Province will likely come through the winter in at least as good, if not better, condition than that of any of the other Provinces—with the exception perhaps of Prince Edward Island, where crops and business conditions have been maintained fully up to the average. Failures increased somewhat in number and liability over those of 1906, although outside of two or three, none of the embarrassments were of great importance —in fact, a good many of them had been pretty well discounted for some time previous.

In groceries, the year's business was at least up to 1906—the distribution from Halifax city is believed to have been larger than ever before.

Crops have been plentiful. In the fruit districts there will be a large amount of money distributed this winter as a result of the ready demand, good prices, and profitable shipments.

Fishery conditions have been good. The catch was larger than last year, but the unfavorable weather operated against the drying, and this has caused a quantity of damp fish being thrown on the market, and the movement was slow with prices ruling low. The stock of fish marketed in good condition has been working off, however, at a reasonably good price.

Payments generally have kept up well throughout the year.

TAKES OPTIMISTIC VIEW.

Concerted Action by Business Men Will Quickly Relieve Situation.

F. W. Thompson, vice-president and managing director of the Ogilvie Flour Mills Company, Montreal, in speaking to The Canadian Grocer the other day, voiced the opinion of many leading business men in speaking of the present rather strained financial situation. He said that there could be no doubt as to the ultimate outcome, as Canada, being a young country with a magnificent future ahead of it, was bound to resume its former triumphant march of progress, and this setback in financial affairs could not be regarded as more than a temporary halt. Much of the talk going around was entirely too pessimistic in tone, and not what was to be expected of modern business men. While there was ground for a certain degree of pessimism, nevertheless an optimistic vein would do untold good at the present time. The powerful newspapers of the country were many of them staunch supporters of the pessimistic brigade, unfortunately, instead of being leaders in the movement to restore confidence. There were some papers, however, which were doing the right thing, and these deserved the highest measure of praise.

In the opinion of Mr. Thompson, concerted action on the part of business men would do almost everything towards quickly bringing affairs back to their normal condition, while on the other hand continued "blue ruin" talk would do great harm and retard improvement.

CLERK HIRE COSTS MORE THAN

Allison Coupon Books

The time the books save is worth many times their cost.

This fact alone is enough to warrant their general use. But there is the added advantage that the account keeping is done better and business friction eliminated.

If a Man Wants Credit

for $10.00 and you think he is good for it, give him a $10.00 Allison Coupon Book, and have him sign the receipt or note form in front of book, which you tear out and keep. Charge him with $10.00, no trouble. When he buys a dime's worth, tear off a ten-cent coupon, and so on, until the book is used up. Then he pays the $10.00 and gets another book. No pass-books, no charging, no lost time, no errors, no disputes.

Allison Coupon Books are recognized everywhere as the best.

Don't work overtime to get out the accounts, or search vainly through a pile of books to discover a mistake. Install a modern Crain Loose Leaf System. It will reduce your bookkeeping.

Handy Self Indexed Ledger with all live accounts instead of a bulky bound one half full of dead or closed accounts. The work is simplified. The accounts are always up to date.

Write and tell us what is the nature of your business and we will show you how to improve your office system.

Talking to the Point

CLASSIFIED WANT ADS get right down to the point at issue. If you want something, say so in a few well-chosen words. Readers like that sort of straight-from-the-shoulder-talk, and that is the reason why condensed ads are so productive of the best kind of results.

CLASSIFIED WANT ADS are always noticed. They are read by wide-awake, intelligent grocers, who are on the look-out for favorable opportunities to fill their requirements.

ESTABLISHED 1879

It is an old English saying that "of a good beginning cometh a good end."

We have witnessed many a "good beginning" both at this season and a later date in the year, and the words have proved true.

For the "good end" always came to the grocer in the shape of increased trade and great profit when he "begun" by adopting as his leaders.

There is, however, no "end" to the volume of trade an enterprising man can work up with these fine and famous goods and our telling methods.

TRADE WITH ENGLAND

Every Canadian who wishes to trade successfully with the Old Country should read

"Commercial Intelligence"
(The address is 168 Fleet St., London, England)

The cost is only 6c. per week. (Annual subscription, including postage, $4.80).
Moreover, regular subscribers are allowed to advertise without charge in the paper. See the rules.

Cheap goods at any price are not what you want as a reputation builder.

If you handle Canadian Canners' goods you will keep your old customers and make new ones.

"Aylmer," "Little Chief," "Log Cabin," "Horseshoe," "Auto," "Kent," "Lynnvalley," "Maple Leaf," "Lion," "Thistle," "Grand River" and White Rose" Brands are all guaranteed as to quality. They have been popular brands for over a quarter of a century.

Fruits and vegetables of these brands are canned only when at their best for table use.

A New Style Package
QUAKER OATS

The grocers are not the only people having trouble this season.

The Oatmeal millers have been busy trying to keep up with the advance on grain—no easy thing to do with the unusual markets this Fall. It has been difficult enough on bulk Rolled Oats, but on package goods of fixed weight sold at a price which seldom varied from year to year, it proved a harder problem for the miller.

It finally became necessary to advance the price of Quaker Oats, a thing which has rarely been done in the history of this well known brand.

Now, another change has been necessary; to avoid a higher and awkward price to the consumer, the weight has been reduced to one and one-half pounds net,

And the Price Proportionately Reduced

For a short time, until the stocks of the old size package in the hands of the trade are consumed, there will be two sizes at different prices on the market.

If your stock of Quaker Oats is low, place an order with your wholesaler at once, or send it to us, naming the jobber through whom you wish it invoiced.

PETERBOROUGH

22 PER CENT.

Our increase in Canada alone in 1907 over 1906 amounts to 22 per cent. and this in our sixteenth year. This means for every four pounds we sold in Canada in 1906 we sold five pounds in 1907. Surely, this must be of interest to every grocer selling Tea in Canada. It speaks the confidence the consumer has in the merchant who always sells the best. It shows that the Tea trade is coming year after year to

"SALADA"

The following figures tell a story of progress, and "the history that "SALADA" has made" in the past sixteen years as the Tea of absolute reliability. What can speak more strongly for its quality?

The figures below are all branches combined in United States as well as Canada.

We had 123 per cent. increase in 1893 over 1892
We had 145 per cent. increase in 1894 over 1893
We had 115 per cent. increase in 1895 over 1894
We had 85 per cent. increase in 1896 over 1895
We had 86 per cent. increase in 1897 over 1896
We had 39 per cent. increase in 1898 over 1897
We had 34 per cent. increase in 1899 over 1898
We had 18 per cent. increase in 1900 over 1899
We had 15 per cent. increase in 1901 over 1900
We had 11 per cent. increase in 1902 over 1901
We had 25½ per cent. increase in 1903 over 1902
We had 12 per cent. increase in 1904 over 1903
We had 18 per cent. increase in 1905 over 1904
We had 23 per cent. increase in 1906 over 1905
We had 18½ per cent. increase in 1907 over 1906

No firm or corporation in the world ever gave such cup quality.

Our 18½ per cent. increase in 1907 over 1906 amounted to more pounds of "SALADA" than our total output was in the first five years we were in business.

By far the largest tea trade in America. Highest Award and Gold Medal, St. Louis, 1904.

There is an

between Sealshipt Oysters and the other kind. And it is a difference which, if you grasp the opportunity, will enable you to corner the high-class oyster trade of your locality. Here is the difference.

Ordinary oysters come in wooden tubs, mixed with chunks of filthy ice and other unhealthy substances inadequately covered by a loose dust and germ admitting lid. That's why the ordinary oysters are so flabby and flavorless. But come in hermetically sealed, air and water-tight, germ proof, steel cans surrounded by clean cracked ice, which preserves without touching the oysters. Result: clean, fine-flavored, healthy meaty oysters, free from water.

Profitable Goods

Are the goods that are a little better than the others: goods that will make sales where the others won't. Ozo Brand Pickles are good pickles, and show their quality. We have special facilities for turning out the best pickles, and we have made the most of them. For instance, we provide the seed from which the vegetables are grown and so get the best from the start; the cucumbers go straight from the vine to the factory, so that none of the fresh crispness is lost. We make our own vinegar and it cannot be beaten for pickling purposes. It will certainly pay you to specify that you want our goods when ordering pickles.

Prize-Winning Christmas Windows

Results of The Grocer's Recent Competition With Reproductions and Descriptions of the Favored Entries—Awards Go to Grocers' Clerks in Brantford, Walkerton, Brandon and Toronto.

The judges faced a mighty big pile of photos of grocery windows when they started in to do their work of selection last week. And quite a task it was. There were big photos and little photos, some mounted and some prints all curled up. There were some taken by the best photographers in the various towns from which they came, and some, and not the worst ones, either, snap shots by amateurs. There were windows filled with candy, and windows filled with fruit, some with goods all enclosed in glass cases, some where the currants and raisins and nuts and figs and dates and oranges, and etc., etc., all lay in heaps or in boxes. Some windows were exclusively displays of groceries. Others had Santa Clauses with fat packs on their backs, or chimneys with suggestive-looking bulging stockings of both long and short variety, hung in front to attract and were incidental displays of the good things in the store as suggestions. The windows here reproduced, which, by the way, are very different in nature, are good representations of four of these styles.

The judging was done on a basis as follows: The first consideration was the real attractive power of the window, which, after all, is the main thing, how many people it will bring into the store, and secondly, the artistic ability displayed in the process of dressing was considered.

It will be remembered that this year the contest has been carried on under new lines, namely, the entries were divided into two classes, Class I. including those from cities and Class II. those from the towns and villages, with a view to putting the contestants, as far as possible, on an equal basis. Accordingly the prizes have been awarded as follows:

Class I.

1st prize—Window dressed by J. C. Ecklin, clerk with J. Blood, 419 Yonge street, Toronto.

First Prize Window, Class I., Dressed by J. C. Ecklin, Toronto.

2nd prize—Window dressed by Delmere D. Butler, clerk with Fred C. Harp, 104 Dalhousie street, Brantford.

Class II.

1st prize—Window dressed by Iden Tolton, with Whitehead & Huether, of Walkerton, Ont.

2nd prize—Window dressed by E. A. Reed, clerk with W. Dowling & Co., of Brandon, Man.

There was not a great deal of margin between these and the best of the other windows in each class, but after careful and lengthy consideration the judges unanimously agree on these as the best from both standpoints before mentioned. Quite a few really good windows were handicapped by being represented by very poor photographs, several contestants mentioning that conditions of light, etc., made it impossible to secure good pictures. In every case, however, this difficulty was taken into consideration by the judges. One of those here reproduced seems to have been affected by some outside lighting, but this, fortunately, did not interfere with the best part of the window display.

Descriptions of the prize-winning windows, as sent in by the contestants, are given herewith.

Regarding window No. 1, J. C. Ecklin who dressed it, writes as follows:

"Round the inside of the window was an evergreen trimming, with a sprig of holly here and there, covering all woodwork. Along the front of the window was placed a layer of the best quality of currants, on which was spelled, in loaf sugar, the two words, 'Xmas. Cheer,' while back of this was placed three platters of table raisins, with a bottle of cherries sitting behind them. The floor of the back part of the window was covered with cranberries inlaid with boxes of dates placed in zigzag form. Two rows of boxes were set back of this, one step higher than the other, which was covered with white bunting. On the first row a box of Huntley & Palmer's biscuits were placed at each end, topped by a bottle of wine, while next to these were placed two platters of mixed fruits, and next to these were two pyramids of Goodwillies' fruits, and comb honey, while in the centre was a platter of Huntley & Palmer's mixed biscuits. The back row was finished with a pyramid of canned tomatoes at each end, topped by a bottle of cherries, while next to these were two glass globes, one filled with shelled walnuts and the other with shelled almonds, and next to these were boxes of figs. In front of these were placed boxes of crystallized fruits. In the centre was a pyramid of Goodwillies' pears and comb honey. On the side shelves were placed pyramids of figs, package raisins and extracts."

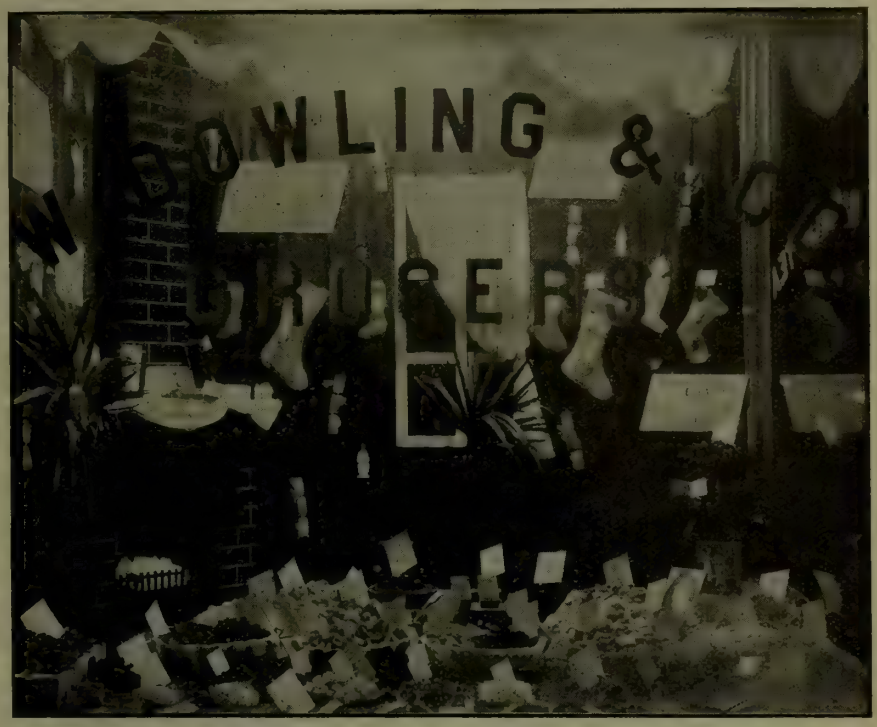
The second prize window in Class I. was sent in by Fred. C. Harp, the employer of Delmere Butler, the winner. No description was enclosed, but, as may be seen, the window brings out strongly the Christmas idea, with its white pillars decorated with holly and Christmas bells, and with the motto, which is somewhat amateurish-looking, by the way, on the beam across the top. This feature has been worked out very well, indeed, and with the bright colors introduced, the window must have looked exceedingly well. The candy and nuts in the base of the window may induce buying, but from an artistic point of view they look as if they were simply dumped in and left to take care of themselves. Much more shapely and attractive-looking piles might very easily have been made. One good feature of this window is the use of plainly-printed price tickets, and we venture to say that those pails labelled 20 cents a pound sold a good deal of candy during Christmas week.

In Class II. Whitehead & Huether, the Walkerton grocers, have forwarded the following description of the 1st prize window, dressed by Iden Tolton :

"The bottom of the window is dressed with re-cleaned currants and select Valencia raisins, divided by a row of good large navel oranges, with two small pyramids of oranges on either side and one large one in the centre, and a five-pound box of dessert raisins in front nearest the street. The background is made up as follows : Banked up to orange cases with package figs and centre of window has three cases dates and two more boxes of dessert raisins and a large glass jar of shelled walnuts, all topped off with a vase of fresh carnations. Price tickets are on everything, although they do not show very plainly in photo. In fact, it is quite difficult to get photo without some shadows or reflections. Price tickets on currants and raisins read as follows : 'Choice re-cleaned currants, 3 lbs. for 25c.' 'Choice Valencia raisins, 3 lbs. for 25c.' "



Second Prize Window, Class II., Dresse d by E. A. Reid, Brandon.

First Prize Window, Class II., Dressed by Iden Tolton, Walkerton.

E. A. Reed, clerk for W. Dowling & Co., Brandon, Man., sent in a candy window, with a suggestive-looking chimney and fire-place, stockings and all, as an added attraction. Mr. Reed's interesting description of the second-prize window is as follows :

"As candies, etc., are one of our leading side lines, the entire window is devoted to such. The absence of fruit and bottled goods is accounted for by the extreme cold, making it necessary to have the interior of the window almost as cold as out-doors to avoid it frosting over. The very attractive color effect of the window is lost in the photo, the background being of red cheese cloth hung with white of the same, and bright colored novelties, as the photo shows. The grate or fire-place is of red cloth over a wooden frame, painted with white ink to represent brick, the fire being an electric light covered with red paper, topped with lumps of coal and alum, having a very striking resemblance to a real fire. On the mantle shelf are fancy boxes of chocolates, while under it are hung four filled stockings to represent Santa Claus' work. The bottom is of different varieties of nuts, to represent a tiled floor, on which are placed baskets and dishes of candies, nuts, raisins, boxes of chocolates, etc. Everything has the name and price on it, the name being there makes it much easier for the person to know what they want when entering the store. The cards are of white, printed in blue. Altogether the window has a very attractive, as well as pleasing, appearance, more especially when the lights are on. It was very much admired by the children, as well as grown-up people, and served well the purpose for which it was trimmed—that of selling Christmas candies, etc."

Some of the Other Windows.

Mention may very justly be made of several of the other windows submitted in each class. Very many of them have points of excellence which ought to be noted.

The Barnsdale Trading Co., of Stratford, submitted a series of windows, several of which deserve reproduction, though, unfortunately, the photographs will not permit of satisfactory cuts being made, A small window, especially, with a jolly-looking Santa in the process of going down a big chimney to a fiire-place below, as a centrepiece, showed considerable ingenuity.

Dan McClean, "The Kash Grocer," of Owen Sound, submits a window which is more than filled with Christmas groceries. The window offers a multitude of suggestions, but shows rather too many lines of goods.

Bruce & Sanderson, 377 Parliament street, Toronto, sent in a photograph of their splendid store front, showing a couple of excellent windows, but as the photograph was not of the windows, exclusively, it could scarcely be entered in the contest.

In Class II. there were also a large number of good windows, not one whit less better dressed than the ones from the cities.

Fink Mercantile Co., of Cranbrooke, B.C., submitted a particularly attractive window, showing crockery, bottled goods and well-built pyramids of Wagstaffe's jam pails. This was one of the best windows received and would have been among the prize-winners except that it could scarcely be regarded as complying with the conditions of the contest, in that no distinctly Christmas goods were displayed.

A window from J. B. Kemp, Pembroke, shows an attractive display of Batger's tinned goods, Goodwillie's jams and seasonable fruits and Christmas goods. While the window has many commendable features, its arrangement might be somewhat criticized.

J. H. Langhton, Parkhill, sent in an excellent window, built up mostly of bottled and package goods and dates, figs, raisins, etc., in boxes. While giving an impression of cleanliness and excellence of goods in the store, the window is rather stiff in treatment.

A Christmas window sent in by Harry Young, of Carne's grocery, Victoria, B. C., while it arrived too late to be considered in the contest, is particularly worthy of mention here. Of a distinct Christmas nature, it includes a small house covered with cotton wool, to represent snow, open at one side to show the interior, while a miniature Santa, standing to one side, adds to the effect.

It would only be a pleasure to mention the good and bad points of all the windows sent in, if that were possible. The ones which have been treated seemed to particularly deserve it. We wish to thank, however, all who took part in the contest. The large number of clerks who participated by dressing a special Christmas window, shows what an important feature of a grocer's business this department of window display has come to be.

J. C. Ecklin, the winner of the first prize in Class I., whose photograph is shown herewith, is a bright young man only nineteen years of age. This is not the first prize Mr. Ecklin has won in The Grocer's window dressing contests. Last June, while working in Goderich, he won a prize in one of this paper's monthly contests. Shortly afterwards he came to Toronto, and, judging by results, seems to have been doing good work in the city.

THE ADVERTISING CONTEST.

In The Grocer's Christmas advertisement contest, after a good deal of consideration by the judge, W. F. Ralph, advertising specialist with the MacLean Publishing Co., the prize has been donated to Rowat & Co., 234 Dundas St., London, on an ad. prepared by R. J. Donahy, the firm's advertising manager. The runner-up in the contest was an ad. sent in by Bradley & Sons, of St. Catharines.

It was our intention to reproduce the winning advertisement in this week's issue, with two or three of the leading entries, but with the large space devoted to the Window Dressing Contest, it would be impossible to do the matter justice. By holding this matter till next week's issue we will be able to present it in a much more interesting form than would now be possible.

HOLD-UP IN WINNIPEG GROCERY.

Daring Robbery by Ruffians at Busy Time of Evening.

The following item, from a recent issue of the Winnipeg Tribune, will be of interest to brothers in the trade :

"A daring hold-up that reads like a narrative from the lives of Dick Turpin or the James' boys, occurred shortly after seven o'clock Saturday evening, in the grocery store of W. B. Frances, 19 Salter Street.

The manager, A. H. Holt, was alone in the building at the time when two men walked in and commanded him at the point of the revolver "to hold up his hands and make no outcry or they would blow a hole through him." One of the ruffians held the gun trained on the head of the manager, while the other went behind the counter, opened the till, and abstracted funds to the sum of $74 in bills and currency, a portion of which had been placed there but a short time before by one of the collectors.

"The man who held the revolver was the larger of the two and he held the collar of his coat together with one hand at his throat, while his eyes were shaded with a peaked cap. The smaller man went about his work with an air of bravado that stamped him as an old-timer at the business. He did not take the trouble to turn up the collar of his coat and his cap was thrown jauntily back on his head.

"When they had rifled the till they backed out of the store and running down the street, ran into a dark alleyway.

"The police were immediately notified and acting on the description furnished by Mr. Holt are making every effort to locate the hold-up artists."

MAKING CANADIAN CONNECTION.

French and Italian Firm Extending Business Here.

The importance of pure olive oil for household and manufacturing purposes makes the visit of M. Squeglia, managing director of the English department of the firm of Sassesno, Piccon & Maunier, of special interest to the Canadian trade, both wholesale and retail. The headquarters of the firm are in Nice, France, and Bari, Italy. Being growers, manufacturers and exporters of olive oils, their business is world-wide. The oil is used by all the big sardine packers in France, who send their goods to Canada. The firm has never had direct connections with Canada, though their products have been handled by different firms. Arrangements are now being made to divide the importing trade into groups, covering the wholesale grocery, drug and Syrian trade.

J. Russell-Murray, 6 St. Sacrament street, Montreal, is the Canadian representative of the firm and all enquiries regarding the above French and Italian oils should be sent to him.

WILL REPRESENT BUSINESS INTERESTS.

Montreal Wholesaler Will Contest Election on New Lines.

S. J. Carter, head of the firm of S. J. Carter & Co., wholesale grocers, Montreal, has been induced to offer himself as a candidate for alderman, running in the interests of the Business Men's Committee of the Board of Trade. Mr. Carter is well known as a public spirited citizen and a great temperance worker. His nomination among others, is the outcome of a movement in Montreal to interest more business men in municipal affairs, a step which The Grocer has long advocated.

THE SITUATION IN THE WEST

Wheat Markets Stronger Under Keen Demand — Possible Removal of Grain Exchange From Winnipeg with Probable Results.

By our Special Winnipeg Correspondent.

The situation in wheat circles continues to be one of great interest, as the market is developing steadily along the lines that have been indicated from week to week in these articles, that is, one of increasing strength, as British buyers and home millers realize that the amount of wheat still in farmers' hands is very small, compared to the same date last year. Thornton, of the Commercial Record, of Duluth, has asked to go on record as stating that the amount of wheat in interior elevators and farmers' hands in the western States is the smallest since 1888. This would not be true of the Canadian west, because of the tremendous increase in wheat areas in the intervening years since 1888, but it is entirely true to say that in proportion to the crop raised the amount in farmers' hands is the smallest since 1888. During the week there have been some serious fluctuations of the American market, but the feature of the Winnipeg market has been its steady strength and the keen demand for cash wheat and the constant shrinkage of the amount of contract wheat coming forward. A striking instance of this was noted on Friday. The inspections showed the receipt of nineteen cars of contract wheat on Thursday and when the market opened on Friday morning one well-known broker came on the floor with buying orders for twenty-three cars of contract grade, he secured the nineteen cars, but was unable up to closing to fill the balance of his order.

Another feature of the market has been the rapidly increasing demand for low grades for export and the consequent narrowing of the spread between No. 4, 5, 6, and the lowest contract grade, No. 3. It is expected that next week will see a greatly increased demand for number three, now that the spread between three and four has narrowed so materially.

Receipts from interior elevators have kept up fairly well all week and, of course, are more than treble what they were this time last year. The weather is simply ideal, no railway company could ask for better weather for the movement of cars and the railways are certainly doing their best, over 100 cars daily have left the head of the lakes during the week. Receipts at interior elevators are not in proportion to the outward movement and many interior elevators have been closed owing to the small receipts and the utter impossibility of operating them at a profit, or, indeed, operating them without a heavy loss.

Trading in coarse grains has begun to move again more freely and the demand for the last few days of the week was decidedly brisk, with a good upward movement in prices. Receipts of coarse grains are light and offerings small.

The wheat market is not the only thing that has engaged the attention of grain men and business men generally during the past week. The report of the Royal Grain Commission has been received and proved interesting reading in many respects, in none more so than their report that the operations of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange are altogether fair and honorable, and in the interests of the farmers as well as of the grain trade. There are a number of recommendations and amendments suggested, one that will meet with almost universal endorsement and that is that the terminals at the head of the lakes be owned and operated by the Federal Government.

But even interest in the report of the Grain Commission has paled before the introduction into the local Legislature now sitting, by Premier Roblin, of an act to amend the charter of the Grain Exchange. The act is brought at the request of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association and has been drafted by them. It is so sweeping and radical in character that were it to pass, as it now stands, it will practically put the Exchange out of existence, as the present membership would certainly not attempt to work under such a charter. No Canadian bank would attempt to finance men operating under such a charter, as there is not sufficient protection. The bill has passed its second reading and has been referred to the Committee on Agriculture to hear representatives from both sides. The Grain Exchange are, very wisely, saying nothing for publication as to what they intend doing. There was a largely attended meeting of members held on Thursday afternoon last, when the discussions were of a very lively character. It was learned privately that it was resolved to fight the bill tooth and nail, and no doubt this will be done. Just now the Grain Exchange and the Grain Growers' Association are both political footballs and are being made use of for purposes of the next election and it would be hard guessing just what will happen with the bill.

There is a side of the situation that the Grain Growers' Association and farmers generally never appear to have considered and over which the citizens of Winnipeg do not appear to have been any more alert to the interests, but which the towns down by the lakes have seen and prepared to act upon. It is this. The grain trade of the Canadian west would never have been operated under a provincial charter, only, of course, in the old days, when the charter of the Winnipeg Grain and Produce Exchange was obtained apparently no one realized how big a thing the grain trade would grow to. In this way the anomaly has arisen of the grain trade of three provinces, two-thirds of which is exported out of the provinces and a large part of it beyond seas being operated through a Grain Exchange with only a provincial charter, which is subject to amendment at the request of the people of one province only. Long ago the Winnipeg Grain and Produce Exchange should have had a Dominion charter, then, if amendments were required they would have been made in accordance with the needs and wishes of the whole Dominion and not of one province only. With so much agitation stirred up and the near approach of a general election, it is quite easy to understand that the time is not opportune for the present Exchange to ask for a Dominion charter, that would be making themselves the football of Dominion, instead of provincial, politicians.

What, then, is likely to happen should, for political reasons, the present proposed bill of amendments be passed by the Manitoba Legislature? It is more than a probability that the big export houses and the old line elevators, who have already large interests at the head of the lakes, will move their offices from Winnipeg altogether and establish themselves at the head of the lakes, presumably Port Arthur, for the reason that some three years ago the Board of Trade of Port Arthur secured charter powers that would enable them to run an exchange and clearing house. If the big houses go all the brokers and commission men will follow and it is quite among the possibilities that the inspection office will be moved to the head of the lakes.

Of course, the lake towns would be delighted and would welcome the grain men with open arms, indeed, there are whispers that grow louder as the days pass, that overtures have been or are about to be made to secure the export and line elevator houses.

To be strictly truthful, the grain business could be operated, on the whole, quite as well, possibly better, from the head of the lakes than from Winnipeg, but the loss of the Grain Exchange and all the grain trading business to Winnipeg would be a most serious one, far more serious than the average citizen realizes, while it is questionable whether there would be any corresponding gain to the farming community.

It would take away from Winnipeg an enormous amount of the banking business, besides some 150 firms that do business in a large way. It would be an immense loss in prestige, and all for what? Sifted to the bottom, the whole grain growers' grievances peter down to the lack of adequate car supply and careless farming that produces weedy crops of low-grade that are difficult to handle.

In addition to the removal of the Grain Exchange proper, with all its adherents, it would mean the curtailment of milling industry at Winnipeg, for though the present mills would be retained and operated, the head of the lakes would present a more attractive field for the erection of other mills, there is cheap power in plenty and there is no doubt that a sample market would be one of the first things established in connection with such an exchange. The malting companies would give Winnipeg the go-by, they are dissatisfied now because Winnipeg is not an order point for barley, and this difficulty would be entirely gotten over by establishing themselves at the head of the lakes.

The whole question is one of grave seriousness and it is a matter of profound regret that it could not have been adjusted aside from party politics.—H.

A very attractive calendar has been produced by W. H. Snook & Co., of Truro, N.S. The calendar contains a capital picture of their store and also pictures of noted places in that vicinity.

A LOSING PROPOSITION.

Are you selling a 25-cent package tea, Mr. Grocer? Hundreds of you are, and you're losing money on it every day. You may not realize this, but you will if you stop right now and figure it out.

Considering the small percentage of profit you are making and the low grade of tea, which must be more or less unsatisfactory, that you are handing out to your customers in every one of these 25-cent packages, it would pay you to drop that line at once. In any event, don't let the travelers load you up with any more of it.

With the present unusually high prices of teas all the world over a satisfactory quality cannot be supplied in packages at 25 cents per pound. It may have been possible a few years ago, with teas at perhaps 50 per cent. of the present price. The advance has made this an impossibility and in addition to the fact that tea itself has advanced must be considered the fact that lead for packages, paper for lining, and wrappers, and the cost of lithographing and printing of wrappers has increased enormously during recent years.

All the wholesale firms handling 25-cent pound packages admit that they are losing money on these, and that the retailer also is selling them to disadvantage. And yet they still keep on doing their best to unload this line.

The situation is a very peculiar one, but it only seems to need a small amount of co-operation and agreement among the larger Canadian houses to provide the remedy, which is not far to look for. Thus far some spirit of jealousy seems to have kept these houses from making any overtures toward co-operation, but the situation must be dealt with shortly and the sooner the better, both for wholesaler and retailer.

SOME NEW YEAR'S ADVICE.

The following paragraphs, clipped from a recent issue of the Peterboro Review contain some advice which can be applied with value to all lines of business.

"In St. John's Church, on Sunday evening last, the rector, Rev. Canon Davidson, made an appeal to his congregation—as is his custom on the first Sunday in each new year—to settle all their small bills, and larger ones, too. He strongly advised his hearers to wipe out all obligations and commence 1908 with a clean slate. The admonition is certainly opportune and apropos, and if lived up to would result in a more pleasant and satisfactory order of things all around. If merchants and others are kind enough to extend credit to you, do not abuse this privilege and keep the one who has obliged you waiting month in and month out for his money. If the business man does not receive a settlement from his customers, he is not in a position to pay the wholesale house, and the wholesale house cannot square up with the bank. An irksome and undesirable state of affairs is thus created, throughout the whole medium of trade and business relations by certain people well able to discharge small debts neglecting to do so. Do not procrastinate. Your bill may be small, but when several such amounts are owing the merchant, in the aggregate they total a large sum. It is well in these matters just to sit down and think.

"Do unto others as you would be done by and consider that if you were a merchant would you not sincerely wish all people to settle up with you. Now, carry this thought into action and practice. Business would lose one-half of its terrors, disappointments and drawbacks if customers at the beginning of each year would make an honest, earnest effort to liquidate all indebtedness. If you cannot do so entirely, do so in part.

"Canon Davidson's appeal is timely and much needed. It evidences an appreciation of business conditions too rarely referred to from the sacred desk, and reference to which will not be viewed by all good citizens other than in the light of excellent judgment and sound, practical, common sense."

THE ABOLITION OF CREDIT.

No more insistent problem confronts the retailer in Canada than the elimination of bad debts, and there is but one solution—the abolition of credit.

In the last generation the methods of business have entirely changed. Transportation systems have annihilated distances; catalogues have supplemented samples, and the facilities for doing every kind of business have increased enormously.

When we consider the conditions on the North American continent, the great momentum that exchange or trade has acquired is easily explained. Nearly one hundred million of the most energetic people on the earth are engaged for the most part in business, each animated with an intense desire to produce—a people to whom Carlyle's essay on work would be superfluous reading.

Holding the commanding position in this vast army of workers are the huge consolidations or trusts with practically unlimited resources. These shade down to the small joint stock companies, which, as a rule, are one man companies, and at the end of the chain we have the final distributor, the retailer.

As a matter of simple reason it would be logical to suppose that the conditions of credit exacted so vigorously by the trusts would be carried through all ranks of the commercial world, but the reverse is the case, and we find that the last link of the chain is weakest, and the retailer smallest in resources is the one most lax in the respect to his credit.

Examine the bad or doubtful accounts of our large institutions which issue annual statements and note the comparatively insignificant proportions compared with business transacted. The writer has in mind a huge industrial concern whose bad debts amounted to one thousandth part of one per cent. two years ago. We venture to say that not one retailer in America, doing a credit business, could make such a showing.

During the early periods of the country, when trade was not highly organized, credit may have been necessary, but to-day it is more than unnecessary—it is suicidal.

If the retailer wishes to be a leader, and if he desires to serve the entire trade of his district he must rigorously exact the cash payment, otherwise the mail order house, the larger centres, will absorb the best of his trade, and he earns, instead of a competency, a bare living, instead of an establishment, a precarious business.

CHECK YOUR SHIPMENTS.

A number of complaints have been made recently by jobbers at the growing laxity on the part of the retail trade in signing railroad receipts. Many a retailer sends his carter to the railroad station for a shipment of goods without impressing on him the necessity of checking the number of pieces and examining the condition of the packages before signing any receipts. The result is that in a number of cases a carter signs the receipt before he obtains the goods. Probably no check is made by the merchant himself for some days. When he finally does do it and discovers an error, he immediately writes the jobber to the effect that he is short a number of pieces or that the goods are damaged. When questioned in regard to the receipt given to the transportation company, he endeavors to be evasive and hints at the withdrawal of his custom unless the claim is settled to his satisfaction.

"A very pretty piece of business," one might exclaim, but it is surprising the number of cases that occur. A retailer would have a very [illegible] opinion of himself or staff if, when a sale of $25 was made, $24 was accepted as a settlement, $4 of which was bad money. Yet there is an analogy between a merchant who would do that and one who signs for something which he did not receive.

The manufacturers and jobbers in the United States have had so much experience along these lines that they will not recognize any claims of this nature, throwing the onus where it belongs—to the man who signed for the shipment. Nearly every invoice received from the United States has a slip attached bearing this inscription :

IMPORTANT.

Before accepting and receipting for the material called for by bill of lading herewith, please see that you get the correct number of packages and that they are in good condition.

If the shipment is "short" or the packages broken or damaged so as to expose contents to the weather, do not give the railroad company your receipt until after the station agent notes condition of the shipment on your express bill.

If you accept shipments from the railroad company "short" or damaged, you do so at your own risk.

Many merchants in Canada are stamping their invoices with a similar notation, and the larger firms refuse to entertain claims for loss or damage unless a proper receipt has been given to the transportation company.

In times like these, when the transportation facilities of the country are overtaxed, it behooves every retail merchant (especially those engaged in the grocery and provision trade) to make a strict check of all their shipments. It is one of the most important details of business.

LET US HAVE YOUR VIEW.

With a view to summing up comprehensively the outlook of the trade in Canada The Grocer is seeking the ideas of manufacturers, wholesalers, brokers, and others who are in close touch with Canadian business life, and hereby solicits letters on this subject. We should be very glad to receive any ideas you may have regarding this matter and purpose publishing in a short time an article covering the subject suggested. Let us have your opinion. If the majority agree with the views of several men of authority we have already heard from such an article should be of considerable value in restoring confidence to retailers and business men of Canada generally.

HOW TO GET TO THE TOP.

The man who does his work right is bound to get the head position because he has so little competition. In every line indifference and worthlessness are more in evidence than ability and worth to handle a business with willingness and despatch.

Consider the man who has brains and uses them to his employer's interest. This man is bound to be recognized as by close attention to work in working hours he will often stand out alone and sooner or later will attract the attention of his employer. So many young fellows are in the business because they must have money for their pleasures and excesses that the man who is interested in his work must surely rise to the responsible position. To build business—to sell goods or to manufacture them—these are the things, and the future of the man who will do his duty is assured.

Consider the man who feels himself above his work. He is getting perhaps ten dollars a week. He hasn't any new ideas for getting business and no ideal other than dressing above his income and shining in certain "social events" for the silly crowd of girls and men who make up his acquaintance.

He wonders why his neighbor is earning fifty or seventy-five dollars a week and because he refuses to see things right puts it down to pull. Pull sometimes helps a man to a position but "results" must be shown to hold a place.

Learn to do your work with your whole heart. During business hours keep your mind on your work and by absorbing such knowledge as will come your way you will not only find your work a pleasure but will fit yourself for a better position in the end.

This policy will, if followed, meet with success whether you are running your own business or working for another. Try to get in a line for which you have a natural liking; pay strict attention to business and your future is assured.

STOCK-TAKING SUGGESTIONS.

Immediately following the new year, stock-taking engages the attention of the merchant and staff. Unfortunately, as carried out in some stores, it does not serve its intended purpose. When the work has been completed and the inventory list prepared, the proprietor or manager is by no means certain that the figures he sees before him, and which are supposed to represent the relative positions of his business at that time, and the year before, actually perform their function.

The reason for this—or one of the reasons—is the carelessness of clerks in weighing and counting. In order to ascertain if proper care had been exercised, packages of goods with the stock-taking tickets still on had been re-weighed, and it was found that in one case a piece of goods marked 48 pounds actually weighed only 46 pounds, while another was almost as much astray in the other direction. It can be readily seen that discoveries of this character have a not unnatural tendency to shake the merchant's confidence in the accuracy, and, consequently, the value of his stock-taking sheets. The point we intend to convey is the necessity for impressing clerks with the importance of exercising the utmost care in weighing and counting.

Stock-taking affords an excellent opportunity for acquiring a thorough knowledge of the stock, and it is taken advantage of to get rid of the undesirable goods, those which, the longer they are allowed to remain, the more undesirable they become. Some merchants do not pay as close attention to this feature incidental to stock-taking as they should.

The Master Soap Specialty Co. has received letters of incorporation, to manufacture soaps and soap specialties. Its capital stock will be $150,000 and Toronto will be the head office and business centre of the firm.

The grocery trade in Galt is rapidly assuming normal proportions, as is also the case in Hespeler and Preston, and the merchants in these three towns are very optimistic concerning the future. The big boiler works of the Goldie & McCulloch Co., which have for some time been working only eight hours per day, on Monday resumed the ten hour schedule. An order for sixteen large boilers has been received from an eastern firm. It is thought to be only a matter of a short time before the other firms working short hours will return to the regular schedule. All of which goes to show the confidence of the manufacturers in the situation. If the manufacturers are confident, surely the public has every reason to follow suit.

Hunter, the baker, is issuing aluminum bread tickets, a fact which is greatly appreciated by the public. The ordinary cardboard tickets are a well known medium for the transmission of bacteria.

Will some of The Grocer correspondents give their opinion of the large quantities of green oranges at present being offered for sale. In Galt the market is very largely supplied with this unripe fruit.

The market on Saturday was fairly well attended, but high prices prevailed, and the buying was not as brisk as usual. In his inaugural address Mayor Patterson made the statement that a fund should be set aside to be used for advertising and developing the Galt market. The suggestion met with the approval of the market committee and will be acted upon.

A number of local grocers were interviewed regarding a probable slump, particularly in canned goods, as predicted by the Kingston correspondent, and in every case the local grocers gave it as their emphatic opinion that a slump was improbable.

BARRIE.

The very heavy snowstorms which affected our town in the early part of the week, and which left nearly two feet of the beautiful, have not crippled business any, in fact it has rather improved it. Our merchants seem to be in a good mood, as everyone was predicting such a poor trade from the late fall, most merchants bought sparingly for Xmas, and the holiday trade, but are now ordering quite freely, as they had a bigger business than last year, and in most cases have a very low stock. A bright smile also adorns the merchants' faces as they tell about the Grand Trunk Railway's new car shops and repair shops, which are to be built here in the early spring. It will mean about three hundred men, with their families, brought in from outside points and will mean quite an increase in our trade.

Just now one of the scarcest articles in the foodstuff line is butter, although at no very high figure, the price buyers are paying being twenty-five cents. The scarcity is put down to the poor quality which is arriving on the market. There seems to be a lot of butter coming in with a strong flavor of turnips, and when all this kind is culled out it leaves only a small percentage of number one dairy, which is salable, hence the scarcity of the good stuff.

New laid eggs are also very scarce, although there seems to be an increase from day to day in the arrivals, but just now even Mr. Merchant has to pay thirty cents a dozen for strictly new laid stock.

And fowl—just imagine, on Saturday last your correspondent saw chickens sold on our market at fifteen cents a pound, with heads on at that. Turveys only sold at fourteen. Ducks sold at thirteen and geese at 12½c. A few hens sold at 10c. a pound.

Bakageorge Bros., of the Olympic Candy Kitchen, have this week installed two lovely, eighteen-foot, silent salesman cases. They are certainly a credit to the owners.

LONDON.

Travelers report trade on the whole good. Retailers are buying rather conservatively as yet, but they seem hopeful and the prevailing belief is that in a very short time business will be as good as, if not better than ever it has been. "There is no depression to speak of," said one well known commercial man, who is here from Winnipeg. "There is everywhere," he continued, "a very hopeful spirit. The money stringency is now practically passed, and the westerner is hopeful of better times. And mark my words, times will be better than ever before the end of the present year."

The regular monthly meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association, held on Wednesday evening last, was but slimly attended, owing, no doubt, to the stormy weather. The matter of holding a banquet was taken up, and a strong committee was appointed to arrange preliminaries. The committee is composed of President Harry Ranahan, Treasurer Ed. Ryan, and Thomas Shaw. The affair will likely come off the latter part of February or early in March. Another letter was read by M. Moyer, treasurer of the Dominion Retail Merchants' Association, regarding affiliation. The fact that London is not in affiliation with the Dominion Association is considered by the latter a source of weakness, which would manifest itself in the event of its going before parliament for legislation, regarded as of benefit to the merchants generally. So convinced is the Merchants' Association of this fact that Mr. Moyer has expressed his determination to visit London and try to interest what grocers remain out of the local association in the larger body. The chief obstacle in the way of affiliation seems to be that the members of the grocers' association have never got over the belief that they got the worst of the deal in the closing up of the affairs of the Pure Food Show, held here a few years ago, and in which both associations were interested. It was left to Treasurer Ryan to reply to Mr. Moyer. The question of admitting grocery travelers to membership in the association was left over for a more largely attended meeting to consider.

O. B. Drake, grocer, Hamilton Road, has made an assignment.

J. Bloomfield, grocer, Dundas Street, is retiring from business, and will sell out his stock.

T. Jaynes, grocer, South London, was the only man in the trade who sought municipal honors, and although unsuccessful, made so good a run that he is inclined to try it again next year. It is suggested that Mr. Jaynes attend meetings of the association with more regularity and thus increase his circle of acquaintances.

Saturday was the biggest day retail grocers have had for a long time, some storekeepers declaring it to beat any day before Christmas. All seem hopeful as to the outlook.

The consumption of fodder within the city and throughout the county is estimated to have decreased fifteen per cent. in the past year. This is due to the high prices of all feed for cattle and horses and to extra care and economy. Secretary Ahren, of the Western Dairymen's Association, declared on Saturday that this was undoubtedly true of all parts of the province. With the increase of knowledge in the feeding of stock has come a tendency to substitute corn, oats, straw and turnips for the ordinary feed. This is taken to show how agricultural education is playing directly into the pockets of the farmers.

STRATORD.

For some time past lack of interest has characterized the meetings held by the Stratford branch of the Retail Merchants' Association. The branch is not defunct—far from it, but yet, although it has a pretty large membership, the meetings, as a rule, are not attended by as many of the members as should be present. The organization is a helpful one to every merchant in the city who belongs and those who do belong should make it a point to attend all the meetings, while those who do not belong to the association should not hesitate another moment in joining and making themselves members of this beneficial body of merchants. At these meetings the merchants get in touch with each other; business methods and interests are discussed and the members cannot help but receive some benefit.

On Thursday night last the annual meeting of the local branch was held and was addressed by E. M. Trowern, Dominion secretary of the R.M.A. For over an hour Mr. Trowern spoke to his audience on the aims and objects of the association; also the proposed legislations the association are endeavoring to have passed at the Ontario and Dominion Parliaments in the interests of the Retail merchants. The talk was interesting, inspiring and beneficial.

In closing, Mr. Trowern urged the Stratford merchants to work together. Cut out this keen competition. It was utter folly for merchants to cut prices—cut each other's throats—and yet he ventured to say that that was what was wrong in Stratford. There were some merchants who thought that by buying goods at 9 cents and selling at 10 cents they were making good profits. They were not. Instead, they were losing money. He advised the local retailers to get together and discuss matters so as to get from their businesses good living profits.

At the close of the meeting the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, C. N. Greenwood; 1st vice-president, R. S. Jones; 2nd vice-president, C. Welsh; secretary, E. A. Rea; treasurer, A. Johnston; auditor, T. Hislop.

C. McIlhargey, proprietor of the Stratford Wholesale Co., has again been elected by the ratepayers to represent the city on the city council.

The perfect weather and splendid sleighing resulted in a large market on Saturday, farmers and citizens turning out in large numbers. There was a large supply of apples, potatoes and fowl, all selling at the usual prices. Eggs were purchased at 29c a dozen, and butter sold for 27c and 28c per lb.

CALGARY.

The lull in business which invariably succeeds the Christmas season is now passing away and the temporary dullness is disappearing.

Fine weather is the order of the day, the thermometer registering from 35 to 40 with a regularity which is becoming tedious. There is no snow and consequently no sleighing, and building operations are in full swing.

The Standard Soap Company has temporarily closed its big works during the construction of its new glyverine plant. This important addition to the company's plant is about completed and the works will start up again in full blast this week. Last year it was found necessary to double the capacity of the soap plant, and with the addition of the glycerine plant, the Standard Soap Company has one of the best and most complete factories in Canada.

Eggs and butter are still scarce here and in an editorial, dated to-day, the Calgary Daily Herald calls attention to the egg question. The article commences with: "Why should new laid eggs be selling in Calgary at from 50 cents to $1 a dozen with scarcely any obtainable? And why should thousands of dozens of Ontario eggs have to be imported into this city every year?"

TORONTO.

How's this for an original idea in advertising? As readers of The Grocer are aware, oranges have been selling at bargain prices for some time. A Parkdale grocer hit upon a good idea for selling them. Usually grocers stick a card over the oranges giving the price at so much per dozen. But this grocer went farther and added something which arrested attention immediately. Over a particular variety of oranges in his window he placed a card with the announcement, "Oranges, 10c per doz. or 15c per peck." Did it sell the fruit? Just ask that happy grocer who traces the sale of 25 cases in a few days to that advertising "stunt." The oddity of oranges being sold like potatoes sunk deeply into the minds of passers-by. It immediately suggested a good "buy" and consequently away went the oranges. It pays to advertise in a novel way and it also pays to use your store window for its true purpose, and that is, to attract transient trade and hold your regular customers.

Talking about store windows it is a pleasure to note the increasing attention which is being paid to this very valuable feature of every grocery. This is evident in all parts of the city. Not only the big down-town grocers, but the smaller ones off the main thoroughfares are paying more and more attention to their window displays. Some very attractively decorated ones were in evidence during the holiday season.

Along King St. east, at Kew Beach, there are some bright grocery stores which are a credit to their owners. They are all comparatively new since this section of the city has never been inhabited to any extent except during the summer months. Consequently summer is the banner time of the year for these grocers, the rest of the year being rather dull. However, conditions are changing and people are beginning to live there the year round. As a result the grocers are hopeful in regard to the future and, no doubt, will find their trade yearly increasing.

Kew Beach can boast of a model grocery, the property of W. H. Snell. Another branch is situated at East Toronto. But the one at the Beach is hard to beat. The interior has all the latest fixtures and devices for displaying goods and economizing its time and money. Everything around the shop is just so. The building was built with an eye to conveniences and it certainly has been accomplished. A big order business is done among a high class of customers and on cash principles. A cash discount system is employed in a successful manner. In addition to the usual contents of a grocery store, a full line of confectionery is carried profitably. It would pay more grocers if they would see fit to handle such goods.

A few months ago a new grocery was started by J. Skelton, which, though not as elaborate as others, is kept in good order. Whitelock's grocery is also a likely-looking place and doing a good trade.

Another young firm which is making things hum at the Beach is Stennett Bros. Though only about three years in business these grocers are building up a substantial trade. Each year shows a marked increase. As far as possible a strictly cash business is carried on. Close care is given the windows which are changed often and used to good advantage. Sand and dust in the summer months are a great nuisance to these as well as the others grocers.

KINGSTON.

Kingston is quiet again now that the Christmas and New Year's trade is over and the municipal elections off. Dr. Ross defeated R. H. Toye, baker, for mayor, by 471. The bread question was brought against the baker and the needed support failed to raise him to the exalted position which he felt entitled to after fourteen years of hard work for this city.

H. N. Robertson, traveler for Geo. Robertson & Son, grocers, beat Jos. Tait, contractor, by about 200. Bert is good on the canvas.

The same old trouble which occurs every winter is on us again. What's the matter with the butter? Why don't the farmers stop feeding turnips? Does ensilage taint? They seem to think at our dairy school that neither pasteurizing nor anything else will work out the flavor caused by feeding turnips. Too bad, but what's to be done? Orange meat and corn flakes are too dear for cattle, so I guess we will have to wait for grass.

Mr. Stonehouse, of Port Perry, is again assuming control of the butter department of our dairy school. He is a competent man and popular, and is bound to advance.

The purchasing of N. P. Woods' stock by Marshall Reid did not materialize. Marshall is negotiating with Hodgson Bros. for the store on the corner of Division and Union streets. He speaks of enlarging it. Mr. Reid occupied this store before and no doubt sees possibilities ahead.

The grocers do not hold any more meetings like they used to and they are the poorer for it. When they met regularly opinions were exchanged and topics discussed, such as "Early Closing, "Dead Beats," "Picnics," "Market By-laws," "Trading Stamps," etc. The only meetings are when Jim and a few meet on the market and chat about frenzied finance, etc.

The by-law for road improvements voted on by the people, passed by a large majority, so when the work is completed, you can come along with your autos.

Gas for fuel and lighting purposes is reduced to one dollar. It will be a grand thing when you can run your furnace with gas and escape the dust and ashes. Kingston's magnates are talking about heating buildings by steam from a central plant—a fire plant, I guess. It is green yet, but may turn red by next autumn.

Chas. Saunders, who changed his business from credit to cash, is well pleased with the change. No books, no disputes, all cash. Ideal ideal.

Hard to get a good tea less than 20c any more to run at 25c. Those who put up package teas can't make much on their 25c lines, unless they had stock on hand.

A lady telephoned to every real estate man in the city the other day for a house, furnished or unfurnished, from $10 to $15 a month, and she was not successful. Speaks well for Kingston, but hard on her.

A lot of canvassing for orders is done by local retailers. It is better to let the people come to you, and the best houses here do so. Canvassing means more credit and more work.

Many grocers have nice stores, but the arrangement of goods is anything but tasteful. They get into a rut and when you look in a year hence you see the same goods in the same place. Re-arrange your stock and make your store look different at least once a month. It will help sell your goods. People notice these changes and comment on them, for people do talk.

Nearly all the toll gates have been bought up by the county, after years of fighting, and now you can travel without being held up.

Quite a lot of complaints are coming in about canned goods tasting of the tin and sometimes of an acid flavor.

A. Rankin, Collinsby, is doing a large trade here in flour and feed. He has a fine mill and the best machinery money can buy.

BELLEVILLE.

Both the retail and wholesale grocers of this city and district inform your correspondent that business has been both brisk and profitable so far during the winter months. In fact, they say that they have hardly felt the money stringency which has been reported in so many places. This city has been quite fortunate so far as the calls upon the charitable organizations were concerned, despite the fact that the city has so many new arrivals from the Old Land. The closing down of the rolling mills in December has necessitated the grocers doing a considerable credit business but they have implicit faith in their customers, as they are nearly all married people, and work will soon resume.

The municipal elections created considerable interest here, owing to the fact that there were three grocers seeking election. Two of them were victorious, while our old friend John Harker lacked but a few votes of being elected. The two elected were William Panter and A. S. Vermilyea, both members of last year's council. Both were well up in the list. At the inaugural meeting, held on Monday, Jan. 13, Alderman Panter was appointed chairman of the public works committee and Alderman Vermilyea was again appointed chairman of the waterworks committee.

M. A. McCrodan, grocer, did not seek re-election this year, as he found he could not attend to his increasing business and do his duty to the council. His intimate friends, however, state that his better half had a lot to do in inducing him to give up civic affairs.

ST. CATHARINES.

John Killroy has purchased the premises at the junction of Welland avenue and Niagara street, the property formerly owned by the late Mr. Prowton, and has embarked in the general grocery and green grocer trade.

John W. Timmons, one of the young and enterprising grocers, on St. Paul street, who was the principal dealer in early foreign fruits and vegetables, has been compelled to close his doors.

The canners are already in the field to make contracts for the coming season's work, so that the producer can regulate his business accordingly. A new variety of potatoes that has been propagated by one of the most prominent farmers and fruit growers has come into vogue and its yields had been so enormous this last autumn that it will be the staple for the next year's growth.

Good roads has been the agitation for some time back in Grantham township, and the recent municipal elections hinged on that point. The reeve for 1907 had been a prominent worker for good roads, but he was met with obstacles, which, when election day came, he, as it were, snowed his opponent under. Mr. Arbithnot, the re-elected reeve, is one of the progressive men of his municipality and he had co-workers who were bound to make Grantham the banner township for good roads. A great many hundreds of dollars were spent in the year 1907 on roads, and during the coming season something like thirty thousand dollars will be spent in completing the works that have been promoted.

PETERBOROUGH.

George A. Gillespie, of the grocery firm of White & Gillespie, is now an alderman of the city of Peterborough, Mr. Gillespie was induced to enter the field by a large number of friends, and polled a great vote, coming second from the top of the list. He was only eleven votes behind the man who headed the poll. Ald. Gillespie should make a good representative. He is vice-president of the board of trade and is prominently identified with the Peterborough Cheese Board. He is being heartily congratulated by his many friends in the trade on his election to such an important position.

Ex-Ald. E. F. Mason, who is a prominent local grocer, was also nominated for the council, but did not remain in the field. Mr. Mason's friends were sorry that he could not be induced to stand.

Trade has been somewhat quiet since the holidays, but grocers report that it is well up to that of former years. The Christmas trade was well up to the average, in fact, some grocers report it better than in former years.

* * *

Ald. Gillespie, of the firm of White & Gillespie, attended the annual convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association in Picton last week. He states that the convention was one of the most successful in the history of the association. Mr. Gillespie was elected to the directorate, representing the Peterborough district.

NEWCASTLE.

Robert A. Loggie, Wallace W. Loggie, Mary Loggie, Elizabeth Alice Loggie, and Robert Murray, M.P.P., are applying for incorporation as the Miramichi Fish Company. Their object is to carry on a general fishery business in this province. The proposed capital stock is ninety-nine thousand dollars.

Thomas. Maltby, late chief clerk in Mayor Miller's grocery, has engaged with Baird & Peters, wholesalers here.

Reports from all sections indicate that the price of hay is coming down at a rapid rate. In the fall those who had hay to sell held it at almost fabulous prices—anything under $15 a ton was laughed at. But now the best pressed hay can be bought for $13.50.

The year 1907 resulted in a serious interruption in the successful prosecution of the potato business. A larger acreage than usual was planted, blight and rot became general and the yield and quality was bad.

The salt springs, together with 1,400 acres of land, at Plumweseep have been purchased by an English company, who intend placing the salt industry in this province on a firmer footing.

LEASES NEW YORK WAREHOUSE.

Lipton Interests in United States Secure New Premises in Heart of Wholesale District.

The following paragraphs from a recent issue of the New York Commercial gives a good idea of the growth of this English company's business in America:

"A lease of the building at the corner of Hudson and Franklin Sts, now occupied by the firms Bennet & Sloan and Bennet, Day & Co., has been secured by Sir Thomas Lipton. The lease covers a period of 20 years and the rental aggregates $325,000. The Lipton interests will use the structure as a warehouse, the object in securing the location being to maintain permanent show-rooms in the centre of the grocery district.

"Occupation of the building will be effected on May 1 next. Of the present tenants, Bennet & Sloan, tea merchants, have secured quarters in a new building at the corner of Hudson and Hubert Sts. Bennet, Day & Co., nut and fruit importers, have mad no plans for removal. The matter of erecting a new building in the district is under consideration. This firm has occupied the premises for 18 years."

DOMINION PHARMACAL CO. ASSIGNS.

Toronto Patent Medicine Concern Recently Organized Goes to the Wall.

The assignment of the Dominion Pharmacal Co., of Toronto, who have been manufacturing and extensively advertising the patent remedy "Brick's Tasteless," since their organization last June, was announced on Tuesday. The failure is supposedly due to the extravagance of the management and difficulty in securing financial consideration. The liabilities are given out as $15,000 with $18,000 assets.

MAPLE LEAF MILLS BURNED.

Large Flour Mill at Kenora Destroyed on Tuesday Night.

The Maple Leaf Milling Co.'s mill at Kenora, one of the largest and best equipped mills on the continent, was destroyed by fire late Tuesday evening. An elevator adjoining was also damaged. The loss is placed at $500,000 and is said to be fully covered by insurance.

The Maple Leaf Milling Co. is a branch of the Hedley, Shaw Milling Co., of Toronto.

CANADIAN EXHIBITS AT LONDON.

Government Making Good Accommodation for Manufacturers at Franco-British Exhibition.

The Canadian Government has in course of erection a large special building for the accommodation of Canadian exhibits at the Franco-British Exhibition, which opens in London, England, May 1 next.

The Government part of the display will consist of exhibits of the natural resources of Canada, such as agricultural products, minerals, forestry, fish and game, horticulture, dairying and food products. There will be accommodation reserved for the display of Canadian manufacturers and where acceptable exhibits are offered, very generous treatment will be accorded them by the Government.

Applications will be received up to the end of the present month and enquiries should be addressed to Mr. W. A. Burns, Exhibition Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

NEW FOOD AND WEIGHT INSPECTORS.

Recent Appointments of Interest to Grocery Trade.

The following appointments made by order in council were handed out at Ottawa last week:

J. L. Cruickshank, of Toronto, has been appointed assistant inspector of weights and measures for the district of Toronto.

John Talbot, of London, has been appointed food inspector for the counties of Brant, Norfolk, Oxford, Wellington, Waterloo, Middlesex, Lambton, Elgin, Essex and Kent.

Other appointments are as follows: Harry M. Wood, of Milkbrook, Ont., to be deputy collector of inland revenue at Port Hope; F. H. Butler, Windsor, to be assistant inspector of weights and measures for the district of Windsor; E. B. Parksinson, Vancouver, to be collector of inland revenue for the district of Vancouver; J. E. Miller, Vancouver, to be district inspector of inland revenue for the Province of British Columbia.

HAVE YOU THOUGHT ABOUT THIS?

Keep your hands clean. Dig under your finger nails. Never mind if it takes time. It pays. Women are critical right here. The sight of a man handling butter or cheese with dirty finger nails is disgusting. It's enough to queer a sale, and it does lose sales many and many a time. Don't allow it to happen with you. The rule holds good in every department. It's one of those small-big details that count.

TRADE NOTES.

H. C. Garner, grocer, of Toronto, has made an assignment.

W. D. Beattie, Essex, Ont., has sold his grocery and crockery business to Geo. Rounding.

"NO SIMILAR TROUBLE."

In the article regarding the matter of tea inspection in Toronto in last week's issue, a typographical eror caused J. W. Musson, of Geo. Musson & Co. to appear to have said that he had heard of delay in tea inspection in Toronto. The paragraph should have read: "We have heard of no similar trouble in Toronto." We sincerely regret the error.

Montreal, January 15, 1908.

Wholesalers report very favorably on the trade of the past week, and judging from orders already in and coming trade during the first of the year will not in any sense be dull.

The recent advance in sugar does not seem to have had any effect on the market, for the tone is very firm.

The butter and egg markets are firm, with a very active demand for finest fancy butter. New cheese advanced half a cent this week over last week's prices.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—

Sugar—Firmer.

Evaporated Apples—Easier.

Canned Goods—Moving well.

Produce—Firmer.

Toronto, Jan. 16.

Business continues to be encouraging in the grocery markets, with demand opening well. Wholesalers almost without exception express themselves as very well pleased with the amount of business passing and with the general outlook for the next two or three months. Almost every man on the street reports his business so far this year ahead of the same period in 1907. This seems to bear out the opinion expressed a couple of weeks ago that grocers' stocks are light.

And the financial side, also, seems to be pretty fairly satisfactory. Collections continue fairly good and there seems to be no lack of money evident among the majority of the retailers.

TEAS—There has been no change in the critical situation during the week, everything pointing to a continuation of the present high prices. Nothing of interest has developed in the local markets.

COFFEE—There is nothing new in local markets. In summing up the situation abroad, Willett & Gray say:

It is now seen that the financial crisis was the cause of rather poor seaport deliveries for the month of December, but even so, the average of the first six months of the season is one million, five hundred thousand bags a month withdrawn for consumption in Europe and the States, equal to 50,000 bags a day. The interior must continue to draw supplies from the seaports on the same scale to satisfy actual necessities, as the port deliveries point more closely than ever to the amount of coffee consumed. During the money stringency the hand to mouth buying was more rigidly observed, and now that the general financial condition is clearer, money easier and confidence returning, it is not to be wondered at that a general inquiry for actual coffee is coming in from the interior.

Reports from different quarters show that stocks are lighter than ever, so the trade here and in Europe must buy supplies equal to the daily 50,000 bags of coffee required for consumption, which introduces the strength of the actual position and shows how it will grow stronger from day to day. The daily receipts are running small and the combined arrivals of Brazilian and mild coffees fall far short of daily consumption, so that the influence of supply and demand is the strong natural feature to be considered, and on this account coffee should do a great deal better. The price is low, crops are small and consumption heavy and constantly increasing.

SUGAR—The local market is very firm, even on top of last week's advances. There was an advance of ten cents in New York on Wednesday, but at the time of writing this had not been reflected locally. Prices, however, may have advanced before this reaches our readers, though as far as can be judged, the present basis will probably be maintained for this week at least. Reports of wet weather in Cuba seem to be somewhat responsible for the stronger feeling in New York, but various reasons may contribute to the situation.

Willett & Gray, in their weekly Journal, dated Jan. 9th, say of the situation in raws:

"The features of the week have been a number of quiet transactions in new crop Cuba centrifugals, showing at the close an advance of 1-16c in cost and freight, and 9c per cwt. in spot quotations—say to 2 9 16c c. & f. and 3.94c, duty paid. Also, the first estimate of Cuba crop by Messrs. Guma-Mejer, of 1,165,000 tons; also an increase in centrals grinding from 24 to 70 this week, and an increase in receipts from 2,000 tons to 9,000 tons. Also, the very interesting annual statistics of the sugar trade of the United States, given in this paper. The hearings on the Philippine tariff bill are delayed until about the 20th instant, and the suggestion made by us in preceding papers, regarding reciprocity between Japan and the Philippines, is receiving attention in Washington."

The world's visible supply is estimated this week as follows:

Total stock of Europe and America, 3,177,242 tons, against 3,202,558 tons last year at the same uneven dates. The decrease of stock is 25,316 tons, against a decrease of 56,458 tons last week. Total stocks and afloats together show a visible supply of 3,217,242 tons, against 3,292,558 tons last year, or a decrease of 75,316 tons.

The following table shows the fluctuations of Canadian refined during 1907. Quotations are given on a basis f.o.b. Montreal:

Dairy Produce and Provisions

Produce Markets Generally Frmer— Cheese is Slow, Butter Stronger, Poultry Scarce—Hog Markets Weak and in Critical Condition.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

A slightly firmer tone is evident in the butter markets this week. The total receipts for the week ending Jan. 11th were 1,613 boxes, as against 1,412 in the same week last year. The total amount received since May 1 is 407,519 packages, in comparison with 601,933 for the same period a year ago.

The cheese markets also appear to be slightly stronger, an advance of ¼-cent on "new" being noted.

Receipts last week show a remarkable falling off, the aggregate being only 41 boxes in comparison with 857 for the same week in 1907. Total receipts from May 1 to Jan. 11 were 2,053,019 boxes, as against 2 348,577 boxes during the same period last year.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

The Canadian hog market still continues inactive and very uncertain in tone, though deliveries last week were much more satisfactory than they have been for some time. This condition is merely a reflection of conditions prevailing in practically all the world's markets. The continued depression in the American market has considerable effect on conditions in Great Britain and this, coupled with the fact that a severe snow storm in Denmark crippled operations there, cutting down deliveries to 27,000, about a third below the average, made the English market very weak and quiet.

At the prices offered here deliveries have been much freer and businss is perhaps a little brisker than at last reports. Prices are on the same levels as last week, viz., for f.o.b. stock $5.50, fed and watered, $5.80 and for stock off cars, $5.90 to $6.

Deliveries in the United States have also been very free and prices have kept up to their former level, under large export business as is shown in the following review from the New York Journal of Commerce:

"The past week has seen very sharp increases in receipts of hogs, though prices of hogs have not declined heavily, as packers have had to buy too freely to fill old sales and replenish depleted stocks of lard which are nominal, though of meats they are increasing and liberal.

"There has been very little export demand for meats or lard, though the light offerings of the latter may have prevented the demand. There has been a better demand for home consumption at the late decline in bellies, and in some weights of hams, mostly medium. But the chief demand has been for green meats, bellies here and hams at the West, of which the offerings have been scarcely equal to the demand, notwithstanding the heavy receipts of hogs, indicating that curers' stocks of both are getting very low, and that they have been obliged to buy for current consumption. There has been no other feature in the spot market, but futures have been quite active, being firm early in the week on covering of shorts and apparent bidding up of prices by packers in order to sell. Later in the week that support was withdrawn and the packers did not take its place, resulting in a decline, quite sharp for a couple of days. The feeling in the trade is growing more bearish as the receipts of hogs have been at all points largely increased, though it is a surprising fact that the weights are still running light. New York exports of pork have been more liberal, nearly 2,000 bbls. for the week, while bacon exports have been quite liberal on old contracts and lard between 6,000 and 7,000 tierces."

MONTREAL.

SUGAR AS FOOD.

Shown to be a Powerful Stimulant Under Certain Conditions.

Some interesting experiments with reference to the nutritive value of foods containing sugar were recently made at the instance of the War Office at Berlin. It is a fact well known to Alpine tourists that on difficult climbing excursions an increased desire is felt for sweets and sweetened foods, and many who never touch such things at home devour large quantities of them on these tours. It is also frequently remarked that the guides eagerly appropriate any sugar that may be left over, and consume it on the journey. Whether the sugar afforded real benefit to the mountain climber was the subject of the German investigation; that is, did the consumption of sugar render the tired muscles capable of renewed exertion? To answer the question conclusively, the subject of the experiment was not allowed to know that a test was being made. One day a sweet liquid, containing thirty grams of sugar, was administered; on the next a similar liquid, sweetened by saccharine to render it indistinguishable from the other, as far as taste was concerned, took the place of the sugar. The result was a complete triumph for the sugar. It was found that a greater amount of work could be accomplished on the days when the sugar was given than on those when saccharine took its place. This serves, as far as it goes, to prove that sugar is food in a true sense, and that it is in particular food for the muscles.—New England Grocer.

DEATH OF E. A. DALLEY.

Prominent Hamilton Manufacturer Passed Away Sunday Evening.

Not only business circles, but also municipal, political and fraternal bodies will sincerely regret the passing away of E. A. Dalley, of the firm of F. F. Dalley & Co., and one of Hamilton's oldest and most esteemed citizens, who died at his home on Sunday evening, Jan. 12th.

Mr. Dalley had suffered for many years with locomotor ataxia. Until about ten days before his death, however, he had been able to walk to his office, and the serious nature of the disease was scarcely suspected. At that time, however, he caught cold and this developing into a malignant case of la grippe in conjunction with the chronic trouble, caused his death.

Edwin A. Dalley, a son of the late Edwin Dalley, who founded the business which bears his name, was born in Elgin county in 1844. When he was about two years of age his parents moved to Hamilton, and with the exception of a few years spent in business in New Haven, Conn., the deceased has always been a resident of that city. He was educated in the city schools and as a young man entered his father's business. For a number of years he traveled for the firm and in that time there was not a more popular man covering territory in Ontario. Later he became vice-president, and a good measure of the firm's success and growth is due to his energetic efforts.

As a citizen and a friend E. A. Dalley was also a man to be regarded very highly. He did not take a particularly active part in municipal affairs directly, except that for some years he held the vice-presidency of the Board of Trade, but through public discussion and letters to the press his sane judgment had much influence. He was a member of the Liberal-Conservative Association for some twenty years and for a year had been chairman of the Board of License Commissioners. He was also a prominent member of the Canadian Commercial Travelers' Association, being at one time president of the local board.

Mr. Dalley was connected with several fraternal institutions. He was perhaps best known as a Mason, but was also a member of Hiram Chapter, No. 2, R.A.M., of the Knights Templar, and of the Independent Order of Foresters.

He is survived by a widow and one son, Marvin Dalley.

THE LATE E. A. DALLEY.
Vice-President the F. F. Dalley Co., Hamilton.

The funeral, which was held on Wednesday, Jan. 15th, from the family residence, 122 Hughson street north, was very largely attended by citizens, friends, business acquaintances and representatives of the various fraternal organizations.

FIRM DINNER IN BIRMINGHAM.

A clipping from a recent issue of our esteemed contemporary, the English Grocer, gives an interesting account of a dinner enjoyed by the management, traveling and clerical staffs of Holbrooks, Ltd., which was held in Birmingham on Dec. 20th. Particular reference was made to Gilbert Nobbs, the company's Canadian representative, who by the way has just returned from the Old Land.

A. W. Malcolm, Wingham, Ont., has bought the grocery and crockery business of C. N. Griffin.

FIRST MATCH TO BROKERS.

Toronto Wholesalers' Hockey League Opens With Rousing Game.

The opening game of the Toronto Wholesale Grocers' Hockey League was played on 'Varsity rink on Friday evening, Jan. 10th, between the Brokers and the T. Kinnear Co. teams. After a rousing game the Brokers won with a score of 5—4, though the match was well fought all through. The losers were ahead at half-time. Though there were some evidences of lack of practice, the quality of hockey shown was pretty fair and was an evidence of the interest that may be expected in the league this season.

The line-up of the teams was as follows :

Brokers—Goal, Ferguson ; point, T. Millman ; cover point, May ; forwards, Webber, Blackburn and A. Millman.

T. Kinnear Co.—Goal, Marks ; point, Grimbleby ; cover point, Humphrey; forwards, Rennie, Long and Kinnear.

Wes. Lumbers made a pretty satisfactory referee.

The next game will be held to-night, ice permitting, between James Lumbers Co. and the fast Brokers.

Gordon B. Drake, grocer, of London, Ont., has made an assignment.

MARKETS CONTINUE FIRM

Cereals and Grain on About Last Week's Level—Favorable Reports from the West—Winnipeg Inspections.

The grain and cereal markets continue generally with about the same tone as at the time of last week's reports. In special sections, however, there is an appreciable change. In the west and east, for instance, flour and wheat are slightly stronger and these markets are very firm. Eastern shippers are doing a large business with Great Britain and European ports.

In Ontario, while the markets continue very firm, business seems slightly less brisk, the demand being appreciably easier.

Advices from the west from reliable sources state that the amount of wheat remaining in the farmers' hands is very small, the smallest since 1888, in proportion to the crop raised this year. There is a keen demand there for cash wheat and business in low export grades is notably better.

World's shipments for the past week were estimated at 8,000,000 bushels, compared with 7,963 last week and 8,672,000 a year ago. Russian and Danubian shipments were estimated at 640,000 bushels, as against 3,000,000 last year, Australian shipments, 512,000, last year 1,040,000.

Stocks of wheat at Port Arthur and Fort William increased 367,000 bushels during the week. Last year stocks at this time increased 465,000. The elevators at the two cities now hold 6,761,000 bushels, compared with 6,394,000 a week ago, and 3,175,000 in 1907.

Inspections at Winnipeg on Saturday showed a falling off from last week's average, but a small increase on the corresponding day in 1907. Grading returns were: No. 1 northern, 4 cars; No. 2 northern, 12 cars; No. 3 northern, 10 cars; No. 4, 6 cars; No. 5, 17 cars; No. 6, 14 cars; rejected and inferior, 35 cars; winter wheat, 2 cars; a total of 100 cars; last year, 86. Other inspections were: 12 cars of oats, 2 of barley and 9 of flax.

FLOUR AND COAL HIGHER IN FRANCE.

Parisian Bakers Cut Off Usual Presents of Cake to Customers.

The French papers are investigating the causes of the increase of living in that country. Among other interesting items brought out is the fact that bakers omitted to give presents of cake to their customers as usual this year. A despatch to a leading New York daily says: "Paris dentists will do less business this year, as fewer Parisians break their teeth on the little china doll which figures in the Twelfth Night cake. Until the present year this cake was sent as an annual present to customers by the Paris bakers, but on account of the increased cost of flour and coal, higher salaries, etc., they have decided they cannot afford any longer to do so."

CHATHAM CORRESPONDENCE.

That, with the commencement of the New Year, prosperity is beginning to resume her accustomed sway in Chatham, is the gist of an article which recently appeared in the Chatham News, giving a canvass of the most important Maple City industries. The article shows that factories have recommenced operations as usual after the annual "short time" period in December, and that the Maple City's business and industrial outlook for 1908 is certainly most encouraging.

At the inaugural meeting of the city council, held on Monday morning, the slate for the various committes for 1908 was formally adopted. Ald. Massey, who was chairman of the railway committee last year, has been promoted to the chairmanship of the property committee—Ex-Ald. Potter's old post. Ald. Massey is also a member of the industrial committee. Harry A. Andrew, the other grocer representative, is associated with Ald. Last week the market by-law was again to the fore. This time the various market square butchers were the victims, four of them, Messrs. Robert Keeley, Gordon Duff, Wm. Bodger and W. J. Easton, being charged with purchasing meat for the purpose of retailing, before the hour of 10 o'clock. In three cases the fine and costs amounted to $3.75, the amount in each case being paid before trial without going to court. In Mr. Bodger's case the matter went into court. The man from whom he purchased the meat brought it into his store, and he raised the question as to whether or not this constituted purchasing on the market. The magistrate, after carefully studying the by-law, held that it was. The words, "What is usually sold on the market" and "purchased directly or indirectly," he held came close enough to the point. Mr. Bodger admitted purchasing for retail, and was taxed $4.50. He declared that he would appeal.

Though grocers have repeatedly suffered from the 10 o'clock by-law, this is the first occasion on which the liability of the butchers has been brought into question. The butchers have always considered it perfectly proper to purchase whole hogs on the market before the legal hour. Mr. Easton, for instance, states that he has been doing this for a long time, and until the present had no idea that it was contrary to law.

"I am opposed to the by-law as much as I possibly can be," remarked Magistrate Houston, in the course of the Bodger case. "I have worked to eradicate the by-law for a long time, and it is now in better shape than years ago, when I started. If I had my way I would strike the whole clause out."

It is probable that the repeal of the clause in question will occupy the attention of the city council at an early date. A couple of years ago Ald. John Edmondson had the hour changed to 9 o'clock. Later, the council altered it to 10 o'clock. Now that Ald. Edmondson has been once more returned to the council, he states that he will again bring the matter up, and there is little doubt that he will receive quite a bit of support in the council, and a great deal out of it.

The item in last week's issue of The Grocer with reference to the Berlin Sugar Company desiring to pay beet growers in sugar finds no echo down this way. The Wallaceburg Sugar Company pays in good hard cash, every time. From all accounts the concern is in a most flourishing state, and sugar beets are now recognized as a staple crop throughout the western peninsula, beets being grown as far north as Bruce and as far west as Elgin and Middlesex—possibly further. The concern has profited largely by the permission recently granted by the Dominion Government to beet sugar companies, to import foreign raw sugar duty free in the proportion of two pounds of raw sugar for every pound of beet sugar manufactured in Canada. This enables the factory to run the greater part of the year, instead of three months, as would be the case if it had only beets to rely upon. At the present moment 70,000,000 pounds of raw sugar are on the way for refining after the conclusion of this year's beet campaign. The company state that they find a ready and growing market for their product.

THE DAIRYING INDUSTRY OF CANADA

Convention of Eastern Ontario Association at Picton Last Week Discusses Matters of Particular Interest to Trade.

The thirty-first annual convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, which was held in Picton last week, included discussion of several matters which are of special interest to the trade. The convention has been one of the best, both in point of attendance and the programmes carried out, in the history of the organization.

John R. Dargavel, M.L.A., of Elgin, president of the association, in his address regarding the outlook said:

"We regret to say that the dairy season of 1907, as far as the export movement is concerned, has been disappointing, showing a marked falling off from that of last year, as well as being short of the average of the past few seasons. The aggregate value of Canadian cheese and butter exports for 1907 will be about $23,000,000, against $29,000,000 in 1906.

"The small make of cheese this past year, compared with previous years, was due to the very late spring and poor pasturage. Throughout eastern Ontario the season was very backward owing to the continued cold weather which retarded growth. Towards the close of the season the make was reduced by the cold wet weather, coupled with the shortage and high prices of feed, which is used at this time to keep up the milk flow. Feed was so scarce at this time that many farmers sold stock at a great sacrifice. In our opinion this could have been remedied."

The matter of "whey" butter was quite comprehensively discussed and was discountenanced by experts in the industry and by representatives of the buyers at Montreal. G. G. Publow, chief dairy instructor and sanitary inspector for Ontario, thought that if the cheesemaker attempted to export whey butter there was a danger that the cheese industry might suffer, and that injury might be done to the reputation of Canadian butter. Should the system of skimming whey become generally adopted he feared that it might necessitate the passing of an act compelling the branding of all butter.

H. A. Hodson, as a Montreal buyer and member of the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association, warned the dairymen against the whey product. He stated that, whereas that kind of butter often tasted and looked as well as the regular article, the former would not keep well, even under the best cold-storage conditions.

J. Stonehouse, discussing the creamery outlook, testified that the butter in question would not keep satisfactorily. Tests made at the Kingston Dairy School had shown, he said, that the average cost for fuel alone in making 3 pounds of butter from 1,000 pounds of whey had been one and a half cents.

In reference to the faults in the present system of inspecting cheese, as pointed out by George A. Barr, of the Dominion Dairy Commission, the association passed the following resolution: "That this convention of dairymen would strongly urge upon factory men the necessity of branding consecutively each vat of cheese with a designated number, the same being placed upon the boxes the same as upon the cheese vat in order that a fair and proper inspection of each shipment may be made both by the buyers and the official referee at Montreal." The objection made to the present method of inspecting the cheese on its arrival in Montreal is that of one shipment the inspector in taking "any five" boxes may have selected cheese all made from one vat, and, therefore, perhaps all faulty. If these samples are adjudged below the standard the whole shipment is marked down. If the samples are considered "A1" the shipment may bring a higher price than it really is worth. In this way injustices are done both buyer and seller, whereas, as was pointed out by Mr. Barr, the five cheese may all have been of only one bad or good vat in the factory. The system recommended by him and referred to in the resolution would require one sample to be taken from each vat represented in the shipment.

It was the opinion of the association as expressed in another resolution that the Dominion Government should take such means as might be necessary to insure correct returns from the railway and steamboat companies as to the daily receipts and shipments of butter and cheese at and from Montreal, and that these returns be handed in to the Board of Trade daily. This resolution arose out of a plea for these returns made by A. A. Ayer, of the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association. A copy of a further resolution expressing the dairymen's appreciation of the Government's work in the interests of the industry is to be sent the Department of Agriculture.

Hudson's Bay Company's Flour Mill at Fort Vermilion.

Alex. Gordon, Toronto, has taken over the grocery business of Charles Dickin.

CANADA'S NORTHERNMOST FLOUR MILL.

In a recent issue of this paper a short article commenting on a unique souvenir, namely a little barrel of flour, sent out by the Winnipeg Free Press, told something about the location of the mills where the flour was ground. We have pleasure in presenting herewith a map of the Canadian northwest, showing the location of the Hudson's Bay Company's flour mill at Fort Vermilion and giving a good idea of the extent of the Canadian wheat belt. Fort Vermilion is 700 miles north of the international boundary, just 400 miles south of the Arctic Circle, and 650 miles from Hudson's Bay. The mill in which the flour was ground is shown on the opposite page.

This mill grinds flour from wheat grown in the Peace River district to supply the Hudson's Bay Company's far northern posts, and the settlers in the basins of the Peace and Mackenzie Rivers. It is worthy of note that the wheat grown in this district took first prize at the World's Fair in Chicago in 1893.

The flour which the Winnipeg Free Press sent out in its little barrels traveled first some 300 miles in a stern wheel steamer down the Peace River to Lake Athabasca and across to the mouth of the Athabasca River, thence by that river to Athabasca Landing, nearly 400 miles, in a york boat. It was then brought 100 miles by pack train to Edmonton, which is marked by a small circle on the map at the fork of the Canadian Northern Railway, and from Edmonton, by rail, 1,032 miles, to Winnipeg.

The cuts and statistics here given are furnished us by the courtesy of the Winnipeg Free Press, and were used in the booklet accompanying the little barrel of wheat souvenir mentioned in the former article.

This little barrel of wheat, by the way, with a card describing it, would make a very attractive feature for any grocer's window. The Free Press may still have some of these souvenirs on hand and if so, we are sure they would be glad to send one to any of our subscribers, who requests it, at the same time mentioning, as an assurance of good faith, that they saw the article in this paper.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

An Upward Tendency in Oranges—Sharp Advance Reported in Potatoes—Good Catch of Fish this Season.

During the past week fruits have been moving slowly. Dealers seem quite satisfied, however, with sales, considering the time of the year. Oranges have an upward tendency and advances have occurred in Mexicans and navels. Although the American lemon market has been firmer, conditions there have not been reflected in the market here, and as a result no advances are to be noticed. Apples are in heavy supply and selling according to quality. A steady demand prevails for Almerias.

The feature of the week in the vegetable market is the advance in potatoes. For a few weeks they have been rather easy, but a lot of poor stuff has been cleared out and better lots are coming. Very little rot is to be found in the Delawares. Other domestic vegetables continue to sell well. Considerable imported goods are being handled. New strawberries, tomatoes and mushrooms have arrived.

All lines of fish have been selling very briskly and big sales are being made. The catch so far has been good in spite of much bad weather. Supplies are satisfactory. Prices are generally firm.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—Demand has been quite satisfactory for this time of the year. Navels are on the market in considerable quantities this week. Cranberries have dropped. Almerias are selling steadily. Prices remain firm for all lines.

TAKING SALT FROM THE OCEAN.

Description of a New Industry Carried out Extensively in California—Gathered in Summer, Refined in Winter.

"Transforming ocean water into salt is a wonderful process, and nowhere is it carried on to greater advantage than in a plant situated midway between San Pedro and Long Beach, where nature has supplies the necessary, low, level country, clean ocean water and warm sunshine in abundance," says the New York Commercial, in a recent issue.

"Salt has been gathered in this location for more than nine years, and the best method yet worked out is as follows:

"Pure water from the Pacific is pumped into ponds. It lies in these ponds, gravitating from one to another, until in fifty or sixty days, according to the weather, it becomes a saturate solution—brine—and is pumped into crystallizing vats. There are twenty-six of these, each averaging 50,000 square feet. Here the salt water crystallizes to a depth of more than one foot, while all impurities remain in the water and are drawn off through small ditches.

"This water contains epsom salts, magnesium chloride calcium chloride, potassium chloride and a small per cent. of sodium bromide, which until now has all gone to waste. November 1, however, a contrivance was put in for saving the magnesium chloride. There are great advantages in ocean water over the water of Salt Lake as a source of salt, for the former is purer and contains no alkali.

"When the water has been drawn off, a force of men invades the crunching salt to shovel it up in longs winnows, much as eastern white wings do snow. When in this condition the enormous quantities of salt consumed can best be realized, for great ridges of it, sparkling in the sun, stretch away for acres; yet this company supplies only Southern California and Arizona. There it partly dries, is shoveled on small cars, dumped into a big one, and finally piled on a broad belt that carries it into the storage mill at the rate of twenty tons in twenty-five minutes. From the storage mill are sent annually many tons of salt for its first and crudest uses—for cattle and to freeze ice cream. About one-fourth of the output is consumed in this way.

"The remainder is drawn up through pipes into a loft, and forced through a crusher; then it is ready for pickling and meat packing. When not taken at this point it is blown through a drier, a tremendous iron cylinder which, revolving, tosses the salt about with hot air currents and dries it thoroughly, when it becomes fit for making glazed tile and sewer pipes and preparing hides. It is next ground in an attrition mill, and this time shaken through a sifter of silk and copper screen, which leaves it in condition for bakers' use and to send out in sacks for common cooking.

The sacking machine is worth describing. It is fed through a chute from the loft, which distributes the salt into small metal tubes, from which it empties into one and three-fourths pound sacks, filling 4,000 per hour. These latter, when full, close automatically and drop off and are carried away on a revolving belt. Only one operator is necessary, but she is kept busy hanging empty bags on the tubes.

"One final rolling and sifting machine to fit the salt for table use, when it is boxed, a clean and absolutely chemically pure product, of which more than 200,000 two-pound packages are sent out each month. In addition to this, much salt is put up with one-half percentage of calcium hydrate, many persons preferring it so, as it runs more freely. These packages are carefully labeled in accordance with the Pure Food laws.

"Nothing is thrown away. Every waste salt is utilized. The sifters and grinding machines cast out great quantities of powder. Much of it flies around the loft, settling everywhere and giving a weird, ghostly appearance to the place. But the greater part runs into a storeroom, from where carloads are sent out to the bean fields of Ventura, to kill morning glories that choke out the bean vines.

"In crystallizing, salt invariably forms in box shapes, or cubes, whereas gypsum, which crystallizes while the water is still in one of the settling ponds, takes the form of a dainty flower.

"To sum the matter up, it requires twenty-four processes to make refined salt, and the services of many men and women and tons of machinery. As winter rains prevent evaporation, the salt must be gathered only during the summer. The winter months are given to refining it. The work is agreeable and healthful, and therefore laborers are easily procured. Since the Colorado River destroyed the tremendous works at Salt Sea prices have again come back to normal, leaving this one of the profitable enterprises of the day."

French papers have been inquiring recently into the cause of the increased cost of living in that country. One of its compilers of data says the telephone and telegraph inform the raisers of live stock of the metropolitan prices so soon that they can thus arrange their own prices, generally raising them. The sheep and cattle and the produce markets territorially in France are so small, compared with America, that the whole country is affected almost immediately.

OYSTERS

Few people realize the amount of labor and capital required to produce a first-class grade of cultivated oysters. To obtain their proper size they must be 5 years old; be transplanted at least twice when they become too thick to other grounds; the grounds must be continually patrolled and dragged to capture the star fish, which pierces the young oyster and destroys it. They must be gathered, opened, washed, measured, shipped, practically the same day to ensure freshness.

Hamilton Firm Make Claim as Regards Recent Tea Seizure.

An article in these columns last week gave particulars of the seizure of a shipment of tea of alleged non-passable quality by the U.S. customs authorities at Buffalo. This report came exclusively from the U.S. customs officials.

In an attempt to get at the real facts of the case, a request was made from the firm concerned, Balfour & McLaren, Hamilton, as to their side of the matter. In reply to this the following letter has been received:

"Editor The Canadian Grocer,
"Toronto.

"Replying to your favor of January 8th re shipment of tea to the United States by us last May. The exporters of this line of tea are one of the most reliable firms in Ceylon, and have mailed us cheque for the full amount of this shipment. This tea was not bought on actual sample by us, and we knew nothing of it being refused entry at New York, and cannot understand why it did not go through. It was sold to one of the best wholesale grocers in the United States, after he and his broker had tested the actual sample.

When we were advised that this entry was refused, and that the tea would be confiscated in a few days, we placed the facts of the case before the British Ambassador at Washington, and it is now in the hands of the Government and Ceylon shippers, and we have no further interest in the matter. The Canadian Government tea expert at Ottawa made no mistake in passing this line, as we have submitted samples of this tea to the leading tea men in Canada and United States, who are unanimous in declaring the tea sound, and of good quality, and we cannot understand the action of the United States appraiser in refusing this tea. We are.

"Yours truly,
"BALFOUR & McLAREN."

FUTURE TEA MARKET IN JAPAN.

Interview With Large Canadian Importer of Japans—Markets Likely to be Materially Higher this Year.

In an interview with Shaw T. Nishimura, kf Shaw T, Nishimura, tea importer and commission merchant, 55 St. Francois Xavier street, Montreal, recently, Mr. Nishimura dealt very strongly on "The Future Tea Markets in Japan."

Mr. Nishimura arrived in Montreal from Japan, Friday, Jan, 3, after an absence of two years, in which time he was looking after the firm's interests on the other side, in procuring choice blends of tea for their customers in Canada and the United States.

He finds that merchants in Canada doing business with his firm are very well satisfied from every standpoint. Further, Mr. Nishimura has lived in Canada for quite a number of years, and owing to this fact is well acquainted with the wants of his customers. He intends leaving for Japan for the new season in a short time, but at present is calling on the trade here.

The tea market in Japan, from his standpoint, for Canada during the past season, has been a very high one. At the commencement of the season it looked as though Japan might have had a reasonable market, but being in want of both medium and low grades of tea, which were not manufactured so freely, owing partly to the high cost of living and also the recent Russo-Japanese war, as it was found that manufacturers could get more money in preparing the higher class of goods at the same cost as the lower grades. There is not, practically speaking, one package of any kind of tea left in Japan, as all stocks were cleaned out, so that even home consumption is suffering. As a result, native retailers are compelled to raise their prices.

Throughout Mr. Nishimura's trip, especially in the United States, he found stocks kept in first hands seemingly very light and the scarcity of tea in Japan at present, also the reason of high living at home will draw conclusions to the fact that the coming season will bring forth even a much higher market.

A STORY OF PROGRESS.

An announcement that ought to be of interest to every reader of The Grocer is that the "Salada" Tea Co., in another part of this week's issue.

They report an increase of 22 per cent. in their Canadian business in 1907 over the previous year. This practically means that where four pounds of "Salada" were sold in 1906, five pounds were sold in 1907. It tells a story in figures that is unique in mercantile business, and which reflects the appreciation of the public not only for "Salada," but quite as much for the merchant who serves his customers with the best that can be had. When one looks around at the position of the merchants in any given town, he will always find that the one dealing in the highest grade goods is in the best financial position, and invariably the one striving by the aid of inferior goods to better his profit is in no enviable position. When the public are consuming they forget the cost and only think of quality. It is so with every article on a grocer's shelves, but particularly so with tea.

MARKETS STEADY IN NOVA SCOTIA

Quietness Rules in Province's Business—Butter and Poultry Scarce and High—Unusual Situation in the Lobster Industry.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 15, 1908.

The Maritime grocery markets are very steady at present, and prices will not likely change for some time. Trade is very quiet at present, and will likely continue so until the opening up of the spring business. The market is well supplied with all lines, and there is no scarcity of anything at present, with the exception of butter. The latter is very high and no relief is in sight. Some small tubs of fresh made butter were marketed during the past week, and while the demand for butter is good, this stock sold very slowly, owing to the practically prohibitive price. The local consumers have not in the past paid such a high price as 34c per pound for butter, and, therefore, they do not care about doing it now. A large retailer informed The Grocer recently that his sales of butter have fallen off very greatly of late, and others in the same line of business make the same report. There is only one cause for this, he said—the high price. People have substituted other things for butter and limit their purchases of the latter.

The market is fairly well supplied with eggs, and good fresh stock is easily obtainable in small quantities at a reasonable price. The mild weather has greatly aided the receipts and new-laid can be bought for 30c per dozen. The demand for eggs is light, and the dealers are not turning very many over at the present time.

The receipts and shipments of apples are falling off, and there is not very much first-class stock on the market now, though there are still large quantities stored in the warehouses in the valley. Most of those who have first-class apples are holding their stock for higher prices, and when the market is bare they will likely get what they ask.

Poultry is now very scarce and the dealers find considerable difficulty in securing sufficient to meet the demands of their customers. At the close of last week there were not more than a few hundreds of pounds of turkeys and chickens on the market.

John A. Neville, of Halifax, one of the largest exporters of lobsters in Canada, says that the catch of last year was only about 75 per cent. of the catch of 1906, due to the boisterous weather in the early months of the year. The price of lobsters has advanced greatly in recent years, and Mr. Neville states that in many districts the prices paid the fishermen are treble the figures of fifteen years ago. The lobster canners, among whom there is keener competition, perhaps, than in any other known trade, have not in many instances made any profit whatever. Mr. Neville says that prices must decline in order that the consumption may not be curtailed.

Fifteen years ago a case of one-pound flat lobsters, containing forty-eight pounds of meat, could be purchased for eight dollars. The past season, for strictly fancy Newfoundland and south coast of Nova Scotia qualities, as high as sixteen dollars and fifty cents per case was paid. That the consuming world cannot stand such increases as this must surely be admitted.

One of the conditions which perhaps was the discrimination made by Germany as against Canadian lobsters, brought about an advance in price, on account of the surtax placed on German goods by the Government of Canada. This discrimination resulted in the restriction of the markets in Germany to the purchasing of the Newfoundland product and when the quantity of lobsters produced in Newfoundland was not found adequate to the demand in Germany, Canadian lobsters had to be purchased and the extra duty paid. Then, when Newfoundland lobsters were obtainable, the extra price including the extra duty was demanded and had by Newfoundland sellers. The result of this in turn brought about a higher price in the outside markets for Canadian lobsters. Thus an advance engineered through Germany's endeavor to retaliate against Canada has resulted beneficially to the lobster industry.

M. B. Garrett, who has been in the grocery business in Calgary, Alta., has made an assignment.

NEW BRUNSWICK TRADE QUIET

Flour and Feed Markets Exceedingly Strong—Large Grain Shipments to Great Britain—Proposed New Steamship Line.

Special Correspondence of The Canadian Grocer.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 15.

Business in grocery circles has been very quiet here during the past two weeks, The wholesalers and some of the retailers have been busy taking stock and there has, consequently, not been much activity in the trade. There has been practically no change in prices.

The flour and feed market is very strong and merchants are looking for higher prices. In Carleton county hay has dropped to $7 and $8 a ton, which is $4 or $5 less than it was a month ago. Oats, too, have declined and are now offered at 45c a bushel. As a result travelers who are quoting Ontario and P.E.I. oats at figures above 50c are unable to do any business, as the dealers are all stocking up with the Carleton county product at the lower figure.

The shipments of grain from the port of St. John for the season of 1907-08 will be the largest in the history of the port. Both the C.P.R. and I.C.R. elevators are full and heavy shipments are going forward to Great Britain, on every steamer. The shipments from the C.P.R. elevator up to the present time total 1,444,179 bushels, while there are 954,000 bushels now in the elevators or in cars on the tracks. Contracts have been made up to April 1 for over 6,000,000 bushels and in addition to this there will be the April shipments, which are always very heavy. The I.C.R. elevator has handled over 1,000,000 bushels up to the present time, as compared with about 400,000 bushels last year, which was the biggest amount previously handled.

That the year 1907 was not a favorable one for the harbor fishermen was shown at the annual sale of the fisheries on January 7, when the amount realized for the privileges was $1,912 less than in January, 1907. The total amount received by the city from the sales this year was $4,271.90, as compared with $6,186.90 last year.

At the regular monthly meeting of the St. John Board of Trade, held on Jan. 7, J. H. McRobbie, who was re-elected president at the annual meeting in December, resigned the office, owing to business and personal reasons. The resignation was accepted, but the matter of electing a president was left over until the February meeting. It was decided to hold a banquet for members of the board at an early date.

A letter from Hon. Wm. Pugsley, Minister of Public Works, enclosing a communication from Hon. Mr. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, in reference to the petition from the fishermen of Chance and Dipper harbors, asking for the erection of a dogfish reduction plant, was read. Mr. Brodeur pointed out that the experience of the department with the reduction works already erected was not such as to encourage them in erecting more. He also said that as there appeared to be a prospect of a considerable abatement of the pest, there did not seem to be such a pressing need of reduction works.

W. F. Hatheway criticized the statement in the letter that the results from the reduction plants were not as beneficial as could be desired. He referred to the statement made at the Maritime board meeting that the works at Canso had been of great benefit, He thought that a reduction factory ought to be erected in the Bay of Fundy, as asked for by the fishermen of St. John and Gloucester counties.

The motion was adopted, it being understood that the representatives named communicate with the residents in the vicinity of the plants already established.

The council reported that they were in receipt of a communication from a gentleman in Havana, stating that it is proposed to start a steamship line from Boston to Havana, and suggesting that St. John might be included in the itinerary. As he expects to be in Halifax shortly, the council has invited him to come to St. John and talk the matter over with the merchants here.

Reid Chase, of Hartland, has decided to sell out his fruit and tobacco business at that place. Miss Janet McMullin, will occupy the premises for her fruit and confectionery business.

Theodore H. Estabrooks returned home on Thursday from a trip to Toronto and Montreal.

The Question of Cost

It is not a question of how much it will cost you to buy a Bowser Tank, but how much it is now costing you to be without one.

The Bowser Self-Measuring Oil Tank will save all the money you are now losing through evaporation, leakage, waste and carelessness; that is, enough to repay the purchase price of a Bowser many times over.

Surely such an oil tank is at least worth investigating and an investigation will cost you but one cent. Just use a postal to ask us for catalog B and we will send it with full information and prices.

If you have an old Bowser, and want a new one, write for our liberal exchange offer.

Remember
This Important Fact

¶ The makers of Cox's Gelatine believe that "Honesty is the Best Policy." It has paid them handsomely to conduct their business along that line—at its inception the founders laid down stringent rules for its safe progress. And they have never deviated from these rules.

COX'S Gelatine

¶ No chemicals of any sort or nature enter into the manufacture of this world famous product. It is as pure as it is possible for a Gelatine to be. And whether you buy it in the shredded or powdered form it is always the same. Remember "Cox's" for its absolute purity.

What is Our Experience Worth to You?

Ever since we commenced business, the same thought, the same effort and the same careful attention has been given to "SALADA" Tea. This experience, gained by meeting and surmounting actual problems in the tea business, is your strongest guarantee of efficiency and absolute reliability.

Our enormously increasing sales are conclusive proof that the public are finding out in increasing numbers every year that they are best served when they purchase "SALADA" TEA.

The accompanying table furnishes a practical illustration of the reward we have received for serving the public well. If you are not satisfied with the condition of your tea trade, we will be very pleased to give our careful attention to a letter from you.

OUR SIXTEEN YEARS' EXPERIENCE IS AT YOUR SERVICE.

For EVERY ONE-POUND PACKAGE of "Salada" sold in 1892 (our first year) we sold in 1893, 2 Lbs.

1894, 5 Lbs.
1895, 12 Lbs.
1896, 21 Lbs.
1897, 40 Lbs.
1898, 56 Lbs.
1899, 76 Lbs.
1900, 89 Lbs.
1901, 103 Lbs.
1902, 114 Lbs.
1903, 144 Lbs.
1904, 161 Lbs.
1905, 191 Lbs.
1906, 235 Lbs.
1907, 278 Lbs.

Therefore for every ONE POUND of "Salada" sold in 1892, we sold TWO HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-EIGHT POUNDS in 1907.

BY FAR THE LARGEST SALE OF ANY TEA IN AMERICA.

DURING THE SIXTEEN YEARS THAT "SALADA" HAS BEEN BEFORE THE PUBLIC WE HAVE HAD OVER SEVENTY-FIVE IMITATORS OF OUR STYLE OF PACKET, BUT ABSOLUTELY NONE OF THEM EVER SUCCEEDED IN IMITATING "SALADA" QUALITY. THE PUBLIC SOON FOUND THIS OUT. WHERE ARE OUR SEVENTY-FIVE IMITATORS TO-DAY?

Windsor Salt

There wasn't a cent's worth of Windsor Salt found in the stock of John Smith, the grocer, who failed last week. Way up on the shelves, though, were no less than six different kinds of salt under various names—every package, box and bag of it was dirty and fly-specked.

Seems as if every successful retail grocer in Canada sold Windsor Salt—grocers who are not tempted to buy "just as good" kinds for the saving in price. Poor John Smith was tempted too far! No Windsor Salt for him—rather have dirty salt, salt that cakes, salt that's not all salt, salt sold for its attractive name than the pure white, dry salt crystals of Windsor Salt.

The New Canadian Co-operative Act

Discussion of Measure Brought Forward Last Year by Mr. Monk Which is Now Being Carried Through by Government—Co-operative Societies Not a Pronounced Success in Canada.

From our Special Ottawa Correspondent.

Hon. Rudolph Lemieux, Postmaster-General and Minister of Labor, has just returned from the far east, and as soon as the Japanese immigration question is disposed of the Minister will take up one of the most important measures affecting the working classes, both agricultural and artisan, which has been before Parliament in recent years. As the Industrial Disputes Act is generally spoken of as the Lemieux Act, so the act respecting co-operation which will become law this session, unless something unforeseen happens, will be known as the Monk Co-operation Act. Mr. Monk introduced his bill originally in the session of 1906. After the second reading it was referred to the committee on banking and commerce, and there it was held up for the remainder of the session. The member for Jacques Cartier reintroduced the bill last session, and his suggestion that it be referred to a special committee of the House was accepted by the Government. Several meetings of the committee were held, many important witnesses were heard, both for and against the measure, and the outcome was a unanimous report recommending the adoption of Mr. Monk's bill by Parliament with a few changes. Mr. Lemieux, who was chairman of the special committee, gave a specific pledge to the House that he would take charge of Mr. Monk's bill this year as a Government measure, and for this reason it will readily be understood that the bill is bound to become law. In very few instances in this country is a Government measure ever defeated, and it will require the strongest possible pressure to induce the Government to depart from its promise with regard to this particular bill.

The Legislation Outlined.

The bill last year was entitled, "An Act Respecting Industrial and Co-operative Societies." This year, however, it is known simply as "An Act Respecting Co-operation." Its special object is "to provide for the creation and organization of industrial and co-operative societies among the farming and laboring classes of Canada." It is proposed to place the administration of the Act under the Minister of Labor by application to the Department of Labor. Any number of persons, but not less than seven, may be incorporated as a co-operative society. The corporate name of the society shall not conflict with that of any existing organization. The shares are to be determined by by-laws of the society, but no share shall be less than one dollar. No society is to be permitted to carry on the business of credit and savings, unless such society lays aside twenty per cent. of its yearly net profits in order to establish a fund to meet losses. The advancing of money by loan, discount or otherwise, or the acceptance of deposits from any person other than members of the society is prohibited. The banking operations are to be limited to the electoral division in which the head office is situated, except in the case of cities which may be composed of one or more electoral divisions, such as Toronto and Hamilton, when in such case the Minister may authorize the society to transact business within the limits of the city. In the case of co operative banks, the members of the board of management shall not have the right to borrow, either directly or indirectly, from the society. Provision is also made in the act for a board of supervision, for annual returns to the department, for the inspection of books, for investments, for the adjusting of disputes between members, for the amalgamation of several societies within the same district. The schedules to the act contain the form of application to the Department of Labor for incorporation, draft rules of societies incorporated under the act; and the form of the annual return to be furnished to the Government.

It will be gathered from the foregoing synopsis that considerable care has been bestowed upon the provisions with respect to co-operative banking, but it will be readily understood that the machinery provided will apply to any class of distributing society.

The testimony adduced before the special committee last session was of a most interesting character. Much was said with regard to co-operative banking, but in addition considerable information was forthcoming regarding the work of distributing societies in different countries.

Co-operative Credit Societies.

Alphonse Desjardins, president and manager of "La Caisse Populaire de Levis" (The People's Bank of Levis) was examined specially with regard to the co-operative savings and credit features of the bill. He stated that he had given special attention to the co-operative societies of Europe and had for ten years enjoyed an active interchange of correspondence with many continental leaders of the movement. Mr. Desjardins referred to the educative feature of co-operation on the poorer classes as a valuable factor and traced the reasons for this. He explained in detail the methods of operation in the credit associations established under the co-operative system, and particularly the plan of the Caisse Populaire at Levis, Que. Levis is a town of 7,000 with an industrial population, the industries being railways, foundries, one or two machine shops, and a shoe factory. Some of the country around Levis is included in the scope of the People's Bank. By-laws were adopted on December 6, 1900, about 50 citizens being at first associated together. On January 25, 1901, the first semi-monthly financial statement showed assets of $242. On January 21, 1907, the total assets were $48,775. Mr. Desjardins explained how the capital had been got together, the system of loans and the general conduct of the business of the association, which during six years had loaned over $200,000 and had not lost one cent. This was not exceptional, Mr. Desjardins contended. He mentioned a letter he had received from Luigi Luzzatti, chairman of the Popular Bank Association of Italy, in which that gentleman stated that in 41 years' experience with 800 popular banks, the loss amounted to one-tenth of a cent on each two thousand francs loan for the whole period. Mr. Desjardins gave his view of the reasons for so small a loss in co-operative banks. Discussing the expenses of the operation of the Levis Bank, Mr. Desjardins stated that during the six years of its existence they had amounted to $547, including cost of printing. The whole work of the association was done without salary or indemnity, and the office was in his own house. Mr. Desjardins explained in detail the system of auditing, but showed that to a large degree the operations of the society were based on the character of the individual mmber, a vital point in connection with which was that all the members were well-known to each other and were mutually interested in protecting the interests of the association.

Mr. Desjardins mentioned that a year after the Levis Bank had started a similar institution had been established at St. Joseph de Levis, and two years ago a third was established at St. Malo; both the latter are doing well.

Mr. Desjardins gave as his opinion that the five or six co-operative societies which had been started during the past 20 years in Montreal and had gone to pieces, were not genuine co-operative associations; they were so in name, not in fact. He laid before the committee the by-laws governing the expulsion of members of the Levis Bank to show the care exercised with regard to the question of membership and especially as to the trustworthiness of each member.

Co-operation in Agriculture.

Mr. Desjardins quoted figures which show that there are in France now 18,000 co-operative agricultural associations, established for various purposes and including thousands of village banks. The membership is over 800,000. There were even co-operative associations for the insurance of cattle, insurance of crops against hail, for almost all purposes imaginable, which purposes could not be approached at all with profit, he supposed, by the industrial insurance system. Banking or loaning co-operation had developed wonderfully in Germany, while other aspects of co-operation had been neglected. Similarly, distributive co-operation had been the special form developed in England; and productive co-operation up to about ten years ago had been better developed in France than elsewhere. Each country had its particular needs and those needs had to be satisfied by peculiar associations. In Canada, it might be found necessary to amalgamate two or three present forms of co-operation, or a new form might be evolved adapted to those districts where colonization is proceeding. Mr. Desjardins had had no practical experience of distributive co-operation, but from what he had read and studied, he saw no reason why success could not be achieved in other forms of co-operation.

F. O. Dugas, member for Montcalm, stated that in the county of Montcalm the average crop of tobacco was between three and four million pounds. He had studied the present bill and thought its provisions would be of great use to the farmers of his county. In Canada tobacco was put on the market without being properly cured. In the United States farmers who grew tobacco dried it in their sheds, and it was then sold to other parties who redried, cured and sorted it. There was no such thing as this latter procedure in Canada. He was quite sure, if the bill became law, making it possible for a company to be easily formed, there would not be one, but several societies of the kind organized in his county. There were about 25 tobacco traders in the county, each of whom made at least $1,000 a year, representing $25,000 a year taken from the farmers of Montcalm. The dealers sold the tobacco to the manufacturers without improving it, acting as agents only.

J. A. Ruddick, Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner, of the Department of Agriculture, stated that he thought there was a strong disposition in Canada amongst dairy farmers and fruit growers towards the co-operative movement. Most of the cheese factories of Quebec Province contained the germ of the co-operative principle, inasmuch as the farmers consented to bring their milk to one point to have it manufactured. In some cases the farmers owned the factory. There were some that were truly co-operative factories, but a great many were purely joint stock companies. Referring to the success of co-operative methods in Danish agriculture, Mr. Ruddick stated that the first co-operative creameries were established in Denmark in 1882, and there were now over 1,100 in the country, besides about 200 privately owned concerns. He traced the growth of the movement and showed the remarkable effect it had had in developing the dairy industry of Denmark. He though in the long run the establishment of co-operative societies on a similar basis in Canada would have the same result. He instanced the fruit industry particularly, as one to which the movement might be applied with advantage. The great lack in the apple trade was that of organization. There were, however, 25 associations of a co-operative character already established in Canada, and working very successfully. Mr. Ruddick indicated the names of these associations, all of which were located in Ontario, and read a copy of the by-laws by which they were respectively governed. The capital stock was held in shares of a dollar and no member could hold more than 20 shares.

Canadian Conditions Not Favorable.

Prof. Adam Shortt, of Queen's University, Kingston, thought Mr. Monk's measure suited to a number of Canadian industries. Co-operation was to be found in its chief working in Europe, where the conditions were favorable and many different organizations had been developed. Prof. Shortt indicated the special forms of co-operation that different parts of Europe had developed, and commented on the peculiar fluidity of capital and labor in America, which was not tied to locality so much as in Europe. The consequence was that the tendency to concentrate labor and capital in the same locality was not so necessary nor so developed. At the same time, there were certain lines in which co-operation in the form indicated in the bill was very necessary to supplement our process. Many of the co-operative movements in agriculture in Western Ontario had been eminently successful. He approved the general principles of the bill, but took some exception to the banking phase of the measure. He particularly dwelt on the difference in the banking methods of the North American continent and of Europe. The witness also proceeded to discuss the application of the co-operative method to different businesses.

A. McNeil, head of the fruit division of the Department of Agriculture, gave evidence showing the excellent results of co-operation as applied to the apple industry in Western Ontario. Such organizations usually originated in the action of eight or ten or more farmers who made a mutual agreement to put their fruit into the hands of a manager for sale and did not otherwise organize. A step beyond this is taken where the farmers had organized under the Cold Storage Act in Ontario, and under similar Acts in British Columbia and Nova Scotia.

The witness explained various ways in which co-operation would, in his opinion, prevent the waste of fruit and gave in some detail the plan of operation of the existing associations.

There was no more effective way, he believed, speaking as chief of the fruit division, of enforcing the Fruit Marks Act than by organizing apple growing districts into co-operative associations. There was every incentive for the members to obey the law and see that it was observed.

Help Officials to Buy Cheaper.

W. L. Mackenzie King, C.M.G., Deputy Minister of Labor, said he had spent a year in Europe investigating industrial conditions, and during that time went carefully into the question of co-operation in England and on the Continent. Mr. King outlined the character of different co-operative associations organized by the students at Harvard, and explained their working. He thought a co-operative society would be a great advantage to the members of the civil service in Ottawa, and would increase their income on an average by 10 or 15 per cent. Mr. King read to the committee the views of Prof. Robertson, as to what the co-operative movement had accomplished in the development of agricultural industries in Canada, particularly dairying. He placed in the hands of the committee official reports of various other co-operative enterprises in Canada, and read a communication from the correspondent of the Labor Gazette, at Guelph, with regard to a co-operative association which had been formed there among workingmen with a view to meeting what they thought were excessive prices being charged for bread. The Guelph Co-operative Association, which was started as a consequence, had proved very successful.

Mr. King also brought to the attention of the committee the co-operative movement introduced among the fishermen on the coast of Labrador by Dr. W. T. Grenfell, the well-known medical missionary of that region.

Asked by Mr. Verville, whether under the proposed Act, 500 of the laboring people in a city could establish a co-operative bank for themselves, Mr. King replied: "They could start a co-operative society for the purpose of obtaining credits. I think the use of the word "banking" is a misnomer; it is rather a system of mutual credit based on knowledge."

Unquestionably, he thought, in a large city of 300,000 and more, such a credit system could be established so as to help the members. "I think what would happen in a good many cities is that the men who had formed themselves into trade unions would very likely form associations also for the purpose of mutual credit." Mr. King did not think organized labor in Canada had given much consideration to the question of co-operation, save in districts such as

Nanaimo and Cape Breton, where there were men from the Old Country who had seen the movement. Mr. King believed the present measure would permit of credit societies being formed and would, he thought, deal a blow at the usurer. He added that the workingmen might hope, by means of the co-operative movement, to improve their standard of living by decreasing the cost of living, and he was inclined to think that "as the co-operative movement makes headway we will find industrial strife begin to diminish in proportion."

Governor-General Favors Law.

His Excellency, Earl Grey, Governor-General of Canada, appeared before the committee by request and made a statement of his views on the subject of co-operation. Lord Grey said he was president of the International Co-operative Alliance, the object of which was "to make known to civilized peoples of the world what are the methods and aims of co-operation, to explain the principle and to point out the methods by which that principle can be applied to the industrial life of the people." He did not propose to refer in any way to the provisions of the bill before the committee. He had visited the Caisse Populaire at Levis and he believed the bank started by Mr. Desjardins had already proved a great assistance to many, and it appeared to him to have this distinctive feature, that while it did much good it did no harm. He had satisfied himself from an examination of the books of the association that it was conducted on safe business lines.

Earl Grey commented on "the remarkable and most encouraging success which had followed the establishment of agricultural banks in Continental Europe and in Ireland and India," and gave what he believed to be the reasons for this success. His Excellency proceeded to indicate the result of his reading and observations as to the working of co-operative institutions in various European countries. Starting with Denmark, the Governor-General showed how the movement had originated in 1864, and that there were now nearly 1,000 societies with nearly 200,000 members; this for a population of under 2,500,000. His Excellency indicated the industries to which the movement was applied, dwelling particularly on the co-operative dairy started 25 years ago, and now exporting $12,000,000 to $13,000,000 yearly to English co-operators alone.

In Ireland the first co-operative society was established in 1889, and now contained 891 co-operative societies affiliated with the Irish Agricultural Organization Society, with a total membership of 90,000 members and a trade turnover for 1905 of $10,000,000. The co-operative association included 300 creameries, 150 agricultural societies and 230 credit societies, and there were, in addition, poultry associations, flax societies, beekeepers' societies, and various home industries' societies.

The chairman (Hon. Mr. Lemieux) remarked that the Minister of Finance had stated that he would not object to the bill provided the word "bank" is not used; the bill could be amended to avoid the use of that word.

Retail Merchants in Opposition.

The bulk of the testimony before the committee was in favor of the co-operative principle, but the opposition side was also heard, Mr. E. M. Trowern, of Toronto, Dominion Secretary to the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, representing 10,000 merchants, said he had been delegated, together with Mr. Beaudry, the Dominion Treasurer, to submit to the committee such information as they had on the subject of co-operation. He read the following resolution which had been passed by the Dominion Board of the association, viz.:

"That whereas a bill has been introduced at Ottawa by Mr. Monk, asking the government to endorse co-operative societies, and to give them special privileges to the detriment of the retail trade, that this association do all in their power to defeat this measure."

The board had obtained the opinion of the various branches before passing the resolution. The witness took exception to the measure as not attempting to form co-operative societies among the farmers and laboring people by enabling them to work together and pool their money together and divide the profits. It aimed at giving the farmers and laboring people of the country "an opportunity of combining together, getting any one's capital that they might like to get, and by combining, to destroy the retail and wholesale merchants of this country." In the first place the bill dealt with trade and commerce, and should come under the Department of Trade and Commerce if brought into effect, and not that of labor. He objected to the clause that authorized municipalities to invest their money in these societies. He regarded it as a trap laid for the uneducated people who knew nothing of trade and commerce. In Scotland, co-operation had destroyed the retail and wholesale business and it had been done by offering dividends to the public to buy in these stores, which had congested and centralized trade. Mr. Trowern claimed the measure was unfair to the retailer because the officers of the association could not be reached as easily as an ordinary merchant in the event of his misrepresenting the goods he sold. He stated: "If the bill goes through, you will require a specific clause inserted that the president or secretary of these co-operative societies should be held responsible for the deeds of these societies, as we are as retail merchants." Mr. Trowern further claimed that experience in Scotland had proved that, "the man in the co-operative concern who does the buying from the manufacturer has had paid over to him without the full knowledge of his confreres certain moneys for himself to divert trade into the co-operative channel."

Law Gives Special Privileges.

W. C. Ellis, of Ottawa, made the following statement with reference to a remark by Mr. Monk concerning the object of the bill: "Mr. Monk has mentioned what, to my mind, is the whole point of the objection I would take to this bill; if the retail merchant, or any other merchant, wholesaler, or anybody else, wants to form a company, he has to pay for a charter in order to do so. These people are asking for the privilege without paying for it. That is where the unfair competition comes in. The poor retailer in the city has been living here and paying his taxes in order to do business. He has been paying clerks and paying taxes, and he has been an advantage to the city. And now the people themselves, who have been the retailer's customers, we will say, want to reap the little profits that he has been making. They want to get together, but they don't want to pay the couple of hundred dollars necessary to get a charter. But if that merchant wanted to start a company, he would have to get a charter. That is the whole thing; that is unfair to the retailer."

Mr. Beaudry, of Montreal, Dominion treasurer of the Retailers' Association of Canada, gave evidence along the same lines as that of Mr. Trowern and Mr. Ellis. He said the great problem in business to-day was this; quality, quantity, and price had to be considered, and in any business transaction these considerations could not be ignored. The bill would permit the operation of co-operative societies by which the members could go direct to the source of supply for their goods, thus doing away with the middleman's profit. The bill also proposed to permit members of co-operative societies to do their own banking. The preamble declared that the bill was for the poor man. This could not be so because a poor man would be out of it. The man who wanted to go into business must have capital, and a co-operative society similarly must have capital. The principle of the bill reversed the system of distribution of goods. There was no way to distribute goods cheaper than through the wholesaler and retailer. If they could produce evidence to him that goods could be distributed in Canada to-day at less cost than through the wholesaler and retailer he would be in favor of the bill. He would not say that the banking privilege granted by the measure would hurt the retail men but if men inexperienced in banking were allowed to carry on such business, and they failed, it would discredit banking in Canada.

Co-operators Avoid Personal Responsibility.

The evidence of this witness was challenged by several members of the committee. Mr. Smith, of Nanaimo, asked; "If the retail merchants have the right to sell goods, and the public themselves are granted the same right, is it not putting them in a position of equality?" Mr. Beaudry replied: "Certainly. But that is not the effect of this bill." Mr. Smith contended that this was the root of the whole matter, to which Mr. Beaudry retorted that the public wanted to get the right by means of special legislation, by avoiding personal responsibility. If any men wanted to form themselves into a company to-day they would have to pay from $200 to $600, whereas, under this bill, any score or twelve men could escape that payment. In conclusion, Mr. Beaudry once more emphasized the fact that quality, price and quantity were the three principles to be considered, and there should be an enactment making misrepresentation with regard to these things a criminal offence.

As previously stated, the special committee, despite the objections raised by the representatives of the Retail Merchants' Association, reported in favor of the bill, with certain changes. The report in part is as follows :

Special Committee Favors Bill.

"From the evidence, derived from persons who have made a special study of the co-operative movement in Europe, it appears clearly that co-operation offers very great advantages to the farming classes, particularly in certain branches of agricultural pursuits, such as dairying, market gardening and fruit culture. Co-operation has also been proved of great use in the purchase by farmers of agricultural implements and fertilizers.

"Your committee found that co-operation offers a means for the laboring classes to purchase, under the most favorable terms, the necessaries of life and the articles required for the exercise of any trade. It also provides a system by which the wage-earners can either build or acquire their own homes, by means of small loans from credit and saving societies.

"Your committee have given the credit and savings feature of the bill their special consideration and have arrived at the conclusion that any general movement to foster co-operations destined to provide small loans and means of investment for people whose situation removes them from the sphere of action of our ordinary banks, should be encouraged. In dealing, however, with this feature of the proposed measure, your committee have provided special clauses destined to surround the exercise of the credit and savings power by these societies with all necessary guarantees to prevent any possible abuse.

"The interesting experiment made by Alphonse Desjardins with the institution known as 'La Caisse Populaire de Levis,' establishes clearly that this special form of co-operation is productive of the best results and can be carried out without risk, if under proper control.

"This control and supervision your committee have sought to ensure in the bill.

"The witnesses heard by your committee are persons well versed in the co-operative movement since its inception; their testimony bears out with singular unanimity the conclusion to which your committee have arrived, that the proposed bill, as amended by your committee, if enacted, would be productive of the best results, and your committee, therefore, recommend that the government take charge of the measure and have it passed."

A Few Canadian Failures.

It is singular that many of the co-operative societies organized in Canada have failed to make good. Notably is this the case in Cape Breton. The list of past failures is as follows:

1st. The Sydney Mines Provident Society, Limited, Sydney Mines, C.B., was started in 1863, failed 1905. The knowledge of the workings of these societies was brought from England to Stellarton and Sydney Mines by miners from England. The Sydney Mines Society did for many years a flourishing and profitable business, as the Stellarton store is still doing. The omission of making provision out of their profits for a reserve fund, the withdrawal of capital from the business, and inability to adapt themselves to changing conditions, brought them into difficulties and on the top of these difficulties their stock and their store was burnt.

2nd. The Britannic Co-operative Society, Sydney Mines, started about 1873 This was in opposition to the older society. The mine officials were the chief movers in this undertaking. They failed to take the patronage of the workmen from the other store and in about three years their business went to the wall.

3rd. The International Co-operative Store, Limited, Bridgeport, C.B., was organized in 1885 dissolved in 1898. The influence of the Provincial Workmen's Association in bringing the workmen of the International Colliery together, and the sympathy of the company's agent, together with the help and enthusiasm of the colliery manager, John Johnston, now of Sydney Mines, gave the first impetus to this society. But for the reasons of no reserve fund, withdrawal of capital, necessitated by the removal of members to other localities, and changing conditions in connection with the collieries, forced them to mortgage the property, pay the liabilities and dissolve.

4th. The Reserve Co-operative Store Co., Limited, Reserve Mines, C.B., commenced business 1887, failed 1898. Did a good and profitable business. Benefitted many of the workmen. No reserve fund, slackness of work for two successive winters, and continued rumors of the closing of the colliery, the withdrawal of capital by members removing to other localities, and a change in the management of the store necessitated by the death of the former manager, are cited as the cause of the failure.

5th. The Morien Mutual, Port Morien, started 1888. Failed 1895. Organized in opposition to the Cow Bay Co-operative Store, it was from the first but an ordinary joint stock company. Reckless credit and reckless buying ruined them. Finally the manager disappeared and the business went into the hands of the sheriff. No reserve fund.

6th. The Victoria Co-operative Store Co., Victoria Mines, C.B., started 1889; failed 1895. Failed because the colliery was closed by the Dominion Coal Co.

7th. The Little Glace Bay Co-operative Store Co. started 1887, failed 1894. The business got beyond its depth at the very outset through imprudent buying, and although they struggled through seven years, mutual confidence, so indispensable to co-operation, was never restored. No reserve fund, withdrawal of capital, indiscreet credit and lack of ability to adopt themselves to fast changing conditions, brought them under.

8th. The Old Bridgeport Co-operative Store Co., started 1895, was burnt out a few months after and never re-organized. No reserve fund.

9th. The Workman's Store Co., Reserve Mines, started 1902, failed 1904. Lack of business capacity on the part of the manager, made this business impossible from the very start.

Of the successful organizations the International Co-operative Store at Old Bridgeport, C.B., started with 36 members, and is now doing a business of over $14,000 a quarter.

The Sydney Co-operative Society, Limited, started 1904, was one of the outcomes of the Sydney strike. It is doing a business of about $1,600 a month, has 76 members, but is greatly handicapped for lack of capital and the constant removal of members to other localities; reserve fund 10 per cent. of profit.

The Glace Bay Co-operative Society, Limited, was organized the present year strictly on British lines. Their business for November was $5,300. Reserve 10 per cent. of profits and all admission fees.

The British Canadian Co-operative Society, Limited, of Sydney Mines, started the present year. This society is composed nearly altogether of Old Country co-operatives. Very few of the members of the old store have so far identified themselves with them. They are adopting Old Country methods altogether. While all the other societies allow credit to the amount of four-fifths of the capital, this society gives absolutely no credit even to their members. They now have a membership of 78, and are doing a good business.

The Broughton Co-operative Society, Limited, never started business. About the time they thought of organizing, work at the new colliery was suspended.

At Stewiack, N.S., the farmers have a union for the distributing of farm produce. This union has existed for a number of years.

About five years ago the farmers of Elmsdale, Hants County, N.S., organized a similar business, together with a consumers' store. This business is doing well.

The Amherst Co-operative Store is in its initial stage. Its membership of 70. It is run on the principle of the British co-operative stores. The store is well organized.

It will be seen from the successes and failures of co-operative concerns in different parts of Canada that with proper management a co-operative society may possibly be made a success, but if ordinary business matters are neglected, as was the case with some of the societies in Cape Breton, then failure is bound to result.

NEW WESTERN ONTARIO CANNERY.

Company Incorporated With Factory and Offices at Stoney Point.

The Stoney Point Canning Co. has received letters of incorporation from the Ontario Government "to manufacture, can, and sell tomatoes, and other fruits, and generally to carry on the business of a canning company." The capital of the company is $40,000, the head office being situated in Stoney Point, in Essex county.

PUSH THE BETTER QUALITY TEAS.

It is a mistake as a rule for retailers to push the sale of low-priced goods at the expense of the higher priced and better quality merchandise. There is no line in the grocery store to which this principle applies more than to package teas.

Package teas that retail at 25c. do not net the grocer nearly as good profit as the 40c. kind. Then the quality of the former, not being as good as the latter, does not tend to give as good satisfaction. There is thus a two-fold reason why the retailer should discourage and not encourage the consumption of the minimum-priced package tea.

A large part of the consumptive demand is no doubt for the 25c. package tea; but if the retailers throughout the country were to concentrate their efforts upon a campaign of education they would in time create an increased demand for the better quality article.

The retailer does not need to be told that the consumer, like himself, pays for what he gets. He furthermore knows that a 40 cent tea gives the consumer better value for his money than does a 25c. tea. It is more economical and will relatively not only make more tea, but what is still more important, better tea.

Retailers should impress this fact upon their customers. It needs to be done judiciously, but it can be done. In their conversations over the counter, in the columns of their local papers, in their window displays, they can find ample opportunity for educational work of this kind. And the results that are likely to accrue warrant the effort being made.

AN OBJECTIONABLE FEATURE.

The new Co-operative Bill, now before the House of Commons, which is dealt with at greater length elsewhere in this issue, and which, by the way, seems to be very favorably regarded by the solons of the house, contains one feature which ought to be opposed by retail and wholesale merchants generally. We refer to the clause which allows the registration of co-operative concerns for buying and selling in opposition to the law regarding the formation of companies for the same purposes.

As the law stands now, two parties can combine in a business and are compelled only to register the amalgamation at a nominal fee. When a larger number wish to unite, however, a joint stock company must be formed and procedure on this basis necessitates considerable expense.

On the basis proposed by the new bill a number of persons uniting in a co-operative society, be it for the same purpose as those for which the joint stock company was formed, need only go through the process of registration as mentioned in the other case.

While it is true that conditions existent in Canada seem to militate against the success of the co-operative movement, as applied to supply stores, at least, and while the history of such movement here shows no example of progress, this point in the bill seems to offer an unfair advantage to such societies as against those engaged in the regular wholesale and retail trade, and is one that should be guarded against.

Any opposition which has been raised against the bill up to this point seems to have made little effect. It will require more united effort to make the house feel the necessity for an amendment. Why should not retailers and wholesalers in every municipality in Canada bring the matter before their boards of trade, press for concerted action and in this way bring one of the mightiest influences possible to bear on the situation? This seems to us the most advisable course of procedure.

HEAVY LOSSES IN APPLES.

A critical condition prevails this week in the apple market. The English market, which, under normal conditions, is a big buyer of Canadian apples, is away off, ruinous prices ruling. Some exporters have been forced to accept $1 per barrel, and even lower, for their shipments. Obviously, losses have been severe. Up to the present it is conservatively estimated that fully $500,000 has been dropped by the dealers. The situation is serious, to say the least, and is worthy of more than passing attention.

Various causes are set forth for this abnormal condition. It is argued among the dealers that the blame rests largely on the fruit department of the Dominion Government estimating a crop shortage when, in reality, the crop was well up to the average. Owing to these reports, the opinion became general among the farmers and growers that high prices would rule. Consequently buyers were held up and forced to pay more for apples than conditions warranted. This allegation is disclaimed emphatically by the chief of the fruit department, A. McNeil, who contends that the fruit reports issued were correct and pointed to an average crop. Be this as it may, there is no disputing the fact that the crop was generally believed to be short. And in the face of this American buyers entered the field and helped to raise the prices. These two facts, reports of short crops and the presence of American buyers, were in a large measure responsible for the high prices paid for the crop. It is hardly correct to contend that undue speculation among buyers themselves, as is held in some quarters, was wholly responsible for the high prices. Whatever the cause may be, the price of apples ranged as high as $2.25 per barrel, an unusually high figure in view of the fact that buyers generally consider 75 cents a satisfactory price.

Had financial and trade conditions remained normal, no ill effects would probably have been felt by buyers. But the financial depression in the United States has brought about a climax. American firms, owing to the scarcity of money, have been compelled in many cases to cancel their contracts. Only about half the quantity contracted for has been taken. Had these contracts been fulfilled at the prices specified, all would have been well. But thousands of barrels have been thrown back on the buyers' hands to their loss.

This circumstance directly affected the British market. Heavy shipments have been made there with the result that the bottom has fallen completely out of this business there. The losses have been severe, the prices dropping as low as 70c. per barrel in one instance. When it is remembered that apples were bought as high as $2.25 per barrel the heavy losses sustained become evident.

A REGRETTED DELAY.

The article descriptive of the recently closed advertising contest, which was announced for this week, was necessarily crowded out of this issue, by an influx of timely news. The article, however, will appear without fail in next week's Grocer.

THE SITUATION IN THE WEST

Wheat Movement Continues Large With Business Collections Good—Annual Meeting of Grain Growers' Association Discusses Exceedingly. Important Questions.

By our Special Winnipeg Correspondent.

There has been little or no change in the wheat market, although prices have lowered slightly towards the end of the week, with a tendency to higher levels at the very end. The demand for low-grade wheat continues and the forward movement has been large and steady. The weather is simply perfect for grain movement, there having been but one slight storm during the week.

The wholesale trade report a fair return in the matter of collections and retail trade is quite as good as is usual at this time of year. The entire west is regretting the destruction of the splendid mill of the Maple Leaf Flour Mills Co., at Kenora, which was opened for business with so much rejoicing only a month ago.

During the week the annual meeting of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association convened at Brandon and held a three-days' convention with three sessions daily.

In as much as agriculture is the chief business of the west and wheat growing the line of agriculture most generally followed, the deliberations of the body representing an active membership of over 4,000 farmers is a matter of importance to every business interest in the west. So near to a general election the deliberations become of even more significance, as practically every member of this association is a voter.

This is the body responsible for the drafting of the amendments of the charter of the Grain Exchange, which is now awaiting a final reading. The association has many wise heads in it and not a few of the demagogue type, and the latter, as is so frequently the case, exercise an undue influence in the findings of this body at their annual meetings. The matters taken up this year, which are likely to have a far-reaching influence, were the questions of Government-owned elevators and the establishment of a sample market at Winnipeg.

The scheme of elevator ownership which they propose, is that all the terminal elevators shall be owned by the Dominion Government and all interior elevators by the Provincial Governments of the various provinces. The Provincial Government of Manitoba has already been approached in the matter and stated that they had not the power owing to the weighing and inspections systems being in the control of the Federal authorities. This first refusal has not daunted the Grain Growers in the least and at their recent meeting it was pointed out that the necessary power could easily be obtained by the Provincial Governments from the Dominion. The idea they have in connection with interior elevators is an elaborate one. It plans for nothing less than the special binning of the entire crop of the west and having samples drawn from each load as it is hauled to the elevator and these samples mixed together and large bulk samples sent forward for grading. The official grading is to be done on this sample and then the farmer is to be in a position to borrow money on the wheat in his special bin in that elevator and hold his wheat for sale until such time as he or his agents shall deem the market at its best. The Grain Growers plainly state they wish, if possible, to eliminate the street buying of wheat altogether. If the man with wheat in special bins wants to sell on sample, a portion of the sample taken in the way already indicated is to be placed in a sample market in Winnipeg. One of the advantages claimed for the system is that it will put eastern millers on an equality with western mills that own a line of elevators at the present time, as the western, as well as the eastern millers, will be obliged to buy in the Winnipeg sample market By way of forcing the present line elevators to part with their houses, the proposal is that a valuating commission shall be appointed to value all elevators at present in Manitoba, the Government shall then give the owners the option of selling at the valuation made or of having Government elevators erected to run in opposition. There is no manner of doubt that the present Legislature of Manitoba is going to be strongly pressed in this matter and with the big majority of the Government in the House, and the precedent of the Government purchase of the telephone system, it is quite among the possibilities that their request may be granted. The matter is a very serious one. Without for a moment criticizing the wisdom or practicability of such a scheme, the entire upset that would ensue from such a radical change in the present method of handling grain would be very likely to prove injurious to our export trade, which, when all is said and done, is the important trade to the Canadian west. The British dealer above all things hates change and conditions out of the normal. He is well satisfied with the method of grading and the shape in which cargoes are sent forward and will view any change with suspicion and dislike.

A large section of this convention was in favor of the immediate opening of a sample market in Winnipeg, and many others who thought the sample market would only be desirable when the interior elevators were in Government hands. It is noteworthy that the Royal Grain Commission in their report were strongly opposed to the sample market, mainly on account of the mixing elevators that would necessarily follow and the danger of the grades skinned and the reputation of western wheat thereby damaged in its ultimate market as would be almost sure to be the case. The representatives of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association and the president of the Manitoba Grain Growers were both strongly opposed to it.

Very strong resolutions were passed condemning the banks for their action in withholding lines of credit and refusing to advance on bills of lading, thereby occasioning enormous loss to the farming community. There were several resolutions of a very drastic nature brought forward in the way of proposed amendments to the Banking Act.

The question of car distribution over which there has been so much discussion, was up, and it is evident that any attempt to amend that clause so as to get a more equitable share of the cars for elevators will meet with the most strenuous opposition from the Grain Growers' Association, who absolutely and unreasonably refuse to see that in clinging blindly to this bit of legislation they are seriously damaging the chances of the small farmer, who must sell to the elevators.

As was stated in the earlier part of this article, the deliberations of this body are of importance to all engaged in business, from the very fact that they have become a strong political factor and their power of good or evil along the line of disturbing well-established trade relations is unbounded.—H.

MONTREAL BOARD OF TRADE.

New Officers Elected by Acclamation—T. J. Drummond, President.

All the officers of the Montreal Board of Trade for the new year were elected by acclamation. The new president, succeeding George Caverhill, is T. J. Drummond, of Drummond, McCall & Co.

T. J. DRUMMOND.
President Montreal Board of Trade.

Farquhar Robertson was elected first vice-president, and George L. Cains was elected second vice-president, J. R. Binning being made treasurer. For the Board of Trade Council and Board of Arbitration twelve members are required. There are thirteen nominations for each, so that the necessary members will have to be secured by election.

R. W. Barry, of the Laing Packing & Provision Company, Montreal, has returned from a business trip north and east. He reports a very satisfactory outlook for the coming year and his order book on his return showed the success of his efforts to do business.

Trade Notes From The Grocer's Corps of Correspondents in Canadian Cities and Towns—Business Continues Encouraging With Cheerful Outlook.

CHATHAM.

John McCorvie, the well-known grocer, was at the inaugural meeting of the Board of Education on Wednesday of last week elected chairman of that body for 1908. This is Mr. McCorvie's eighth year of service in connection with the public schools. He put in six years on the old public school board, being chairman in 1904 and was last year elected to the new Board of Education.

Magistrate Houston has this frank criticism to make of the market by-law which forbids retailers purchasing before 10 a.m.: "It appears to me to be a shame that grocerymen cannot buy on the market before the hour of ten o'clock. It is not that they make any great profit through buying early, but the opportunity which it gives them to accommodate their customers. As I understand it, there is no profit for the groceryman in produce of this kind, merely accommodation. The by-law is a hardship on the local butchers as well. If the hour were made nine o'clock instead of ten it would be much better, but the general feeling seems to be that the by-law should be wiped out altogether. Any other man but a butcher or grocer might speculate as much as he pleased in these products and be immune from the by-law. In this way I think that the by-law to some extent discriminates against our butchers and grocers."

A quiet movement has been going on for some time among Amherstburg merchants to secure an unanimously signed petition to extend the early-closing movement to every night but Saturday. The petition has met with a fair degree of success. The refusal of one or two merchants to sign, has, however, blocked the movement up till now. There is a prospect that those behind the movement will put it up to the town council to pass an early-closing by-law, with a view to accomplishing the desired result.

"Fruit Culture" was the subject of discussion at a well-attended open meeting of the Board of Trade last week. Editor A. B. Cutting, of the Canadian Horticulturist and Prof. H. L. Hutt, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, spoke on the technical side of the subject, while Provincial Superintendent Jos. Oborne, of the C.P.R. added a few remarks on general topics. A point urged by the speakers was the growing of early apples in preference to late varieties, and the growing of all fruits with a view to making the most of the ten weeks' advantage which Kent and Essex possess over the rest of the province in point of climate.

GEORGETOWN, P.E.I.

The weather since Christmas has been exceptionally mild. The roads being in a wretched condition people have only traveled as a matter of necessity. As a result business has been at a standstill. One good feature of these conditions is that the grocers have had ample opportunity to take stock. And yet the greater number dispense with it altogether. We do not know whether this is general throughout Canada, but from information gathered from our good friends, the travelers, and other sources, we are very much of the opinion that it is to a very large extent neglected. This ought not to be so. It is as essential for a grocer to know just where he stands, and what actual profit he makes as it is for any one else engaged in commerce. We would like to hear from other correspondents on this subject.

This is by far the mildest winter we have had so far. There is no ice whatever. On the 2nd ult., a sailing schooner cleared from Cardigan with a load of oats for Cape Breton. Every trip of the winter steamers there are cars of fresh fish being shipped to the American markets.

More attention is being paid to confectionery on the island. The demand for the best grades of chocolates is daily increasing. There is no doubt about it, it pays to look after this department, and to keep only the best goods.

It seems altogether too bad that the greater number of apples consumed here have to be imported. Apples second to none are grown here, but not sufficient of the best selling and keeping varieties.

Butter is scarce and high, the result of too much being exported.

INGERSOLL.

While the reaction which always follows the Christmas trade has been noticeable, there has been a uniformity about business since the holiday season that has been entirely satisfactory to local grocers. This fact is probably due to a combination of circumstances. In the first place Ingersoll grocers are not spasmodic advertisers, and while they use an additional amount of space during the busy season they are firm believers in the policy that it pays to advertise when trade shows signs of a slump, and in following this plan they are always "talked about." In addition to the advantages of judicious advertising at this period of the year, they have been highly favored as far as weather conditions are concerned. The weather for the most part has been seasonable, with no drifted roads or severe storms to prevent the country customers from turning out, and lastly Ingersoll has not suffered to any extent from the general depression, which has caused those in other places to curtail expenses. The merchants generally take a very optimistic viw of the spring trade and all signs point to a most successful season.

S. M. Fleet, whose grocery stock was practically destroyed by fire on New Year's Eve, has opened again, having temporary quarters in his meat shop on Thames St., opposite his old stand. The fire which caused heavy damage to Mr. Fleet's store and stock broke out in the cellar. It was a very difficult one to fight on account of the dense volumes of smoke and before it was extinguished his stock had suffered to a great extent from water and smoke. Mr. Fleet enjoyed a very large patronage and his characteristic enterprise is noticeable in the little time that he has allowed to elapse before being in a position to once more do business.

For the past few years the grocery trade has been represented in the personel of the town council for a number of years, Chas. A. O'Neill very efficiently served in the capacity of an alderman. This year Mr. O'Neill was a mayoralty candidate, but was defeated by Mr. Geo. Sutherland. The position of deputy-reeve is being filled by S. M. Fleet who has had several years of municipal experience, and is noted as a careful, clean-cut business man.

The question of level railway crossings is one of interest to grocers and merchants generally. This is a matter which Ingersoll has had to deal with for some time, and several fatal accidents emphasize the necessity of having all lever crossings, especially those over leading thoroughfares, properly protected. The question has often been asked, does a dangerous railway crossing interfere with business? Some are inclined to the belief that it does. On Monday night last A. S. Schram, of Thamesford was killed at the notorious Thames St. crossing of the Grand Trunk, making the second fatality at this point in the past few months. In their verdict the coroner's jury condemned "the criminal indifference manifested by the management of the Grand Trunk Railway Company in not providing some more suitable safeguard at this most dangerous centre." They also placed on record their "entire disapproval of the course pursued by the Railway Commission" who have repeatedly been requested to take action in regard to the crossing. Crossings of this nature may have a serious effect on trade and it is high time that a concerted effort was put forth to have them properly guarded.

The death of William H. Wills, baker and confectioner, which occurred after only a few days' illness of pneumonia, last week came as a shock to the entire community. Mr. Wills was a young man of esteemable qualities and was very prominent in fraternal circles, being a member of the Masons and several other orders. He had been employed at his trade in Ingersoll for several years, and last spring engaged in business on his own account. He had been accorded very liberal patronage, and his death under such particular sad circumstances came as a shock to all his friends.

SASKATOON.

Last week business was quiet at the stores. In the general and departmental stores stock-taking is the order of the day, and stock-taking sales are held in order to reduce stocks as much as possible. Jones Bros. have announced an eleven-days' sale and during that time the business will be conducted by the Montreal Brokerage Co.

One of your correspondents in a recent issue of The Grocer, referred to the limerick epidemic. It has broken out in Saskatoon and quite a number have fallen victims to its ravages. One of our prominent merchants offers three cash prizes for the three best sent in during January. This is a sample of what has been received :

"Manufacturers who wish to locate,
Would do well to write this on their slate,
Of the towns of the west,
This one is the best,
Saskatoon, the chosen of fate."

Last week the contents of T. Campbell's store were damaged to some extent by fire. The fire, however, was put out before much damage was done.

A farmers' meeting was held at Birch Hills lately for the purpose of establishing a creamery in northern Saskatchewan. One hundred and fifty farmers were present and the gathering was considered a great success. T. D. Plamondon, the organizer, is anxious to see a creamery started on a good solid basis so that it will be beneficial to all the farmers in the surrounding district. The dairying business is one of details, and it requires some management to make it a success, but it yields abundant profits when these details are attended to. "It was very encouraging," said Mr. Plamondon, "to see such a large gathering of farmers, a proof that dairying was not altogether dead in this northern part of the province, but that each farmer was looking forward to the day when he would be permitted to double the income actually received from each cow. A subscription of 1,500 cows within a radius of fifteen miles around Birch Hills was signed by the farmers, an evident proof that these people require a creamery in the worst way."

STRATFORD.

Having a few spare moments the other evening, your correspondent paid a visit to several of the city stores, not merely the grocery stores, but to some of the other departmental places of business. For it does not always pay to confine one's time to the every-day routine of life. Get beyond, get on the outside occasionally and see what the other fellow is doing. While passing down one of the aisles in one of the leading shoe stores, this catchy, well-painted and neat sign caught the eye: "Shoes gain your confidence by their wearing qualities, and your admiration by their refined style." It was a good sign and on the inspiration of the moment your correspondent visited other stores for the simple purpose of peeping at the many signs that decorate the interiors. Of course, there were hosts of them, but here are a few of the most striking ones, that perhaps could be used by some of The Grocer readers:— "Better values," "Big saving for prompt buyers," "Extremely good glove values," "Home-made is the best made, Try ours," "A snappy snap on all cereals," "Fine footwear at fractional prices," "At less than ever prices," "Economical prices," "At lowest prices consistent with good goods," "Tempting dollar values in the men's department," "Gloves at give-away prices," "Shoe savings of unusual interest," "An early morning rally to the confectionery section," "A quick dime beats a lazy quarter," "Combining two extremes—high quality and low prices," "Irresistable values in our teas," "The choice blends are the best blends," "A dollar is your friend in this store," "Do it now." "A hint to buyers," "Quality counts every time here," Then there were numerous cards relating to sales: "Clean-up sale," "Riddance sale," "Delightful bargains on Monday," "A hurry-up clearance in women's shoes," "Challenge sale," "Sweep-out sale," "Mid-winter clearance sale," "Closed, but not by the bailiff; just taking stock," "Rock bottom prices at our Tuesday sale," etc.

The cards in order to attract the attention and notice of the customer, must be neat and nicely painted. A common mistake, and one that is noticeable in window card painting is the tendency to use too much mucilage. Don't throw and dab it on as if it was paint. A very small amount of mucilage will give better results than a larger quantity. There are said to be a number of very good prepared paints for white lettering on black backgrounds. Cremnitz white, or distemper colors of any shade, can be made into first-class show card paints by simply adding pure gum arabic mucilage, with or without glycerine.

The market on Saturday was not quite as large as usual, which was probably due to the poor state of the roads, the snow having drifted considerably during the previous night, but still the prices were on a par with those of the Saturday week. Butter was more plentiful, but eggs were scarce. The former sold at 27c and 29c, and the latter at 27c and 30c. There were offered several bags of apples, and also a few bags of potatoes. The price of live hogs fell thirty cents in the week. Wheat advanced three cents and oats one cent.

The snow nuisance is again with us, and some of the up-town merchants have received warning that they must have their walks properly cleared every morning or suffer the penalty, which means a small fine. The merchants complain that the city authorities are not in much of a hurry themselves to shovel the snow where they should do so.

The merchants are kept pretty busy and for the time of the year and the stringency of the times, it is surprising the amount of business that is being done in this city.

Pay day on the Grand Trunk last week enriched many a grocer. Pay day in this city is one of, if not "the day," owing to the large number of railway employes in this city, and to the fact that the majority of them run bills, as they only get paid once a month.

VANCOUVER.

By April next another line of steamers will have established regular calls at B. C. ports. The Chargeur Reunis, a large French company, will have its first steamer direct from Antwerp in Vancouver harbor in less than three months. The Ceylon will be the first steamer to make the new schedule. The Kosmos line of freight steamers makes occasional calls at long intervals, and the Blue Funnel steamers of the Holt line, also bring cargoes, coming every thirty days or so. The addition of the Chargeur Reunis makes three lines of freight steamers direct from Europe calling at B.C. ports. All bring large quantities of cargo, in many lines of merchandise, and especially in heavy metals. The rates of freight, already extremely low, are likely to see further reductions with the increased competition.

Flour from the Canadian Northwest is high in price this year, hence an American firm is now delivering in Vancouver a lot of 10,000 sacks for shipment to China. The cheaper wheat of Washington and Oregon makes it possible for flour from these states to again secure some of the business of the Orient, from which it has largely been shut out the past year by Canadian flour brought to Vancouver for shipment.

Local market conditions are fairly quiet. Trade is but ordinary in retail circles, and the wholesale trade is not over-crowded with heavy business. In fact, while orders are numerous enough, the buying is light, being only for immediate requirements and not taking into account the coming season's demands at all. On this basis, the trade is carrying sufficiently heavy stocks in most lines. Shortage is reported in condensed milk and cream. These are quoted now at $6 and $5 to $5.20, respectively, per case.

In the produce market there is something doing every minute. Local stocks of butter are light, yet prices are low. Some close quotations have come in from eastern Canada, making the possible selling price of such stock about 31c to 32c. The stocks of creamery held here are now being sold on basis of 29c and 30c, at which they could not be replaced. Australian butter has been in some time now and selling at 34c and 35c. It is, of course, fresh butter. The steamer Moana, due in Saturday, is bringing some considerable consignments of Australian butter. The local fresh creamery butter is 40c, and not nearly enough of it is coming in to meet demand. It always has its market, especially in the winter.

Everyone is well stocked up on case eggs, and some shading of prices can be quoted. As low as 26c is quoted for some stocks. Extra candled goods bring from 28c to 30c. Some Australian case stock is on the market at 27c per dozen. Fresh laid local eggs have been more plentiful of late. The price has dropped back to 40c and some can be had in a jobbing way now. A week or so ago there were but few and none came into the hands of the jobbing trade.

American markets have cut hams down pretty well, which has had immediate effect on local prices, as supplies are largely from the other side for this market. Present quotations are almost on cost basis. Hams selling at 15c to 16c; bacon at 18½c to 19½c.

While nothing important is noted in the dried fruit situation at the present moment, demand being light, quotations remain firm. Present figures are: Evaporated apples, 9½c to 9¾c; prunes, 8½c for 40s to 50s, down to 5½c for 90s and 100s; apricots, 26c; peaches, 15½c; white figs, 7c; Smyrna figs, 10½c to 13c.

Flour prices remain unchanged at $7 per barrel for standard brands, Feed prices are firm, but have not increased much of late: Shorts, $30 per ton; bran $28 per ton; middlings, $32 per ton; wheat (feed) $37.50 to $40 per ton; hay, $20 to $25 per ton; oats, $35 per ton.

In the fruit market there are still some Japanese oranges, being sold, the price being down to 40c and 50c. The California oranges, all navels yet, of course, are coming in in splendid shape and as the price is down pretty reasonable they are bringing the little Japs down. The quotation for navels is $3 to $3.25, and this will buy extra fancy stock, such as the famous Rose Brand from Redlands. A car of these came in a few days ago for the Oscar Brown Co. Some lots are cheaper, selling down to $2.50 and $2.75. Some Malaga grapes are still in stock. They are $7.50 per barrel. Last Australian steamer brought plenty of pines, which are selling at $3.50 to $4.50 per dozen. A few ripe tomatoes from California bring $3 for the 20-lb. crate. Cranberries are selling at $13 to $13.50. Lemons are away down to $3.50 and $4.50. They are good and selling freely. Bananas are coming in in good shape and selling steadily at 5½c per lb.

There is still a plentiful supply of cheap apples in the market. This local stock is not good keeping quality and prices vary. Some people who have a large stock are quoting prices as low as 75 cents to 90 cents per box for very fair apples. The better class stock is bringing $1.50. Most of this is from the Okanagan. Very little stock has so far come from Washington or Oregon. Of course, it is all fancy lines which are imported.

Potatoes are now bringing $20 wholesale for locals, and $26 for Ashcrofts. Local onions are 2½ to 3¼c per lb. Hothouse lettuce $1.25 per crate; sweet potatoes, 4c per lb.

LONDON.

Brokers report seasonable quietness in the grocery trade, wholesalers buying sparingly. Teas are still advancing; coffees are fluctuating in a lively way, and sugars are steady, with an advancing tendency. Travelers, after being out on the road again for a couple of weeks after the holidays, find business fairly good and are optimistic as to the outlook.

F. A. Ross, who for a number of years has conducted a grocery and butcher business at the corner of the Hamilton Road and William Street, has sold out to Andrew Lyons, of this city.

President Harry Ranahan, of the Retail Grocers' Association, when asked why that organization did not affiliate with the Retail Merchants' Association, remarked: "The reason is that we are being approached on the subject by the wrong party. What is the use of the treasurer of the Retail Merchants' Association talking of coming here to discuss the subject with us when it is well known that it is the secretary, Mr. Trowern, we want?"

President Ranahan has also something to say on a matter to which reference has previously been made in The Grocer. A few months ago the question was asked him, what he thought of the idea of holding a union picnic of Western Ontario grocers. At the time he answered that he thought the idea was a splendid one, but since then nothing further has been said on the subject. Now, if such a gathering is to be held during the coming summer, the present is the proper time to begin to get busy. Mr. Ranahan is still in favor of holding a unon picnic, and believes that London, as the most central point in the western district, is pre-eminently the best place to hold it. From the local trade, both wholesale and retail, the scheme, he feels certain, would be given encouragement of a substantial kind, so that from the outset the success of the project would be insured. It could be made a two-day affair, and the retailers of Western Ontario given an opportunity of combining business with pleasure.

During the present winter Londoners have been eating cheaper meat than has been the case for a long time previously. Fifteen cents a pound is the highest price charged by butchers for the choicest sirloin steak. But it is said we are not to enjoy the luxury of low prices much longer, for, if current report is to be relied on, in a month or so an advance of three cents will be made. The reason given is that the supply of good cattle has decreased, and that with a falling off in the supply, will naturally come an advance in prices. Said one butcher a day or two ago: "Cattle are getting scarce, and the price at which we buy them is sure to take a jump. The consumer, of course, must bear a share of the advance."

The committee of the Retail Grocers' Association having in hand the making of preparations for the annual banquet, met on Tuesday evening and carried matters on a step further.

HAMILTON SPICE WORKS GUTTED

Fire on Saturday Afternoon Caused Serious Loss.

McLarens, Limited, of Hamilton, formerly the Hamilton Coffee and Spice Co., suffered serious loss by fire on Saturday, Jan. 18th.

The fire broke out on the premises on South McNabb street shortly before 3 o'clock and gave the firemen two hours' stiff fight. The building is a three-storey brick and the fire worked right up to the roof. The building was badly dutted and the machinery and stock damaged by water. The loss to building and stock is given out as about $40,000 and is pretty well covered by insurance.

PERSONAL NOTES.

N. C. Bilton, of the office staff of Eby-Blain, Limited, Toronto, has been appointed city traveler in place of H. C. Bond, who recently resigned.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

The travelers of Messrs. Mathewson's Sons, of Montreal, have samples of Meurisse's orange cream bars on their present trips. This novelty in Canada has proved itself to be the best seller of its kind the world over. T. E. Charest, manufacturers' agent, St. Gabriel street, Quebec, is presenting these goods to the trade in Quebec and vicinity.—Advt.

There is an advantage for the retailer to read the advertisements published in connection with the future moving of the firm of Laporte, Martin & Co. This week, canned goods are put forward with notable reductions in prices in order to avoid cartage and storage expenses. The retail trade will be wise to follow regularly these announcements.—Advt.

Markets and Market Notes

Grocery Markets Steady, With Few Changes—Staple Lines Selling Fairly Well and Business Generally is Encouraging —Good Reports From Both Wholesalers and Retailers.

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—

Fish—Revised.

White Pepper—Easier.

Dates—Up ½c.

Provisions—Easier.

Montreal, Jan. 23, 1908.

With January nearing its end 1908 business is becoming something to look at when compared with the volume of trade for the same period last year. Durig the past few days there has been quite an increase in trade in many lines. Wholesalers, as well as manufacturers, are reaching out in new directions for purchasers they have not been cultivating since November, and virgin fields are being tapped in may cases. Travelers are pretty well all on their ground again by this time, even those working at greatest distance from the head office. Stock-taking is over in most instances, though several houses have not yet finished. The money situation appears better than for some time past, and the outlook as viewed through the eyes of the trade leaders appears very satisfactory for continued good business and gratifying returns between the present and summer days.

Market changes have not been many of late, prices, speaking generally, ruling fairly steady. Canned goods are moving freely, there being call for most all lines. There is a steady call for refined sugars, but the market is quiet with no liklihood of a change in prices in the near future. Molasses is firm but shows no change. Syrups are moving satisfactorily. All teas continue strong, spot stocks becoming smaller as the winter advances. Little news is to hand yet regarding the outlook for the new crop. Coffees are normal. Spices, with the exception of white pepper, which has declined a little, are featureless. Beans are still selling around $1.90, the market being steady. Evaporated apples are in fair demand at the old figures. Dates are up ½c and prunes are strong. Otherwise the dried fruit market remains about the same. Shelled walnuts are down a cent, while sago has been reduced ½c also. Provisions are weaker. Dairy produce is firm.

SUGAR—A normal amount of business is being done and the market is very firm. Strong conditions on the other side of the line do not seem to have been felt in the Canadian market. There is no change in prices from last week.

The outlook is for firm prices. Raisins are selling in fairly good sized lots considering that the holiday trade is a thing of the past. Many inquiries for various lines have been made of the brokers and jobbers and it would seem that trade in the near future will be very good. Shelled walnuts are down one cent, being quoted 24c to 25c to-day. Other nuts have not changed since last report.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL.—Satisfactory trade has been done during the past week in the various lines, but a slight tendency to hold off is noted. The local market is quite firm in tone.

TORONTO.—Business is more satisfactory this week, some wholesalers say better than for some weeks past.

Complaints are again being made by retailers of bad stock, particularly of peas and tomatoes.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—

Apples—Declined sharply.
Teas—Low grade Ceylons easier.
Tapioca—Easier.
Sugar—Steady.
Collections—Fair.

Toronto, January 23rd.

Reports regarding business continue to be encouraging and optimistic, both from the wholesaler's and retailer's point of view. The travelers, however, who are in a position to be pretty well in touch with the situation, say that things are quiet, though they report the outlook as quite cheering. Everything, indeed, seems to point to prospects for an exceedingly good spring trade.

The markets generally this week are on about the same level as a week ago. The feature of the week is the serious slump in apples, which is covered more comprehensively in the special departments on following pages. Staple lines continue generally steady, though tapioca is slightly easier as a result of some small shipments received locally.

TEAS—Local markets continue quiet under the prevailing high prices. Cable advices from Colombo received locally note a slightly easier tone in low grades of Ceylons.

A report from Harrison & Crossfield's circular, dated January 10th, reviewing the situation, says:

"The tea market during 1907 was more affected by rising prices than has been the case in any other recent year. The consumption of tea seems to be steadily increasing all over the world, and the production for the last year has not quite kept pace with it. For several years previously, producers and distributors had to deal with a supply which, whilst at no time very excessive, was enough in excess of the demand to produce depression in the market at certain times of the year. During 1907, on the contrary, the conditions were reversed; the demand everywhere showing steady progress, whilst the supply, especially of common grades, was barely sufficient for requirements, and the impression seems to be gathering force, that at the end of the season it will prove still short. The total tea production of the world has certainly not seriously diminished, whatever ups and downs may be found in the outturn of certain districts. But one result of the over supplies of past years was that the merits of British-grown tea were brought to the notice of the consumers in many of the unopened markets of the world with such conspicuous success, that whereas in 1890 the total consumption of British-grown tea outside the United Kingdom was only 14 million lbs., in 1907 it is estimated to have been at least 171 million lbs. In the same year, 1890, the consumption of Indian and Ceylon tea in the United Kingdom was 136½ million lbs., and in 1907, 249½ million lbs., so it will be seen that the percentage of increase shown in foreign markets has risen in much larger proportion than in the United Kingdom. The fact that it has increased somewhat more rapidly than was expected, during the last year or two, is the cause of the present talk of short supply. In 1905 foreign markets took 130 million lbs. of British-grown tea, whilst in 1907 the figure was 171 million lbs."

COFFEES—The local situation remains quiet with nothing new in sight.

SUGARS—The feeling locally is steady though firm. Prices did not advance with the American quotations last week, as was advised possible in these columns, but there was some sympathy evident in the tone of the markets here. Matters this week seem to be on a somewhat steadier basis.

RICE AND TAPIOCA—Small shipments of tapioca arrived locally during the week, and this, coupled with the fact that large shipments, coming direct, are approaching local wholesalers is giving an easier feeling to these goods. Prices have not changed materially, but they are shaded and declines may be expected shortly. Rice remains steady.

CHANGES IN TOBACCO REGULATIONS.

Proposed Bill to Establish Uniform Label—Manufacturers Divided on Question.

There is considerable discussion among the trade interested just now as to what will be the effect of the proposed amendments to the regulations regarding the importation and sale of tobacco. The proposed changes, which are being brought forward, by the way, by some of the manufacturers who use a preponderance of Canadian tobacco, are being made ostensibly to encourage the growth of Canadian leaf. They are of two kinds. First, to dispense with the four-colored labels as used at present to distinguish the home grown and manufactured from the imported goods; and second, naturally arising from the first, to increase the duty on American leaf. The contention is that either of these changes will benefit the Canadian grower.

Regarding the first proposal, wholesalers and manufacturers turning out the better grade of goods seem to be strongly opposed. These men say that, as it is at present, Canadian leaf is not at all satisfactory in quality and that a good grade of tobacco cannot be manufactured from it. They claim that the proposed change would be merely placing a premium on dishonesty and that it would allow indiscriminating firms to foist poor quality goods on the public. The single label system, they say, would prevent the consumer from knowing what he was getting.

Regarding the second proposal. At present the duty on imported leaf is 14 cents and to this is added 25 cents excise. The excise charge on goods made from Canadian leaf is only 5 cents and, considering this, goods in bond manufactured from American leaf suffer a disadvantage of 34 cents per pound. This appears like a pretty adequate amount of protection.

Those who are in a position to know seem to think that the proposed changes will not benefit the Canadian grower. The public will insist on good tobacco, and if the Canadian leaf is not usable, as is alleged, it will be willing to pay for imported goods, even if it enters this country at enormous disadvantage.

A better suggestion than those now being agitated, would seem to be that the Government take steps to experiment with Canadian tobacco to improve the processes of growing and curing till the home-grown goods can compete successfully with the American product.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 noon Thursday, Jan. 23, 1907.)

Winnipeg, Jan. 21st.

Business is showing a rapid recovery from the lull that invariably follows the Christmas and holiday trade. There is, moreover, a better feeling among business men in general, and a marked revival in confidence. Collections are improving and the volume of business is fairly satisfactory.

Prices show little change. There is a general tendency toward declines in all foreign dried fruits, while India and Ceylon teas are still on the upward climb.

CANNED GOODS—Business is only fairly active in canned goods, high prices having diverted the demand to dried fruits and other lines.

Review of the Week in the Markets—Cheese Steady and Quiet—Butter Trade Brisk at Firm Prices—Hog Markets Slumped Seriously.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

Cheese has been steady and quiet during the past week and prices have not shown much fluctuation, having remained practically the same as they have been for the past two weeks. They are, if anything, slightly easier this week, owing largely to the fact that English buyers do not appear very anxious to take hold at the quotations made to them.

New Zealand cheese continues to arrive in the Old Country, and as long as it is pouring in purchasers there need not pay as much attention to the situation in Canada as they otherwise would. This cheese will show a falling off in quantity within two or three weeks, as their season draws to a close, and then Englishmen will be forced to buy in Canada, and will be likely to give greater consideration to Canadian offers.

In the meantime holders on this side are not worrying. Stocks here are light and the trade knows such to be the case. Holdings amount to considerably less than last year, but it is difficult to give comparative figures owing to the fact that a few large houses refuse to let the rest know what they have. What is held, however, is most of it for sale for a price, as it is generally admitted that goods held on English account do not amount to a great deal.

September cheese is quoted around 13¼c, some asking 13c only. Higher than 13¼c is very difficult to obtain, as buyers will not be interested at stronger figures. For finest colored 13¼c may be considered the right quotation. Some say they are asking ¾c but it is questionable if any sales can be made at the price. Even 13⅜c is hard to secure.

With stocks light and the certainty that buyers will eventually have to come to this market, the future situation looks firm, with a possibility of higher prices before spring, and, at the present rate, positively high price at the opening of the new season.

Receipts of cheese last week amounted to 388 boxes against 41 boxes pervious week, and 150 boxes same week in 1907. Total receipts for the season amount to 2,053,407 boxes, as compared with 2,348,727 boxes same period last year.

Dealers report a brisk trade in butter at firm prices. Having pretty well finished the holiday trade grocers and other handlers of butter are devoting more attention to that article. During the early part of the month many were engaged in stock-taking and other such occupations, and were consequently not very keen on buying butter. Through the whole rush of the holidays, however, there was a very satisfactory trade transacted, in Montreal and district particularly.

Of late there has been strong demand from various outside points, and this business has kept dealers fairly busy week in and week out. There has been continual call for finest creamery as well as for current receipt butter.

Prices ruling are firm, as holders, knowing that stocks are very light compared with last year, and recognizing the light receipts, see that there is no need for them to fret over the possibility of cleaning out at a profit. October creamery is being offered at 28½c to 29c. Considering the prices many dealers paid for this, 28c to 28½c, this is no great advance on recent quotations. It is likely that 29c will shortly be made the best price for large lots of finest. Single packages and small orders are quoted 30c. Fresh-made winter butter is selling for 27½c to 28c. Since butter is so scarce holders can easily obtain this figure, if not now, at a later date. The market for creamery, for the future, looks quite firm.

Dairy is exceedingly scarce. It was a little more plentiful for a short period, but the extra amount coming forward was quickly disposed of and the situation is just as bad as ever, in that the market is almost bare of this grade. Fresh rolls are even less plentiful, though in strong demand. Prices asked run from 24½c to 25c. Nice dairy in boxes is worth 24c to 24½c. Such as is coming forward is shipped chiefly from one section of Ontario, that west of Toronto.

Receipts last week amounted to 1,033 packages, against 1,613 packages previous week and 1,114 packages same week last year. Total receipts for the season amount to 408,552 packages, against 603,047 packages for the same period in 1907.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

The Canadian hog market is off again, and off with a vengeance. And considering how growers at other points of both continents have been running in their goods and the packers, in consequence, have been loading them into the British market, this condition of affairs is not very surprising. Two weeks ago the Danes were swamped in a snow storm which practically crippled operations, and, in consequence, their deliveries fell off enormously. Last week they recovered and made up for the previous week's shortage by pouring in pork as they had not done in any other week for months. The Americans, too, were sending over large shipments, supplies at various points being large, in spite of the low prices.

With all these receipts the British market was overloaded and naturally went off very appreciably. As a result there is practically no outside demand for Canadian pork and prices here have slumped to a point level with that reached at the recent remarkable slump just before Christmas. Last week packers were paying for hogs f.o.b. country points $5.50. This week's price is fully 50c below, at an even $5. Fed and watered stock brings $5.20, and hogs at factory call for $5.30. This is a pretty good evidence that Canadian packers are not at all anxious for hogs this week, and naturally, deliveries are very light. With continued heavy deliveries from other points this condition seems likely to continue for some time.

The American situation is summed up in the following paragraph from the New York Journal of Commerce:

There has been very little change in prices and no new features in hog products the past week, except that the previous week's enormous receipts had fallen off until near the close, when they began to increase again, and are estimated heavy for the coming week. This falling off in receipts was attended by a moderate advance early in week in the options, but when the shorts were covered this demand ceased and the markets became dull and prices eased off, though they did not break, as some of the packers had stopped selling futures against current production and are holding it, believing that the big run of hogs will soon be over, and they are now replenishing their depleted stocks of all but meats, which alone are ahead of a year ago, while that of lard is reduced to a very small volume, and speculation in that staple has nearly ceased. Consumptive demand for domestic cuts of meats has continued good and held the increase of the previous week, but offerings have been sufficiently liberal from packers to prevent any recovery in prices, although the market has been steadier without help from exporters, except in the export of 10,000 boxes for the week on old contracts. In lard they have been unable to do anything of moment from the west and the demand has been light, though they have taken all the city offerings at a slight decline. Exports of pork have been fair without change in prices, though stocks here are very light, as well as of lard.

TREATY DISPLEASES WINE-GROWERS.

Deputation Interviews Government Officials Asking for Assistance to Industry.

The new Franco-Canadian treaty evidently does not receive the hearty support of Canadian wine growers. A deputation from Ontario interviewed the Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Brodeur last week in reference to the schedules of the new treaty, including wines. The members of the deputation, representing 18,000 acres, devoted to wine culture and about $2,000,000 capital, contended that under the new tariff light French wines might drive Canadian wines from the market, and that adulterated wines, largely composed of chemicals, might be brought in to compete unfairly with the pure Canadian article. In view of the fact that the treaty could not now be amended, they asked that anything which could be done to protect the Canadian wine industry should be promptly taken in hand by the Government.

WESTMOUNT'S MAYOR RE-ELECTED.

Wm. Galbraith, Wholesale Grocer, Favored With Second Term.

Mayor William Galbraith was re-elected to preside over the council of Westmount, a suburb of Montreal, at the elections held in that place on Monday of this week. Mr. Galbraith is the senior member of the firm of William Galbraith & Son, wholesale grocers, Montreal, and has already served one term in the mayor's chair. His majority over his opponent, A. J. Hodgson, was 15. Originally Mr. Galbraith had intended to retire from politics at the expiration of his term, but owing to development in the affairs of the council and municipal politics his Irish fighting blood was roused and he decided he would run again, if the people would have him. They showed their appreciation of his services by re-electing him.

CEREAL MARKETS STEADY

Flour Tends to Stronger Tone—Cereals Quiet—Business Generally Fair—Winnipeg Inspections More Favorable.

The Canadian cereal markets continue steady with business generally pretty satisfactory considering the season of the year. The wheat markets, both in the East and in Ontario, have a stroger tone, and millers speak more cheerfully regarding the outlook than they have done for a couple of weeks. A good opening from British markets means larger shipments from here and this helps to keep everyone busy.

Rolled oats are quieter and business in most lines of cereals is less brisk than at this time last week. This is true in supply as well as in demand for supplies of oats are much less free than they have been for some time.

Inspections of wheat at Winnipeg on Saturday were 187 cars, compared with 66 cars last year. Grading returns were: No. 1 northern, 8 cars; No. 2 northern, 18 cars; No. 3 northern, 26 cars; No. 4, 23 cars; No. 5, 29 cars; No. 6, 8 cars; winter wheat, 12 cars; inferior, 63 cars. Other inspections were: 38 cars of oats and 6 cars of barley.

Stocks of wheat at Port Arthur and Fort William were increased by only 45,000 bushels during the past week. There are now 6,806,000 bushels of wheat in store at the two ports.

The supply of wheat in elevators of Canada and the United States decreased 655,000 bushels during the past week, compared with a decrease of 839,000 last year. The supply of corn was increased by 153,000 bushels and last year was increased 773,000. Oats were increased 400,000 bushels, while last year the supply decreased 326,000. The world's shipments of wheat during the week were 8,896,000 bushels, compared with 8,848,000 bushels the previous week and 7,616,000 bushels a year ago. The large increase in shipments from the Argentine Republic was the feature of statistics this week. The shipments from this country were 264,000 bushels in excess of last year's. Exports from North America showed a decided falling off, a similar decrease being recorded last year.

The following table shows the estimated visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States at the beginning of the week, as compared with the same time a year ago:

	Jan.20,'08	Jan.21,'07	Jan.22,'06
	——Bushels——
Wheat	47,226,000	45,360,000	48,962,000
Corn	4,923,000	7,272,000	14,223,000
Oats	8,898,000	12,637,000	27,315,000

Wheat decreased 655,000 bushels last week, as against a decrease of 839,000 bushels the corresponding week of last year. Corn increased 153,000 bushels and last year increased 773,000 bushels. Oats increased 400,000 bushels, compared with a decrease of 326,000 bushels last year.

MEETING OF WESTERN DAIRYMEN

The annual convention of the Western Ontario Dairymen's Association, held in Woodstock last Wednesday and Thursday, January 15th and 16th, was one of the most successful in the history of the association. While the large number attending was made up principally of western Ontario dairymen, there was also a good representation of Government officials, and also some representatives of the cheese and butter industry of the United States.

The sessions, for the most part, dealt with the practical side of the dairying industry approaching matters largely from the farmers' standpoint. Several of the addresses, however, made reference to the Canadian dairying industry as a whole, and paragraphs from these will be of interest to the trade generally.

After an address on "Cow-testing Associations, by C. F. Whitely, of the Dominion College of Agriculture, Ottawa, J. A. Ruddick, dairy commissioner, in some additionsl remarks, said :— "If all the cows of all the herds in Canada were increased to an improved standard, the value of the produce of our two million cows would be increased by $80,000,000. Holland had less than a million cows, and after producing enough to supply the home market exported $27,000 of butter and cheese, nearly as much as we do with our two million cows. If proprietors of factories would try and induce their patrons to get the most milk out of their herds, instead of trying to steal their neighbor's patrons, it would be better for all concerned."

Speaking at a later session on "Dairying Abroad," Mr. Ruddick gave an illustrated address, throwing on the screen photographs of dairies all over the world, commencing with New Zealand. This country had greatly increased her export of butter during the last year, the annual amount exported being about twenty million dollars' worth. One of the photographs of New Zealand showed four horses drawing 5,000 pounds of milk from one farm and one herd. Next photos from Australia, a country which ships 35,000 tons of butter yearly to England, were shown. Views of the Argentine Republic were also given. The industry is falling off in that country. In Trinidad butter is made in tropical heat, and stands the heat better than that made in a temperate clime. A photo of the Prone cheese fair was shown among a number of English views. They understood the development of the true cheese flavor there, the speaker said, while here we are satisfied if the cheese has no ill-flavor. Views of Scottish and Irish dairies were shown. In the Emerald Isle there are 800 creameries, and thirty mill.on dollars' worth of butter is annually shipped. Further views of Denmark, Holland, France and other countries were shown.

At Thursday morning's session Geo. H, Barr, of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, and Official Referee at Montreal, gave an excellent address on "Handling our cheese and butter at the port of Montreal." Mr. Barr is a former secretary of the Western Dairymen's Association, and expressed his pleasure at being present. "I thought more of western Ontario cheese this year than I ever did before," he said, "and when I compared them with eastern Ontario cheese I thought it wasn't much use telling you how to do it. There is a lot of work to do before we have our cheese of the finest grade. They are erecting an immense steel and cement shed in Montreal at present. There are 46 steamers equipped with cold storages and 27 with cold air, and some shipping lines are doing their best to ship the produce in good condition. If cheese were sold for a little less and more money expended in taking care of them during transportation a better price would be obtained for them. Inspectors are at the port where the cheese are put on the steamers and carefully inspect the condition of the cheese. Any carelessness on the part of the transportation company is reported, and the temperature is taken. A complete record is kept of the temperature during the ocean voyage. The department has three ice car inspectors in Montreal. The weakest place in the chain of transportation is between the place of manufacture and Montreal. The cheese from western Ontario should be taken better care of in shipment next year. There should be a more general use of ice cars in the shipment of cheese. Western Ontario has nothing to learn from Montreal in connection with the boxing of the cheese, the curing of the cheese or other parts of its manufacture. The cheese from western Ontario are noted for being cleanly boxed.

"When you can get a nice clean flavor with your butter you will have as good butter as there is made. For color, body and grain I saw nothing that could equal Siberian butter, which I saw in Montreal this year. It will take all the skill and care of western Ontario cheese-makers to keep a general high standard of that article. If you are wise you won't build any more small factories. He said that 98 per cent. of the cheese exported were of first grade. The majority of the cheese examined that were of poor grade were from small factories. Large factories and capable men are necessary to keep up the standard of cheese."

Woodstock gave the visitors a hearty welcome and the convention should prove a valuable impetus in carrying forward this important branch of Canadian industry.

Making Money in the West

We are quoting herewith a letter—unsolicited—showing what WAGSTAFFE'S Goods have done for one Firm in the West.

$20,000 of Business without a Single Note Against the Goods.

Calgary, Alta.,
December 9th, 1907

Messrs. Wagstaffe, Ltd.,
Hamilton,

Gentlemen,—In looking over our books to-day, as we are closing same for the year, we find we have bought since the spring, $20,000.00 of your Jams and Preserves, and we cannot see that we have put through a single Debit Note against the goods.

Of course this is the first season we have handled your stuff, but seeing the volume of our business, and there being no reclaimants against the goods, we feel it speaks volumes for your quality, bearing in mind that they are a high price line, and it only shows that if every manufacturer would put in the quality as you do, the public would stand every time for good stuff.

A year ago if we had been told we could handle pure Jam made only from Sugar and the Fruit, we would not have credited same, as we always imagined that such goods wanted a little glucose and fillers to make them shipable, but we now see that Jams, made the same as our mothers made them, will stand shipping and give infinite satisfaction to everybody eating the same.

It is needless to say we wish your worthy Company continued prosperity, and next year we believe we can double this business. As you are aware in introducing new goods, buyers are always skeptical, but now the quality has turned out much better than we made it to be when selling, we look to doubling the out turn next year.

We are, dear sirs,
Yours very truly,
(Signed) L. T. MEWBURN & CO., Limited.
Per L. T. MEWBURN, President.

We are sending these Goods—"the same as our mothers made"—all over Canada, and other grocers are having just as satisfactory results with them as Mewburn & Co. Are you making money on these same goods?

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Apple Market Has Declined and the Si tuation is Critical—Potatoes Remain Firm—Brisk Business Reported in Fish.

During the past week, a crisis has been reached in the apple situation. prices have tumbled down owing to the big stocks on hand and the slow demand. The English and American markets are away off and as a result dealers can find no outlet for their apples. Being of such a perishable nature, the dealers are anxious to rid themselves of their supplies, and prices have naturally dropped. It is calculated that the losses will run up into the thousands of dollars. Oranges remain firm, but are quiet. Lemons remain unchanged. Good bananas are not very plentiful, the demand being about normal. Cranberries are moving better.

No material change is noticeable in the vegetable market. Potatoes remain firm, with supplies of an improved quality moving freely. Other domestic vegetables meet with a steady demand. Celery is brisk, but other fancy imported stuff is slow and quiet.

The demand for fish continues to be highly satisfactory. Prices are practically the same. Haddie is slightly lower. Frozen fish is especially brisk. Supplies are plentiful, no important shortage in any particular lines being reported.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—Fruits continue firm, the market not having changed very much since last week. Grape fruit is exceedingly scarce and prices are very firm. For the best as high as $7 is asked. Best bananas are also in small supply though dealers are never particularly well supplied at this season. There is a very satisfactory demand for the large, bright stock. Lemons are firm and there is noted a strong call for the better grades of apples. Considerable poor quality apples are being offered in some quarters.

VEGETABLES—There is noticeable this week no very great change in the vegetable situation. Florida tomatoes are in small supply with demand fairly strong considering the prices asked. First-class celery is moving in good quantity at the old quotations, while cabbage, of which there is a large supply on the market, is steady. During the past few days there has been a good business transacted in potatoes and many good orders were shipped to outside points.

Dealers report a satisfactory demand for fresh and frozen lines with smoked fish of all kinds called for on occasion. Salted and pickled fish are moving in fair quantities while oysters are in brisk demand at unchanged prices.

TORONTO.

GREEN FRUITS—The feature of the week is the big drop in apples. The bottom has gone completely out of this market, due to a variety of causes but primarily to financial depression. Some of the big dealers will be hit pretty hard. One firm has been forced to sell direct to the consumer in order to clear out surplus stock. Oranges remain firm at unchanged prices but are not moving freely. Lemons are rather slow with a weak tone. Bananas are very dull.

Cranberries are selling better. Almerias are meeting with a fair demand.

VEGETABLES—Potatoes remain firm and are selling freely around 95c and $1. The supply is satisfactory and the quality of Delawares arriving is also good. Cabbage, turnips and cauliflower are steady. RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

Toronto Body Meets on Monday Evening —Plans for the Year.

You haven't any idea what a jolly crowd of fellows the retail grocers of Toronto are. That is, when you see them behind their counters. Let them get together, however, as they did at the regular monthly meeting in their rooms in the Temple Building on Monday evening of this week and you'll see just how good-humored they can be and how much they enjoy talking over differences of opinion.

The principal feature of the meeting was the installation of the new officers, as elected at the association's last meeting, and noted in The Grocer at that time. President Fred. Thorne, in taking the chair, spoke of the good outlook for the association's prosperity this year, and asked the co-operation of the members. Vice-president Thos. Clarke also thanked the members for the honor done him and promised to do the work he undertook well. Very kind words were spoken by several members concerning the retiring president, Ben Snow. Mr. Snow has been a remarkably faithful member and has never missed a meeting during the year. As a recognition of their appreciation of his services a motion was carried to provide a handsome sum for a presentation to Mr. Snow, and he will probably be made pretty happy at the next meeting.

The various committees appointed to arrange for the association's annual ball reported, and very satisfactory progress is being made. The date has been set for Wednesday, Feb. 12th, and with the function in the Temple Building and the splendid arrangements for programme and supper that are being carried along, the affair promises to be a brilliant success.

In the section of the meeting devoted to "Remarks for the good of the Association," J. S. Bond emphasized strongly the fact that the association should devote more attention to matters of practical business, which would benefit the grocery trade. He mentioned, for instance, the matter of scale and scoop inspection, and said that something should be done to obviate the seemingly unreasonable charges made by the Government. At present a visit from the inspector costs the grocer from $2 to $5, whether his scales are correct or not. The members present agreed that something should be done. Other matters, such as a need for an amendment to the present garnishee act, and the matter of enlarging the organization, were discussed.

These grocers do love to get together. While the business of the evening was carried on in the regular way, it was interspersed with jokes and jolly personal references and good-humored little tiffs across the room, all of which added to the interest. The meeting didn't begin early, neither did it break up early. The members wandered down the Temple Building steps at about 11.15.

HELP TO RESTORE CONFIDENCE.

So long as there are unemployed men in Canadian industrial centres, retailers are apt to feel that a depression exists. To put the idle men to work, therefore, should be the aim of all who desire an early resumption of industry.

How can this be best done? By the placing of orders by jobbers and retailers at once for all necessary lines, giving preference in all cases to Canadian manufacturers wherever prices and quality are equal.

The purchase of cheap foreign goods dumped on the market at this time may help foreign manufacturers, but it will not put Canadian workingmen into active service and enable them to become buyers again.

A word to the wise should be sufficient.

NEW CANADIAN REPRESENTATIVE.

G. F. Sutton Sons & Co., the specialty manufacturers, of London, Eng., who have been represented in Canada for some time by W. A. Martin, have appointed Richard Lewis to succeed Mr. Martin. Mr. Lewis has just arrived in Canada and will pursue the firm's interests among their former customers here.

IN the old days this feature of the year's business never engaged the attention of the average grocer beyond the point of laying in a stock of a few staple lines sufficient to carry him through the Lenten season. The idea of making a feature of Fish never occurred to him. To-day it is different. Whereas in former times a push in fish stuffs would not have had particularly good results, to day by offering such attractive lines as we manufacture in "Halifax," "Acadia" and "Atlantic" Prepared Codfish, and other high grade specialties, a big business can be done in Fish. The secret of this change lies in the fact that whereas the old-time article was not sufficiently attractive to the majority of palates, here are products which delight consumers and give fish a better place in the estimation of people generally. You can make a good thing out of your Lenten trade by selling our goods. If you have not given the subject much thought before, do it now. Your order to-day will bring you all you need in lots of time. Our facilities are equal to all demands.

Sealshipt Oysters

Are Healthy Oysters

The Sealshipt System is a new idea in oyster shipping, worked out in advance of the present day demand for absolutely pure food. Fresh, delicious sea oysters are taken from the shells and placed in a hermetically sealed, air and water tight, germ-proof steel can. This can is placed in a wooden package, surrounded by cracked ice which cannot touch the oysters. Therefore, Sealshipt Oysters are free from the slightest contamination. Ordinary oysters come in filthy, slimy wooden tubs, mixed in with dirty ice water and other impurities which make them flabby, flavorless and unhealthy.

OUR MAPLE SUGAR INDUSTRY.

Interesting Facts Regarding Annual Provincial Output.

At the 15th annual meeting of the Sugar Makers' Association of Vermont, U.S., held in Rutland, recently, M. F. Goddard, manager of the Maple Tree Producers' Association, of Waterloo, P. Q., was one of the prominent speakers. In the course of his remarks, Mr. Goddard gave an interesting resume of the history of the sugar making industry in Canada from its beginning, dating back as far as 1759. Speaking of to-day, he states that the sugar making industry of Canada was practically in the hands of the four provinces. In Nova Scotia there are about 150,000 pounds made annually in about eight counties; in New Brunswick 300,000 pounds. and in Ontario during the year 1901, there was made 4,000,000 pounds, while in Quebec during this same year there was made 13,564,819 pounds.

Mr. Goddard compared the conditions in Vermont with those in the provinces, stating that the price received there was 20 per cent. in excess of the price received here, but that in Quebec not more than 15 per cent. of the maples were tapped. Of 55,000 sugar makers in Canada only 8,000 are using improved evaporators.

"Five years ago," he continued, "we had no sugar makers' convention and what had been done towards the bettering of conditions was done by private persons. A great deal of credit belongs to John H. Grimm, of the Grimm Manufacturing Company, of Montreal, Canada, who circulated a paper, which finally influenced the Government to pass a law preventing the adulteration of maple goods. Also, in answer to a petition, the Government advertised extensively maple products at the World's Fair at St. Louis. But still we are not satisfied with the law. It is not as good as your pure food law. In 1905 samples were collected in March and tested and only 24.3 per cent. were found to be pure. In April and May 63.4 per cent. tested genuine. After the results of these tests were published, the next test in 1907 showed 72 per cent. to be pure. But the standard in Canada is not as high as it should be. The present standard permits the use of 20 per cent. of cane sugar, which, I think has a bad influence on the sugar men."

NEW CANNING FACTORY IN BRUSSELS.

Proposition Meeting With Favor Among Farmers and Gardeners.

The following item from last week's issue of the Goderich Star seems to be an indication of enterprising development in western Ontario:

"The proposal to establish a joint stock canning factory in Brussels is meeting with favor. The public meeting Friday evening, Jan. 3rd, was well attended, and seconded the proposition. A live committee was chosen to make a canvass of the town and locality for stock. It is estimated that at least $25,000 would be required. The farmers and gardeners appear quite willing to take hold of the cultivation of roots, vegetables, grain and fruit required to make it go well."

AN OPINION ON THE TEA MARKET.

Toronto Importer Speaks Regarding Present Conditions.

"What is my opinion of the tea market?" said P. C. Larkin, of the Salada Co., to a reporter this week. "Well, it is my opinion, founded on an experience of thirty years, that the man who leaves the tea market alone, carrying no stock, and buying from hand to mouth when the market is high, is a wise man. No person ever made money by speculating in teas. That is, they may make a little temporarily, but, in the long run, they are bound to be caught, because tea, unlike wheat and other articles, will not keep."

"Take the present condition of the market," Mr. Larkin went on. "Some grades are 6c per pound higher than they were a year ago, and 8c higher than they were in January, 1906. The chances are fifty to one that this state of affairs will not continue."

"In the thirty years I have been in the business, I have seen a great many 'ups and downs' in teas, but it is generally 'downs.' I have seen a very strong statistical position (that would warrant anyone in believing that very high prices were justified) turn in a month to the very lowest point in the market."

"In my opinion, every wholesaler and retailer who leaves the market severely alone, purchasing only barely what is absolutely necessary to carry him over from week to week, is a wise man."

UNFAIR LEGISLATION.

Retail merchants seem to be the constant butt for legislations to throw bricks at and, be it said in all frankness, so long as they fail to organize to protect their interests, they do not get any more than they deserve.

Workingmen can legally meet to arrange prices on their labor commodity, but it is illegal for merchants to agree on prices on the goods they sell. Wealthy manufacturers can secure mutual insurance by depositing large sums of money with the Government, but the merchants are debarred from this class of insurance by the large deposit required, the high wall being built up by the insurance combine. Merchants are debarred from collecting accounts less than $25 by garnishment. The Postmaster-General aims to put through a parcels post c.o.d. act to benefit the wealthy catalogue house magnates at the expense of the retail merchants, turning every postoffice into a collecting agency for the departmental stores. And now the Ottawa Government is to put through legislation making it possible for a number of farmers or workingmen to form business companies without expense, while merchants to do the same thing, must pay large sums for charters for incorporation as stock companies. That's a pretty long list of legislation acting unfairly upon retail merchants, but it is by no means complete.

Several pages of The Canadian Grocer this week are taken up with an outline of the proposed Government measure respecting co-operative companies. The article should be read by every grocer, and an invitation is extended to each to express his views regarding this and other unfair legislation in coming issues of this paper. Let us hear how merchants can protect themselves. If the present organization is not effective enough, how can it be made more serviceable to the trade?

The Government having decided to pass this law, it would appear to be useless to attempt to defeat it, though it may be possible to secure certain amendments.

Co-operative stores now exist at Hamilton, Dunnville and other centres, but nearly every town and county in Canada has seen some co-operative attempt made and failure result. Farmers and workingmen have lost large sums, but they seem willing to venture again. Merchants, of course, do not like to see trade demoralized, but they have no right to control the actions of the would-be co-operators. They can, with justice, however, protest against the unfair features of the proposed legislation.

The delusion exists that workingmen as a class can better their condition by organizing co-operative stores, and the Deputy Minister of Labor encourages this idea. Leaving aside the question of the probability of failure resulting history has shown that the condition of the workers as a whole in Great Britain has not improved as a result of co-operative enterprises. There are as many poor-houses and as much degradation in Glasgow, Rochdale, Manchester and other co-operative centres as in other parts of the world, where co-operative enterprises do not exist. If the workers can live cheaper they must work cheaper is an economic law peculiar to our present civilization.

A discussion of all matters of legislation unfair to retail merchandizing would be timely in these columns and if merchants are alive to their interests this invitation will not be disregarded.

DON'T BE A KNOCKER.

No business man can afford to be a knocker.

Some men feel that they are not doing justice to their own goods unless they are showing the weak points in the goods of a competitor. Nine times out of ten such a knock is a boost for the competitor. No man likes to hear another knock. He may even know that the knock is largely truthful, or possibly entirely truthful, but he resents it just the same. On the other hand, if all the good points of your own goods are set forth, there is no reason why the customer cannot absorb enough of your ideas as to what makes value to make him feel prejudiced against other goods which do not show the same good points as yours.

A knocker generally has few friends, no matter what he is knocking against, and the habit grows upon him, and the longer he knocks the harder he knocks and the less justice there is in the knock, and as a result his friends become fewer and fewer, until none are left.

Young men who are inclined to edge in a little knock now and then should refrain, for the habit will grow, and it does not take long to acquire a reputation which will make promotion a slow possibility. Find the merit in your own goods and then always be sure to make the customer thoroughly appreciate every point they have, and your case is in the best possible condition for good business.—American Grocer.

TRADE NEWS OF NEW BRUNSWICK

Lack of Snow for Sleighing Keeps Business Quiet—Sugar Advanced—Molasses and Fish Firmer—Grocers' Fishing Club.

(Special Correspondence of The Canadian Grocer.)

St. John, N.B., Jan. 20, 1908.

Business has been very good, but the absence of snow has interfered to some extent with trade in the outlying districts. Travelers are now out on their rounds and are giving their attention mainly to manufactured goods and seeds. The market in molasses and fish is somewhat firmer and stocks are not very heavy. Both herring and codfish are in good demand. Sugar has advanced 10 cents a hundred, but otherwise there have been no changes since the first of the year.

In the seed business some purchases have already been made. Timothy is about the same price as last year, but clover is quoted 4c to 5c a lb. higher than last year's quotations. This is a record-breaking price for clover and is caused by an actual shortage in the crop.

Some French seed is being imported this year. It has been the custom in previous years to export to France, but owing to the shortage this year the tables are turned. Last year some Chilian seed was imported and is said to have given very good results.

The local fish market has been only fairly well supplied during the past week. The fishing schooners are nearly all laid up as the season across the bay is about done and will hardly begin again before the latter part of February or the first of March. This accounts for the fact that nearly all the cod and haddock are being brought from Canso by rail and frozen salmon from British Columbia. Some lobsters are being received from Westport and Beaver Harbor. Business will probably be quiet for a few weeks. Western shipments are very light.

Several retail grocers started out one day last week, when business was quiet, to round up all the hake in the Kennebecassis River. They succeeded fairly well, for in about two hours they landed 31 of the fish through holes cut in the ice. There were five of them in the party, three of them being grocerymen, Alderman J. W. Vanwart, George W. Colwell and John Lipsett. Following the session on the ice, the party adjourned to Mr. Lipsett's summer cottage at Renforth, nearby, where a very pleasant evening was spent and an organization known as the Silver Hake Fishing Club was formed.

W. H. Thorne & Co., hardware dealers, have taken over the business of C. E. Colwell & Co., fish dealers, and will hereafter conduct the business. The transfer is made as a result of assignments made to W. H. Thorne & Co.

A FEW TEA THOUGHTS.

A little booklet entitled "A Few Tea Thoughts" is being sent out by the W. H. Malkin Co., of Vancouver, B.C. Malkin Co., and mentioning The Canadian Grocer.

LUMBERS' TEAM ON TOP.

Second Match in Toronto Wholesalers' League Goes Against Brokers.

There were things doing at 'Varsity rink, Toronto, last Friday evening, when the second game in the Wholesale Grocers' Hockey League was played. The James Lumbers Co. team came out on top, though with only a small margin, 5—4, and the game was fast and furious all through. How close it was may be guessed from the score. At half time it was 2—1 in favor of Lumbers; when time was up it was 4—4; exciting, wasn't it? and in the five-minute periods to play off the tie, the winners scored one.

The game was some faster than the one a week ago, better ice and a little practice contributing to the general feature. But you ought to have seen "Wes" Lumbers cavarting around in goal. He's a daisy and seemed to have the goal posts covered with a sheet. "Abe" Millman was one of the fastest men on the ice, and did some great shooting. Altogether a pretty good line of hockey was exhibited.

The teams were as follows:

Jas. Lumbers Co.—Goal. "Wes" Lumbers; point, Tom Kerr; cover, Boyd; centre, Wylie; right wing, W. Ford; left wing, McKenzie.

NOVA SCOTIA GROCERY NEWS

Stock-taking Generally Over—Business Considered Satisfactory—Fish Shipments Aggregate Above 1907.

(By The Canadian Grocer's Special Correspondent.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 22, 1908.

Stocktaking is now about over and the volume of trade passing is considered quite satisfactory for the season of the year. Prices generally are pretty steady, and there is no indication of any great change. There is a good supply of fresh laid eggs on the market, but the demand is light just now. Some small tubs of dairy butter are coming in but not in sufficient quantity to bring down the price. The market is well stocked with fruit, all the dealers having large quantities of it. Some of the dealers say that Jamaica oranges imported via Boston arrived here in better condition than those coming direct.

The Atlantic Fisheries Company, of Lunenburg, N.S., has suspended operations at Bay of Islands, Nfld., for the season. During the season just closed the company carried on very extensive operations, and handled enormous quantities of fish. The company exported 4,500 barrels of herring in pickled condition and 738,000 pounds of frozen fish, which are away ahead of last year's shipments. Of the frozen herring, four carloads of 125,000 pounds were shipped by train, the balance going by vessels. The company made an outlay in Bay of Islands, during the season, of over $16,000 which was fairly representative of their work. The firm's interests were looked after by their agent, Mr. Acker, and Captain D. Zinck, of the steamer Atlantic, owned by the company. Large quantities of fresh fish are now being sent from Nova Scotia to the Upper Canadian markets, particularly Montreal. The shipments are from eastern and western Nova Scotia the fishermen of the Cape Breton districts forwarding large quantities. Last week the schooner Maggie Smith arrived at Angonish with a load of cod and haddock, and the whole cargo was sent forward in refrigerator cars to Montreal.

LOW PRICES FOR APPLES.

Nova Scotia Shippers Disappointed With English Market—Outlook Discouraging.

A despatch from Wolfville, N.S., says that apple shippers throughout the Annapolis Valley are being seriously disappointed in the prices received from English shipments. Farmers who refused to sell their fruit for $2.50 per barrel for all varieties in the early autumn, are now making frantic efforts to get rid of their crop at prices ranging from $1.25 to $1.50 per barrel. This drop in price means a total loss to the fruit growers of over a quarter of a million dollars.

A meeting of the apple speculators in the valley was held at Middleton on Thursday, Jan. 16, the object being to get at, as near as possible, the amount of stock held in the various warehouses and in farmers' hands.

Representative buyers from each district were heard from and the total estimate of apples held in the valley was 203,000 barrels, as against 115,000 held this time last year. Figures taken from the estimate of the holdings in the United States and Ontario show the following:

Apples held in U.S. Jan. 1, 1907	3,704,475
Apples held in U.S. Jan. 1, 1908	3,650,800
Apples held in Ontario Jan 1, 1907	188,000
Apples held in Ontario Jan 1, 1908	328,000

From all reports the quality of the fruit in the valley is turning out very disappointing, Baldwins especially packing out fully 50 per cent. No. 2 grade, and shrinking heavily in packing. Fungus developed to quite an extent in greenings and Ben Paris are reported as spotting badly. Sales from the English markets are very discouraging. The market broke the latter end of November, since when returns have been coming back for about $1 to $1.25 per barrel, net.

The outlook does not look very good from the buyers' standpoint, they having paid far in excess of the net returns. The general price paid to growers in the fall was $2 to $2.25 per barrel, tree run, and this, with packing and shrinkage expenses, would bring the price up to $2.50 to $2.75 per barrel, f.o.b. cars.

PACKERS' ASSOCIATION CONVENTION.

To Be Held in Cincinnati, February 3rd to 8th.

The annual convention of the National Packers and Machinery and Supplies Association is announced to be held in Cincinnati from February 3rd to 8th, inclusive.

Considerable interest has been taken in this convention in former years by Canadian packers, and it is probable that quite a number will attend the meetings in Cincinnati. Last year, it will be remembered, the Grocer gave a comprehensive report of the sessions of the convention at Buffalo, and we purpose following the sessions of this year's convention in a similar way.

One of the features of the convention in former years has been the exhibit of packers' machinery. This year, the secretary informs us, the largest exhibit yet shown will be placed in the machinery hall, which is especially large. The committee in charge of the convention are making strenuous efforts to provide an enjoyable week for visitors.

WELL-APPOINTED NEW BRUNSWICK STORE.

Grocery and Crockery Store of W. S. Skillen, Woodstock, N.B.

The illustration on this page gives an interior view of the grocery store of W. S. Skillen, grocer, Woodstock, N.B. Mr. Skillen has been some ten years in the business, during which time his trade has grown from a small beginning, until to-day he has a large, well-appointed establishment on the main street of Woodstock, probably the most progressive of eastern New Brunswick towns, and a growing centre of trade. One side of the store is devoted to the crockery department, and the other to the grocery. Mr. Skillen is compelled to keep a rather large stock on hand of some lines, but notwithstanding the large stock carried, the proprietor is a great believer in ample space, as the cut above will attest. Mr. Skillen is a thorough believer in the future of New Brunswick, and of Woodstock as a centre.

The Totals Only of the Accounts Are Posted in the Ledger

The old, slow and laborious method of posting every item of an account from the day book to the ledger is agreeably missing in the Crain Monthly Account System.

By the Crain method the accounts are written up in duplicate daily from the counter check books or blotter—always up to date.

At the end the month, or other regular periods of rendering, the originals are torn out and sent to the customers, the duplicates removed and filed on a separate binder, and the total monthly balance only posted in the ledger.

Just think of that for economy of time and labor. Glad to mail our folder, "The Retail Dealer's Friend," with complete information.

Crescent BM&Co. TRADE MARK Brand

SODA-CRYSTALS (WASHING SODA)

Foreign Soda Crystals—and some of English manufacture—are being extensively offered for sale in this country which are grossly adulterated with Glauber-Salts (Sulphate of Soda), a cheap product which is not only entirely useless for washing purposes, but is even likely to injure the fabrics with which it comes in contact. The Adulterated Soda-Crystals, although nominally lower in price than BRUNNER MOND'S PURE SODA CRYSTALS, are in reality much dearer owing to the large quantity of useless and injurious matter which they contain.

Making Money in the West

We are quoting herewith a letter—unsolicited—showing what WAGSTAFFE'S Goods have done for one Firm in the West.

$20,000 of Business without a Single Note Against the Goods.

Calgary, Alta.,
December 9th, 1907

Messrs. Wagstaffe, Ltd.,
Hamilton,

Gentlemen,—In looking over our books to-day, as we are closing same for the year, we find we have bought since the spring, $20,000.00 of your Jams and Preserves, and we cannot see that we have put through a single Debit Note against the goods.

Of course this is the first season we have handled your stuff, but seeing the volume of our business, and there being no reclaimants against the goods, we feel it speaks volumes for your quality, bearing in mind that they are a high price line, and it only shows that if every manufacturer would put in the quality as you do, the public would stand every time for good stuff.

A year ago if we had been told we could handle pure Jam made only from Sugar and the Fruit, we would not have credited same, as we always imagined that such goods wanted a little glucose and fillers to make them shipable, but we now see that Jams, made the same as our mothers made them, will stand shipping and give infinite satisfaction to everybody eating the same.

It is needless to say we wish your worthy Company continued prosperity, and next year we believe we can double this business. As you are aware in introducing new goods, buyers are always skeptical, but now the quality has turned out much better than we made it to be when selling, we look to doubling the out turn next year.

We are, dear sirs,
Yours very truly,
(Signed) L. T. MEWBURN & CO., Limited.
Per L. T. MEWBURN, President.

We are sending these Goods—"the same as our mothers made"—all over Canada, and other grocers are having just as satisfactory results with them as Mewburn & Co. Are you making money on these same goods?

CAN WE HELP YOU ?

There are some grocers and general merchants living in this 20th Century who are still using 19th Century methods. They do not realize that Halifax is closer to Vancouver to-day than Montreal was to Toronto fifty years ago.

Twenty-five years ago it was a calamity for a merchant to lose a good clerk, for he knew it was practically impossible for him to get in touch with an experienced man. Such an idea as making a deal with a fellow grocery man a couple of hundred miles away either to buy a set of scales or to sell a second-hand counter or show case did not seem practicable to even the most progressive grocers. If a man wanted to sell his business he had to accept the highest price he could get from some one of his fellow townsmen for no one else knew of the opportunity or had any means of finding out about it.

To-day the up-to-date dealer

Creates His Opportunities

He states his wants briefly in a "Canadian Grocer want ad." and in four days' time practically every grocer, clerk, grocery equipment manufacturer and traveler has read the proposition, and it seems reasonable that somewhere among the "blue noses" of the Maritimes or the pioneers of the boundless West someone will want just what he has to offer.

Every Grocer in Canada

can take advantage of our "want ad." page. Ask yourself is there not some article I would be better without if I could get a fair price for it? If you cannot get a fair price for it by appealing to the trade throughout Canada you had better sell it for scrap.

We can help you but you must take the first step.

Surely it is worth 25c or 50c to find the one man in Canada whose wants dovetail into just what you have to offer.

Profitable Goods

Are the goods that are a little better than the others; goods that will make sales where the others won't. Ozo Brand Pickles are good pickles, and show their quality. We have special facilities for turning out the best pickles, and we have made the most of them. For instance, we provide the seed from which the vegetables are grown and so get the best from the start; the cucumbers go straight from the vine to the factory, so that none of the fresh crispness is lost. We make our own vinegar and it cannot be beaten for pickling purposes. It will certainly pay you to specify that you want our goods when ordering pickles.

The Quality Does It!

¶ There is only one sure way of insuring repeat orders for canned goods or anything else, and that is, to give quality.

¶ If you sell a customer inferior canned vegetables, your salesmanship may enable you to sell her the same brand once or twice more—then she will leave you, and trade at the store 'round the corner.

¶ The reason that we hold our old customers while continually adding new ones is because of quality. The quality of

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

is always the same, the ACME OF EXCELLENCE.

¶ It acts the same way between you and your customers. When you sell a can of OLD HOMESTEAD the customer may be depended upon to ask for the same brand next time.

¶ Don't you think it is worth your while to try this excellent brand—OLD HOMESTEAD? You are a business man; and it is the act of a wise business man to prove or disprove a manufacturer's statements. We are not afraid. We ask you to give OLD HOMESTEAD a test, because we know that a test will make you a regular OLD HOMESTEAD customer. Do it now!

The Importance of Purity

in Canned Goods cannot be over estimated. Nothing is more annoying to your customer than to discover that part of the contents of a can of vegetables she has bought from you, are unfit to eat. Every such occurrence is a knock at your reputation as a dealer in pure groceries. Consequently every grocer should stock the very purest brand of canned goods. Hundreds of grocers in Canada who stock

Christmas Advertisement Contest

The Prize Won by R. J. Donaghy, With T. A. Rowat & Co., London—The Why and Wherefore of the Award, With Reproductions of the Three Best Entries—Something About Some of the Other Advertisements.

The Grocer's Christmas advertisement contest was a new departure. Such a thing had never been tried before. It was rather doubtful as to how the matter would be received by the grocers of Canada. But the result has been very gratifyiag.

For some years this paper has carried on a regular page devoted to advertising, urging grocers to advertise in their local papers, showing them how to write their ads.; what form to put them in, and what kind of matter was most effective. This has been done because we are firmly convinced, and examples seem to bear out our conviction, that advertising that is real good advertising, intelligently planned and put together, is one of the surest avenues to success in the grocery business.

We were anxious to find out what effect this campaign was having, whether it was helping our subscribers, whether they appreciated it, and so arranged this competition. Considering that it was a new departure and that it was inaugurated, seemingly necessarily, at the busiest time of the year, the response was very encouraging and shows that the members of the trade are waking up to a realization of the importance of this department of their business.

To pick out the best ad. from a large number of advertisements of different size, form, typographical arrangement and style of wording was no easy task. Advertising is a matter which one can scarcely judge in the definite way a crowd of stockmen will sum up the points of a heifer at a country fair. While there are a number of rules and principles which govern the writing and arranging of good advertising, the matter of its excellence must depend, to a greater or less extent, on individual opinion. With this in view, the advertisements submitted were turned over for decision to R. W. Ralph, advertising specialist with the MacLean Publishing Company, whose writing ads., studying ads., and talking advertising eight hours every day. After careful consideration, the prize was awarded, as was announced in The Grocer two weeks ago, to an advertisement submitted by Rowat & Co., 234 Dundas Street, London, which appeared in the London Advertiser's issue of December 20, 1907. This ad. was written by R. J. Donaghy, the firm's advertising manager, and is reproduced herewith.

While the original ad. was somewhat larger than the reproduction shown here being 12 x 4½ inches, to be exact, this gives a very good idea of it. In several points this ad. follows the ideas which have been extended in our advertising department regularly. It is an ad. which would attract people, would make them come into the store and examine the things talked about. First, the brief introduction emphasizes four points, namely, large Christmas stock, reliable goods, clean stores and assurance of attention to customers. And these are well brought out. Look next at the "talk" which goes along with most of the items quoted. For instance "the sweetest, juiciest oranges;" "choice, ripe bananas;" "pink tinted malaga grapes, (large and sweet); "holly with plenty of red berries;" "crisp, tender celery;" "nicely fatted and properly dressed birds." Wouldn't some of those little descriptive items bring up pictures which would make a customer's mouth water involuntarily? This is the kind of talk we believe that interests people and makes them go down in their pockets.

Look, too, at the way the ad. is balanced. Those single columns of prices were marked out to be just long enough to even up nicely and the double column lines in between take away the stretchy effect.

Mr. Donaghy has a lot to thank the printer for in this ad., for, as far as was possible with the multitude of items crowded in the space, and this is the one criticism we would offer—too much in it—the compositor has done mighty good work.

It will be noticed that only two styles—two series, to be technical—of display, or black faced type was used, a point which adds wonderfully to the general effect, and again, the fact that the prices quoted are put in a black face is also helpful. The light face border surrounding the ad. throws the matter out well, just as a frame adds to a picture. Altogether, this ad. of

One of the Best Ads.—Submitted by Bradley & Son, St. Catharines.

Mr. Donaghy's, both in regard to writing and the composition, appeal to us as one of the best grocery advertisements we have seen in some time.

Bradley & Son's ad., reproduced herewith, which was well up in the running, was a monster, covering fully a third of the St. Catharines papers. It was eight columns wide, running clear across the bottom of the page. The excellent points applied to the winning ad. can also be applied here, but to less degree. The chief point of criticism would be in regard to the arrangement. The single column headed "Regular Groceries Much in Demand at Christmas" on the right-hand side, throws the whole picture—and that's just what an ad. ought to be—out of balance. If it had been put in the middle, between the two under columns of quotations the balance would have been perhaps as perfect as possible with such arrangement and the whole picture would have been much more attractive. There are too many rules, too, in the centre of the ad. Those separating the price items might better have been omitted and white space left in their place. This, of course, is the compositor's fault and not the ad. writer's.

Forsyth, Jr., of Dartmouth, N. S., seems to be something of a humorist, for he lets a bit of this escape him in nearly every ad. he writes. Whoever heard, for instance, of groceries "fairly aching," even "to take part in the holiday festivities." The idea is a pretty fair one, however, and should go a long way toward helping to sell the goods mentioned below. This ad., too, which is shown here, has some of that "mouth-watering talk," as, for instance, "large, plump Valencias;" "all ready for the pudding;" "eating figs, extra large and fine;" "dates, fresh and sticky;" "Malaga grapes, plump and luscious," but the printer has put the price figures in such large type and again has omitted to make them "line" with the other matter, and this has taken away a good deal from the general effect and attractiveness of the ad. Too much space is taken up in the lengthy headlines. Something brief and suggestive with the same matter following in smaller and lighter type would have looked better and saved space. The "Special Christmas Suggestion" at the bottom of the ad., with "Our Share" as an extra attraction, was an exceedingly good idea and should have brought out many an extra dollar from the well-to-do customers. Mr. Forsyth is certainly original in his advertising and business methods.

Bradley & Son submitted two other ads. of smaller, two-column space, filled with suggestive items, one headed, "The Saturday before Christmas," the other, "Last Day Suggestions from Bradley's," both including columns of price quotations with well-worded descriptive matter.

Forsyth, Jr., also sent in another ad. which for novelty deserves a few points. It is headed, in a large condensed black face type, "If your minister will read this from the pulpit at to-morrow morning's service," and following, in a small light face, "he may call at my office on Monday and get a cheque for five dollars." It is safe to say that a good percentage of the paper's subscribers would read this far. Whether they would read through the rest of the advertisement, which is also pretty well arranged, is another question.

C. E. Choat & Co., 65 Gottinger St., Halifax, sent in a series of Christmas ads., written by their bookkeeper, Tom Farmer. These, while well arranged,

The Man Who Makes Good His Ads.

AN ORIGINAL AD. From Dartmouth, N.S.

show the usual tendency to crowd the space used. One especially attractive ad. is in the form of an "At Home" invitation, inviting the people to the store "any evening during December." The idea, evidently, was to get the public into the store and then to convince them of the excellence of the goods.

E. A. Reed, clerk, with W. Dowling & Co., Brandon, Man., who, by the way, won one of the prizes in the window dressing contest, sent in a well-arranged two-column ad, in a border, with an interior rule border, inclosing three brief paragraphs of convincing talk and a list of quoted prices. The matter stands out remarkably well as a result of the border arrangement, but the wording of the heading, "Santa's Headquarters for Christmas Candies," is rather weak.

Up in the right hand corner at the very top of the front page of the Carleton Place Herald, the week before Christmas, appeared a good-sized ad. ostensibly "A Message of Cheer from Santa Claus," with an attractive list of prices of candies, fruits and specials following. The idea was fairly good, but the ad. was weak from the fact that the advertiser's name was hidden away in a single light-faced line at the bottom of the matter. One had to look hard for a moment before he saw who was paying for the space. The ad. was written by R. R. Powell, T. Stevens' clerk.

A series of very attractive ads., half of them in French, which must have brought in a good deal of business, was sent in by Elzear Turcotte, of Quebec, These were brief, but to the point, and were all different enough in arrangement to satisfy anyone. They stated general policy and business points well, but perhaps lacked in not describing goods a little more fully where prices are quoted.

J. R. Van Norman, 211 Rupert St., Winnipeg, sent in a bright little ad., incorporating a novel idea. It was headed, "A Dollar Well Spent," and underneath is a list of goods ranging from 25 to 5 cents, which, in all, amount to $1. Below this is another head, "Another Dollar Well Spent," with a similar list of different lines of goods. The name and 'phone number in a bold-faced type below would be seen by every eye which passes over the page.

And here's a lady. Miss Maude Alexander, with Prentice & Sproule, Collingwood, sent in a two-column Christmas ad., including a cut of the firm's clean-looking store. This entry suffers from bad composition, more than anything else, the general effect and attractiveness being spoiled by the fact that almost every line is in capital letters. The argument used was good.

A large three-column advertisement from the Picton Times, speaks very comprehensively of Gilbert's confectionery store in that town. The ad., which includes a cut of the very attractive store interior, is divided off in panels, each of which describes one department of the business. The matter is attractively written and no doubt would be very interesting to the Picton people if given one or two insertions. As a matter of fact, however, there is too much matter in the ad. to bring the best results.

The above are mentioned as some of the best ads. among those that were sent us. We should have been glad to mention all of them did space permit. Speaking generally, the contest showed that grocers are beginning to understand the principles of good advertising and are finding out how to get best results. A general criticism is that there seems to be an unavoidable desire to get too much matter into the space useh, thus detracting from the attractive effect, which is the main point sought after. The editor thanks those who were interested enough to send in ads. for competition, and hopes that the number will be greater when a similar contest is arranged again.

The articles on advertising will be continued regularly during the year and in connection with these we should be glad to receive grocery ads. for comment and criticism. This department has been arranged with a view to keeping the retailer with his advertising and such comments by the specialist in charge should be of considerable benefit to those who take part.

THE SITUATION IN THE WEST

Freight Cars Are Exceedingly Plentiful for Various Reasons — Merchants Awaiting Finding of Commission Regarding Freight Tariffs—Amendments to Grain Exchange Charter.

By our Special Winnipeg Correspondent.

With all the employes of the C. P. R. car shops laid off for another week and considerable curtailment of employes in other large industries, more or less directly connected with railway transport —the fact is forced home that conditions in the West have materially changed since this time last year, when freight cars were hardly to be obtained for love or money. In January, 1907, if any railway in the Canadian West got hold of a few foreign cars they hung on to them for dear life, and only sent them home when absolutely obliged to do so. In January, 1908, foreign cars are being rushed home to their respective roads as if a pestilence possessed them. The Canadian Northern Railway is supposed to have 2,000 empties standing idle at the present time, and it is quite probable the Canadian Pacific has double that number of empties; 1,500 are credited to Fort William alone, and every gravel pit siding between the lakes and Winnipeg has its contingent, and Winnipeg yards also have a number. There are several factors in bringing about this condition of affairs, chief among them being the short crop in the West, even the large amount of wheat being shipped all rail to St. John, not sufficing to make up the difference between this year and last in this one line alone. Another factor is the exceptionally large amount of coal hauled during the summer months in anticipation of a possible repetition of last year's shortage of fuel. Again the financial stringency has curtailed the movement of merchandise to a very considerable degree, merchants cutting things as fine as possible, and, lastly, there is the tendency to hold back freight as long as possible in the hope of a more satisfactory freight tariff after the commission has taken evidence in Ottawa next week. The Winnipeg Board of Trade is sending a very strong delegation, and it is understood an energetic fight will be put up against the proposed tariff, more especially those sections which have heretofore been known as commodity goods to the Kootenay and other Western points. Railway men state that there is not much likelihood of improvement in the movement of cars before next spring, but that when spring opens they anticipate a very busy season. In the meantime the laying off of large bodies of men even for a week has its appreciable effect in retail trade, which is rather quieter even than usual this January.

Wholesale houses continue to report conditions fairly satisfactory. In the matter of collections, some of this is no doubt due to the more emphatic effort that has been made to get money in.

The wheat situation has shown little change, beyond a slackening of demand for cash wheat of the higher grades, due, no doubt, to unexpectedly large shipments from Australia to Great Britain and the larger movement of the Argentine crop which is now coming forward very freely. Receipts of cars at Winnipeg have been well sustained, but in spite of fine weather receipts at country elevators have decreased during the week.

The most important matter in grain circles during the week has been the hearing before the Agricultural Committee of the arguments pro and con on the proposed amendments to the charter of the Winnipeg Grain and Produce Exchange. The case is rested now, and it is not known whether or not the bill will be returned to the House for final reading in its present form. If it should pass, it will go on record as absolutely the most vicious piece of legislation in its interference with private rights and private property that has been placed on any statute book in Canada in the last twenty years.

TRADE NOTES.

F. W. Thompson, vice-president and managing director of the Ogilvie Flour Mills Company, Montreal, has been re-elected a director of the Royal Bank.

Chausse & Cie., Montreal, are sending out to the trade some very neat and useful calendars. On each is an up-to-date map of the Dominion, while the population of the chief cities, towns and villages is given on the back. As they have still some left they will be likely to forward one to bona fide grocers who show they are such by mentioning The Canadian Grocer when asking for one.

THE WEST'S DAIRY PROBLEM

Discussion of the Situation by the Grocer's Special Winnipeg Correspondent—The Dairy Product Must Be Increased—$242,000 of This Trade From the East Last Year.

The month of February and the first weeks of March are, by custom regarded as the period of the year when men interested in dairying, poultry-raising, and the breeding of pure bred cattle and horses, congregate and talk over the best ways and means of promoting the various industries in which they are interested. It is a fact worthy of note that although the year 1907, and more particularly the last three months of it, was noted for the foolish and wasteful rushing on the market of cattle and hogs wholly unfit for the market, and the consequent slumping of the price to a ruinously low figure; on the other hand breeders of pure bred stock of all kinds report an exceptionally good year, with ready sales and good prices, and all available for sale well cleaned up. Further, the bulk of sales show that the western men have been the principal buyers, and that in many cases the animals purchased have been foundation stock for new herds. These sales apply, however, almost entirely to beef cattle and hogs, there being very little movement in the direction of new dairy herds. The Agricultural College of Manitoba seems to be the only agency that is making any direct effort to increase the interest in dairying in this province. This institution during February has arranged for a dairy convention, nominally under the auspices of the old Manitoba Dairy Association, but really under the direction of the dairy school of the province. It is questionable however, whether these efforts will meet with much success, as they seem to be proceeding along the old line of special dairy herds, and experience goes to show that it does not pay the farmer, who is going in for diversified agriculture, to keep cows that are good for milk only. What is really needed is the cow that will produce a profitable quantity of milk and will also produce a calf of beef type. The Canadian west, more especially Manitoba and Saskatchewan, has declared emphatically in favor of Shorthorns as a beef breed, and it is pure bred Shorthorns that have found sale for the foundations of new herds in the west in the past few months. There are in Great Britain some very noted herds of milking Shorthorns, and as has already been suggested in these columns, it would be an excellent work for the Live Stock Commissioners' department to devote time and money to finding out all that is to be learned about these herds and working the information into pamphlet form and seeing that it is thoroughly distributed throughout the country, not only in that way, but in the columns of the press. This is a work in which the Dominion and Provincial Governments should work together, and the Manitoba dairy school, with the agricultural farm for demonstration purposes, are surely in a position to put any knowledge acquired regarding milking Shorthorns into immediare practice, and in this way give object lessons that would be worth their weight in gold to the farmers' sons and daughters attending the college, and would in this way be readily disseminated throughout the country.

The importance of increasing the dairy output of the west can hardly be overestimated at the present time. The year 1907 is notorious for the fact that instead of supplying her own needs for butter, she brought in from the east at least one million pounds of butter, and paid an average of 23c per pound for the butter, and $12,000 for freight, or $242,000 sent east, that ought to have been spent at home. It means that even the farming population did not always make enough for themselves. It is not only that the west has lost the actual money paid out for this butter, but it has lost what is even worse, the valuable by-products that should have been available from this amount of butter, for use on the farm, for the fattening of hogs and the rearing of thrifty calves. The country merchant occasionally declares that he is glad the farmers of his district do not make butter, as he does not want to be bothered handling dairy butter. That may be quite true, but the fact that butter must be brought in from outside to supply the local demand is bad for his business in every way. The mentioning of a departmental store is worse than a red rag to a bull, in the ears of the average country merchant. And they are hardly to blame for that, as they have often to feel the injustice of seeing cash sent to these companies, while their account of long standing goes unapid. Is it not possible to fight some of these monopolies with some of their own weapons? In very many places country merchants have fought, instead of fostering, local creameries, by giving higher prices for butter than was paid for butter fat at the creamery, and in not a few instances the creameries have gone to the wall through this very opposition. It would pay the merchants of any town with a district suitable for dairying to combine and own a creamery, or if they did not do that, to hold stock in and foster in every was possible any creamery that may be started. To interest themselves actively in finding good markets for its products, to see that it is well advertised among the wholesale houses where they deal, and in a score of ways foster its success. In this way the farmers of the district would have cash all the year round for current expenses, and it would then be an easy matter for the merchants to put their businesses on a strictly cash basis, and in that way they would soon lessen the orders to the departmental stores. Of course, these companies, buying in such enormous quantities and also manufacturing themselves, are at times able to give very low prices, but when the quality of the goods is considered and the convenience of being able to get just what he wants just when he wants it would very soon outweigh any trifling difference in price. If the country merchants, being able to buy for cash and take advantage of the market and of all discounts, would speedily be able to give much lower prices to their customers and at the same time make reasonable profits, while the more frequent turning over of their stocks would enable them to keep goods that sare strictly fresh and up-to-date.

Just now when dairy conventions and live stock gatherings are going on is the time for the country merchants to try, at least, to get in touch with the farmers along this line and see what can be done to remedy a condition of affairs that is bad, very bad, for all classes of the community.

LARGE INCREASE IN EXPORTS.

Shipments From St. John to United States Growing Materially.

A statement of the exports to the United States from the port of St. John for the year ending Dec. 31, 07, shows an increase over 1906 of nearly a half million dollars. The total for 1907 was $2,967,924.70, as against $2,527,465,41, showing a gain for 1907 of $440,459.29.

THE INDIAN TEA INDUSTRY.

Crop and Prices of Seasons 1906-7, 1905-6 Compared.

The following paragraphs from a recent issue of the Home and Colonial Mail, of London, should be of interest to the trade generally:

"Some indications of the fortunes of the Indian tea planting industry as a whole during the past season may be gathered from the batch of interim reports, says the Financial Times. The four companies concerned are under practically identical management, but the group is a very important one, representing altogether a paid-up capital of nearly £4,000,000, exclusive of loans and debentures, and may, therefore, be taken as fairly representative. In the following table we show the principal comparative figures:

Company—	1906-7 Crop	1906-7 Price per lb.	1905-6. Crop.	1905-6. Price per lb.
Amalgamated Tea Estates	3,852	9.10	3,682	9.63
Consolidated Tea and Lands	15,510	7.62	16,105	6.63
Anglo-American Direct Tea Trading	5,150	7.61	5,192	6.44
Kanan Devan Hills Produce	7,007	7.75	6,279	7.02

000's omitted.

The selling and distributing of teas for the companies mentioned in the table for Canada and the United States is in the hands of the Anglo-American Direct Tea Trading Co., whose head office is in Toronto.

THE POTATO OUTLOOK.

Should present conditions prevail for a much greater length of time it is quite probable that potatoes will be very high by March. Reports from New Brunswick are of a bullish nature. Many are holding potatoes for $1.50 a barrel ($1.30 is obtainable now), while others are waiting for better prices, though their ambition is not so great. The United States is now importing a considerable quantity of Green Mountains, despite the duty, which is rather stiff, and this, together with the limited stocks held in the east, as evidenced by an advance of 20c to 25c a barrel, would indicate strong future markets, with every likelihood of advanced prices, One Montreal dealer has estimated the price for March at $1.25 to $1.35 per 90-lb. bag. Cold weather has interfered more or less in the shipping of potatoes. At present $1 a bag is asked in Montreal.

SECURE WORTHY REPRESENTATION.

The fact that seven Montreal grocers, wholesalers and retailers were elected as aldermen and by acclamation, too, at the recent municipal elections, is a worthy example to members of the trade in all parts of Canada. This is one of the matters The Grocer has advocated for some years, and we feel that we can justly claim some credit for the happy result.

Montreal grocers take an active interest in municipal politics. As a result, they are always well represented in the municipal government and are thus able to secure privileges, justly theirs, which would not come to them otherwise.

This fact ought to be more widely appreciated than it is. There are probably more grocers in any city in Canada than men representing any other class of business. If the grocers in any city or large town, such as Toronto, London, Winnipeg, Vancouver or Halifax, would agree, through organization, to support a number of candidates for municipal office, they could undoubtedly elect them and secure worthy representation, something for which the need is frequently felt. The grocers, as a whole, do not seem to be alive to their opportunities.

A WISE WARNING.

A despatch from Ottawa states that tht Fruit Division of the Department of Agriculture has issued a circular warning fruit inspectors to be on the lookout for false marks on re-packed apple packages. This action on the part of the Government is a wise precautionary measure in accordance with the letter and the meaning of the Fruit Marks Act. The order was sent out in anticipation of a condition which might materialize as a result of the state of the apple market last fall. It will be recalled that apples were high, and many, thinking that there would be a better price obtainable later on began to store all the fruit they could secure. Whole orchards were bought up, good, bad and indifferent fruit being purchased and stored. It was thought by the Government that much of this might be sold as first-class fruit being anything but such, and the note of warning sent out will put inspectors on their guard against unscrupulous dealers who might falsely brand their apples. It is quite permissible to sell inferior fruit, but it must be sold on its merits, and not under false marks.

SMOOTH OUT THE COMPLAINTS.

One of the surest ways of keeping business, and that, after all, is the way to make money, is to smooth out the complaints. Someone says, there shouldn't be any complaints. These will arise, however, in spite of everything, no matter how well regulated the store or how complete the system. The proprietor and the clerk should aim to have every customer go away perfectly satisfied, both with the goods and the treatment accorded her.

If Mrs. Brown complains that there were two bad eggs in the dozen you sent her, or that the butter was a little off in flavor, it will pay you to take a good deal of trouble to satisfy her, either by showing her that her claims cannot be substantiated or by offering to make good the loss. If she is honest you will only be doing the right thing, and, in the other case, in nine cases out of ten you will shame her out of her dishonesty. If she persists in complaining you will soon find it out, and such a customer is not worth having.

Do the right thing and stick to it is as good a rule to follow in selling groceries as in any other business.

CARE OF GLASS CASES.

Most up-to-date grocery stores have installed at least one glass show case or silent salesman during the past few years, which have been made to pay for the investment from the time they were installed. In the handling of metal goods the cases soon became scratched, however, unless care is taken.

A subscriber recently asked how to remove scratches from the show cases in his store, and, as this question should interest every retail merchant, the following is suggested as a practical method of removing scratches:

"Dissolve one ounce of white wax in a pint of pure turpentine. To dissolve the wax place the vessel containing the turpentine over a burner and warm, and apply with a soft cloth. This will in every case greatly improve the surface."

For cleaning glass, a good method is as follows. Mix one ounce of whiting, one ounce of alcohol and one ounce of water of ammonia in a pint of water. Apply with a soft cloth, allow to dry and then wipe off.

Numbers of glass cases are ruined yearly from lack of proper attention. Small cracks appear, caused by heat or contact with hard, heavy bodies, and if these cracks are not at once attended to they soon spread. An excellent method to prevent a crack from spreading is to draw a short scratch at right angles with a diamond or a glass cutter, this will prevent a crack from spreading in every case.

Cases should be set perfectly level on the floor, especially the new all glass variety, which, if this is not done, are certain to warp. The legs of the case should be propped to the required height from the floor to ensure their sitting true. If these methods on the care of show cases are followed out they will likely repay owners for the care taken by retaining a better appearance for a considerable time.

Grocery News from Coast to Coast

CALGARY

There is no particularly startling grocery news in Calgary this week, but the merchants all agree that trade is improving, and the slight dullness which invariably follows Christmas has disappeared.

Tenders for the buildings which will be erected in Victoria Park for the big Dominion Exhibition, to be held here this year, have been opened. Nine tenders were before the committee, and that of the Western Planing Company was accepted.

The Independent Meat and Packing Company, Limited, has turned the first sod, and their immense abattoir and packing plant will soon be added to the list of wholesale businesses of Calgary. Otto Hough, who is well known in the packing business, in which he has had thirty years' experience, is the managing director and will be in charge.

Eggs and butter are still scarce and prices in these commodities run high, in spite of the warm weather. Calgary is enjoying, and has continued through the past few months to enjoy, the most beautiful sunny days and warm nights. There is not a sign of snow or ice to be seen in the district, and occasional dust is the only trouble. The managers of the curling bonspiel, which commences this week, are doing everything possible to get good ice on the rinks, but a slight change of temperature is required to make their attempts a success.

EDMONTON, ALTA.

In spite of the quiet season which usually follows the Christmas rush of business, grocers in Edmonton report a fairly good trade. This has been aided by the fine weather which prevails throughout the west. Everyone is looking forward optimistically to a good year in Edmonton. The money stringency is still felt, but business men in Edmonton seem to think that it will have no permanent effect on the growth and development of this city.

The price of all groceries continues to be fairly high. It is hoped that the price on many lines may be reduced on account of the reduction in the freight tariff. Butter and eggs are rather scarce and are consequently high in price.

Grocers in Edmonton are endeavoring as much as possible to reduce their business to a cash basis, as they find it the most satisfactory in the long run both to their customers and to themselves. Collections are rather difficult just now.

John O. Lewis, who conducted a confectioner's store here for several months, made an assignment last week and his stock will be disposed of at public auction.

Thanks to the careful supervision of the city authorities, Edmonton is now supplied with milk of very good quality. The tests each month show a good amount of butter fat in the milk.

A movement is now on foot to establish a Twin Cities Club in Edmonton and Strathcona, the purpose of which will be to work for the advancement of both cities. It will be composed of business and professional men of both cities and should be a great advantage to both.

Speaking of the proposal to form such a club, Secretary Harrison of the Edmonton Board of Trade, said:

"There is every indication that within the next eighteen months the joint population of Edmonton and Strathcona, which is now 22,500, will increase to 30,000. I would strongly advocate that the leading citizens of the two cities get together and form a Twin Cities Club. The time is ripe for such an action to be taken. Our general interests are identical; both cities contain men who have large interests in each. To-day the Twin Cities of Central Alberta contain a larger civic population than any other city west of Winnipeg and east of Vancouver."

"The outlook for an active and progressive year in the building line is good. The provincial university and C.P.R. shops in Strathcona, the capital buildings, courthouse and C.N.R. shops in Edmonton, the advent of the Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian Pacific, the building of the C.P.R. high level bridge etc. By August, 1908, harvest time will have again arrived. British capital is flowing west and the future contains such promise that even the greatest pessimist will have to sit up and take notice."

"The passage of the new homestead and pre-emption act will stimulate immigration to an extent unprecedented in the history of the west. The large number of letters received daily at the board of trade and the predictions of the United States immigration agents indicate this. The Peace River country, of which Edmonton and Strathcona are the gateway, is like a strong magnet, drawing continuously and irresistibly the pioneer settler."

"If there ever was a period of history of these two progressive cities that their advance will be rapid and substantial, it will be during the next eighteen months. Those who are disappointed and handicapped elsewhere are looking for locations in this vicinity. The trade is already advancing. Some have stated that Edmonton and Strathcona have passed through a period of prosperity, but the future holds forth greater opportunities than ever to those who are wise enough to grasp the present and forge ahead with all confidence in the ultimate destiny of these twin cities of Canada.

PAPER A NECESSITY.

Parkhill, Jan. 22.

MacLean Publishing Co.:

Dear Sirs,—Yours of the 10th inst. received and would say that the postmaster has made a mistake in notifying you to discontinue sending me The Grocer.

I regard your paper as a necessity to every grocer, and trust I shall continue to receive your paper as usual.

Yours truly,

J. H. LAUGHTON.

GUELPH.

The Armour Company, of Toronto, have had recently a lady demonstrator at G. B. Ryan & Co.'s dry goods store demonstrating their extract beef, beans, etc. It has helped the sale of these goods during the week in the grocery stores, but as a rule the orders taken by outside agents that way do not turn out satisfactory. We have too much of this sort of thing among new brands of cereals. A man comes to town and goes from house to house and gets the people's names and where they deal and then makes out an order for a package of his cereal and goes to the grocer and says: "I have here a number of orders from your customers for a certain number of packages and if you don't want them I will turn them in to So and So., generally your opposition and you don't seem to remember the other fellow who did the same thing a few weeks ago and you buy five cases, and when you come to fill those orders seven out of ten will refuse to take the package. There are too many kinds of schemes to induce a grocer to load up his stock and too many kinds of cereals on the market to carry them all. A grocer has not room in his store for all and he must be careful in his judgment.

Most of the factories have all gotten started here after the holidays and the hard times scare is over.

*Contributions are invited from grocers or clerks in small places or where there is not a regular correspondent of this paper.

There are quite a few complaints of apples not keeping around here this year. Those people who have been depending on spies keeping in some instances are quite disappointed. There are also complaints of a well-known brand of canned goods not being up to the standard. In some instances tins of peas taken out of the same cases are altogether different. One can will be fine and sweet and a uniform size while another out of the same case will be large peas, sour and not fit to eat.

The first smelts of the season were offered last week and sold well retail at 2 lb. for 25c. There is quite a demand for good ciscoes but most of those coming are far too rough.

Orange and oyster benefits are all the rage just now for Saturday specials.

We have often heard of Dan McLeod, port manager of the Dominion Fish Co. at Southampton but last week he visited Guelph on business and what he doesn't know about lake fish isn't worth knowing. It would pay other wholesale men to get out among the trade occasionally and get acquainted. There are lots of grocers doing business with wholesale houses through their travelers who have never seen the wholesale house or its proprietors and a personal acquaintance that may sometimes help the traveler to get better orders.

A large number of people here, and I suppose elsewhere also, ought to be ashamed to ask a grocery driver to take his groceries to the back door at this time of the year. I have had some experience the past week in snow and after the heavy fall of snow last Sunday most people just shovelled a neat path to and from their front door. But from the street to their back door is a pile of snow from two to five feet deep and they expect a driver to put a bag of potatoes or a hundred of flour on his back and wade around to the back door through snow to his waist in some cases. I heard a baker get off a good one on one of those people this week. He went to the front door. The lady referred him to the back door and after wading through the deep snow to the back door, he said: "Well, Madam, I am sorry your husband is so sick." "My husband is not sick at all," she replied. "Oh, I though he was as he had such a nice neat path up to the front door shovelled and none to the back door and I wondered if he was not sick how that was. I have a wife and family to support, Madam, and wading through the wet snow all day I am liable to get cold and sick as well as anyone else." Needless to say, next day the path to the back door was shovelled. Did you ever think of that when you are shovelling your snow or are you like a man in Guelph who says shovelling snow gives him chills? If he would use the shovel long enough the chills will disappear.

The new city directory for Guelph is being delayed at present because the man in charge is trying to get the new city council to change the names of some of the streets. The idea is all right as we have several streets named the same, but why was this not done when the new mail delivery was started and before the houses were numbered. We hear a great many complaints about long-delayed letters and letters being lost not so much from the local office as from Toronto and larger centres. One lady got a letter this week posted in Toronto on Dec. 3rd and another got one posted on Nov. 27th and still another holds a receipt for a letter posted in December that has not arrived yet. This is not the fault of our streets being named alike or the house numbering either, although both are blamed. The cause is in the inside mail departments and ought to be investigated.

Who can give us some facts about running a meat table or counter in a grocery successfully; that is, not beef, but fresh pork and sausage, hams, bacon, bologna, etc. I know of lots running them but have not yet seen where there is much money in it and it is a branch of the business there ought to be money in. Don't all speak at once. But tell us how to cut up a cooked ham in small lots, cut thin, etc., at the small margin allowed and get out on it.

ONE OF THE WAYS IT HELPS.

The following item from the Guelph correspondent's budget of news this week shows a very good example of one way in which this paper benefits its readers:

"It did not take long after the arrival of The Grocer last Friday for some of the grocers to start selling oranges by the peck. Such a thing was not thought of till after reading the Toronto correspondent's account of the merchant there doing so."

KINGSTON.

The man behind the counter has a lot to think about these days, for every time the door opens that unexpected sight draft come in, causing a financial chill which is sometimes hard to check, for people won't pay. It is always Pa is out of work or we had to pay back taxes or we had to pay somebody who made us. They never tell you about having a $1 seat at the theatre or going six times a week to the five cent show.

The supposed to be solid Sovereign Bank is in a liquid state. Two of our grocers, I am sorry to say, are shareholders. I am sorry because grocers work mighty hard for the little balance they have in the bank.

As I am writing, a big snowstorm is raging and already a foot of snow covers Mother Earth. The lake is frozen over and now the islanders can cross in safety. After being prisoners for about two weeks now we will get good yellow butter and big brown eggs for the islanders make and keep the best and they get the best prices.

Amherst Island is practically owned by Lord Somebody in Ireland, It would be a good place to try Home Rule. His agent, Mr. Moutrey, is a fine man and popular with the tenants. Two grocers do a thriving trade. Mr. Neilson and Mr. Instant are the men behind the counter. They ship most of their produce to the city.

Wolfe Island five hundred years ago was a wild place, but it is quiet now. Your scalp is quite safe unless you play hockey there, then look out. The grocers on this island are Messrs. Cummings and Baker. Then we have Garden Island, owned by the Calvin Co., large boat owners and builders. They have their own stores.

Mr. Leach, manager for Jas. Hendry, broker, met with a serious accident last week, falling down the elevator shaft and lighting on his head. Hopes are entertained for his recovery as he is a valuable and well liked employe.

Marshall Reid, who bought out Mr. Hodson, is making much needed improvements. He is putting a door on the corner and placing a plate glass window on each side.

Mr. Neill, traveling for the National Drug Co., is pushing trade for St. George's Baking Powder. They have a limerick so you may as well buy a little for the people have the craze. These limericks, which favor one, and discourage a thousand poets and deep thinkers, will keep on until like trading stamps, they are stopped by legislation.

Saturday's market was a large one and so were the prices paid for fowl, flesh and vegetables. Apples are very poor sample this year and are only fit for feed.

Canners are offering canned goods at reduced prices. I guess a slump is coming. Eh, what?

Say, if the canners don't stop using cheap tin, the canned goods business will swell up and burst. Nearly every can we open the tin inside is streaked and mottled and dark, giving one the impression that the fruit or vegetable has a lot of foreign matter from the tin that may necessitate your calling up the doctor and ambulance in a hurry.

Markets and Market Notes

Business Continues Encouraging in Nearly All Lines—Small Advances in Staple Lines, but Prices Generally Pretty Steady—News From the Local Markets.

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—
Rolled Oats—Advanced
Canned Goods—Advance likely.
Beans—Declined.

Montreal, January 30, 1908.

During the week just closing there has been considerable activity in general grocery lines, but there have not been any new developments to speak of. The real feature of interest is the talk of an advance in canned goods. It is likely that the canners will put up their prices all along the line on Saturday, the first day of the new month. The reason given is that stocks this season are very low compared to previous years, because of short packs in the principal lines. More inquiry is reported for teas, though early in the week business was not particularly brisk. Rolled oats advanced Tuesday, and is worth, for 90-lb. bags $3.05 to $3.10 to-day. Some jobbers having a stock are still quoting at lower figures. Syrups and molasses are moving out fairly well. Sugar is in demand in certain quarters, but large lots are not being sold. Valencia raisins are reported firmer in Spain, but the Spanish market is not reflected here. California raisins are slightly easier in the primary market. Figs are stiffer in New York. Evaporated apples are dull. Beans have slumped considerably. Maple syrup is easier, but there is no demand for it. Smoked meats are quiet, but lard is moving out well. Butter is about the same, a little easier, if anything.

SUGAR—There is a good consumptive demand for sugar at unchanged prices. Grocers appear to be buying simply for immediate requirement. The New York markets have not been reflected locally to any extent of late.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL—The feature of the market this week is the talk of an advance which the canners will likely make on Saturday, the first of the new month. No official announcement is made by the local representative of the western firm, but it is common talk in the trade that prices will go up all along the line. The reason for the advance is said to be the general low condition of stocks, made possible at this period by the short pack in the majority of lines, such as tomatoes, corn and strawberries. There is noticeable a slight improvement in demade for various lines of vegetables and fruits, despite the present high prices. It remains to be seen whether an advance, if one occurs, will kill this trade, or at least, act as a temporary set-back.

TORONTO—Business is encouraging and stocks are moving rather more freely than usual lately. It is quite definitely understood locally that an advance of some kind will be made by the Canadian Canners on Saturday of this week, As to extent of the projective advance, no information can be gleaned at present. The advance will not be at all unwelcome and should stimulate business for a short time at least to fill the orders taken at the old prices.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 9 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 30, 1908.)

January business is reported fairly satisfactory by the wholesale and manufacturing interests of Winnipeg. There is a general feeling that the worst is over and with improved country collections the leaders in Winnipeg business life are disposed to take a more hopeful view of the situation. There is a good demand for all staple and general lines of groceries and foodstuffs and although buyers are more cautious in their purchases than they were a year ago, this is probably a matter for congratulation. In some districts where crops were poor the retailers have been obliged to ask for considerable extensions of credit and in spite of the money stringency their wholesale houses are carrying the great majority of such dealers. With a mild winter and good prospects of an early spring, it is confidently expected that crop returns in 1908 will greatly exceed those of 1907 and if these expectations are realized next autumn will see a return to normal conditions in the western provinces.

Price changes are not numerous this week. Pot and pearl barley are advancing. Rolled oats have been easier, but with a stiffening in the price of oats the market is firmer.

CANNED GOODS—The canned goods market is quiet and featureless. Quotations are unchanged.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, Jan. 30.

Wholesalers generally report a continuance of fairly good business and they are unanimous in saying that the volume of trade transacted is larger than at the same time last year. Somewhat different reports come in from retailers, particularly in the north of the province, where matters are certainly very quiet and in some districts really depressing. Everything seems to point however to the steady opening out of a good spring's business.

TEA—Locally business is quiet, under the prevailing high prices. Advices from foreign markets continue to bear out the assertion that high prices will continue.

COFFEE—Business is encouraging this week at staple prices.

SUGAR—The market is steady at prices quoted below.

DRIED FRUITS—The tone of the market is somewhat firmer, with an advance noted locally in dates. Valencia raisins also are firmer, but local stocks seem large enough to supply present demands and prices have not been advanced. As a matter of fact, prices in the primary markets have advanced so that these goods could scarcely be laid down here at the prices they are being sold at to-day. A gentleman from the middle of the prune district, who called on the trade this week, is responsible for the statement that conditions there are such that present prices are the lowest we shall have for some time.

RICE AND TAPIOCA—Late advices from India, referring to Rangoon rice, report that the rice crop there is in such poor condition that importations will have to be made from Burmah for home consumption. This condition will not be remedied till the Bombay crop is available in the fall of the present year, and seems to point to a higher basis for rice.

A steady staple business is being done locally at prices quoted below:

GUILD CASE AGAIN POSTPONED.

Hearing Changed From February 10th to June 3rd.

The case against the Wholesale Grocers' Guild, technically "The King vs. Beckett," which was slated for February 10, has been again postponed.

The case had been set down for January 20, but Chief Justice Falconbridge being unable to take it on at that date it was adjourned to February 10. As it is likely to be a long drawn out case it has been the expressed desire of the bench not to let it interfere with regular court business and yet, since it was a matter of great public interest, that it should be taken up as soon as possible. It appears, however, that a witness whose evidence is considered exceedingly important, cannot be secured for the date set and after consultation between the chief justice, G. T. Blackstock, K.C., and R. B. McKay, defendant's counsel, the date of hearing has been fixed for June 3 to 15.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

During the past week there was more or less expectation of a display of interest in the Canadian situation on the part of English houses, but the dullness which has characterized the market, despite its steadiness, was not disturbed.

Entire interest appears to centre on the cheese coming from New Zealand. Their season, while nearing its close, is not yet finished, and their export figures are something to be reckoned with in calculating Canada's chances at the moment. The New Zealand article, being a cheaper product than the Canadian, finds a more ready market in the Old Country.

Holders locally continue to view the situation with a calm unconcern. Knowing stocks to be small, they are not anxious to dispose of what they have at anything but their own quotations. There has been some business transacted, but the amounts involved have not been large by any means. It is quite safe to say that sales have been most moderate.

There is a good range offered in quotations again this week. The better grades are still quoted about the same as at last writing, in the neighborhood of 13¼ to 13½ cents, the latter price being a bit firmer. Poorer quality is obtainable at a price somewhere about 12¾c. Holders, however, are not strenuously pushing the sale of even this stock.

Receipts of cheese last week amounted to 65 boxes, against 388 boxes previous week, and 22 boxes same week one year ago. Total receipts for the season amount to 2,053,472 boxes, against 2,348,749 boxes same period 1907.

Cold weather has resulted in an even more brisk demand for butter, which is selling this week again at 28½c to 29c for fancy creamery. Single packages are being disposed of at 30c.

Trade has been more largely local within the past week or so than for some time past. There has been a little nibbling from outside points, particularly from Ontario, in the Toronto district. A few cars have been sent out during the past two weeks. The west, which has been quiet for about a month, has again become interested in eastern markets. It is quite likely that they will be forced to buy from Montreal until May, at least, as supplies held by western people are very light, and quite too small to take care of the demand.

Local butter trade has grown to be so important that dealers are taking a very independent stand. They care not a great deal for outside orders, and fill them only when their own price is obtainable. The past season was a good illustration of the comparatively slight interest displayed in outside markets. In former seasons those who trade in butter have given considerable attention to England. Last season they hardly followed the markets. Demand for Canadian butter in Canada was wonderfully well sustained, and prices obtainable at home were quite satisfactory, and there was not such trouble to reckon with as there is when export trade is done. This demand continued after the close of navigation, and, though the make was good for the season, it rapidly dwindled under the steady calls made upon it, until now it is so small that fear is entertained as to whether or not it will last out the season.

Conservatism is very noticeable among holders of creamery and dairy. The latter is scarce as ever, and selling from 24c to 25c for fair to good stock, to 25½c to 26c for fancy rolls.

A late opening of the new season is anticipated owing to the retarded winter. When butter making does start it is thought by some that there will not be a great deal of encouragement for factorymen, owing to the fact that cows will be in poor condition after a winter spent in the stables where hay and feed were none too plentiful because of the high markets which have all along ruled for these lines.

However, that is looking ahead somewhat, and conditions may be considerably better than expected.

Receipts of butter last week amounted to 791 packages, against 1,033 packages previous week, and 628 packages same week, 1907. Total receipts for the season amount to 409,343 packages, against 603,675 packages for same period last year.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

The continued depressed condition of the British market keeps matters quiet among Canadian packers. And the fact that this is so is not surprising, when the comparatively small part Canadian goods play in this world's provision market is considered, along with the fact that packers in the other countries which provide the major part of the supplies are continuing to do an enormous amount of business under conditions which, to local men, would seem to be anything but advantageous, the reason for the miserable condition of the Canadian markets is at once apparent. Even at the low prices prevailing in England last week—Danish offerings were heavier than in any other week, we can remember. Deliveries totalled 45,000, a most extraordinary aggregate. American packers, too, seem to be willing to do business on small margins, and their shipments last week were, also extraordinarily heavy, totalling 35,000. And this, in spite of the low prices prevailing in the home markets. It looks as if the American farmers were anxious to get rid of their hogs.

Even under these conditions prices locally are slightly better this week. Last week f.o.b. price was markedly low at $5. This week an advance of 15 cents is noted. Fed and watered stock this week bring $5.40, as against about $5.20 a week ago and for hogs off cars at factory $5.60 to $5.70 is now being offered.

A review of conditions in the American market is given in the following paragraph from the New York Journal of Commerce's weekly summary:

"The past week has witnessed record receipts for this season of the year next ro the previous week, both of which were enormous and far ahead of any recent years. But the packers have been such free and general buyers that prices have not gone off very much, it being the belief that the heavy run of hogs will be over by the middle of February; some of the packers have been willing to stock up at these prices, having accumulated little stock previously this season except of meats. Hence we have had no big break in prices, although cash demand has remained as stagnant as it has since the panic, the trade not believing that present prices can hold in face of such receipts much longer, or at least that they can go no higher. Consumption has also fallen off since hard times, and, together with the tight money market, has prevented any speculation on the part of the distributing trade, who have not even bought hams ahead this year as usual from the first of January. Some of the packers refuse to sell green meats, as well as future products, at late decline and are accumulating stocks. But there are enough of them still in the market to prevent any recovery in prices, although shorts, led by the Cudahy Packing Company, have been covering."

A WIN FOR KINNEAR & CO.

The T. Kinnear & Co. team sprung rather a surprise on followers of the Toronto Wholesale Grocery Hockey League, at 'Varsity rink on Friday night, when they defeated the James Lumbers Co. by a score of 10 to 2.

The Kinnear team presented the strongest line-up of the season, while Lumbers were weakened by the absence of Tom Kerr from point. Bilton put up a good defence game, although it was his first appearance on skates this season, but he was scarcely able to hold the pace set by the Kinnear bunch.

Those who knew figured the Kinnears to have no chance to beat their opponents, as Lumbers had already beaten the Brokers, and the latter had beaten Kinnears in the opening game of the season. The Kinnear team did not keep their rooters long in suspense, for five minutes after play began they had banged four goals past Wes. Lumbers. Then Lumbers scored one, but the combination of the Kinnear forwards and the fast rushes of Humphrey and Minett were responsible for three more, and at half time the score was 7 to 2.

The second half was quite as fast as the first, with the Lumbers team struggling hard to even the score, while there was no let-up to the attacks on the Lumbers goal. During this half "Wes." Lumbers gave a great exhibition of goal-keeping, stopping innumerable shots that looked sure.

The line-up was as follows :

The James Lumbers Co.—Goal, Wes. Lumbers ; point, Bilton ; cover-point, Dilworth ; forwards, Wylie, Ford and Carradus.

T. Kinnear & Co.—Goal, Campbell ; point, Minett ; cover-point, Humphrey ; forwards, Kinnear, Marks and Rennie.

The next game will be played this evening at 'Varsity rink, at 9 o'clock, between T. Kinnear & Co. and the Brokers. A rousing game is expected.

The three teams in the league are still on even terms, being tied in the standing, each having won and lost a game.

OPTIMISTIC REPORTS FROM ARGENTINA.

Crops Promise Splendidly—Oats Arousing More Interest.

Late advices from the Argentine say that the optimistic reports regarding the Argentine harvest are fully confirmed. The wheat crop is splendid. There probably will remain about three million and a half tons available for export.

Linseed suffered considerably, but as the acreage is bigger than last year there will be no decrease in export.

Oats are rather a novelty there, but the crop is steadily increasing and probably half a million tons will be exported.

It is too early to estimate the maize crop, but there is no reason to fear a failure.

The total value of the export grain for the current year is estimated at $600,000,000.

CEREAL MARKETS STEADY

Large Export Demand Gives Firmer Tone—Oats Seem to Be Slightly Firmer—Winnipeg Inspections and Present Visible Supply.

Business seems to have opened up rather more encouragingly for Canadian millers during the week. Export demand is exceedingly good, indeed, some Ontario millers report that it has not been better for years. Large shipments are being made to British markets via London and Glasgow, and everything seems to point to a good year of export business in Canadian flour.

Oats seem to be a little stiffer this week, consequent on light local supplies, but business in oat products and cereals is somewhat quiet.

Saturday's inspections of wheat at Winnipeg included the first car of "hard" wheat received in over a month. The total inspection was 178 cars, compared with 65 cars a year ago. Grading returns showed: No. 1 hard, 1 car; No. 1 northern, 7 cars; No. 2 northern, 13 cars; No. 3 northern, 25 cars; No. 4 14 cars; No. 5, 26 cars; No. 6, 10 cars; inferior, 69 cars; winter wheat, 13 cars. Other inspections were 35 cars of oats, 7 cars of barley and 4 of flax.

The visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States decreased 9,000 bushels during the past week. This compares with a decrease of 729,000 last year. Corn increased 461,000 bushels, and oats decreased 71,000 bushels.

Later estimates place the Australian wheat exportable surplus at 16,000,000 bushels, of which not over one-half will go to Europe; the remainder will be taken by South Africa, etc. This year's crop is estimated at 34,000,000 bushels. In 1906 the crop amounted to 66,000,000 bushels, of which 34,000,000 were exported.

The English visible supply of wheat last week showed a decrease of about 100,000 bushels; English imports of wheat were 2,744,000 bushels; flour, 217-000 barrels; corn, 1,317,000 bushels.

CANADIAN FLOUR FOR EGYPT.

Toronto Milling Co. Finding Ready Market in Alexandria.

And now it's Egypt that is reaching out after Canada's products. We will soon be pretty well represented in the world's markets.

In a chat with Douglas A. Campbell, of the Campbell Milling Co., on Tuesday, the Grocer asked whether the firm was doing any extensive shipping to outside points.

"Well," said Mr. Campbell, "beside our British shipments, we sent rather a large order of our Monarch brand pastry flour off to Alexandria, Egypt, this week, and it looks as if that market would open up well for Canadian flour."

"This was the second shipment," continued Mr. Campbell. "We sent a sample shipment down there some time ago, which seemed to please our customers immensely, and resulted in the large order which has just been sent out. The flour was sent direct to private parties in Alexandria. It seems that the Egyptian wheat has gradually come to be too poor in quality to satisfy the demand there for a first-class brand of flour, and in turning elsewhere for supplies the importers were attracted to the flour made from grain grown on Canada's comparatively new wheat fields."

"The market down there seems to be opening up well," Mr. Campbell continued, "and I think we may look for a steady and increasing trade in that corner of the world."

Elphege Lacasse, grocer, of Montreal, has made an assignment.

WHO READS TRADE NEWSPAPERS?

How to Keep in Touch With Progress in Various Departments of Business.

If you were to be appointed to a responsible position in railroad administration or in a manufacturing industry, where would you go for information about the latest equipment and methods? You would turn immediately to the trade press publications dealing with the transportation or manufacturing industry concerned. In this great country of invention and development nothing is fixed. Equipments and materials of to-day are constantly being replaced by those of more efficiency and economy. In one of the great steel plants in Pittsburg new installation and machinery costing hundreds of thousands of dollars was replaced in less than two years by even more expensive equipment, but which produced a better product at less expense. Whatever one may know of the mechanics of any business or industry of one year ago, he could not be depended upon to undertake any important enterprise on such a knowledge.

In business life to-day we find two methods of keeping in touch with progress. There are business and trade organizations, local and national, which deal with many of the general problems for advancement. The other factor is the trade press. This class of publications has grown in recent years from meagre trade reports to the largest periodicals of the world, giving the latest scientific and trade news and amounting to practically complete showing of equipment for the industries concerned through advertising pages.

After a tour through the United States, Sir Alfred Harmsworth said of the American newspapers: "Apparently sin is news, but what of the great industries and enterprises of your country?" He could find his answer in the trade press publications which now ably represent every commercial and industrial interest.

The second annual convention of the National Federation of Trade Press Associations has just taken place. There are in all over two hundred and fifty publications which deal with the professional, transportation, manufacturing, commercial and financial interests of the United States, and about fifty in Canada. These constitute the textbooks from the first grade to the universities of the great business life of this country.

Who reads these trade press publications? Those who are foremost in the management of the railroads, the cotton and woolen mills, iron and steel industries, electrical and mechanical shops the mammoth wholesale and retail food products and dry goods establishments, and all banking institutions. They must have the latest news of, they must know what is being done and what the world affords. The heads of all departments will fail to meet the responsibilities placed upon them if they, too, are not well posted and aggressive in their methods. The ambitious workman of to-day will be the proprietor of tomorrow. He, too, must look to his text books—the trade press publications—for the broad knowledge of conditions outside of his own environment.

Among the questions which are frequently asked applicants for positions as teachers are these: Are you taking any educational journals? If so, how many? In some instances a certain number of points are given for favorable answers to these questions. Similar questions apply equally well as an indication of the enterprise and efficiency of workmen, foremen, superintendents, executive officers, and the heads of firms, in printing as in all other lines.

The United States could not have reached the high degree of development in medicine, architecture, music, business, manufacturing and transportation without the leadership of the trade press. With the certainty of still further specialization in all lines, the trade press will be of correspondingly greater importance. Whatever the developments in any line, there is a similar evolution in printing. More than any other artisan, the printer must keep in touch with progress through his trade publications because printing is the dynamic radiating force of the social, educational and business life of to-day.

FROZEN HERRING SCARCE.

Rough Weather Causes Lighter Catch Than Last Season.

Advices received show that the catch of herring in Newfoundland this year was lighter than last, so that the supply of frozen herring will this season be less than a year ago. This season American vessels took 57 cargoes, amounting to $251.653, while Canadian vessels took 30 cargoes, totalling $134,442. Last year 65 American vessels and 41 British took cargoes to the value of $453,144, so that there is a consequent decrease in value of $66,049. Rough weather early in the season prevented the fishermen getting out as usual, while a spell of mildness prevented freezing operations to the usual extent after the catch, such as it was, was in the hands of the fishermen.

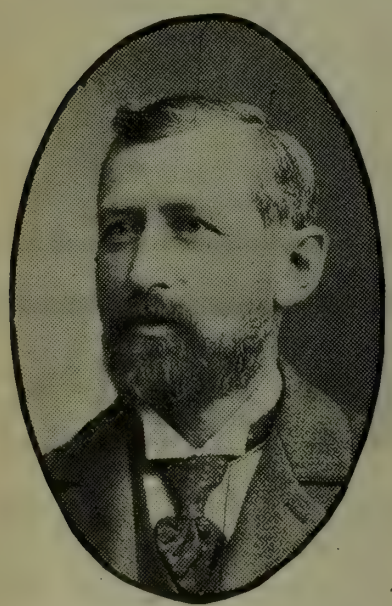
INDEPENDENT CANNERS ORGANIZE

New Association, Including About Forty Companies, Formed at Toronto on Monday—Will Co-operate for Mutual Benefit, Advantage and Protection.

The independent canners of Ontario were pretty well represented at a meeting in the King Edward hotel, Toronto, on Monday, Jan. 27th, and the result of the meeting was the formation of a brand new organization, to be known as the Independent Canners' Association.

For some time it has been felt among the canners who remained out of the combine when the Canadian Canners' Company was formed some few years ago, that they might with advantage be united to some extent at least for mutual benefit and protection, but no definite steps were taken until recently, when R. W. Ball, of the Essex Canning Co., took a forward step in inviting these gentlemen to a meeting in Toronto to talk matters over. The result of the meeting was the formation of the association.

The objects of the new body are not, as is held in some quarters, particularly to oppose the Canadian Canners, but, as was stated in a resolution passed by the meeting, "To hold meetings from time to time to discuss matters relative to the interests of canners for their mutual benefit, advantage and protection."



E. D. SMITH, M.P.,

Of Winona, President of the Independent Canners' Association.

The following officers were elected :— President, E. D. Smith, M.P., Winona; vice-president, A. Baker, of the Old Homestead Canning Co., Picton ; secretary-treasurer, R. W. Ball, of the Essex Canning Co., Toronto ; and F. J. Lowe, of the J. H. Wethey Preserving Co., St. Catharines; W. Echert, of Gorman, Echert & Co., London; S. E. Martin, of the Farmers' Canning Co., Bloomfield, and Geo. E. Fisher, of the Burlington Canning Co., Burlington, who, with the officers, will form the executive.

A legislative committee was appointed to look after a branch of the organization's business, which, in time, may grow to be important, and is composed as follows : F. M. Smith, of the Oshawa Canning Co.; W. A. Carson, of the Napanee Canning Co., and H. T. Reason, of the St. Thomas Canning Co.

Considerable discussion took place during the progress of the meeting regarding the seeming injustice of the report from the Government inspector last July regarding the alleged questionable conditions in some of the factories in the Niagara district. The opinion seemed to be that the names of the delinquent firms should have been given, instead of making public a report which reflected on all the factories of the district. The members of the association present placed themselves on record as not objecting to inspection, and as strongly urging that in cases where unsatisfactory conditions were found by a duly appointed and qualified officer that the delinquents should be brought directly before the proper authorities.

Several of the members present referred strongly to the seeming attempts of the Canadian Canners to control the trade of the province, but no action was taken. The association, as a whole, seemed to feel that there is enough business in the field for all and that each company will get its legitimate share.

The convention of the National Packers' and Machinery Supplies Association at Cincinnati next week was referred to and it is highly probable that a large number, the majority of those present, will visit this convention. Arrangements are being made whereby the members of the association will travel together and stop at the same hotel while in Cincinnati, and a pleasant and very profitable outing is assured.

The next meeting of the association will probably be held a short time after the convention, when matters of interest which cropped up during its sessions will be discussed, and the work of organization of the new association completed.

Among those present at Monday's meeting, beside the gentlemen mentioned above, were ; Wm. Fertz, of the Family Canned Goods Co., and C. M. Hunsburger, of Jordan ; C. L. Black, and G. E. Russell, of the Sever Lake Canning Co., St. Davids ; Arthur Allan, of the Lakeside Canning Co., Wellington ; S. E. Bolter, of the Niagara Falls Canning Co.; D. C. Munroe, of the Alviston Canning Co.; H. G. Lorimer, of the Belleville Canning Co.; J. Breault, of the Tecumseh Canning Co.; R. C. Eckert, of Gorman, Eckert & Co., London ; Geo. Bolter, of Niagara Falls ; S. H. Bolter, of Niagara-on-the-Lake ; R. Church, of the South Bay Canning Co., Port Melfort ; Geo. H. Davey, of the Meaford Canning Co.; Geo. E. Coleman, of the St. Thomas Canning Co.; H. E. Robinson, of the Ingersoll Canning Co.; W. G. Trethewey, of the Sanitary Canning Co., Weston ; C. A. Armstrong, of the Beamsville Preserving Co.; R. B. Morden, of the Belleville Canning Co.; T. Owens, of the Bloomfield Packing Co., and A. K. Fraser, of the Fraser Canning Co., Wellington.

AN EARLY EYE FOR BUSINESS.

Good Story of Incident in Boyhood of New President Montreal Board of Trade.

Thomas J. Drummond, the new president of the Montreal Board of Trade, is one of a family of successful manufacturers and merchants. Not only have they been unusually successful and attained an influential and prominent position in Montreal, but their success has also not lost them any of their old friends.

The new president even as a boy had an eye to business. There was a cat show in Montreal and a handsome prize was to be awarded to the best collection of felines. Mr. Drummond read the announcement and with his brother George, the former president of the Manufacturers' Association, and one or two other boys, they secured a big packing case from Greenshields' Dry Goods Store and nailed rough wooden slats on the front. Each contributed his own family cat and then stealthily visited the homes of all their neighbors and secured about forty representatives of all kinds, all of them mongrels. They had the largest collection at the show, but it was a motley group and it kept the boys busy separating the fighting cats. Much to their disgust, the judges refused to award them a prize. The boys made such an aggressive row about it that to keep them quiet the committee gave them $2 and ordered them to remove their cats. The packing case was taken up the lane behind Victoria Rink and the cats liberated—the most of them the worse for wear, and many of them their owners could not recognize. The two dollars was spent on ice cream.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Fruit Market Remains Steady—Potatoes Have Made Another Advance and Are Firm—Good Business in Fish.

The fruit market has been featureless during the past week. Oranges are holding their own. Prices have a firmer tone. The first shipment of Bitter oranges has arrived. The quality is said to be highly satisfactory. Lemons are selling fairly well. Cranberries are moving very slowly. Almerias have a firmer tone.

The feature of the week has been a further advance in potatoes of 10c. Supplies are scarce and the bad weather will prevent their moving freely. A further advance is highly probable. Domestic vegetables are in good demand. Parsnips are scarce. Fancy imported lines are moving slowly.

The fish business is brisk. Good sales are reported especially from country points. This is due to the wave of cold weather which has facilitated shipments by freight. Prices are unchanged.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—There are several changes noticeable in prices this week. Florida oranges are up considerably, while pineapples are $1 lower. Strawberries are easier, too, being more plentiful. Jamaica and Mexican oranges are about done. Demand is for Californias and Valencias. Lemons are selling fairly well.

VEGETABLES—Despite cold weather, vegetable dealers report a very good demand for most all lines. Prices in the majority of cases continue high and firm, and there are some advances noticeable. Potatoes are much firmer, being worth $1 a bag for the best. Cold weather has hindered shipping. An advance is reported in New Brunswick, where most of the stock is coming from now. This amounts to about 25c a barrel. Beets, which are scarce, have gone up. There has been a strong advance in wax and green beans also, while Canadian onions are easier in feeling.

GREEN FRUITS — No material changes are noticeable in the market. Oranges remain firm, though there has been no advance. Business is better. The first bitter oranges of the season have arrived. Lemons are not very brisk. Big local sales of apples are reported. Bananas are moving better. Almerias have a much firmer tone. The stocks are getting lower and a steady market is assured. VEGETABLES—The big feature of the week is the sharp advance in potatoes. An advance of 10c is quoted for both Canadians and Delawares. The rough weather has made supplies precarious, and as the demand is active a further advance is probable. Domestic vegetables are in good demand. Parsnips are very scarce and are being quoted at an advance of 10c. Fancy imported stuff is slow.

FISH COMPANY AT PRINCE RUPERT.

New Organization With $1,500,000 Capital to Develop Pacific Fisheries.

The building of the Grand Trunk Pacific and the opening up of fishing areas adjacent to Prince Rupert has already borne fruit in the organization of new enterprises. A company known as the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Company has been formed, with a capital of $1,500,000, for the purpose of dealing in all kinds of fish existing in the waters near Prince Rupert. An excellent site within the harbor has been secured from the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. The building is to have an initial storage of 6,000,000 pounds of fish and provision has been made for doubling this capacity. At a later date a fish fertilizer plant, capable of treating 100 tons of non-edible fish daily, will be erected. It is proposed to operate on the fishing banks with ten large motor boats, each with a capacity of from 50,000 to 60,000 pounds of fish, and the construction of these craft will be undertaken next spring, in ample time to permit of the company engaging in actual business early next fall.

Andrew Kelly, head of the Western Canada Flour Mills, is president, and James Carruthers vice-president of the new company.

THE TEA AND COFFEE SITUATION

Manager of Vancouver House Gives Ideas to Grocer Representative.

W. J. Heddle, tea buyer for the W. H. Malkin Co., of Vancouver, B.C., in discussing the situation in teas and coffees with the Grocer's local representative recently, said :

"Coffees have been gradually stiffening in price for some time. This is especially true of finer grades, such as Costa Ricas and Bogotas, which are now from 3s. to 3s. 6d. per English hundredweight dearer than four months ago. Teas have done nothing but climb in the past six months or more, this more with reference to the common grades. Recently we received in advices from an old and most reliable tea house at Colombo, Ceylon, the following : 'We really believe the old prices for old and medium types of tea have gone, never to return, and it would appear that at last demand for tea has reached the supply. There is plenty of tea coming in and still the cry is for more. As usual, when common teas are high in price, there is very little difference between cost of that class and good mediums, which show far better values today than common grades.'

"Common teas," concluded Mr. Heddle, "have advanced 100 per cent. in twelve months. Mediums have but slightly advanced till the past few months, while fine teas can be bought for practically the same price as last year."

DIED IN MONTREAL HOSPITAL.

F. W. Barrett, Toronto, Passes Away Suddenly While on Business Trip.

Word was received in Toronto on Sunday of the death at the General Hospital in Montreal of Frederick W. Barrett, secretary of the Luxfer Prism Co. and the Expanded Metal and Fireproofing Co. Mr. Barrett, whose home was at 49 Madison Avenue, was taken ill about three weeks ago with typhoid fever, but was thought to have recovered, and two weeks ago left for Montreal on a business trip with T. W. Horn and was seized with a chill and taken to the General Hospital, where he died.

The late Mr. Barrett was about 53 years of age. He was born in Port Hope and was the son of the late William Barrett of that place. He graduated at Victoria University and was a member of the Upper Canada Law Society. After practising law in London he became connected with the Polson Company when they started shipbuilding works at Owen Sound. Afterwards he practised law with T. W. Horn and with the latter became interested in the Luxfer Prism & Expanded Metal Companies. He married the daughter of Mr. Whiteman, druggist, of Owen Sound, who survives him.

Fishermen Shipping Lobsters to Maine —Change in Steamer Calls Discussed— Some Crop and Dairy Statistics.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 27. 1908.

There has been practically no change in local grocery circles during the past week. Business continues fairly good and collections are reported satisfactory.

Local fishermen report that several consignments of lobsters have been sent to Portland, Maine, recently, owing to a scarcity of lobsters along the Maine coast.

After being in business as a baker for fifty years, David Mitchell, of Castle Street, 79 years of age, has gone back to work at T. Rankine & Sons, where he learned his trade. Despite his years, Mr. Mitchell is still remarkably active.

The provincial dairy school will open at Sussex this year on Monday, March 9. Three courses will be conducted, a creamery course, commencing March 9; a farm dairy course on the same day, and a cheese course commencing March 25. The superintendent, C. W. McDougal, will be assisted by T. C. Daigle, Moncton, F. Y. Morrow, Charlottetown, and J. H. Grisdale, Ottawa, or R. Robertson, Nappan, one of whom will lecture on field and animal husbandry and competent lecturers on the subjects of "Cow testing a fundamental in building a dairy herd," "Dairy veterinary," and "The need of sanitary milk in the Maritime Provinces." Students from Prince Edward Island will attend the school as usual. The curriculum this year has been extended and the session promises to be the most comprehensive in the history of the school.

The proposal of the Montreal Board of Trade that the West India steamers should proceed to that port in the summer season has aroused much interest in St. John and Halifax. J. C. Stewart, of Halifax, who was in the city last week, stated his views in the matter. Mr. Stewart has a large acquaintance with West India trade relations, having made several visits of some duration at the different West India islands, with a view of ascertaining what Canada's prospects may be for a further development of business. He does not think that the general export trade of this country will be benefited by sending the boats to Montreal.

"The only advantage of such a change, in my opinion," said Mr. Stewart," "would be the fact that at Montreal one finds a larger stock of cereal products than is carried at any maritime province port.

"I think it must be evident therefore, that it is not cheaper freights that are wanted to increase the Ontario exports to the West Indies, because we are now getting them quite as low as we could hope to do if the ships sailed from Montreal instead of St. John or Halifax. The export rate on flour from an Ontario point to Halifax or St. John is very little more per hundred pounds than to Montreal.

"What would help Canada's West India trade in cereal products most," said Mr. Stewart, "is a small tariff preference in the markets of our sister colonies. One need only to take into account the old established connection of New York with all the British West Indies and also to look at the map to see that the process of increasing our exports of western products to the West Indies by direct steamer is one of making water run up hill. To do this we must have artificial assistance, and the tariff preference is the one that seems most natural in view of what we have done in the same way for British West India sugar.

"Please observe," said Mr. Stewart, "that I have specified western products. I do this to distinguish between the local trade in fish and lumber, which are natural exports of the Maritime Provinces. We need no further help for the latter, because in these lines we are the fountain head of supply on this continent."

Mr. Stewart holds that whether viewed from the local or Dominion standpoint St. John and Halifax are the best ports for the British West India steamship line, and he says that to maintain the twelve day service and go to Montreal would mean greater expense without the hope of adequate or sufficient compensation.

The Geo. E. Tuckett & Son Co., Limited

HAMILTON, CANADA

The annual meeting of New Brunswick Farmers' and Dairymen's Association was held in Fredericton Jan. 22. Hon. W. P. Farris, commissioner of agriculture, presented some statistics on crops in the province last year, as follows :

"The province produced last year of the six crops of which my department collects statistics :

	Average per acre
410,714 bushel wheat	19.9
5,748,134 bushels oats	29.5
96,558 bushels barley	23.5
1,451,911 bushels buckwheat	24.9
5,182,503 bushels potatoes	115.0
2,836,394 bushels turnips	493.6

This is an increase over 1906 of all crops except barley and potatoes.

There was a largely increased acreage of potatoes planted in 1907, but on account of blight, which caused the tubers to rot, and the frost before spoken of, the yield per acre was only 115 bushels against 135.1 for 1906.

Prices for all first-class products have ruled high during the season.

Canadian dairy statistics for 1907 are rather disappointing. In New Brunswick the dry season of 1906 left the farmers laboring under a shortage of feed for their cows during the winter of 1906-7. This shortage of feed and consequent poor condition of some of the herds, made a discouraging outlook for the season of 1907. We have experienced in New Brunswick only a small percentage of the decrease anticipated by reason of these conditions.

The total cheese made in New Brunswick factories in 1907 was 1,255,541 pounds. The total butter was 937,576 pounds. The price secured for cheese was 11.85 cents, as compared with 11.7 in 1906. The price secured for butter was 23.97 cents in 1897 as compared with 22.50 cents in 1906. The total value of cheese and butter produced in factories in 1907 was $373,585.49."

SATISFIED WITH NEW TREATY.

Letter From Parisian President Discusses Attitude in France Toward Franco-Canadian Agreement.

A letter to this journal from a Canadian resident in Paris, France, who is in a position to be thoroughly in touch with the business situation in that country, includes some interesting points in regard to the new Franco-Canadian treaty. He says :

Referring now to the new treaty, I may state that it is received with much interest by business circles engaged in export and some in importing here, and with satisfaction in the manufacturing districts concerned in the Schedule C rates. Some objections are made, especially to the clause granting Canada nearly all the minimum tariff rates on agricultural produce. The slight difference existing in many cases between the Canadian intermediate and general tariff are criticized when compared with the large differences between the preferential and the intermediate tariffs. Your friends across the line and also the Germans seem to be pouring oil or something else on this fire. Considering this it is possible that a warm discussion may follow before the French parliament, but sincerely hope that the treaty may be finally approved and ratified.

"One point which does not seem to have been very strongly emphasized in Canada is that as soon as the treaty is ratified Canada will be the only country, outside of Europe, which will enjoy a substantial part of the reductions of the French minimum tariff on manufactures and agricultural products.

"The treaty arrangements seem to have been to some extent the result of efforts made by Canadian business men during the visit of the Manufacturers' Association in 1905. You will remember that at that time W. K. George, president of your association addressed our chamber of commerce and the procedure recently made seems to be along lines suggested at that time. We remember here very pleasantly the occasion of the visit of the Canadian association."

PEOPLE CHEW MORE GUM.

Gum Trust Made Million and a Half Profit Last Year.

W. J. White, one of the founders and owners of the Chewing Gum Trust, as the American Chicle Company is popularly known, has retired from the company, and at a meeting of the stockholders yesterday, James Nicholl, his successor on the board, was elected. A year ago George H. Worthington succeeded Mr. White as president of the company.

According to the annual report of the company, the chewing gum element in America continues to chew more gum each year. The company made a net profit of $1,658,000 last year, out of which $1,260,000 was paid in dividends.

It takes nearly 3,000,000 acres of land in Mexico to produce the chicle from which the chewing gum is made.

NEW VANCOUVER WAREHOUSE

One of the Finest Wholesale Buildings on the Coast Recently Erected and Equipped for the W. H. Malkin Co.—A Well Arranged Floor System and a Record Moving.

Into a warehouse with floor space of over an acre and a half, the W. H. Malkin Co., Ltd., moved their immense wholesale grocery business on Monday, Jan. 15, and in the change did not disturb their routine enough to delay shipment of a single order half an hour. That is a record "moving" when it is taken into consideration that a stock of over a thousand tons had to be shifted and a large staff of clerks and shippers had to leave their desks at the old premises and take up their work at the new location.

A splendid warehouse, massively built in mill construction style, now accommodates the growing business of the W. H. Malkin Co., Ltd., one of the largest wholesale grocery firms in Canada. The building was erected especially for the firm. In its construction no detail making for solidity, convenience and quick handling of goods was overlooked. The walls are of brick and concrete. Every one of the six floors is made of 2x8 fir planking on edge and spiked together, while each floor is supported by massive pillars and girders. The basement is solid cement concrete and gives a seventh floor for warehousing. It is arranged for butter, cheese, eggs and other produce, having butter packing and egg candling rooms.

On the ground floor nothing is to be warehoused, the receiving and shipping of goods being done here exclusively. For this work the arrangement is perfect. A railway siding at the rear is at such a grade that the floors of the cars are at the same level as the warehouse floor. Wide doorways allow of several cars being unloaded at once. To the ground floor are brought all orders of goods to be prepared for shipment. Two freight elevators, electrically operated, one for receiving, one for shipping, reach all floors. Platform trucks have taken the place of the old two-wheeled truck, and these are loaded on each floor in assembling an order for shipment, and run on the elevator for delivery to the shipping floor. A feature of this ground floor is its driveway entirely round, so that teams come in one side and go out the other, after making the circle of the floor. All loading for local delivery is thus under cover.

On the second floor is a large packing room, also a closed room for broken packages of small goods, such as candies, grocers' sundries, etc. Another room encloses the cigar and tobacco stock, while there are certain lines, such as biscuits, candies, brushes, etc., warehoused here. The front of this floor is devoted to the accounting offices and the president's private office. The sales offices are in front on the ground floor, in close touch with the offices of the shipping clerks.

The third floor is stocked with such staples as salt, flour, cereals, condensed milk, etc. On the fourth floor are carloads of canned goods, starch, soap, syrup and other cased goods. The fifth floor warehouses canned salmon, oils, pickles, cocoa, English imported goods, brooms, tubs and hollow ware, paper, etc.

The sixth floor is devoted entirely to teas and coffees, and to the packing room for these goods. This latter is extremely convenient in arrangement. On one side of the room is a double row of bins or shelves to contain opened chests and half chests ready to be put through the blending process.

The handling of the large shipping business, in which orders are received from over a thousand customers, is done entirely on the "floor system." Each floor has its own head, who is responsible for the receipt and care of stock and only certain stocks are placed on each floor. When an order comes in to the shipping office, each floor manager gets a slip covering the goods wanted from his floor, and no confusion can arise as a different colored slip is used for each floor. A desk and phone on each floor gives full facility to the manager of each to get out his orders quickly. In the main office is not only a diagram of each floor, showing the location of each variety of stock, but stock lists show the quantities in hand.

The business offices are most conveniently laid out, an open stairway connecting the sales offices on the ground floor with the accounting department and general manager's office. A pair of private offices at each side of the main entrance are occupied respectively by the assistant manager and buyer, J. P. Malkin and the tea buyer, W. T. Heddle. In Mr. Heddle's office is a complete set of fixtures for tea testing and coffee testing, his specialties.

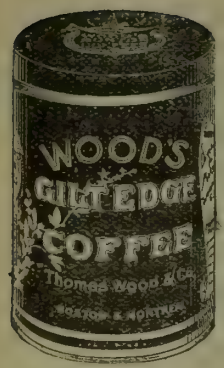
WITHIN YOUR GRASP



ESTABLISHED 1879

To make business grow requires as much art and attention as it does in other fields to raise a tender plant.

You must study its wants, jealously guard it, feed it, nurture it.

Wavering, uncertain, experimental treatment as often ruins as benefits.

"In grasping at uncertainties we lose that which is certain," the moral of which is, you have in the unfailing material to revivify, stimulate and build up trade.

HERE IS THE ACTUAL PROOF

Three weeks ago we told you of the remarkable increase in our sales in 1907 over 1906. This week, the following quotations from a few letters received during the past few days, express in the words of grocers themselves what "SALADA" is doing for them. They tell of the large and profitable tea business that thousands of grocers in Canada have made with

"SALADA"

Aurora, Jan. 28th, '08.

Messrs. P. C. Larkin & Co.,
Toronto, Ont.

Dear Sirs,—We are glad to notice that the sales of "SALADA" are forging ahead. We find it the most satisfactory line of goods we handle in all our business, and intend to increase our sales for it this 1908.

Yours truly,
TOWNS & CO.

Published by permission of Messrs. Towns & Co.

WE BELIEVE THE FOLLOWING QUOTATIONS SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES:

"Please repeat our last order, 'SALADA' is getting to be a great seller with us."
"Personally, I find my sales of 'SALADA' increasing every day."
"Those samples you sent were alright. 'SALADA' is the only tea."
"I feel that 'SALADA' is the only tea to sell, and I certainly intend to push it."
"We prefer serving our customers with the best, which of course is 'SALADA.'
"Send us another case of 'SALADA' as before. We are gradually discarding loose teas altogether, as we find more satisfaction this way."

The "SALADA" Tea Co., Toronto or Montreal

KEEP IT HANDY!

"CAMP" is worthy of a place on your counter—the foremost place. Every bottle you sell verifies our advertising and proves—to somebody—that "Camp" is just as delicious, wholesome and economical as we say. Not only so—but

Your Customers are looking for "Camp."

CAN WE HELP YOU ?

There are some grocers and general merchants living in this 20th Century who are still using 19th Century methods. They do not realize that Halifax is closer to Vancouver to-day than Montreal was to Toronto fifty years ago.

Twenty-five years ago it was a calamity for a merchant to lose a good clerk, for he knew it was practically impossible for him to get in touch with an experienced man. Such an idea as making a deal with a fellow grocery man a couple of hundred miles away either to buy a set of scales or to sell a second-hand counter or show case did not seem practicable to even the most progressive grocers. If a man wanted to sell his business he had to accept the highest price he could get from some one of his fellow townsmen for no one else knew of the opportunity or had any means of finding out about it.

To-day the up-to-date dealer

Creates His Opportunities

He states his wants briefly in a "Canadian Grocer want ad." and in four days' time practically every grocer, clerk, grocery equipment manufacturer and traveler has read the proposition, and it seems reasonable that somewhere among the "blue noses" of the Maritimes or the pioneers of the boundless West someone will want just what he has to offer.

Every Grocer in Canada

can take advantage of our "want ad." page. Ask yourself is there not some article I would be better without if I could get a fair price for it? If you cannot get a fair price for it by appealing to the trade throughout Canada you had better sell it for scrap.

We can help you but you must take the first step.

Surely it is worth 25c or 50c to find the one man in Canada whose wants dovetail into just what you have to offer.

Windsor Salt

There wasn't a cent's worth of Windsor Salt found in the stock of John Smith, the grocer, who failed last week. Way up on the shelves, though, were no less than six different kinds of salt under various names—every package, box and bag of it was dirty and fly-specked.

Seems as if every successful retail grocer in Canada sold Windsor Salt—grocers who are not tempted to buy "just as good" kinds for the saving in price. Poor John Smith was tempted too far! No Windsor Salt for him—rather have dirty salt, salt that cakes, salt that's not all salt, salt sold for its attractive name than the pure white, dry salt crystals of Windsor Salt.

Profitable Goods

Are the goods that are a little better than the others: goods that will make sales where the others won't. Ozo Brand Pickles are good pickles, and show their quality. We have special facilities for turning out the best pickles, and we have made the most of them. For instance, we provide the seed from which the vegetables are grown and so get the best from the start; the cucumbers go straight from the vine to the factory, so that none of the fresh crispness is lost. We make our own vinegar and it cannot be beaten for pickling purposes. It will certainly pay you to specify that you want our goods when ordering pickles.

Tea Inspection at Hamilton and London

System of Local Examination With Ottawa Inspector Behind It Works Smoothly in Hamilton—London Sends Samples to Ottawa But Experiences No Noticeable Delays—The Basis of Local Inspection.

Reference has been made at considerable length in these columns recently to the claims of Montreal wholesalers and importers for a local tea inspector by whom the matter of the inspection of teas might be facilitated and alleged delays in delivery avoided. The position of the Toronto importers on the subject has also been comprehensively outlined. With a view to finding out how the Government's system of inspection worked out in other centres and as far as possible to get in touch with all the facts of the case, The Grocer representative visited Hamilton and London last week, called on the tea importers and wholesalers in those cities and gathered a good deal of information on the subject, which is presented herewith.

Hamilton Has Local Inspector.

Hamilton is in the position of possessing a local tea inspector, though, curiously enough, his appointment was made with so little flourish and the system has worked out so satisfactorily that the majority of the local importers were not aware of his existence, and were very much surprised when informed by The Grocer representative that their teas were not inspected at Ottawa, as had been done previously, but were passed by a local man.

Here is the way the matter materialized there. When the question of tea inspection was taken up by the Government last June, Hamilton's claims for a local inspector were considered at two or three meetings of the wholesale grocers. Considerable delay had been experienced previously and it was thought this difficulty could be remedied. Through the influence of one or two of the largest importers, and, it is said, with the help of Adam Zimmerman, the local member, these claims were recognized and, when in August, men from St. John, Halifax, Quebec and Winnipeg were taken to Ottawa for a course of training under Mr. Allan, the Government tea inspector, a man from Hamilton was taken along. His appointment, as well as those of the men in the other cities mentioned, was made on September 1st, and since that time he has been inspecting all teas that are consigned to Hamilton.

The appointment of an inspector in Hamilton, as well as in the other cities above mentioned, was justified by the fact that these places were at some considerable distance from the office of the Dominion tea inspector at Ottawa, and it was seen that it was probable that delays would occur. The appointments were made with a view to aiding the importers in these cities as far as the department saw possible. Inspectors were not placed in Montreal and Toronto at this time because it was believed that these cities were near enough to the Government inspector at Ottawa to provide for satisfactory procedure in inspection and the system of "freeing by wire" was inaugurated to further facilitate the matter.

Hamilton, by reason of indirect train service, was claimed to be six hours further from Ottawa than either Toronto or Montreal and an inspector there seemed necessary.

The Basis of Inspection.

The Hamilton inspector, as, indeed, does each of the local inspectors, examines every tea which is consigned to his city. The object of this inspection is to guard against the introduction of sand or foreign leaf—briefly, to assure that no impure teas are brought into Canada. It should be understood, however, that the local inspector is not the final authority. If he has occasion to believe that any tea should be rejected, he does not forbid its entry directly, but forwards the sample to the Dominion inspector at Ottawa, who finally passes or rejects it.

The Arrangement Most Satisfactory.

Just how satisfactory this arrangement of local inspection has proved to the Hamilton importers is seen in the fact that the great majority of them did not know of the official's appointment and supposed their teas were still being inspected at Ottawa. The opinions of several of the leading firms are given herewith :

J. J. Glassco, of Glassco & Co., said: "We have experienced no trouble whatever in the matter of tea inspection. Of course, we bring in high grade goods almost wholly, which would not require inspection. We could not ask for more satisfactory arrangements."

Jas. Lumsden, of Lumsden Bros., said : "We did experience considerable delay some time ago, but have had no trouble lately."

"Last June," said Fred Smye, of Balfour, Smye & Co., "the wholesalers of the city got together and raised an agitation for a local inspector. We had had considerable delay previous to that time. After two or three meetings some correspondence with the department and by the help of Mr. Zimmerman, our local member, we secured the appointment of the inspector without much trouble, and matters have been thoroughly satisfactory ever since. I don't see why Montreal should have any difficulty in getting a local inspector."

Geo. E. Bristol, of Lucas, Steele & Bristol, said: "Why, yes, as far as tea inspection is concerned we are very well satisfied. Things go very smoothly here."

Mr. Balfour, of Balfour & MacLaren, expressed himself as well satisfied with existing arrangements. "We have never experienced any trouble here," he said, "and the present system seems to work out admirably."

"We have had no trouble recently," said Mr. Villa, of James Turner & Co. "As the matter works out now we would never know there was an inspector."

At W. H. Gillard & Co.'s office The Grocer representative found Harry Beckett and several brokers; namely, J. B. Lamb, J. A. Henderson, Mr. McFarlane and Mr. Scandrut, of London, engaged in determining the merits of several tea samples and these gentlemen talked the matter over together. Their agreed opinion was that no trouble was experienced from the workings of the present system. "At the time these appointments were made," said Mr. Beckett, "I suggested that the inspections should be made by two or three local wholesalers who were not interested in the shipment to be examined. It seems to me this would be the most satisfactory scheme, but the Government evidently did not see it my way."

The opinions of other members of the trade in Hamilton were unanimously the same as those already presented.

The Situation in London.

London, which is even further away from Ottawa than Hamilton, has no local inspector and is, therefore, on the same basis as Toronto and Montreal. Local importers say that when the Hamilton wholesalers were taking up the matter they promised to urge London's claims for an inspector but that nothing came of it. The Government's reason for neglecting London when the appointments were made in other cities seems to be that London is not a large tea importing centre, that is, in comparison with Winnipeg, St. John and Hamilton, and that a local inspector was not needed. And, indeed, London tea importers seem to be exceedingly well satisfied with present arrangements. As a matter of fact, it is said that not a great amount of tea below the 10c. standard is brought into the city and, therefore, the necessity for inspection by the Government official at Ottawa is a very infrequent matter. One or two firms indeed, were quite emphatic in declaring that their teas were never inspected, but inquiry at the customs house proved that this was not the case and this fact is merely an evidence of how satisfactorily the present system works out in that city.

From the reports of the local customs officials it seems that when inspections are necessary the replies are very prompt and that three or four days at the most suffice for the "freeing" of the teas.

The local wholesalers were practically unanimous in asserting that the matter of inspection, as handled by the local customs officials, was entirely satisfactory.

T. B. Escott, of Escott & Co., said. "The matter of a local tea inspector for London came up last summer and was taken up by several Hamilton wholesalers who promised to push our claims. We heard nothing further of it, however. As it stands now, no difficulty is experienced here. This is accounted for to a great extent by the fact that fairly good teas are brought in here. We have no occasion to object to the present system, though we cannot see why Hamilton should have an inspector and London not be so favored."

Wm. Marr, of Elliott, Marr & Co., did not think that any of their teas were ever inspected. "We bring in good lines," he said, "which pass readily without any inspection."

Mr. Dillon, of A. M. Smith & Co., said the local customs officials were very considerate in their handling of

ARMAND CHAPUT,

Of L. Chaput, Fils & Cie, Montreal, on the Executive Committee of the Exhibition of Grocers.

teas and that their house had never experienced any difficulty recently.

Mr. Turnbull, of Edward Adams & Co., said: "No. We have no difficulty in getting our teas through readily. The present system seems quite satisfactory."

Alfred Masuret, of Masuret & Co., Geo. Gillespie, broker, L. H. Scandrut and several others all expressed themselves as thoroughly satisfied with the system in operation at present and it is very evident that London firms are not at all anxious for a local inspector.

A. B. Rowell, representative of Lamont, Corliss & Co., New York, was calling on the Toronto trade last week in the interests of Peter's chocolate and X-ray stove polish.

NOVA SCOTIA FEELS THE WEATHER

Soft Roads and Heavy Snowfalls Reflect on Trade—Eggs and Butter Scarce—Jotting of Trade News.

(By The Canadian Grocer's Special Correspondent.

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 4.

The weather conditions during the past week have been decidedly against business. On the opening of the week the weather was mild, with soft roads, and at the close stormy condition, there being a heavy snowfall with severe frost, making travel on the roads difficult, and causing trade to slacken off more particularly in the country districts. In the city business is fairly good for this season.

Prices generally are steady and collections are about average. The receipts of butter and eggs are very limited, and no improvement is looked for under the existing conditions. Very few first-class apples are being marketed. There is lots of fruit stored in the warehouses in the valley, but the holders of it are not sending any of it to market. They are keeping it back for better prices.

Fire last week destroyed the store and grocery stock of Archibald Bros., of Truro, N.S., causing a loss to the firm of about $2,000. The firm had $800 insurance on the stock, the building being owned by other parties.

Patrick Connolly, aged 62, a well-known grocer of the north end of the city, died last week after a brief illness. He was a native of Ireland, and came to Halifax in 1870, being for many years in the employ of the Army and Navy grocery, later on starting business on his own account.

At the meeting of the Provincial Fruit Growers' Association last week, C. Howard Black, the president, in his address said: "The year 1907 was a most trying one on the farmers of the Maritime Provinces, but we have, however, in most sections of our Province, enough for the year's use and there will be no want. Prices for nearly all kinds of farm products have ruled high, and though the amount of produce which we have to dispose of is very much less than usual, the return will be somewhat encouraging, especially is this the case in regard to dairy products. The fruit growers of the Annapolis Valley, though they have lost some by heavy gales and frosts, are rejoicing in a good crop of apples and unusually high prices, and altogether the returns must be very satisfactory to those engaged in this branch of farming.

The following resolution, which was presented by the Kentville delegates, was passed unanimously:

"Whereas, in the year 1906, Germany imposed a duty on apples going into their country, amounting to 10 marks per 100 kilos, equivalent to $1.63 per bbl. of 150 lbs. on all apples from Canada, and 3 marks 20 phennings per 100 kilos, equal to 52½ per bbl. on apples from the United States, thus enabling our competitive fruit growers across the border to get their apples into Germany at a preference of $1.11 less than our own country, which has practically shut out all Canadian apples from the German markets; and, whereas, before this duty went into effect, frequently large quantities of Canadian apples found a ready market in being either shipped direct to Hamburg or by German buyers purchasing in the London and Liverpool markets, both of which are now entirely lost, greatly to the detriment of the Canadian fruit industry; therefore, resolved, that the fruit growers of Nova Scotia earnestly entreat the Department of Finance at Ottawa to secure trade relations with Germany which will admit Canadian apples into the German market under as favorable a tariff as is granted to our competitors from the United States; and, further resolved, that copies of this resolution be forwarded to every fruit growers' association in Canada, asking their hearty co-operation against the unreasonable discrimination against one of Canada's important industries, amounting to $1.11 per barrel, exceeding the first cost of production."

The following officers were elected: President, E. J. Elliot, Clarence, Annapolis; First Vice-President, Albert McMann, Aylesford; Second Vice-President, Howard Kennery, Alma, Pictou; Executive—A. D. McCuish, Cape Breton; F. A. Cook, Yarmouth; Wm. O'Brien, Windsor; Wm. Vinton, South River, Antigonish; Samuel Freeman, Amherst; Secretary, Chas. R. B. Bryan, Pictou.

CORN EXCHANGE OFFICERS.

Elected by Acclamation at Montreal Last Week.

When nominations closed for officers for the Montreal Corn Exchange for 1908 it was declared that all had been elected by acclamation, that is, all officers except the vice-president, who will be chosen at a future date from the members of the management committee. The results were as follows: President, Jos. Quintal; treasurer, Edgar Judge; committee of management, E. S. Jaques, Charles R. Taylor, W. I. Gear, C. B. Esdaile, James Carruthers, J. L. Norris and W. W. Hutchison.

H. E. Ledoux & Co. have received letters of incorporation to manufacture and deal in wholesale and retail tobacco. The capital of the company is $100,000, and the head office will be in Port Arthur, Ont.

ADVANCE IN CANNED GOODS.

The advance in canned goods, by the Canadian Canners, which had been spoken of for a couple of weeks, materialized on Saturday, the first day of February. While complete details of the advance have not up to the time of writing been made public, it is freely stated that the new prices will be two and a half cents above the basis formerly quoted, and that this applies to practically all lines of fruits and vegetables.

The reason for the advance is not very apparent at this time of the year. The canners state that they have not any great amount of stock on hand, and the stocks of last summer's pack yet would seem to be in the hands of the wholesalers. The advance seems to be an indirect attempt to provide for an early moving out of these goods.

QUALITY VERSUS PRICE.

The really good grocers, the kind who are making money and are building up most satisfactory businesses are coming more and more to emphasize quality in their goods rather than price. It is not a question of how cheap, but how good.

And isn't it the high grade goods that make the biggest profits? There is a certain class of customers, of course, and there always will be, who look for the cheapest goods of everything and who are not satisfied unless they think they are getting a bargain. Some grocers cater to these and buy a lot of third grade stock to sell at low prices. This may be all right in a few lines but are they not, in most cases, making a mistake? The quality of the goods rather than the price, should be emphasized, and in nearly every case those customers just mentioned would, if they could only be brought to think so, get better satisfaction from the better class of goods. It will pay to try to educate them to the higher standard.

THE FUTURE TEA MARKETS.

The following paragraph from the India Planter's Gazette issue of Dec. 14th has an important bearing on the future of the world's tea markets and seems to have been overloked by many of the trade who would be most interested:

"The Directors of the Wynaad Tea Company recently announced that owing to the charges for debenture interest and interest on advances which had weighed so heavily on the undertaking they had decided to sell the estates to certain capitalists who were disposed to amalgamate several Wynaad properties and to form them into one important company. The amalgamated concern hass now made its appearance under the title of the East India Tea and Produce Company, Limited, with a capital of £200,000 in £1 shares. The Wynaad Company receives £29,000 in cash for its properties, while Messrs. Parry and Company are to be paid £25,010 in cash and £12,500 in shares for the Cherambadi and Pootoomulla estates; William Sissmore Shaw £1,690 in cash and £800 in shares for the Golesland estate; Richard Keen Walker £10,000 in cash for the Achoor property, and Messrs. Peirce, Leslie and Company, Limited, and Robert Shand Anderson £10,000 in cash for the Wentworth estate. The total approximate acreage of the properties to be acquired is 16,637, and it is said that 2,361 acres are planted with tea, 126 acres with coffee, and 218 acres with pepper, while 13,932 acres are forest, grass and scrub. The prospectus forecasts a continuance of high prices for tea owing to increased consumption, and adds that, 'after the next two or three years the annual production of Ceylon tea will probably be reduced by some twenty million pounds as the result of the interplanting with rubber of a large portion of the area now under tea.'"

When this threatened decrease in production in Ceylon, and the enormously increased consumption in nearly all parts of the world, is considered, it seems not impossible that within the next few years tea prices may be forced up to a point infinitely above even the present high basis.

As is well known, the great bulk of our teas come from India and Ceylon. Even were the production in Ceylon to remain at its present aggregate, which, in the light of the preceding paragraph, we can scarcely hope to expect, it would be at least three or four years before new plants in India could produce enough new crop teas to increase the production to any extent. Considering these facts, it seems highly improbable that there can be any material reduction on tea prices ruling at present for some years to come.

ONE OF THE LARGE-SMALL THINGS.

Dit it ever occur to you that the matter of the condition of your finger nails might have a good deal to do with the pleasing or displeasing of a customer? This is one of the apparently small things that often means a great deal. What must an aesthetically constituted housewife think when she sees her grocer handling butter, cheese, biscuits, etc., when his nails haven't been trimmed for several days, nor perhaps cleaned during the same length of time? It is likely to deter her from coming to the same store again.

This is a matter that can be easily looked after. Of course it takes time, but it's time well spent. The best way to get one's nails in satisfactory condition is to soak them in hot water for a short time before going to bed. After a few evenings of this treatment it will be very easy to keep the nails in a presentable condition.

If a clerk is out to climb and to win the good will of his employer, he should be careful to regard all these seemingly small details. This is a most important one.

TRADE NOTES.

P. Poulin & Co., Montreal, are temporarily moved to Jacques Cartier Square, while a new freezer is being installed in their St. Claude St. branch.

A splendid specimen of the timber wolf adorns the general offices of Chase & Sanborn, Montreal. It is a proof of the hunting prowess of John Anderson, who brought down the animal while in an expedition in New Ontario recently.

The grocery store of Raoul Prevost, corner Marie Anne and St. Lawrence Streets, Montreal, was broken into by burglars early Saturday morning, and $96 cash was taken from the register, along with a quantity of liquor and other goods.

A big pork factory, it is rumored, will soon be built in Tillsonburg. It is understood that a party of Scotch capitalists, who are heavily interested in the packing industry in Scotland, are the promoters. The municipality has already granted seven acres of ground for a site. It is expected that building operations will begin in the spring.

BARRIE.

This week removed from our midst one of Barrie's oldest business men, in the person of Robert Meeking, who has in the past thirty-five years managed various businesses, as well as ran his own grocery stores, both in Barrie and Allandale, the latter from which he retired some two years ago, owing to ill. health. He has been confined in the Royal Victoria hospital for the past year, and died on Saturday.

The continuous snow and cold weather which has prevailed here during the past ten days, has utterly spoiled the farming trade in this district, and also there is a falling off of town trade in general. Last Saturday scarcely a farmer was able to get into town with his produce, owing to the terrible state of the roads, and this means a bad week for the people who were expecting to see eggs and butter become easier, for instead of these two leading things in the foodstuffs world becoming cheaper in price, they will now be higher, as there is no great supply of butter in Barrie at the present time, and the stocks which the various merchants have on hand is rapidly decreasing. A few local women dealers sold all they had on Saturday very rapidly at thirty cents a pound. New laid eggs were sold as high as thirty-five cents.

Frank Soules, late of James Vair & Sons, has joined the traveling staff of the Walter M. Lowney Co., of Montreal. From the latest reports we hear that Frank is doing a fine business in Lowney's candies.

Beeton will hold its annual seed fair on Feb. 18th. It proved a great success last year, exhibits from all over Ontario being in evidence.

Another commercial man in town last week, S. Gren. Calwell, was presented with a bouncing boy. Congratulations, Gren.

Bakogeorge Bros. have started their ice cream business for this year, opening their new fountain on Saturday. Although the weather has been very cold, they report an excellent trade in this line.

The Bank of Nova Scotia branch was opened for business here on Monday. The manager deserves great praise for the taste on the interior decorations, which excel any of the other banks here.

CHATHAM.

That the proposed act to facilitate the formation of co-operative societies—commonly known as the Monk Act—meets with little favor among local retailers goes without saying. The local branch of the Retail Merchants' Association, it will be remembered, played a considerable part last year in securing the laying over of the bill to the present session of parliament. The association enlisted the support of the county's representatives, in addition to which Geo. Stephens, ex-M.P., himself a prominent retailer, put his shoulder to the wheel and did most effective work in the line of blocking the project for the time being.

A NEW THEORY.

Here's a note from our Chatham correspondent which brings forward a novel theory:

Secretary Wm. Anderson, of the Grocers' Section of the local R.M.A., is inclined to father a novel hypothesis in connection with the annual quiet spell at this time of the year. "Everybody makes New Year's resolutions to economize," he says, "and, as a result, we have to wait two or three weeks every year till they come round to their old ways again."

Since before the commencement of the Christmas holidays, there has been no meeting of the local retailers. The annual meeting is about due, however, and the probability is that the matter will be brought up then and aggressive action taken with a view to enlisting the aid of the local M.P.'s and others in opposition to the bill.

Frank Malcolmson, of the Kent Canning Co., left on Tuesday last for Boston, whence he will sail on the liner Romanic for the Mediterranean, his ultimate destination being Naples. Mr. Malcolmson will spend a couple of months abroad and will visit various places of interest.

Geo. A. Young is the latest grocer to join the ranks of the advertisers. Though proprietor of one of the oldest established businesses in the city, Mr. Young is youthful and aggressive, and his attractive announcements in the local papers should prove drawing cards.

The Stoney Point Canning Co. has been organized with a capital of $40,000. The Tecumseh Canning Company is back of the project.

E. B. Northwood, of the Northwood Co., produce dealers, has returned from Orillia, where he was called last week on account of the serious illness of his wife. Mrs. Northwood is reported to be improving.

A pioneer in the tobacco and cigar manufacturing industry in this section passed away on Friday morning, in the person of F. W. Kogelschatz. Mr. Kogelschatz was upwards of 78 years of age. A native of Hanover, Germany, he came to America while a young man, settling in Chatham in 1855, when he entered into the business of manufacturing cigars and tobaccos. He amassed a large fortune, retiring about 25 years ago.

Miss Parsons, of Toronto has been conducting a very successful demonstration of Lipton's teas, coffees and jellies at H. A. Andrew's grocery during the past two weeks. The demonstration proved quite a drawing card and helped considerably to boom the Lipton products.

Louis John, who has been conducting a fruit store in Comber for some time past, has moved to Essex.

Timothy Durocher, of the Canada Flour Mills office, qualified for a Carnegie hero medal last week, while on a visit to his home at Belle River. He was out skating with his sister when the latter went through some thin ice. Mr. Durocher went promptly to her assistance and with the aid of a hockey stick, managed, at considerable risk to himself, to rescue the young lady.

The possibilities of a creamery in the way of putting money into circulation are shown by the fact that the Ridgetown Creamery, under the management of Mr. Ireland, during the last eight months of 1907 paid out $17,500 in cash.

S. Parnall has disposed of his grocery business on Earle Street North, Leamington, to Russell Wigle. The business will henceforth be run under the name of Rus. Wigle & Co. The new management is advertising aggressively.

Geo. A. Malcolmson, of Sandwich, manager of the Amherstburg and Sandwich canning companies, announces that the price of tomatoes for the coming season has been advanced to 27½c. per bushel. Last year contracts were made at 25c. and already quite a few farmers have signed for this year's crop at the same price. It is stated, however, that they will get the benefit of the advanced price. The Amherstburg factory will handle considerable wax beans the coming year.

GALT.

"Trade is quiet," is the general reply of the grocers when interviewed regarding the volume of business being transacted.

Allan Deans, of the Red Front, is an enthusiastic curler. He recently played in the Tankard primaries at Ingersoll, but his rink was finally defeated.

The customs returns for Galt for January show a decrease of over $5,000, due to the fact that the importations of the local merchants, have fallen off considerably when compared with January, 1907.

John Sloan, Galt's enterprising grocer, recently elected vice-president of the Board of Trade, is taking an active interest in the work of that organization. At the same time he is not neglecting the interests of the grocers. At the last meeting of the Board, Mr. Sloan brought up the co-operative store bill, and as a result of his short address, the Board will probably put itself on record as opposed to the bill.

E. W. Cummings, Galt's newest grocer, is doing well, and his business is rapidly increasing, owing to prompt attention and unfailing politeness.

The delivery drivers are desirous of expressing their appreciation of the Guelph correspondent's "spiel" regarding shoveling the path to the back door.

How many grocery stores in Ontario towns close up at 9.30 sharp on Saturday nights. They do in Galt, and since this early closing has been inaugurated the shoppers have been educated, and the grocers say the change is resulting in no monetary loss.

The country roads are badly blocked by the recent snow storms and the attendance at the market on Saturday was unusually small. Prices remained stationary.

At a meeting of the Preston Retail Merchants' Association the following officers were elected: President, T. Darnley; 1st vice-president, E. B. Reist; 2nd vice-president, H. J. Schultz; treasurer, Geo. Kanmacher; secretary, A. R. Bernhardt.

"At the present time," said a local grocer to-day, "it would be almost impossible to inaugurate a cash system. With the shortage of money, we find it necessary to give more credit than ever before. Of course, we recognize the fact that we are taking long chances, but the ever ready question of what are you going to do about it, confronts us. We simply cannot refuse credit to customers who previously paid cash."

It has been frequently mentioned by travlers and other that the stock of crockery, etc., of John Sloan is by far the most extensive in Western Ontario. One entire storey is devoted to this branch of Mr. Sloan's business, and he finds it satisfactorily remunerative.

Your correspondent this week called on a grocer hitherto neglected, and was received right royally. "Yes," he said, in answer to an inquiry, "I am a subscriber to The Grocer, and, in fact, would not be without it, as I find in it suggestions of immense benefit to me in my business. The correspondence department is an excellent idea, allowing the grocers throughout Ontario to become acquainted with general conditions. It is indeed a paper for every grocer."

* * *

Ald. Radigan, the Main Street grocer, has been appointed to the Market, Fire and Light Committee in the Council, and has entered on his duties in this connection with an energy which bespeaks for him a successful municipal career.

Trade has been good during the past two weeks.

GUELPH.

The Retail Merchants' Association decided that in future there would be no more Thursday half holidays in Guelph for the clerks and salesmen on the ground that it is not wise to close down business throughout the whole city in that way. They don't generally have those half holidays, only during July and August and that is a long way ahead to start moving about it. Those gentlemen may get thawed out and warmed up again between now and July 1.

The Guelph Board of Trade passed a sweeping resolution condemning the banus and loan business to new industries and has asked the government to take the matter of prohibiting it up. They are also asking other boards of trade to do likewise. I never heard of a grocer getting a loan or a bonus to start in business from the cities or towns and think that other kinds of businesses should find their own money also.

One of the greatest leaks and one we seldom hear of in the grocery store is in the tobacco department, and nearly all grocers sell tobacco. A great many think they are making a good fair profit on a caddie of tobacco, forgetting the fact that the whole staff, including themselves, use tobacco more or less, and everyone helps themselves. Did you ever hear of such a thing? Well, I have, and it is a fact in some stores and ought not to be, nor will it be tolerated where the grocer's attention is called to it.

Take for instance a caddie of brier tobacco, costing, say 17 lbs. @ 70c.—$11.90, and selling at 10c. a plug, or $13.60, which gives you, say, a profit on a caddie of $1.70, if all are sold. But when each one of your staff uses at least one a week and help themselves and you have, say, five clerks, and drivers, which is a small average, this would mean 50 cents a week, and in some stores the teamsters from the railway companies get given them each week, say, three, making it 80 cents a week, which would mean in a year say $42.60 that you are giving away free without your knowledge, perhaps, or three caddies of tobacco a year, and remember this is a small average. I know of one grocer who impresses the fact on each new man he hires that if he ever hears of him giving or taking a plug of tobacco or even asking for one he will be immediately discharged. How is it in your store? Do you all pay for your tobacco?

Now, again, I have heard the argument put up that a man in a grocery store is entitled to his tobacco free becaase he does not get a 10 per cent. discount off his groceries, the same as the dry goods clerks get off their dry goods. But that is getting on to another thing and is not a good reason for the grocer's staff to steal it, for that is practically what it means.

Think it over for yourself and I think you will find one little leak in that department.

R. Pratt, the popular traveler for Red Rose Tea in this section, called on the trade for the first time this year and as usual at this time of the year for his firm to do, left most of the boys a neat little memento of the occasion. This year it is a neat little pocket diary, beautifully gotten up and besides has seven pages of very useful information.

Benson Bros., grocers, have again been awarded the contract for supplying the Ontario Agricultural College with groceries for this year. This speaks well for and must be very gratifying to this young and energetic firm. Jackson & Son, the old reliable grocers, have been given the contract for the County Jail, and J. M. Dooley the bread.

Just at this time we are again reminded that these Government institutions with their yearly contracts, ought to be taken in hand by the Grocers' Association, and instead of the grocers having to tender for the contract and take chances of losing money, these institutions ought to have a man employed to do the buying and allow him to go from one to the other of the larger stores each year in turn, and he ought to know values and keep in touch with the markets himself, and ought not to be hampered in any way by either political parties. That would do away with a grocer having to take chances on the rise and fall of the markets. The Government, with lots of money, and the people's money at that, should not ask any grocer to put the lowest possible price on his goods, but should give him a good, fair living price and get first-class goods. We have no fault to find with the present officials nor contracts whatever, but the system is wrong, and the grocers themselves are the people who could remedy it so that no grocer need lay in bed at night and wonder whether he was going to lose or make money on a Government contract. The buyer at these institutions should be able to say, well, Mr. Grocer, I am coming to your store this year for my groceries. We used so much of each different line last year, and you can buy accordingly, but remember we want first-class goods at a reasonable price, and we will follow the markets which is only fair for all concerned. The grocers have again got one year to talk the matter over among themselves and be able to meet the contract advertisement on a fair basis next year.

The past week has been so very cold and stormy that the farmers did not come into the market in as large numbers, and, accordingly, business was inclined to be quiet and prices were a little firmer all round. The great snowstorms have made the roads very heavy, but have not drifted in as badly as they have some other years, and while traveling is slow the roads are passable.

I hope that suggestion of holding a grocers' picnic or gathering at London this coming summer will not drop, as we really need it. I am sure the grocers of Guelph will take the matter up and do their share if the rest of Western Ontario towns and cities will do likewise. A grocer only needs to attend one of those lectures at a Winter Fair or Farmers' Institute to see where the grocery business would be greatly benefitted and assisted by having some of these experts on the different lines of goods we handle give us an hour or so's talk on their special line and have a day or two so that we could talk the matter over among ourselves.

LONDON.

The London Canning & Evaporating Company contemplate making extensive additions to their building and plant the coming season, and at the annual meeting this week, it is expected, final arrangements for the work will be made. Manager Thomas Bates says the company have found the demand on their premises too great for their facilities, and the coming summer will likely see them in much better shape to handle the large amount of business offering. Fortunately they have plenty of land for any extensions.

Middlesex dairymen are now considering a scheme which, it is claimed, will result in abolition of the middleman to a considerable extent, and save the farmers all the benefits that come from a rise in the price of dairy products. For years it has been the practice of jobbers to purchase quantities of butter and cheese when prices are at rock bottom and hold for an increase. The scheme under consideration is the establishment of a co-operative bureau, which, being incorporated, would have power to receive the banks' aid in financing the deals with the patrons in the country.

Samuel Screaton, head of the wholesale firm of Edward Adams & Co., has been re-elected chairman of the Hospital Trust.

Farmers from the adjoining townships are complaining of the number of fraudulent agents that are around these days. Butter coloring, "guaranteed to be harmless to the consumer of the goods, and sure of bringing higher prices for the commodity," is one of the latest swindles. One farmer reports having paid three dollars for a sample case and subsequently found that the stuff was a concoction of chemical coloring matter and oil, cheaply made up and useless for any purpose. The authorities have been notified of the swindler and it would not be out of place if he were taught a severe lesson.

L. J. Walker, local manager of Bradstreet's for some years, has been transferred to the head office in Toronto. His place here has been filled by the appointment of Mr. Irvine, of Toronto.

The employes of D. S. Perrin & Co. are making preparations for holding a grand ball in the city hall on the night of Feb. 7th.

Western Ontario farmers are interested in the reported discovery of a method of determining the amount of casein in milk by means of a test occupying only seven minutes. Secretary Hern, of the Western Ontario Dairymen's Association, speaks highly of the invention, which comes from the United States. If all that is claimed for it is justified, the new test will result in the farmers having to accept a new standard for the value of their milk, and that the percentage of casein will play an equal part with the amount of fat. The test consists of mixing a quantity of acetic acid with a portion of the milk, and afterwards submitting it to a machine whirling the milk around at 2,000 revolutions a minute. The casein is thus separated and a measurement may then be made. Secretary Hern regards the test as one of the most important discoveries in years.

Despite previous warning, country butchers continue to bring to market meat unfit for consumption. A day or two ago a carcase was exposed for sale which was evidently diseased, and on the attention of the medical health officer being drawn to it, he at once ordered it off the market. That the offender was not placed under arrest is certainly not to the credit of those who are looked to to safeguard the public health.

Wholesale trade is fair, with prices well maintained, an advance in rice for March being noted. Retail trade is quiet. Saturday's heavy snow storm seriously affected business. Very few farmers came in and there was practically no market. No one felt the effects of this more than the grocers.

Retailers report business somewhat quiet, while in wholesale lines there is nothing new to report.

J. Harley Brown, local representative of the Redpath Sugar Refining Company, is lying ill in the hospital.

The banquet committee of the Retail Grocers' Association will report to the monthly meeting of that body on Wednesday night, recommending Thursday, 27th inst., and the Tecumseh House as the date and place of the annual function, which promises to be one of the most successful yet held.

It is understood that the London Canning Company intends joining the association recently formed by the independent canners of Canada, and which, it is said, will comprise thirty-seven independent concerns.

A movement is on foot among the commercial travelers of this city to have the date of municipal elections changed from the first Monday in January to the first day of the year, as in Toronto. As it is, travelers are practically disfranchised, so far as municipal affairs are concerned. They spend two weeks at home during the holidays, but on Monday of the election they have to go out on the road again and are thus prevented from voting. This they consider a hardship, and will, therefore, petition the city council to apply for the necessary legislation. Under the law as at present only cities having over 100,000 population may hold their elections on New Year's day.

MONTREAL.

The suggestion to have the standard bag of potatoes changed from 90 lbs. to 75 lbs. is, in Montreal, meeting with the general disapproval of retailers, they being of the opinion that this would enable the peddlers to increase their door to door trade, and thus make them even more injurious to the retailer and his legitimate trade.

It will be remembered that last year the liquor licenses were raised from $200 to $300, and from $400 to $450, but later, a reduction of 50 per cent. of the increase was granted, making the licenses $250 and $425. No legislation was passed, however, the Quebec Government merely giving their assurance that the matter would be all right. In conversation with President Laniel, of the Retail Grocers' Association, he stated that at the next meeting a motion would likely be made to send a delegation to Quebec, to endeavor to have a law passed making the present arrangement in the matter legal.

The fact of the G.T.R. shops being closed for one week, caused a falling off in trade to a certain extent among Point St. Charles grocers. Cash sales were less in evidence than usual, and many customers bought only the absolutely necessary provisions. The shops are operating again, but all the old hands are not on once more, so trade will not yet awhile be as brisk as it was in the Point district during the fall and early winter. One Point grocer upon whom a call was made stated that the apples this year did not seem to possess the keeping qualities of previous seasons, for some reason or other. A number of his barrels had turned out unsatisfactory, causing a loss which he did not expect. Other retailers in the same district, when questioned about this, said they had been finding nothing wrong with their apples.

A period of extremely cold weather has resulted in a scarcity of eggs, or at least a falling off in receipts. Many grocers are offering "new laid," but the prices asked are prohibitive in some cases, for any buyers except the very best. One store had a display inside with a neat sign, "Strictly New Laid, 60c a dozen." Eggs at 5c apiece do not sell very quickly.

Fraser, Viger & Company recently had a very attractive window, advertising the biscuits of Glass, Quebec, and of several English houses, whose lines of biscuits and confectionery are seen on their shelves.

Placide Daoust, ex-president of the Retail Grocers' Association, has issued a very neat calendar, which he is sending around to his customers and friends.

Jean Lamoreux, president of the Butchers' Association, and well known to the majority of the members of the Grocers' Association, is running for aldermanic honors in St. Louis Ward. He has the hearty support of his friends in the trade. N. Sequin, a grocer, was re-elected to the council without opposition.

Burglars broke into the store of Nap. Chartrand, on St. Antoine street, one evening recently, and carried off $75, along with a quantity of liquors, candies, cigars and cigarettes. Mr. Chartrand has been rather unfortunate in this respect, his store having been burglarized four times in seven months.

SASKATOON.

At a meeting of the Central Saskatoon Agricultural Society in the Board of Trade rooms recently it was decided not to hold a stock show and sale here this spring as was suggested. In the meantime sufficient information will be gathered together to make the project a success next year, if it is desirable to hold one, and for this purpose the secretary is instructed to communicate with other societies in this district.

Wheat deliveries on the local market continue to be fairly heavy, averaging about 2,000 bushels per day. Prices this week are slightly higher. No. 1 northern is quoted at 90c a bushel ; No. 2 at 87c ; No. 3 at 81c, and No. 4 at 71c. The matter of supplying farmers with spring seed came before the Board of Trade lately, but it was considered that farmers in this district will not require Government relief in the shape of grain. It is up to each farmer, however to find out for himself whether last year's grain is of the proper standard to produce a good crop this year. Investigations are taking place just now and results go to prove that a careful examination of the bins is worth while. Should the farmers sow grain which is not of sufficient fertility, the result would be disastrous to the west.

As stated last week, Prince Albert will in all probability have a modernly equipped creamery in the near future. T. D. Plomondon, who represents a firm of experienced creamery men, appeared before the Board of Trade with a proposition to establish a plant to cost about $8,000, for the purpose of making butter and cheese. The members of the board endorsed the proposition. Good butter is a scarce commodity in these latitudes, and it is to be hoped that the plant will be in operation before long. The seed question also came before the board for discussion. Throughout this district large quantities of wheat and oats were unharmed by frost and of excellent germinating quality, but the matter will stand closer investigating.

At the carnival on the Saskatoon Thistle skating rink, two bags of Champion flour, one ham and one tin of baking powder were amongst the prizes awarded to the winners of the married couples' race.

A number of our merchants have donated prizes for the bonspiel which is to be held here this week. The prizes are on exhibition in the windows of Currie Bros., on Second Ave., and make a very handsome collection. James Clinkskill has headed the list with a silver cup valued at $100. M. Isbister & Son contributed four sets of cutlery. A silver cup was presented by the Saskatoon Milling Co. Four gentlemen's toilet sets by J. F. Cairns and four boxes of cigars by the Hub Cigar Factory.

Several travelers are in town this week making the first trip of the year. Although no very large orders are being booked merchants are keeping an eye on the future and their stocks well up.

On the first of February the firm of Clare & Young, Nutana, will undergo a change. The business has been bought by B. A. Archibald & Co. and this week all hands are busy stock-taking. Mr. Archibald is well qualified to manage the business, having had fifteen years' experience in Halifax, N.S. The stock includes groceries, hardware and dry goods. Asked to what figure the stock would amount Mr. Archibald replied that it would be between thirty and forty thousand. A heavy stock of groceries is piled away in the basement and the warehouse.

A conference of Western grain growers will be held here during the second week in February. Central Saskatchewan embraces the largest wheat-growing area in the Dominion, and farmers should take advantage of this opportunity for a demonstration. Farmers throughout the country are interested in the question of the markets, and doubtless many other subjects will come up for consideration if there is anything in the grumblings about unfair treatment. If anything is to be accomplished in the way of radical changes organization will be necessary, and the voice of the whole farming community heard.

H. McColl, baker, Prince Albert, has sold his business to J. Hourie. Mr. McColl has been connected with the baking business in Prince Albert for about twenty-two years and always held the reputation for making good bread.

Quietness reigns at the stores, but hopes are entertained that business will become brisker soon.

ST. CATHARINES.

What has been needed in St. Catharines is a covered market—or a certain section where perishable goods are for sale. The law demands this, but so many have been afraid to refuse paying the fee that the matter has been in abeyance for years. A letter was published in each of the St. Catharines newspapers shortly before the municipal election that attracted a good deal of attention. The subject of the letter was talked among farmers, fruit growers and gardeners at the polls in Grantham, Louth and other divisions. Mayor Campbell, in his inaugural address, trusted that the Council could see a way to have a covered market. The Fruit Growers' Association at their meeting on Saturday last took strong views on this question. No fewer than twenty will contribute $50 each for a stall and pay in addition the regular market fee.

A strong effort is being put forth locally to have electric railway connection with the West, including Beamsville, Grimsby and Hamilton.

STRATFORD.

The very life of a store is its ability to attract and hold the public attention. Always keep changing and putting up something new. The story which fails to create any interest whatever soon drops out of sight and becomes a back number. Always have something on the go—something new. Have new methods mixed with the old ones, abolish the old ones that are seen to be gaining you no advantage or new trade. This object can be attained in several ways. Some merchants have a happy knack of saying just the right thing in the daily papers. This counts for much in the daily routine of the grocer's life. The window is one place which can be used to advantage in this way. Make it bright and attractive, so as to catch the eye at the first glance. Goods should be rearranged frequently and the change should be different as to variety of goods shown.

Always aim to make the window a strong advertising talk. Gaudy displays and trashy decorations detract both from the dignity and from the value of display. Some dealers are always making or working up a contest, but this type of disease is not prevalent in Stratford. Large expense is unnecessary.

"System makes work easy." The remark was not made by a grocer, but by a drygoodsman, and yet it is a sentence well worth looking at and digesting by the up-to-date grocer. To systematize the work before you every day, is part of the business, and to try to do things in a better way, more thoroughly and in less time than before, requires some thought of self and study of conditions. If you are a retail clerk and expect to develop your time and energy to the highest efficiency, you should begin at once to recognize your way of doing things. Be tidy. It pays to pay attention to the store surroundings, to see that everything is in its proper place. Have a certain place for everything and have some method of keeping everything in its place. No clerk can expect to be promoted unless he or she displays an interest in keeping the boxes in their right place and also that they are piled evenly. The reason so many clerks cry about hard work is because they never learn to do a thing thoroughly. Be thorough. If you set about to do a certain thing, see that it is finished and completed before you leave it. The men at the head of successful businesses were made good managers by getting and adopting these principles. A system of being orderly, prompt and accurate will develop habits which will endow you with ability to do things right.

King winter and the storm king played havoc with the Saturday weekly market. The roads are in an almost impassable state and very few farmers turned out Saturday. However, those who did, took advantage of the scarcity of sellers and knowing that the people wanted produce, these sellers demanded just about what prices they liked, with the result that some of the quotations were somewhat exorbitant. As one buyer put it, "Why, I can buy cheaper than that at the grocery stores." And so she could.

On Friday night last the local branch of the Retail Merchants' Association held a very successful banquet. It was attended by over 150 of the retailers of the city, and it proved a very profitable function. Many outside speakers were present, including Mr. Trowern, Dominion secretary of the R.M.A. Many questions of importance were discussed and the work among the local retailers should in future travel along smoother and more pleasant lines.

BOARDS OF TRADE CONVENTION.

New Organization to Promote Alberta's Welfare Formed at Lethbridge Last Week.

Representatives of the various Boards of Trade of Southern Alberta met in Lethbridge last week and formed a new organization known as "The Southern Alberta Boards of Trade," to deal with those problems which particularly affect the people of the southern part of the Sunshine Province.

Mayor Henderson, of Lethbridge, extended a cordial welcome to the delegates and emphasized the importance of forming a strong organization to advance the interests of Southern Alberta. He hoped that arrangements would be made for annual gatherings.

The Magrath Board of Trade introduced a resolution petitioning the members of the Government of Alberta to establish the proposed Provincial Agricultural College at Magrath, supporting their contention with facts as to the satisfactory position of their town as a site for the college, in that wheat and beet raising, both with and without irrigation, had been carried on for some years in that locality.

The resolution, which was championed by D. H. Elton and other speakers from Magrath, provoked a lively discussion. Several other districts presented their claims, but delegates from Lethbridge and Raymond supported the ambitions of Magrath and the resolution was finally adopted by an unanimous vote.

A constitution was adopted after some discussion, and it was decided that the annual meetings of the association shall be held on January 2nd.

DEVELOPING CANADIAN TRADE.

Former Torontonian Discusses Outlook —Canadians in Important Positions.

H. Donkin, commission broker, of Vancouver and Victoria, passed through Toronto last week on his way from a trip through the States and as far as New York, and as usual visited The Grocer. He resided formerly in Toronto, his father being for many years with Perkins, Ince & Company. Everybody who visited the wholesale trade will remember him, one of the handsomest men in the city, well over six feet and of massive build. While Mr. Donkin handles the agencies for a number of United States and Canadian firms, he is developing the import and export trade with the Orient and makes regular trips to Honolulu, China and Japan. Of the future trade with Japan, he thinks we are not likely to sell many of our manufactures. They will buy grain, flour and similar foodstuffs. Flour trade is likely to fall off because they are encouraging the development of their own mills by increasing the duty on flour and reducing it on grain. They are more likely to sell us manufactures. They are great imitators, can copy anything.

New York, Mr. Donkin says, used to do the Mediterranean fruit trade of British Columbia, but in the last year or two the commission houses there have been securing direct agencies, though there is still a good trade being done by New York houses.

Everywhere he goes, Mr. Donkin says, he meets Canadians, all occupying prominent places. Mr. Boselly, president of the Royal Baking Powder Company, of New York, is a Belleville boy. Mr. Lee, the general sales manager of Libby, McNeill & Libby, is one of the well-known Toronto Lees, who is maintaining the clean reputation that this family have always held in Toronto. Mr. Billing, the manager of the stock yards for the S. & S. Company, Chicago, the largest shippers of dressed beef in the world, is from western Ontario. He started wheeling a truck in the stock yards a few years ago at 12½c an hour.

CALIFORNIA FRUIT IN TORONTO.

How This Business is Handled in Canada —Imports Increasing Rapidly.

For some five years the contract for handling the California deciduous fruit business in Toronto has been held by White & Co. This contract, which expired with the close of last season's business, has been renewed for another term. The business in this class of highly perishable fresh fruit has grown wonderfully in Toronto since this firm took hold of it. They handled fifteen cars the first season and fifty cars the past season. The fruit is handled at auction and is thereby placed in the hands of the trade in its freshest possible state. It may be interesting to know that when a car of fruit arrives in Toronto it has to be catalogued, unloaded into the auction room, sold the same day and report of sales wired the same night, giving the result of each shipper's lot (usually 40 to 50 shippers in each car), and the money wired to California the next day. The shippers, therefore, get their money without delay. A full, detailed account of the condition, criticism of pack, etc., is made of each lot, which along with the account sales is forwarded to California by mail next day. Altogether the system of handling this business is the most perfect of any in the fruit business. White & Co. will no doubt continue to increase this class of trade.

BRANCH FACTORY IN MONTREAL.

National Licorice Company of Brooklyn Building to Accommodate Canadian Trade.

Announcement is made by the National Licorice Company, Brooklyn, through their Montreal agent, J. M. Brayley, that they will likely be in a position in April to make shipments of their specialties from their Canadian branch factory, which is now in the course of construction, corner Ernest and Desjardins streets, Maisonneuve, Montreal. Machinery is now being installed and their various lines will soon be manufactured in Canada. They will then, of course, be in a better position than ever to take care of the trade of their Canadian patrons, particularly in Montreal and the Maritime Provinces.

PRICES WILL NOT BE RAISED.

Tomato Growers To Get Only 27½ Cents —Growers Organized.

A report from Hamilton this week says: "It seems that the fruit and vegetable growers of Ontario will have to be content with the offer of 27½ cents a bushel for tomatoes made by the canning companies. The growers are holding out for 30 cents, and have threatened not to grow any tomatoes unless they receive that price. They claim to be strongly organized throughout the Niagara Peninsula and western Ontario.

W. H. Millman, of W. H. Millman & Sons, Toronto, has been in Cincinnati this week at the canners' convention and looking after general business.

WHAT TO DO IN FEBRUARY

The Time to Plan Your Spring Work— Get Your Store in Good Clean Shape and Look After Some of the Bad Debts.

Every wide-awake grocer should be of a "planning" disposition. It is not enough to stand behind the counter, welcome the entrance of customers, attend to their needs politely, arrange goods carefully, keep things tidy and do the hundred and one acts that constitute the routine of a grocery. All this is fine and quite necessary. But another step should be taken. He has invested his brains and good hard-earned cash in a business which, for the time being at least, should engage his whole thought and attention. Naturally enough he looks for a suitable return, big or small, on his investment. He should, therefore, study his work closely and seek to increase his income. To do this he must plan to reach out further and further for more business, plan to obtain some of the trade which the other fellow around the corner is getting, plan to revolutionize business if necessary. In this way the grocer can spend time which will amply repay itself. His past experience affords a good guide for the future and bearing that in mind he should lay his plans along the lines most needed. Above all else, see to it that your plans materealize. It is one thing to scheme, it is another thing to carry those plans through successfully. Some of the smaller men financially in the world to-day are inveterate planners, but that's about as far as they get. They lack the happy faculty of making good their dreams.

Having carefully made plans, these should be assiduously pursued and not dropped when other cares crop up.

A Month to Plan In.

No better month in the year is available for this purpose than February, with its rough weather and general quietness in business. A month later spring is in the air and with it business brightens up and other thoughts take up the grocer's attention.

Certain conditions which are not in the grocer's power to rectify cause this month to be quiet. "Times are dull" popularly expresses the feeling of the ordinary merchant as he keeps tab on February's trade. Staple lines are in most demand at this time of the year. Fancy lines move slowly and should not be stocked heavily. The fact that there is no special run on any particular lines gives the grocer a good chance to clear out surplus stocks of staple goods. He should be wary in buying until he has moved out lines that stick. He will know just this required information after his January stock-taking, as outlined in last month's article of this series. By watching just such details as these the grocer is bound to gain in the long run.

House-cleaning is an indispensable part of a housekeeper's duties. This applies with equal force to the grocer, the only difference being as to the respective seasons. The grocer should do his this month, for then it is that the wintry winds do blow, people stay more indoors and thus give the grocer time to straighten things up about the store. It is an excellent chance and should not be overlooked. Go right after dirt like the careful housewife and rest not day or night until everything distasteful has disappeared and a store scrupulously clean results. In all probability some changes in the store have been contemplated. This is your golden opportunity. Put in some bright, attractive show cases or silent salesmen. Make your window capable of doing some business-bringing advertising. Possibly new interior fittings are needed. February's the month for all these renovations.

Collect Old Accounts.

How about the "dead beats," the customers who have been promising and promising to pay up, and who have failed to do so? Why not plan a campaign against the slow payers and make them come to time? You have lots of spare time in February to waken up every one of the bunch. If you have followed our January advice, you will by now have all your books straightened up and know just where you stand and who owes you a bill that has been running too long. During these stormy days keep hammering away at your accounts. Collect everything you can and put your books in good shape while you have the time. Don't be too modest. If you have tackled your proposition once or twice unsuccessfully, go right after it again until you get something definite. There are few grocers who haven't some outstanding accounts that should be collected. Now's the time to clean them up. Some quiet forenoon, gather up some of these accounts and visit the people of promises. By following this up systematically for a time it will surprise you what results you'll achieve. Maybe it will cost you the loss of a customer or two but it will be more like a gain. But if you are tactful and careful, you will be successful.

Another Suggestion.

Lots of grocers utilize this month to put up goods of their own. For instance, a certain enterprising Toronto grocer at this time of the year packs a special line of home-made marmalade and jams. And it has paid him well. Why not try your hand at the same game? There are many such lines of goods that can be put up by yourself at a good profit. Do a little thinking and see if there isn't something in the suggestion. Many a grocer has made a name for himself in this way and built up a good business for home-made articles. Why not you?

BOARD OF TRADE ELECTIONS.

KINNEAR'S HEAD OF THE LEAGUE

A Warm Game With Brokers on Friday Evening Changes Standing.

The way things have gone in the Toronto Wholesalers' Hockey League have been something of a surprise this year. Last year the Brokers were almost invincible and they started out again a few weeks ago at apparently the same pace, but did not keep going. As a matter of fact, the other teams are considerably stronger this year, and have been doing considerable practising, while the Brokers have scarcely been together except at the matches.

Friday evening's game, which was somewhat closer than the score, 11—1, indicates, was a pretty warm contest and included one or two good-natured mix-ups which meant temporary banishment for the participants. The Brokers were weakened by the absence of Billy May, and were unable to keep up to the usual standard.

This win puts Kinnear & Co.'s team at the head of the league, with standing as follows :

	Won.	Lost	To Play
T. Kinnear & Co.	2	1	1
Jas. Lumbers Co.	1	1	2
Grocery Brokers	1	2	1

The balance of the schedule is : Feb. 7, Brokers at Lumbers ; Feb. 14, Kinnear's at Lumbers. Games are played at 'Varsity rink, starting at 9 p.m.

Markets and Market Notes

Business is Quieter in Nearly All Lines—Advance in Canned Goods and in One or Two Staple Lines—The General Outlook.

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—
Fish—Revised.
Rice—Advanced 10c.
Rolled Oats—Advanced.
Canned Goods—Up 2½c.
Butter—Advanced 1c.

Montreal, Thursday, Feb. 6, 1908.

This week the feature of interest in the grocery markets was the advance in canned goods, which took place the first day of the month, when the canners put up their prices 2½c, practically all along the line in canned fruits and vegetables. The advance was received by the trade as something which they could not prevent, and some were pleased, while others did not like the higher prices, coming as they did upon quotations which are already pretty stiff. Rice advanced 10c also, for B grades. Rolled oats is firmer, while butter has been put up 1c lb. Tea and sugar are in good demand, but business is only what would be called normal. Molasses is becoming rather scarce on spot. There is little that is new in dried fruits. Shelled walnuts are up, but otherwise the situation in nuts remains the same as last reported. Mild coffees are becoming desirable property locally, and one firm is reported having refused to sell a grade at an advance of 1c on prices which have up to now ruled. Beans and evaporated apples are steady at the old prices. Packers report a little more activity in smoked meats, and some are booking Easter orders already. A local meat packer has advanced corned beef. Salt salmon is very scarce, and good prices are being secured by holders of the fish. The fish were plentiful, but were not caught last season, owing to the craze of fishermen for codfish. As a result the market is not at all well supplied, and tierces, which were selling last year at $15 to $16, are to-day worth $30 and more.

SUGAR—There is a fair consumptive demand on the part of grocers, but otherwise the situation remains unchanged, prices being same as last week.

COFFEE—Of late there has not been as much speculation in the coffee markets of the world, and as a consequence the strength which shows goes even beyond the surface appearance. There is a premium on lots of desirable coffees, and buyers, recognizing this, are not holding off for lower prices by any means. Locally the situation is unchanged. Mild coffees, which are sold largely on the local market, are very strong, one firm refusing an offer for a large order at a price 1c above what has been the ruling figure for the grade up to the present.

DRIED FRUITS—Activity in dried fruits has been confined to very few lines. Dates have been firm in feeling since last week's advance. Raisins are rather quiet, Sultanas being as firm as any others. Holdings of this grade are not particularly large this year, owing to the damage through floods to the crop, and the consequent lighter yield of first-class raisins. Futures are booked at higher figures, but business is slack. Prunes are unchanged. Shelled walnuts are a bit stiffer, but otherwise nuts are not changed.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL — As expected, the Canadian Canners advanced their prices on the first day of the month. The advance amounts to 2½c, and is practically all along the line in fruits and vegetables. Jobbers in Montreal regard the advance variously. Some are pleased with it and others are not. Demand for various lines is fairly good.

TORONTO—Very satisfactory business is passing this week. Some of this may be the result of the advance made by the Canadian canners which seems to have been made for the advantage of the wholesalers as the canners themselves claim to have very little stock on hand. The circular containing the new prices has not as yet been issued so that it is impossible as yet to give a detailed list of the new quotations, but it is freely stated that the advance is 2½ cents on practically all lines of fruits and vegetables.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—

Beans—Stiffer.
Prunes—Moving well.

Toronto, Feb. 6, 1908.

Business is quieter in wholesale circles than it has been for a couple of weeks and jobbers generally are more frank in acknowledging it. With this quietness, however, they are very optimistic as to the outlook for the year's trade, and point out that matters were almost, if not quite, so quiet at the same time last year. Some firms report a slight increase of business in January over that done in the same month a year ago, and others report that the volume of trade is a little, though slightly, less.

Business in staple goods is fair, but fancy lines are passing off very slowly.

TEAS—Business locally is very fair. A cable to a local broker on Wednesday from Colombo noted an irregular market. Recent mail advices from London state that present prices will probably continue for three or four weeks, and after that a considerable advance seems probable on all lines under 8d.

COFFEE—Business locally is rather quiet, though dealers in roasted goods report a brisk and steady demand.

SUGAR—A staple demand is felt at steady prices. There is nothing new in the situation either here or abroad.

BEANS—A stiffer tone is apparent this week and prices have advanced a point or two. The reason given is a very active American demand. American brokers are buying heavily at several Canadian points and it is said that 20 cars from Chatham went to the United States last week.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 9 a.m. Thursday, Feb. 6, 1908.)

Business in grocery lines is of average volume for this season, and there is no interruption in shipments this year due to blockaded railway lines. Country buyers are purchasing cautiously, but the total volume of business is nevertheless quite satisfactory. Collections are showing considerable improvement.

CANNED GOODS—There are no new features in the canned goods market. Sales are light.

MAY BUILD CHOCOLATE FACTORY

Theodore Tobler, the Bernese Chocolate Manufacturer, Favorably Impressed With Canada.

Theodore Tobler, head of the firm Tobler & Co., of Berne, Switzerland, manufacturers of the milk chocolate of their name which has been enjoying such a large sale in Canada the last three or four years, has been in Toronto the past week, with McLure & Langley, the company's Canadian and United States agents.

While here chiefly to look over business interests and with the object of planning for a development of his business in America, Mr. Tobler has also been learning something of Canadian business methods and he talks of his impressions in a very interesting way.

"This weather is rather colder than we are accustomed to in Switzerland," he said to a Grocer representative on Tuesday morning, when the thermometer was playing around 18 below, "but," with a smile, "it's good weather to sell chocolate."

A possible result of Mr. Tobler's visit may be the establishment of a Canadian factory for the manufacture of the firm's products. With this object in view a trip was made to Niagara Falls last week, to gain some idea of the power facilities afforded. While nothing definite has been decided in regard to the Canadian factory, the matter will be seriously considered.

"One of the difficulties we would have to contend with in Canada," said Mr. Tobler, "would be to get a satisfactory quality of milk. In our factory at Berne we use 10,000 gallons a day and this supply comes from the farms on the mountains around the city." It seems that the Swiss cattle are of rather better grade than are commonly used for milking purposes in Canada. Their milk cows are worth, according to Mr. Tobler, about 600 francs, or $150 and, considering different conditions of life, those cows in Canada would be worth somewhere around $400.

It is milk from these high-grade cows which goes into Tobler's chocolate and, as Mr. Tobler says. it would be almost impossible to get a supply of the same quality in sufficient quantity in Canada. Mr. Tobler suggests that he may overcome this by importing the milk in a dessicated form and completing the process of manufacture here.

The Tobler company have four factories, with an invested capital of 8,500,000 francs and employ about 11,000 hands. A greater part of the work, also, is done by machinery, the latest processes being employed, and from the time the milk and chocolate are placed in the receivers till after the parcels are wrapped, the candy is scarcely touched by hand.

Mr. Tobler is much impressed with Canada and with our business methods. "You have much better organization for sellings goods," he says, "than we have in Europe, and your systems of advertising are most interesting. You seem to have an energy in these things that we do not possess."

Mr. Tobler will be in Toronto for another week and will then return to Switzerland, via New York. He expresses himself as being well pleased with the way in which his business is being carried on both in Canada and the United States.

On Saturday afternoon last Mr. Tobler was the guest of honor at a dinner at the King Edward, given by McLure & Langley to their travelers and office staff. Mr. Tobler went quite comprehensively into the processes of manufacture of his goods, and replied to a good many questions from the travelers on interesting points. The travelers are now well loaded up with information on these goods.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING.

Annual Gathering of Montreal Body—President's Address.

The annual meeting of the Montreal Board of Trade took place on Jan. 28th, for the sixty-fifth time. There was a good attendance and after the reading of the annual report and a very interesting address by retiring-president, George Caverhill, two important resolutions were passed. One was that the new Board of Trade Council should be requested to draw up a memorial requesting that if the Quebec bridge were rebuilt it should be at least at a height of 190 feet above the high-water level. This is in the interests of commerce. The other one was to the effect that no Board of Trade Council should in future be considered as having done its duty during the term of office unless it had used every effort to bring about good roads and pavements in Montreal.

The president's address touched several points of special interest. Speaking regarding the present business situation, he said :

"My lamented predecessor in office, in his report on the financial aspect of 1906, referred to the year then under review as a period of striking development, terminating in a marked monetary stringency. During the past twelve months, further striking evidence of the growth of the country, and the consequent expansion of its trade and commerce, caused some uneasiness, and fears were expressed lest the banks of the country should fail to find funds for necessary movement of the crops, and the ordinary requirements of business.

"Despite the severe monetary troubles of our neighbors to the south, the Canadian banks have once again proved the excellence of the system under which they are operated, and it is a cause for congratulation that up to the present time, the Dominion had no sound reason to doubt the stability of its banks.

"The satisfactory growth in the trading and industrial pursuits of Montreal are evidenced by the favorable figures published by the clearing house, the total for 1907, viz., $1,555,727,270, being a banner year, the smallness of the increase being attributed to the almost complete dearth of business on the Stock Exchange for many weeks."

SIXTEEN YEARS IN A GROCERY.

Mrs. Francis R. McKeown, One of Toronto's Women Grocers, Passed Away on Tuesday.

Mrs. Francis R. McKeown, who, with her husband, has kept a grocery in Toronto for sixteen years, passed away on Tuesday morning, as the result of an attack of grippe and complications.

Mrs. McKeown was taken ill on New Year's day, but had been able to be about for a few days. Last week she was seized with a relapse and this with other troubles, caused her death.

The store, which she has conducted, associated with her husband, Francis R. McKeown, is at 573 King west. Her husband, two sons and a daughter survive.

CHANGES IN TRAVELING STAFF.

Presentation to Retiring Salesman of Davidson & Hay on Saturday.

One of Davidson & Hay's oldest travelers, A. D. Leslie, who has been connected with the firm for twenty-three years, severed his connection last week and will now go after life assurance with the Federal Life Co.

His retirement was made the occasion for a presentation on Saturday last, Col. Davidson, on behalf of the firm, presenting Mr. Leslie with a purse of gold, and expressing his appreciation of his services.

Geo. Moffatt, who has been looking after the firm's business in the city for the past three months, will take Mr. Leslie's territory, the Owen Sound route in Ontario, and W. Bremner, who was with the firm some time ago, will follow in Mr. Moffat's position.

PERSONALS.

Byron N. Barns, Halifax, was in Montreal last week.

John C. Black, sales manager of the H. J. Heinz Co., Pittsburg, is dead. He was known to many wholesalers in Canada.

J. C. Gardiner, of Sugars and Canners, Ltd., Montreal, is on a business trip to the Pacific coast. He will be away two or three weeks.

Richard Lewis, representing G. F. Sutton, Sons & Co., Osborne Works, London, Eng., was a caller at the Montreal office of The Canadian Grocer last week. Mr. Lewis will make a tour of Canada in the interests of his firm, and will eventually open an office in Toronto.

TRADE NOTES.

At their company's general meeting, held in Toronto recently, E. W. Gillett Co., Limited, a very satisfactory dividend was declared to the stockholders. This old established business is making remarkable progress and its affairs are in very satisfactory condition.

A fire in the C.P.R. warehouse on East Notre Dame street, Montreal, on Tuesday night, Feb. 4th, destroyed flour stored there by the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, to the extent of $40,000. A quantity of tea in an adjoining storehouse was damaged by water, but the loss will be small. The flour loss was covered by insurance.

NOW IS THE TIME

Could there possibly be a more favorable time to push the sale of Red Rose Tea, particularly the 40 cent grade when common grades of tea are so very dear?

The "stand out" quality of this tea was never so apparent, even to those who are not very particular, as it is now.

Comparisons are said to be "odious" but nevertheless comparison is generally the best test, and a comparison of Red Rose with any other tea will, I believe, convince you that it will pay you to recommend it to your very best customers.

Butter Advanced Slightly in Several Lines—Cheese Easier, Consequent on Falling Off of English Demand—Hog Market Further Depressed.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

A weaker feeling is noticeable in cheese this week, prices having slumped slightly. Receipts of New Zealand cheese in the Old Country have been rather larger than it was thought they would be, which has put Canadian holders somewhat out in their calculations.

Still, those who have stocks are not anxious sellers by any means, feeling that a firmer market is bound to rule. It is very likely, however, that they would be interested in offers from the other side at figures less firm than those which ruled a couple of weeks ago.

English buyers, though, have not been making offers to Canadian houses, because they have been able to supply their customers from New Zealand receipts. Reports from England state that consumption is good, and likely to improve as the season advances.

Locally there is very little business being done, except the usual local consumptive trade. Prices quoted to grocers and handlers of small lots are around 14c. Export figures are bound to be nominal, since there is no inquiry to speak of from the buying English houses. For best Ontario it is not likely that more than 13c could be obtained. There is also a range offering at 12¾c.

Receipts of cheese last week were 119 boxes, against 521 boxes same week last year, and 65 boxes previous week. Total receipts since May 1 amount to 2,053,591 boxes, against 2,349,270 boxes same period 1906-7.

Butter continues very firm with an advancing tendency distinctly noticeable. Holders locally have put up their prices again, and best October fresh grass creamery cannot be obtained today undet 29c to 29½c. This is for quantity, and for small lots as much as 30c can be secured.

Fresh grass butter is rapidly becoming very scarce, and should present demand continue it cannot possibly last a great deal longer.

Meantime current receipts are not heavy, quite the reverse. This, naturally, has a firming tendency, and as stocks are difficult to replace, sales are not sought very assiduously. Prices run from 27½c to 28c.

Dairy butter is scarce as ever. For what is offering, 25c to 25½c is obtained. There is very little solid dairy offering, most of what is on the market being in prints and rolls.

It is reported that some Irish butter, which was brought over here from the Old Country, is being shipped back again as it is not quite what is desired for this side. It is too mild and otherwise unsuited for the needs of the Canadian market.

Receipts of butter last week amounted to 1,614 packages, against 791 packages the previous week, and 1,157 packages same week last year. Total receipts since May 1 amount to 410,357 packages, against 604,832 packages same period 1906-7.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

How long the depressed condition of the hog markets will continue is rather an interesting question just now. This week the situation is even worse than it was at last report. The English market remains steady at the exceedingly low basis mentioned before. The Danes continue to make unusually heavy deliveries, last week's reports showing deliveries again very much over the average. The Americans, also, continue to make large shipments. And, considering all these facts, it does not seem that a material change in the situation is probable for some weeks to come.

Under these existing conditions business is very quiet, with Canadian packers. And the fact that they are not very anxious to do more is evident from the prices they are offering, which are even a notch below last week's quotations. Hogs f.o.b. country points will bring $4.90; fed and watered stock about $5.10, and hogs at factory $5.30.

These prices are certainly not very tempting to the hog raiser, and as a result very little stock is being delivered. The very heavy and drifted roads, the result of last week's storm, are also having some effect on deliveries.

The condition of affairs in the American market is summarized in the following paragraph from the New York Journal of Commerce:

"The past week has witnessed more activity in future hog products in sympathy with enormous receipts of hogs early and a sharp decline in prices, against which packers at first supported prices, resulting in only a moderate decline up to midweek, after which receipts fell off, but products went down more rapidly than early week, as the packers appeared to have abandoned their support of the market in sympathy with the demoralization in grain and readjustment of values to panic conditions in those markets instead of accumulating stock, which they were doing the week before in place of selling futures against current production. This led to a sharp break on Friday after only moderate declines early in the week. It seems to be generally conceded now that the supply of hogs in the country is bigger than expected in view of the farmers' continued selling at these low prices while holding back their grain. This would seem to indicate that the packers have recognized that the old basis of prices was too high for the present industrial and financial conditions and that they must accept a lower basis for the coming year.

"Beef products have sympathized with hog products for the first time, though production has not so much increased but consumption has fallen off, and exporters have been unwilling to come in without concessions in prices, as industrial conditions abroad do not warrant their paying old prices any longer. Thus a readjustment of values in all meat products seems to be inevitable. By-products have maintained old prices generally on moderate production, but consumption is falling off owing to the times, and to avoid accumulation, packers are making concessions, while buyers are masters of the situation, being able to hold off until accumulations force concession."

CANADIAN TURKEYS IN ENGLAND.

Hints Regarding Shipping Poultry by Trade Commissioner.

The following item regarding a shipment of Canadian turkeys to Great Britain, from the report of J. B. Jackson, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Leeds, will be read with interest by the trade generally :

"As a direct result of my report of September 27, 1907, and also of the trade inquiries which appeared therein respecting the demand for Canadian turkeys, it is a pleasure to report that a large shipment of these birds was sent to an inland town in this district, arriving just in time to supply the Christmas demand.

"In local trade a good deal of interest was taken in this shipment and it should interest exporters in Canada to know the opinions given. 'The birds, it is said, were in perfect condition, but the shippers somewhat spoiled the consignment by freezing them too hard during transit.' This same complaint also applies to a few other shipments which were sent to other parts of the country. It must be remembered that turkeys which arrive in a hard frozen state have to be 'thawed out,' and this takes the fresh look off them—not to mention other drawbacks that result from this process. Notwithstanding this, however, the turkeys that came to hand fetched a price of from 16 to 17 cents per pound, but it is said that if they had only been chilled (as Canadian turkeys usually are) instead of frozen, they would have fetched 2 cents per pound more. As regards the packing, too, in this special case the birds were packed in random numbers to a box, such as twelve, eight, fifteen and sixteen, but, in future, it is advocated that no more nor less than twelve birds be put into a case, and that they be graded as to weight.

"Taken altogether, however, the shipment was a good one, and, as before mentioned, created no small interest; in fact, now that the preliminary trial of this direct trade between exporter and merchant has met with fair success there is every indication that several other firms will be asking for direct shipments next season, and it rests with Canadian exporters to make the most of their opportunities in this direction."

Another paragraph contains an item of interest noting a ready demand in England for Canadian salmon :

"According to well-informed reports the supplies of British salmon this season are likely to be below the average. Merchants and importers in this district are eagerly looking for supplies from Canada, it being immaterial whether the fish arrives frozen or fresh. 'Loggerheads' are considered to be by far the favorite brand obtainable from Canada ; in fact, many dealers here prefer them even to English salmon. I am assured that this and other kinds of salmon, such as 'sockeyes,' etc., would fetch as much as 16 and 17 cents per pound if sent forward at the present time."

R. Carignan and Robt. Kennedy, representing Laporte, Martin & Cie, Montreal, were in Toronto for a couple of days this week looking after business interests.

The jobbers' test of a tin of Pork and Beans may show him that there are many brands which are good. That test however, is not as satisfactory as the retailers' knowledge that his customers ask for

Clark's Pork and Beans

And that they can only be brought to try others after precious time has been wasted explaining their quality.

And not only is time money, but the fellow on the other corner will probably have some Clark's Pork and Beans in his window!

QUIETNESS REIGNS IN CEREALS

Small Deliveries of Both Oats and Wheat Point to Low Stocks—Oats Advance Temporarily in Montreal.

Business is exceedingly quiet in the cereal markets this week. The heavy snow storm of the end of the week and the impassable roads have made it almost impossible for the farmers to get in with supplies. In consequence, deliveries have been very light and this condition seems to be reflected in the markets generally. Stocks of wheat seem to be rather low anyway, the high prices seeming sufficient to market this grain. Oats are a little more plentiful.

The recent break in the Chicago market, was, owing to the quiet condition of the market, not reflected at Canadian points. Prices here seem to be on a pretty steady basis.

Rolled oats have been advanced in Montreal, seemingly in consequence of good demand, but this change will scarcely be permanent.

Wheat inspections at Winnipeg on Saturday amounted to 113 cars, compared with 97 cars the day before, and 1 car the corresponding day last year, when the railways were tied up with a snow blockade. Saturday's grading was as follows: No. 1 northern, 3 cars; No. 2 northern, 9 cars; No. 3 northern, 15 cars; No. 4, 11 cars; No. 5, 7 cars; No. 6, 8 cars; winter, 10 cars; other grades 50 cars. Other inspections were; Oats, 18 cars; barley, 2 cars; flax, 1 car.

The visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States has decreased 506,000 bushels during the last week. The supply of corn has increased 1,158,000 bushels, and of oats 267,000 bushels.

Condemns U.S. Shipments to Britain

British Inspector Says That Vast Amounts of Boneless Meats Discarded in the States Are Sent to England—Staff of American Inspectors is Inadequate and Tubercular Scraps Are Passed.

From a special cable to the New York Herald.

It is often said that America sends her best beef, bacon and other foodstuffs to England, but if the latest report of Dr. G. Buchanan, Inspector of Foods of the British Local Government Board, can be relied upon, Great Britain receives a vast amount of meat which the Americans themselves discard because it is not good enough for them.

The Local Government Board have now under consideration the question of taking action to minimize or remove the risks to health, which the present unrestricted admission of these foods entails, by the enforcement of regulations such as are authorized by the public health regulations as to food of the act of last year.

Dr. Buchanan, who has been carefully inquiring into the matter, condemns a lot of imports from America. The material chiefly in question is meat imported in boxes, barrels and other receptacles, which contain scraps, lumps, trimmings and other portions of such size and shape that they are not readily identifiable with the definite parts of a dressed carcass.

Scrap Meat From United States.

Nearly all the importations from the United States consist of scrap meat, which has been packed in boxes and frozen. In other words, scrap meat, namely, beef and pork, is one of the numerous articles included in the trade in American frozen box meat, which has been increasing in recent years.

The boneles beef received in England from the United States consists mainly of what is termed "chucks" of beef, "chuck" being frozen shoulder, but in practice the term "chuck" seems to be used to comprise trimmings from all parts of the carcass, chiefly fleshy lumps from the fore and hind quarters.

They come, says the English Inspector of Foods, from animals whose meat is of inferior quality to that which is exported to Great Britain in half or quarter carcasses as chilled meat. In summer the trade does not pay, in consequence of the quickness with which the contents of the boxes may go bad after leaving cold storage. This is characteristic of boneless chucks, and seems to be generally recognized by the meat inspectors at the central markets in London, who find that after the contents of the boxes have thawed their appearance soon becomes unsatisfactory.

Damage Irish Meat Trade.

The wholesale price of beef chucks is usually three-pence per pound. Their chief sale is in Glasgow and the north of England. In Glasgow American boneless chucks are largely used to make minced collops, and their increasing use there has had a damaging effect on the Irish meat trade with the west of Scotland. In London the chief purchasers of boneless chucks are the makers of pies and sausages. The boxes are often sold unopened. Sometimes half boxes are sold, the box and its frozen contents being cut bodily across.

Boneless pork from the United States consists mainly of boxes of pork cuttings, ham trimmings and the like. These arrive in boxes of sixty to eighty pounds weight. The contents of a box when opened consist of a solid frozen slab.

The price is usually about three-pence or four-pence per pound.

It is said that the inspection in England can afford no check whatever as to the existence of disease conditions in the animal whence meat of this description is derived, nor can any such inspection operate as a check upon the use of uncleanly or objectionable methods of obtaining, treating, collecting or packing scrap meat in the place of its preparation. An inspector, however skilful, can make nothing of chucks or trimmings while they are frozen hard, and all he can do in practice when they thaw is to look for signs of decomposition.

In the meat market the boxes are brought straight from the cold store and their contents are usually still frozen when seen by the market inspectors. Much boneless meat goes straight from the cold store to the purchaser without passing through the market.

It is doubtful, adds the inspector of Words of Wisdom

Manufacturers

THE Manufacturer who sells his product through dealers, no matter how much magazine and newspaper advertising he may do, cannot afford to ignore the trade journals. The idea that if a general demand is created, the dealer will be forced to carry the goods is all right in theory, but the trouble is that it doesn't work out in practice. The dealer is likely to carry such brands of different articles as suit him, and if he hasn't what people ask for, the people will take what he has. As a matter of fact, the number of those who ask for a certain brand, and refuse all others, is very, very limited. This means that the manufacturer must advertise to the dealer as well as to the consumer. To convince the latter that it is worth while to buy a certain brand is only half the battle. The other half consists in convincing the dealer that it is worth his while to carry the brand. This is best accomplished through the trade newspapers.—Profitable Advertising.

foods, whether any system of inspection, however rigid, can be regarded as satisfactory in the case of meat prepared for export in the form of scrap meat.

This form is rightly held in considerable suspicion by the health authorities. In the experience of Great Britain it has been found specially convenient to traders wishing to make profitable use of bad or doubtful meat of all kinds. Preparations of scrap meat, often of inferior quality to begin with, must involve a considerable amount of handling. Scraps may be collected from dirty floors or have been thrown into unclean receptacles, or are liable to have been dirtied or contaminated in other ways.

Save for certain questions regarding tuberculosis, the instructions of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry to the inspectors appeared to constitute a code which could be regarded as generally satisfactory from the health point of view. But, says the British inspector, it is quite another question how these regulations worked in practice. There were serious doubts as to the uniform efficiency of the system of inspection pursued.

From the latest reports received, the staff of inspectors at packing houses must often have been wholly inadequate to secure a thorough inspection of carcasses from disease on the lines of the official instructions.

U.S. Staff Inadequate.

However hard working and competent the inspectors may have been, they have evidently been too few for the proper performance of inspection with regard to disease which the label of "United States inspected" has professed to signify.

Previously there had been practically no control over the proceedings of packers once the carcasses had passed the inspectors. Until the last year, at any rate, the official labels have had no significance as regard preparation, cleanliness, chemical treatment and the like of meat imported in the form of scraps. The new United States meat inspection law has greatly increased the official staff of inspectors.

It has extended their supervision to all parts of the packers' premises and it may be taken to have already effected improvements which are to the advantage of the British consumer of American meat foods. But although henceforth the label "United States Inspected" will no doubt mean more than in the past, it would be rash at this stage to place too great reliance upon its significance when attached to boxes containing such a commodity as scrap meat prepared for export.

Tuberculous Cuttings?

In regard to pork, which forms a considerable proportion of the scrap meat from the United States, an important question arises with regard to tuberculous pork cuttings, ham trimmings and the like exported from the United States to England. They may consistently, with the Bureau of Animal Industry instructions, be derived from animals which on slaughter have been found to be affected with tuberculosis, provided that the disease, on naked eye examination, is limited to certain parts of the carcass, whereas it is the practice in London and certain provincial meat markets for the sanitary officers concerned to act upon the recommendation of the Royal Commission on Tuberculosis of 1898 and to seize and require the surrender of the carcass of any pig which shows signs of tuberculosis in any degree.

The home trader has a legitimate grievance if in these circumstances scraps of pork from tuberculous animals are allowed to come on the market for no other reason than that the condition of the animals from which they are derived cannot be ascertained by the inspectors in this country on the form of the imported scrap meat. Pork trimmings and other scraps of pig meat from the United States may consistently, with the American meat inspection regulations, have been derived from tuberculous animals which the health authorities in this country would not permit to be used for food.

The pig is an animal readily susceptible to infection by tuberculosis. In the pig the disease spreads with greater rapidity and tuberculosis shows a stronger tendency to become generalized than in the case of a bovine animal.

For these and other reasons there is substantial ground for regarding the meat of pigs which are affected by tuberculosis in any degree as potentially dangerous to the person consuming such meat. This view was taken by the Royal Commission on Tuberculosis. The only safeguard against the diseased conditions in box pork from the United States lies in the system of official inspection of meat intended for export on the premises of the packers in America by officers of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry.

As regards tuberculosis in pigs the meat of which is to be exported to the United Kingdom, the official instructions to the United States meat inspectors differ from the recommendations of the Royal Commission of 1898.

As matters now stand, therefore, if the label "United States inspected" on packages of box pork from the United States be accepted at its minimum value it affords a guarantee that the meat does not come from animals suffering from certain severe forms of tuberculosis, but it does not attest that none of the meat is derived from tuberculous pigs. Indeed, the United States regulations justify the assumption that some of the box pork comes from animals affected by tuberculosis.

I understand that the Royal Commission is now engaged in investigations relating more directly to pig tuberculosis. The results of these investigations when available will obviously require careful study, and possibly a further extension in particular directions before the board could be in a position to consider whether the standard which it has advised the local authorities to adopt on the authority of the Commission of 1898 should be further insisted upon or should be modified in particular directions.

But there seems no reason to wait until a large policy in regard to home meat inspection applicable to such questions as tuberculosis in pigs has been formulated and set going, or to wait for the result of a detailed inquiry as to the relative degree of danger from the meat of pigs affected by tuberculosis of one or another variety, in order to improve the present position with regard to tuberculosis in imported pork. If in the interim measures can be taken to secure greater wholesomeness as regards tuberculosis of the larger part of the pork consumed in this country, that which comes in from abroad, a considerable advantage would be gained from the point of view of the public health, while incidentally a just cause of complaint from the home traders would be removed.

Trade in Cooked Tripe.

The trade in already cooked tripe is almost wholly from the United States. A quarter of a pound of this tripe, which may be considered to be a moderate meal, must often contain more than the maximum dose of boric acid prescribed for an adult by the British Pharmacopoeia. Many persons who eat this tripe incur a definite risk to their health. The new meat inspection law of the United States and the regulations made thereunder have now made it illegal for American packers to use borax or boric acid, sulphites or sulphurous acid and certain other preservative substances in the preparation of the meat foods.

The American packer who prepares preserved tripe of the kind above considered, if he is to comply with the new law and new official regulations, has to carry out the preservative treatment in portions of his establishment which are specially set aside for the purpose and must label his preserved products in a prescribed manner to indicate that the goods are intended solely for export. In these special portions of his premises the packer is permitted by the meat inspection law to carry out any preservative treatment which he requires for his foreign trade, provided that no substance is used in the preparation or packing in conflict with the laws of the foreign country to which the articles are to be exported.

The British laws do not in the present circumstances afford any protection in this respect to the British consumer.

The total amount of cooked or uncooked foreign preserved tripe imported into the United Kingdom is small by comparison with the total quantity of tripe available to the British consumer.

These kinds of tripe appear to constitute a distinct risk to health which it is desirable to remove. Prohibition of their importation would cause little or no difference in the supply of this important food to the public. It would no doubt affect the United States trade, but it would be open to American traders to revise their methods.

L. B. Moore, the Newfoundland representative of T. H. Estabrooks, was in Toronto for a few days last week renewing acquaintances with the Red Rose men, and also spent some days with friends in Guelph. Returning, he called in Montreal. FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Cold Weather Weakens the Demand for Fruits—Potatoes Steadily Advancing—Weather Conditions Have Checked Outside Buying of Fish.

The heavy storms and cold weather have weakened the demand for fruits. It has been practically impossible to ship to outside points. No material changes are noticeable. Prices remain steady. Good marmalade oranges are arriving. The supplies of cranberries are getting low and will soon be done. They have been moving very slowly this season.

Weather conditions have stiffened the price of potatoes and a further advance in Delawares has resulted. Other lines of domestic vegetables are selling well. Fancy stuff is slow.

The cold weather is helping the demand for fish. Business is satisfactory, although the heavy storms have made shipments backward. Prices are steady. Railway contractors have been buying heavily. Considerable trouble is being experienced in filling outside orders.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—Heavy snows which blocked country roads have resulted in a falling off in the demand for fruits. Orders from country districts have not been numerous of late and improvement is not anticipated before the roads are opened up again. Oranges, lemons and other staples are in fair demand in the city. Prices this week show no change.

EDMONTON'S WHITE FISH TRADE.

Large Shipments of Fish Caught in Northern Alberta Lakes.

From present indications the Lake Winnipeg whitefish industry is soon to have a very formidable competitor in the region to the north of the Alberta capital city. One dealer in Edmonton is shipping fifteen cars of whitefish to the Chicago and other eastern markets, as compared with four cars last winter; and other dealers can show an increase almost as great.

So great an advance in one season emphasizes the great possibility of the whitefish export trade for the city of Edmonton, and this is only one of the many great natural resources yet to be developed in the country tributary to Edmonton. The salmon, halibut and herring fisheries of the Pacific coast waters have meant much to the city of Vancouver, and there is every reason to believe that the whitefish caught in the cold lakes of northern Alberta may prove a source of almost as much wealth to the city of Edmonton. These lakes are almost the last virgin fishery grounds for a delicacy that has for many years had an assured market cultivated by the now depleted fisheries of the eastern lakes. As the centre of the export whitefish trade of northern Alberta, Edmonton should benefit greatly.

J. W. Windsor, the canner, Montreal, is in the Maritime Provinces for a couple of weeks on a business trip.

DEATH OF D. S. PERRIN.

Prominent Biscuit and Confectionery Manufacturer passed Away on Saturday.

By the death of Daniel S. Perrin, which occurred at his home in London, on Friday last, London loses a citizen of seventy-three years' residence, and one who was among the city's most successful business men. He was born in Brockville seventy-four years ago and came to London with his parents when but a year old. When a young man of twenty he started in business in a small way in the east end of the city, and by his keen business ability gradually became one of the largest manufacturers of biscuits and confectionery in Canada. In 1902 the firm of D. S. Perrin & Co. was made a limited liability company, with a capital of a quarter of a million dollars, and built an extensive addition to their works on Dundas and Darling streets. Mr. Perrin, in his time, was a most public spirited citizen, and in the old days was long a member of the city's volunteer fire brigade. A prominent member of the First Methodist church he was for years one of its trustees, and contributed liberally to charitable objects. For some years Mr. Perrin's health had been poor, but his death came unexpectedly. Besides Mrs. Perrin, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs, (Dr.) Hadley Williams. One brother, Finlay, is a resident of this city. It is understood that the death of Mr. Perrin will in no way affect the conduct of the large business of which he was the head.

TRADE NEWS OF NEW BRUNSWICK

January Business Equals Last Year—An Advance in Seeds—Light Fish Receipts With High Prices for Lobsters.

(Special Correspondence of The Canadian Grocer.)

St. John, N.B., Feb. 4.—According to several of the local wholesale grocers business so far this year has been equal to last year and in some cases it is reported a shade ahead. There have been no changes in prices during the past week except in seeds and the advance in this line has been quite considerable. Timothy has advanced 10 to 15 cents a hundred and notwithstanding the exceedingly high prices at which clovers opened, alsike has jumped up 50 cents a hundred while red and mammoth clovers are from $2 to $2.50 a hundred higher. The best clover now sells at $24 to $25 a hundred.

The oatmeal market is rather erratic. It is up one day and down the next. The price has been advanced by the millers but the local dealers have not made any changes as there is a lot of oatmeal held here that was purchased at a low figure. Sugar is steady and flours and meals are firm with no changes in quotations.

Collections are only fair, many of the country people offering as an excuse the absence of snow which had affected business very materially. There was a heavy snowstorm on Thursday, however, and it is thought that the benefits will be far reaching as there is plenty of snow now all over the province.

The fish receipts of the past week have been very light but shipments to the West show an increase. H. P. Robertson sent a carload of bloaters to Winnipeg and Leonard Bros. shipped a car of mixed cured fish to British Columbia. Lobsters are being held at high figures by the fishermen and the canners may have to raise their prices in consequence.

Daniel J. Purdy, the local grocer and ship owner, at present one of St. John's representatives in the provincial legislature, was nominated again on Thursday last as one of the Government candidates in the provincial elections, to be held on March 3. If elected, there is a possibility of Mr. Purdy being taken into the cabinet.

WINNIPEG GROCERS' BANQUET.

Annual Curling Dinner to City Travelers Last Week.

The city grocers held their annual curling banquet in Manitoba Hall on Wednesday night, Jan. 29. The banquet was tendered by the city grocers to the city travelers and it was attended also by several wholesale grocers, among were A. S. Lock, Alex. Macdonald, Geo. Galt, W. R. Campbell, J. J. Codville, T. Jobin and K. Mackenzie. The chairman was J. A. McKenhan, the Main St. grocer, and the vice-chairmen were J. H. Dickie and Chris. Campbell.

Among those present were: A. R. Christie, T. Hurtley, D. W. McLean, C. E. Christie, Geo. Thompson, D. Fergie, E. B. Nixon, W. H. Stone, W. D. Haney, A. McKinney, J. W. Horne, C. Werring, R. L. RICE PROSPECTS GOOD.

Advices From Primary Markets Quite Encouraging.

Late advices from Rangoon, Burmah, British East Indies, report that the area under cultivation in rice in the fifteen principal rice producing districts of that part of the East Indies is now 7,300,000 acres of land. Of the ordinarily available land there is reported to be 494,000 acres not planted and some 67,000 acres had been destroyed by floods. The prospects for the rice crop are said to be good and in some of the districts exceeding the normal. The surplus available for export is estimated at 2,514,000 tons of cargo rice.

DISCUSSED ANNUAL FOOD SHOW.

Grocers' Section of R. M. A. Hold Special Meeting.

A special meeting of the grocers' section of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada was held in the association's board room on Monday evening, Jan. 27. E. C. Moyer, chairman. presided.

The object of the meeting was to receive the report from the pure food show committee, and to consult with some of the exhibitors as to what action they deemed it advisable to take. George Good, chairman of the committee, stated that an invitation had been received to consult with the officers of the Canadian National Exhibition Association, who desired to know if the committee would take charge of a building or portion of a building to be allotted in the grounds during the holding of the next annual exhibition, as it was their purpose to place all the manufacturers of foodstuffs together. He stated that the committee had fully considered the matter and had also found that if they consented to the proposal it would not in any way interfere with the holding of the annual food show in the spring. He said further that the committee had decided to accept the offer from the Canadian National Exhibition Association and if the exhibitors felt that one would not interfere with the other, it would be for them to say whether the food show for this year would be held or not.

F. C. Higgins and E. M. Trowern, other members of the pure food show committee, supplemented the report of the chairman, and the matter was left for the meeting to discuss.

Geo. H. Campbell, representing the Red Rose Tea Co., stated that as far as their firm was concerned they found that the pure food show had done them a great deal of good and they considered it one of their best advertising mediums. He said that he would regret very much if the food show was cut off this year.

Mr. Langley, of Messrs. McLure & Langley, also spoke, and stated that he also found the pure food show of great benefit to them, but did not consider the building was as appropriate as it should be but as he did not see where a better one could be found in the city, and as the attendance had been excellent he thought that the holding of the food show in the spring would in no way interfere with the arrangements the committee had made with the exhibition association. As far as his firm was concerned they would do all they could to make it a success if the committee decided to go on with it.

B. Griffin, Mr. Grigor, Mr. Nettleton and others all spoke and it was finally moved by F. C. Higgins and seconded by G. Good that a committee be appointed consisting of Mr. Campbell, representing the Red Rose Tea Co.; Mr. Langley, of McLure & Langley; Mr. Schumaker, of the Armour Co., with power to add to their numbers, to act with the food show committee to make final arrangements in the matter.

A deputation was present from the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, consisting of Messrs. Bell, Clark and Van Loan, who expressed their desire to co-operate with the members of the section in the legislation that has been applied for to amend the Division Court Act for the purpose of simplifying the collection of small debts.

The chairman spoke appreciatively of the presence of the deputation and expressed the wish that the two associations might grow to a closer relationship.

THE SITUATION IN JAPAN.

Native Tea Man Discusses Prospects and Prices.

Hikonojo Komada, managing director of the Japan Tea Exporting Company, Kobe, Japan, accompanied by O. W. Bowne, New York, manager of the firm, paid a visit to the Montreal trade last week. Mr. Komada visits Canada every year, and is pretty well in touch with the situation in this country as well as in Japan.

Speaking of the past season, he said that export business had been larger than for years, taking into consideration the size of the crop. A peculiar fact illustrating the scarcity of tea in Japan lay in the shipping of Japan tea from San Francisco to that country. Explaining this, Mr. Komada stated that so good had prices been that almost the entire crop had been sent out of Japan. The natives were using a poorer grade of tea than ever before, but even this tea was in short supply and this made it necessary that some stock should be brought back. At the moment holdings in the country of growth are practically nil.

Firm prices are anticipated in May when new crop teas are offered. The markets in Canada and the United States are very bare of old teas and the new will in all likelihood find an extremely bare market. He did not think that prices would be materially higher than last year.

While in Montreal Mr. Komada and Mr. Bowne made their headquarters at the offices of Watt, Scott & Goodacre, who represent the firm.

The object of the meeting is for the transaction of general business, the discussion of the policy of the association in various matters, and the election of officers for the ensuing year. The programme is as follows :

Wednesday, Feb. 19 (morning) : Receiving and registration of members at association rooms and arranging business programme. (Afternoon) : Opening of session by President W. G. RECORD ORANGE CROP.

Recent advices from California state that the orange crop harvest there, now in full swing, in quantity and in quality promises to break all previous records. The fruit exchanges of the state estimate that the total output of oranges will reach 30,000 carloads, about 9,000,000 boxes, or 1,350,000,000 oranges. The harvest will last until July 4.

While undoubtedly the crop of oranges is far above the average, it does not follow that its effect on market conditions in Canada will be marked. The California shippers have a very efficient organization and by careful attention to the different markets they have before this demonstrated their ability to curb a bearish market. Prices should become easier, but it may safely be predicted that there will be no abnormal break.

The Totals Only of the Accounts Are Posted in the Ledger

The old, slow and laborious method of posting every item of an account from the day book to the ledger is agreeably missing in the Crain Monthly Account System.

By the Crain method the accounts are written up in duplicate daily from the counter check books or blotter—always up to date.

At the end the month, or other regular periods of rendering, the originals are torn out and sent to the customers, the duplicates removed and filed on a separate binder, and the total monthly balance only posted in the ledger.

Just think of that for economy of time and labor. Glad to mail our folder, "The Retail Dealer's Friend," with complete information.

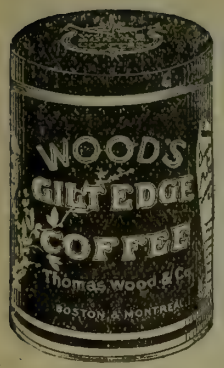
WITHIN YOUR GRASP



ESTABLISHED 1879

To make business grow requires as much art and attention as it does in other fields to raise a tender plant.

You must study its wants, jealously guard it, feed it, nurture it.

Wavering, uncertain, experimental treatment as often ruins as benefits.

"In grasping at uncertainties we lose that which is certain," the moral of which is, you have in the unfailing material to revivify, stimulate and build up trade.

Remember
This Important Fact

¶ The makers of Cox's Gelatine believe that "Honesty is the Best Policy." It has paid them handsomely to conduct their business along that line—at its inception the founders laid down stringent rules for its safe progress. And they have never deviated from these rules.

COX'S Gelatine

¶ No chemicals of any sort or nature enter into the manufacture of this world famous product. It is as pure as it is possible for a Gelatine to be. And whether you buy it in the shredded or powdered form it is always the same. Remember "Cox's" for its absolute purity.

POSITIVE EXCELLENCE

is rather a rare thing. There are lots of brands of canned goods which are fairly good in a negative kind of a way. That is, they can be eaten, but the palate finds them weak and flavorless. They leave no desire to have more of the same brand. Here is where Old Homestead Brand differs from ordinary canned goods. They have that positive excellence, that outstanding deliciousness of flavor which creates the demand for more of the same kind. The grocer who is wise enough to stock Old Homestead Brand benefits materially by Old Homestead's positive excellence, because his customers are tempted to be more liberal in their purchases by the pleasant recollection of Old Homestead's deliciousness.

CAN WE HELP YOU ?

There are some grocers and general merchants living in this 20th Century who are still using 19th Century methods. They do not realize that Halifax is closer to Vancouver to-day than Montreal was to Toronto fifty years ago.

Twenty-five years ago it was a calamity for a merchant to lose a good clerk, for he knew it was practically impossible for him to get in touch with an experienced man. Such an idea as making a deal with a fellow grocery man a couple of hundred miles away either to buy a set of scales or to sell a second-hand counter or show case did not seem practicable to even the most progressive grocers. If a man wanted to sell his business he had to accept the highest price he could get from some one of his fellow townsmen for no one else knew of the opportunity or had any means of finding out about it.

To-day the up-to-date dealer

Creates His Opportunities

He states his wants briefly in a "Canadian Grocer want ad." and in four days' time practically every grocer, clerk, grocery equipment manufacturer and traveler has read the proposition, and it seems reasonable that somewhere among the "blue noses" of the Maritimes or the pioneers of the boundless West someone will want just what he has to offer.

Every Grocer in Canada

can take advantage of our "want ad." page. Ask yourself is there not some article I would be better without if I could get a fair price for it? If you cannot get a fair price for it by appealing to the trade throughout Canada you had better sell it for scrap.

We can help you but you must take the first step.

Surely it is worth 25c or 50c to find the one man in Canada whose wants dovetail into just what you have to offer.

Profitable Goods

Are the goods that are a little better than the others: goods that will make sales where the others won't. Ozo Brand Pickles are good pickles, and show their quality. We have special facilities for turning out the best pickles, and we have made the most of them. For instance, we provide the seed from which the vegetables are grown and so get the best from the start; the cucumbers go straight from the vine to the factory, so that none of the fresh crispness is lost. We make our own vinegar and it cannot be beaten for pickling purposes. It will certainly pay you to specify that you want our goods when ordering pickles.

Canners' Association in Convention

Cincinnati Visited by Two Thousand Canners, Machinery Men and Wholesalers in Annual Gathering—Large Canadian Delegation Present and New Independent Association is Allied With American Body—Notes of the Convention.

The annual convention of the National Canners' Association, including not only canners, but manufacturers of canning and packing machinery, and large distributors of the canners' product, was held in Cincinnati, O., last week, from Monday to Saturday, Feb. 3 to 8.

The convention is particularly interesting to the Canadian trade from the fact that a large delegation of Canadian canners were present at the convention and that the new association of Independent Canadian Canners was allied with the National Association and will hereafter enjoy the privileges it affords.

The Delegates' Welcome.

The first session was opened on Tuesday morning in the large Convention Hall on the ninth floor of the Hotel Linton, by Chairman W. B. Mellish, of the Cincinnati entertainment committee, who introduced Mayor Markbreit, who in turn welcomed the delegates on behalf of the City of Cincinnati.

J. C. Warvel Prest, of the Ohio Canners' Association, replied officially to the mayor's greeting, thanking the city for its bountiful hospitality and congratulating the association on its large numbers and attendance.

The three formal addresses of the respective presidents, George G. Bailey, of the National Canners, E. M. Lang, Jr., of the Machinery Association, and W. A. Frost of the Brokers, were then presented.

President's Address.

The National Canners' Association was organized at Buffalo one year ago, said President Bailey, a constitution adopted and officers elected. Later in the season the executive committee organized, adopted by-laws and auspiciously launched the association.

The first official act of the National Canners' Association, he said, was the promulgation of a form of guaranty under the Federal Pure Food Act, as to the purity of the products sold, satisfactory to both the canners assembled in convention at Buffalo and a committee from the National Wholesale Grocers' Association, who met at Buffalo during convention week. This guaranty seems to have proven satisfactory to both buyer and seller of canned products throughout the United States since its adoption.

The matter of placing canned goods on all treaties of reciprocity hereafter adopted between the United States and foreign countries had been taken up and was under consideration by the state department.

A plan of inter-insurance had been devised and was under satisfactory operation, the matter of state organization had been proceeded with, and various other matters of interest to the association had been dealt with.

Referring to the advancement of the industry's interests, Mr. Bailey spoke very favorably of the work done by the trade newspapers and bespoke support for them. He also suggested the appointment of a committee to be known as the arbitration group of the business committee to consider difficulties arising from trade difficulties.

Speaking in regard to the purpose of the convention in closing, Mr. Bailey said:

"We are not meeting here in convention for the purpose of smothering competition. We do not assemble here for the purpose of reaching an agreement as to what shall be paid for those items entering largely into the cost of the product of our manufacture, but to stimulate and encourage a feeling of industrial brotherhood, that our business acts, whether in competition as buying or selling factors may be none the less keen, but that we may, in all of such transactions, rise to a higher plane of endeavor, each to a realization of the obligation he owes to himself and to the brotherhood and association of which he is a part."

Progress of the Industry.

E. M. Lang, Jr., of Portland, Me., president of the Machinery and Supplies Association, was one of the humorous elements of the morning's session. He outlined the growth and development of the industry, with a lightsome vein which made a decided hit with the delegates. He spoke of the improvement in machinery and methods, the introduction of mechanical contrivances, automatic regulation of temperature, automatic can making and testing machines, all these increasing efficiency and economy of production. He spoke of the admirable feeling of co-operation manifested in the convention, putting the industry on a higher and much more pleasant basis and prophesied large prosperity by reason of this in the coming years.

Results of Organization.

President Walter A. Frost, of the National Canned Goods and Dried Fruit Brokers' Association, said two results both of them good, stand out prominently as the work of the Buffalo meeting last year: The first, the organization of the National Canners' Association, and the second, the bringing together as organized bodies of the canners, grocery jobbers and brokers, to discuss matters jointly. A uniform contract, he said, was desirable, if a satisfactory one could be formulated, and one clause should provide for arbitration, the loser to pay the cost, and the fee to be big enough to prevent the bringing of trivial complaints before the board. The canners' and the wholesale grocers' sides of the matter were discussed dispassionately by President Frost, who is a broker. Flagrant violations of contracts or agreements should be given the widest publicity, he declared, that being the only thing the associations could do in the matter. The idea of expositions of canned goods was strongly advocated; they would still further educate the people to the use of them. In concluding, he asked for the passage of a resolution endorsing the Brokers' Association.

Regarding a Uniform Contract.

The afternoon session was a particularly lively one, the sorest spot, admittedly the greatest evil in connection with the canning industry—that of the breaking of contracts and rejection of shipments—being under consideration. In the excitement towards the close of the meeting, and after several canners had made short but highly colored speeches, a motion was carried to lay the whole matter, including a form of contract presented by a special committee from the National Wholesale Grocers' Association, on the table. The discourtesy of this action, which had been voted against by probably one-third of those present, was instantly recognized by all, and a motion was immediately passed authorizing the appointment of a special committee to meet with the National Wholesale Grocers' Association's committee on the subject.

The address of the afternoon was given by H. S. Orem, of Baltimore, on "Trade Ethics of Canner and Jobber." Mingled with vivid word pictures, references to Greek and other ancient history and quotations from Shakespeare were hard, cold facts, and an excoriation of dishonesty in trade, with unmistakable applications now to canners, now to jobbers. The early history of canning, and the work of pioneers in the industry were graphically related, and the progress since then and conditions to-day were recited.

The law governing contracts was explained in full, and examples of moral, if not legal, dishonesty on the part of both canners and jobbers were given frankly and in detail. The resulting resentments and payments back in kind by the loser were dwelt upon. The first remedy suggested was that every canner unfairly or dishonestly treated by a jobber should report the case in full to the association, and if on investigation the facts as found were as stated the report should be sent as a warning to every canner in the country. The wholesale grocers, Mr. Orem said, could, without suggestion from him, find a remedy, probably a similar one, to protect themselves against dishonest canners. As the dishonest men in each branch were greatly in the minority the remedy could be applied effectively.

Tuesday evening was spent at the large exhibit of canners' machinery in Music Hall, which is referred to in greater detail on a later page.

On Wednesday morning the convention listened to addresses by L. B. Warner, of Chicago on "Inter-Insurance Canners Exchange;" Walter O. Hoffacker of Smyrna, Del., on "Arbitration," and Albert T. Bacon, of Chicago, on "Manufacturers' Cost." During the morning session, President Bailey announed the appointment of a committee to confer with the committee of the National Wholesale Grocers' Association, regarding a uniform contract for canned goods. The committee held a preliminary meeting at noon recess and organized.

The suggested form for canned goods contract, which had been approved by the National Wholesale Grocers' Association, was as follows :

Canadian Association Taken in.

During the morning session an application was presented by R. W. Ball, Toronto, secretary of the new Canadian Association of Independent Canners, seeking connection with the National Association. A special committee, comprising W. E. Robinson, of Maryland; R. S. Fogg, of New Jersey and Mr. Wittingill, of New York, was appointed to consider the question. They reported in favor of the admission of the Canadian members, the matter was brought before the full convention and on a vote they were taken into the association with equal privileges.

Heard From Pure Food Authority.

One of the most interesting features of the day was in the address of Dr. W. H. Wiley, chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture, who is widely and popularly known as the "autocrat of the national food."

Dr. Wiley outlined his purpose as being to discuss problems in which he and the canners were mutually interested. The doctor started off with a joke, having inadvertently picked up an advertising card on which in glaring redface the words stared him in the face, "Don't Worry About Ketchup." The audience had similar cards and saw the point. So did the doctor. "I'm not," he said in response to the laughter. "It is very much to my advantage that I let other people and the manufacturers do the worrying."

Then he proceeded to discuss canning methods and progress. First of all is the problem of raw material and its proper selection that food which needs sterilization and pasteurization for its proper preparation for consumption. The great Appert discovered the process, but it remained for Pasteur and others to show that he was in error in supposing the exclusion of air was the secret of it all. Now it is pretty clearly established that foods may be preserved with all their natural succulence retained so as to be available throughout the entire year. Chief in the essentials is care in selection of raw materials.

Don't waste anything, but put it up under its rightful name, was the doctor's demand. If tomato pulp can be sold at 75 cents and $3.25 a barrel, there is room for both grades. But the consumer should be enabled to distinguish between them.

The second matter which the doctor took up was that of the packages. Tin, he said, which is iron or steel with a tin coating, is unquestionably the best and cheapest, containing material available and in this material great progress has been made. No longer is loose solder found in the can; no longer the results of galvanic erosion due to the action of acids in the foods upon the imperfectly coated metals of the can; but either a sanitary coated tin or one with a mechanically sealed container perfectly homogeneous in its surface, it is a step forward.

All these materials which go into the container are steadily advancing, and it is a matter which affects the canner, trader and consumer alike. Cheaper materials for containers must be found and are steadily being found by improved processes and study. Glass would be ideal but for its cost and susceptibility to breakage. For larger packages of bulk, wood containers may be practical, but are not available for serving the consumer. The doctor said that his laboratory has succeeded in putting up forty or fifty gallons of fruit juices in barrels and by sterilization kept them perfectly sweet and free from fermentation, while California wine producers had reported to him having kept unfermented grape juice for fully five years. But tin is to-day the most convenient package for the consumer, and he believed the supply should be conserved, old tins reclaimed and every effort made to keep the cost down within reasonable limits. He reviewed the improved methods of sterilization, by which stirring and the application of a reasonable degree of heat which would not destroy the natural flavor of the fruit had superseded the old method of heating till the sterilization slowly worked from surface to centre and practically destroyed the natural flavor of the food. The nearer to natural the food manufacturer can produce his goods, the better will be their sale and their success. The age of canned goods is not the important subject, he said. The consumer has a preference for goods which are comparatively fresh.

The doctor did not believe, as some do, that properly canned goods which may happen to be more than one season old are unfit for use, but so long as the consumer pays the bill he is entitled to consideration and has a right to expect that what he buys to-day shall be the product of the 1907 crops. He admitted that to equalize supply and demand carrying over surpluses was essential from a mercantile standpoint, but the consumer has a right to know the facts. He believed that, in spite of the manufacturers' established prejudice against dating canned goods, a step forward has been taken in this respect.

Dr. Wiley closed his address by reference to the food laws speaking rather unfavorably of the federal law and emphasizing the necessity for uniformity in State laws.

Entertained in the Evening.

On Wednesday evening the lady visitors who came with their husbands and relations to the convention were tendered a reception by the Committee of Arrangements at the Hotel Linton. At the same time the male visitors were enjoying a jolly evening at a buffet luncheon and impromptu entertainment, also in Hotel Linton.

Contract Suggestions Fail.

The feature of Thursday's sessions was the matter of the uniform contract and the election of officers.

This question of uniform contract had been recognized as the most important matter to come up before the convention, and the whole country had hoped that uniformity would be secured, but when immediately after it had been brought up in the convention on Tuesday and the canners from various sections came out so forcibly against it and a committee known to be hostile to any such plan had been chosen to confer with the committee of National Wholesale Grocers', it was practically a foregone conclusion that nothing would be accomplished. Since then several conferences had occurred, but without success. At Thursday morning's session the canners' committee reported that it had not approved the grocers' suggestion, and a form which it presented to the convention had been rejected by the wholesalers' committee. Nevertheless, the committee submitted its draft and it was adopted by the convention as follows:

GEO. W. COBB.
Treasurer Sanitary Can Co., of New York, and Niagara Falls, Ont.

Canned Goods Contract by a Committee of the National Canners' Association.

Date ———. Sold by ———, of ———. Sold to ———, of ———. Cases, ———. Dozens per case, ———. Size of tins, ———. Items, ———. Price per dozen, ———. Prices named are (f.o.b. seller's shipping station). To be shipped ———. Routing ———.

Terms of payment: Less 1½ per cent. in 10 days, or 60 days' acceptance net from date of invoice. If buyers' labels are used allowance to be per 1,000; if wrappers, tissue or cap and labels are used buyers to pay sellers the extra cost of putting same on more than the cost of putting on a strip label by machine.

Seller guarantees these goods in accordance with food law guarantees adopted by National Wholesale Grocers' Association and Canned Goods Packers' Association in convention, 1907.

All disputes arising under this contract to be arbitrated in usual manner with promptness and convenience as to place. The decision of the arbitrators to be final and binding, the aggrieved party to be entitled to such equitable damages as may be shown to have been sustained; cost of arbitration to be paid by party against whom decision is rendered and spoils guaranteed until ———, same to be held subject to seller's orders. In case of destruction of buyer's place of business by fire or the elements before shipment such buyer shall have the right to cancel this contract by giving seller written notice of same within five days, but this privilege is not to apply if shipment shall have been made prior to the receipt by seller of such notice. In event of sellers having short crop, fire or other unavoidable cases preventing seller from executing contract in full, delivery upon same is to be made pro rata with other contracts that may be entered.

Broker, ———. Acceptee, ———. Seller, ———. Buyer, ——— Date, ———. Year, ———.

This report was presented by J. P. Olney, who argued that it was impossible to frame a more uniform contract owing to the impossibility of making it fit conditions in all sections. Another member of the committee expressed the idea that the trouble with the "future" problem lay in the jobbers' contract with the retailers, and he said the committee had a draft of such a contract which he thought would work out well with this one. The vote on the acceptance of the draft was not especially heard, the disappointment in the failure of negotiations being very evident among the members.

And with this disposition the matter was allowed to drop and the convention closed leaving this most important question in the same unsatisfactory position.

The New Officers.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

President, Charles S. Crary, of Hoopeston, Ill.

First Vice-President, L. A. Sears, of Chillicothe, Ohio.

Other vice-presidents—the presidents of the various allied societies.

Executive committee, the above and W. R. Roach, of Hart, Mich; H. S. Orem, of Baltimore, and G. G. Bailey, of Rome, N.Y.

Secretary and treasurer, Frank E. Gorrell, of Bellair, Md.

Next Convention in Chicago.

Chicago won the contest for the next convention. The committee recommended Chicago largely because of the desire of the association to have next year a full working display of canned goods as an educational movement among the consumers and the fact that the Colisseum Company of Chicago agreed to take its management, assume all responsibility for it and yet allow the association to practically control it. The committee regarded this as an important feature in undertaking the food show for the first time and unanimously decided in favor of Chicago. Immediately Louisville and Rochester, which had been making a strong fight for the convention, gracefully acquiesced in the choice withdrew their claims and diplomatically filed their intentions of capturing the 1910 convention. Then the convention voted in favor of Chicago unanimously.

On Thursday evening the convention delegates were entertained at the Lyric Theatre at a special performace of "Gloria" with Miss Julia Marlowe in the title role.

Canadian Canners in Attendance.

CONVENTION NOTES.

Picked Up in Music Hall.

"Vas you ever in Cincinnati?"—Prince of Pilsen.

The Sprague Canning Machine Co., Chicago, instead of their usual display of machinery and equipments, maintained only an office and reception room this year. It was located at the immediate right hand of the entrance to the hall and was comfortably equipped for the reception of their numerous friends and customers. The absence of the magnificent display of working machinery as installed by them at the Buffalo convention last year was much commented upon, but as everyone knows Sprague's and their lines, and all visitors looked after by the obliging representative of the company, the prestige of the concern was well maintained. Mr. Trench also had a convenient office on the rotunda floor of the Hotel Linton, the headquarters of the convention, where he and his representatives held court and welcomed their friends. No doubt at Chicago in 1909 there will be things worth seeing and noting.

"The Stecher Inn," located in the centre of the right aisle, was as usual an artistic and comfortable arrangement for the convenience of their patrons. As customary, this famous Inn was the headquarters of the Canadian Canners and Packers contingent and with the friendly greeting of Dan A. Skuse, known to them all, the Inn seemed like the one spot most like home. Mr. Bohler, of the Stecher Lithographing Co., Rochester, N.Y., was present to welcome one and all and with his assistants, Mr. Daggett, of the Chicago branch, and Mr. Loeffler, salesman, everyone was made "to home." The Stecher Lithographing Co. also maintained an office and sample display on the ground floor of the Hotel Linton under the charge of Mr. Daggett, Chicago.

The National Canners' Convention would not be complete without the presence of Jas. B. Campbell, of the Acme Can Works, Montreal. The interest that Mr. Campbell has always taken in the affairs of the association and his more direct and constant attention to the attending Canadian canners has made his a familiar and welcome personality in the annual conventions. It was so this year and "se vas sans dire" that the importance of the Canadian canning industry was not hidden under a bushel. Mr. Campbell is a Canadian associated with Canadian canners and being proud of it does not hesitate at any time to bring Canadian canners to the front. Mr. Campbell, who was accompanied by Mrs. Campbell, made his headquarters at the New Gibson House and the many inquiries for him by his American friends showed clearly how well Jas. B. is known.

The Sanitary Can Co., Fairport, N.Y., and Niagara Falls, Ont., had two displays and offices, one at the Hotel Linton and the other and more demonstrative one in Music Hall. In the latter, conveniently and conspicuously located in the centre of left aisle, were shown samples of all varieties of fruits and vegetables packed by canners using the sanitary can. The superior merit of goods packed in sanitary cans was explained and demonstrated by a staff of salesmen and lady demonstrators. The opening by the company at Niagara Falls was of interest to the Canadian canners attending the convention and the advantage of getting into touch with them. Mr. Geo. W. Cobb, treasurer, J. S. Carmen, manager of the Canadian branch and Dr. S. G. Boulter, Canadian representative, were constantly on hand and for hard and steady work had few equals among the exhibitors. President W. Y. Bogle was also present and as hard a worker as any of his staff. Enthusiasm seems to be the guiding spirit of the Sanitary Can Company.

The American Label Mfg. Co., of Baltimore, Md., had a beautifully decorated booth displaying their workmanship in labels, cards, advertising and other publishing media. Mr. Stewart who was in charge made an efficient demonstrator and solicitor and entertained the Grocer representative with a fine dissertation on the merits of Am. L. M. Co.'s work.

Visiting canners, without exception, were closely interested in the 20th Century Vacuum Filler shown by the Federal Canning Machinery Co., of Indianapolis, Ind. The new principle shown in this machine and its simple and clean method of operation seemed to impress inspecting canners highly, and very favorable comments were passed.

The Simpson & Doeller Co., Baltimore, Md., manufacturers of labels, show cards, etc., had a display booth in Music Hall, with Mr. Chas. H. Doeller in charge. The Grocer representative was decorated with the order of the Half Shell Crab, a most unique and beautiful advertisement for the company, and the close attention paid by Mr. Doeller and his staff to their numerous customers and callers shows that they are in touch with what is going.

The reliable old Palace Hotel was the resting place of a number of Canadian canners and other delegates and it was like home to a lot. Among those registered were: R. W. Ball, R. Lead, A. Lester, A. T. and A. J. Gahan and W. L. McWhinnie, of the Essex C. & P. Co.; Dr. Boulter and J. S. Carmen, of Sanitary Can Co., Niagara Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Amos H. Baker, Old Homestead Canning Co., Picton; W. A. Carson, Napanee Canning Co., Napanee, Ont.; Geo. E. Fisher, Burlington; J. C. Danheison, St. Catharines; R. C. Eckert, Clayton Eckert, R. G. Bowie, Geo. Terry, of Gorman, Eckert & Co., London; W. T. and F. J. Lowe, St. Catharines; W. H. Millman, Toronto; S. Edgar Masten, Bloomfield, etc. The Grocer representative also enjoyed the hospitality of this hostelry and the company of his many Canadian friends.

R. W. Ball, secretary new Independent Canadian Canners, was most assiduous in looking after the interests and comfort of a large section of Canadian contingent. As a guide to the wandering footsteps of a number he was certainly indispensable and to the query from the Prince of Pilsen, "Vas you ever in Cincinnati?" he added new effect to the question. As an automobile guide or demonstrator at the Zoo, he didn't secure any special laurels. To Mr. Ball's efforts to secure recognition for the new Independent Canners in the National Association may be traced the acceptance of the Canadian body. The unanimous vote of the convention adopting the advisory committee's report for acceptance to membership woke up acres of smiling furrows in his face.

The Grocer ran across an old friend in the Music Hall, G. H. Hogg, of Hogg & Lytle, Port Hope, Ont. Mr. Hogg had a fine display of Canadian grains, particularly peas, corn, etc. He was particularly pleased to see the well known green covered Grocer.

To W. C. Breckenridge, president of the Norton Mfg. Co., Hamilton, are due the thanks of the visiting Canadian delegates for reserved seats at the "Gloria" performance of Julia Marlowe, tendered by the American Can Co., at the Lyric Theatre. Thanks again !

R. C. Eckert, of Gorman, Eckert & Co., London, is an ideal traveling companion and after attending to the business of looking up some new machinery he was most enjoyable company for recreation in a peaceful and happy mood. The Grocer knows, as he was privileged to use his company.

One of the most interested visitors at Machinery Hall was Geo. E. Fisher, of the Burlington Canning Co., Burlington, Ont., and his close attention to every up-to-date machine and appliance was noticeably commented upon. Mr. Fisher bears the reputation of an authority on fruit culture and an hour's conversation with him shows how closely he has studied every feature.

W. H. Millman, the Toronto broker and representative of the Old Homestead Canning Co., Picton, was on the lookout for the many new ideas and lines one gathers at conventions and displays of this kind. One of Mr. Millman's characteristics leads him to Kentucky—wonder why ?

Did you bring away among your other souvenirs, one of the National Lead Company's "rings ?" Mr. Ball had three given to him. How many went to Canada is hard to say. The ad. was a good one.

* * *

S. Edgar Masten, of the Farmers' Canning Co., Bloomfield, was very much in evidence and a sought after personality among not only his Canadian fellow canners, but the prominent men of affairs in the national association.

To know how one can make himself at home and comfortable, is to study Amos H. Baker, of Old Homestead fame. Despite the fact that Mr. Baker had been recently laid up with a severe cold, he nevertheless made the long journey to Cincinnati to see, study and learn things in canning. The owner of one of the best equipped canning plants on the continent, he is always on the lookodt for more and latest appliances. The Grocer was very pleased to meet Mr. Baker and imbibe some of the optimism that fairly oozes out of him.

The closure, cap and sealing machinery interests were well represented. The Dodge Metallic Cap Co., Montclair, N. J.; the Howland-Stein General Agency, New York ; Hazel-Atlas Glass Co., of Wheeling, W. Va.; the American Metal Cap Co., New York, and the Victor Patent Jar Co., Detroit, all had displays and demonstrations. B. E. Goepferl, of the American Metal Cap Co., was closely attentive to callers.

Who enjoyed the Bethlehem Foundry & Machine Co.'s cigars ? Everyone.

The Grasselli Chemical Co., Cleveland, Ohio, had many callers from their Canadian patrons, and Mr. Mills, who had charge of the company's display, was very attentive and obliging to all.

The American Diagraph Co., St. Louis, exhibited with demonstrations their diagraph stencil cutting machine—an instrument of actual necessity in every canning, manufacturing and jobbing house.

What's the matter with holding one of the National Canners' conventions in Canada in 1910 ? We have in Toronto say, accommodation, halls and hotels, which would put several of the cities in which they were held, 'way back in "umbra"—and Canadian canners generally would treat you royally.

The booth of the United States Printing Co., in Music Hall, was an unique and artistic arrangement, and many visitors availed themselves of the privilege of registering and inspecting the art labels, cards and hangers displayed. A convenience for visitors was the special telegraph and telephone service installed in the booth. The handsome souvenir memento given out was much appreciated and many a home will remember the visit through same.

* * *

Mr. Judge, of The Trade, Baltimore, was most attentive, as usual. His booth at the main entrance was well looked after by himself and his assistants. The Trade journal was well distributed throughout, and, as usual, the paper's report of the convention will, no doubt, be as comprehensively illustrated and interesting as is possible to make it.

The courtesy of an entertainment by Julia Marlowe, in "Gloria," at the Lyric theatre, was a highly enjoyed feature of the American Can Co.'s attention to their numerous patrons. This company was well represented by a staff of experts and salesmen at both the Linton and Music halls.

What Chicago will do for the Canners in 1909 wasn't stated, but that the next convention will be an epoch goes without saying. Certainly the Windy City will keep up its reputation for doing things right.

Rochester, N.Y., delegates and those interested in having the 1909 convention held in the Flower City, certainly worked hard, and though the advisory committee's decision was for Chicago, every credit is due the eastern men for their work, and no doubt it will be Rochester's next turn. Ho, for Chicago in 1909.

NOVEL ADVERTISING SCHEME.

Walkerton Grocers Give Prizes for Essays on Timely Topic.

Up in Walkerton, Ont., there is a firm of enterprising grocers who seem to be originating new ideas that count. This firm, Whitehead & Heuther, submitted a couple of well-dressed windows in The Grocer's recent Christmas contest, and carried off first prize in Class II. Now they have originated a novel method of advertising, as the following paragraph from the Walkerton Telescope will show:

"A month or so ago Messrs. Whitehead & Huether offered prizes for the best essays on the subject, "Should the Japanese be admitted into Canada ?' the essays to be handed in by the first of January. The prizes were, 1st, $3 in cash ; 2nd, $2, and 3rd, $1. After the essays had been handed in, the Rev. Thos. Wilson and A. W. Robb were selected to examine them and to award the prizes. The prizes have been awarded as follows : 1st, Milton McLean, Brant ; 2nd, H. J. Brillinger, Brant ; 3rd, Fritz. Miller, Walkerton. The prize essays are being published in the Telescope.

TREATY ACCEPTED IN FRANCE.

Franco-Canadian Bill Passed By Large Majority in Chamber of Deputies.

The bill approving the convention between France and Canada was adopted in the Chamber of Deputies last Thursday by a very large majority. M. Lefas showed that Canada by concluding with France a convention for ten years had followed a far-sighted policy which would protect her industry, but he considered that the French boot and shoe industry, which was of great importance, would be unfavorably affected by the new convention.

M. Klotz, speaking for the Customs Commission, said the convention safeguarded France's absolute liberty in the future. The chamber might ratify it without fear.

M. Siegfried said the convention was sufficiently advantageous to French commerce and industry.

PERSONAL NOTES.

E, G, Hunt, of Hunt & Co., Japan, was in Montreal during the week.

E. K. Barnsdale, one of Stratford's largest grocers, was in Toronto on Tuesday and Wednesday incidentally doing a little business but really to see a good hockey game. Mr. Barnsdale is quite a hockey enthusiast and he enjoyed exceedingly seeing the Stratford boys wallop the Toronto athletic club's team on Tuesday night.

BRANTFORD.

For several years it has been the custom of the grocers and butchers of Brantford to hold a joint banquet. So successful have been these gatherings that it has been decided to somewhat enlarge the scope of the undertaking this year, when the affair will partake of the nature of a reception to be held at the Conservatory of Music on the evening of Tuesday, February 18. An attractive feature will be the presence of the ladies, who have not graced the banquets in the past. The programme will comprise games and music, to be followed by refreshments.

James Burns, the well-known grocer, and former president of the Brantford Grocers' and Butchers' Association, has been honored by the voters of Ward 3 by election to the city council. There are now two grocers in the council, the other being Ald. Samuel Suddaby. The two are a strong pair and are expected to guard the interests of the trade, particularly in reference to market regulations and improvements, in order that the farmers may be encouraged to come into the city to sell their produce and trade here in return.

The grocery business of A. J. Smith, situated at the corner of Colborne and Murray streets, has been purchased by J. C. Struthers, who will conduct it in future.

The local grocers' organization is regarded as one of the strongest and best conducted in the province. The officers at present are: President, A. Coulbeck; vice-president, Fred. Corey; secretary, Norman Willits; treasurer, A. L. Vanstone.

Fred. Harp, of the Cash Bargain Grocery, is very proud at the success of his assistant, Delmar Butler, in winning the second prize in the city division of the recent window dressing contest conducted by The Canadian Grocer. It was generally remarked locally that the window was most artistic and reflected creditably on the firm.

Mr. Harp has just purchased the premises he occupies on Dalhousie St.

CHATHAM.

An important business change is announced to take place shortly in the retirement from active business of C. D. Williamson. Mr. Williamson is one of Chatham's veteran grocers, and has for a quarter of a century or more been prominent in business life here.

The business of Taylor & Williamson was founded in the '70's, Mr. Williamson's partner being I. M. Taylor. The store was in the early days known as the Canton House, but in recent years the business has been conducted under the firm name of Taylor & Williamson, which was retained even after Mr. Taylar retired from the firm a few years ago.

The firm has been essentially a most conservative one. In a generation which has gone in for showy fronts, elaborate window display and extensive advertising, the business stood a solitary representative of the conservative methods of the '80's. That with these apparent disadvantages, Mr. Williamson held a large city and country trade and did a good business is striking evidence of the sterling reputation which the store built up, and which has never departed from it.

Mr. Williamson has leased his premises to Brewster & Co., of London, and will retire from active business.

Brewster & Co., who have leased the Taylor & Williamson premises, will inaugurate the five, ten and fifteen-cent store, of which there has been so much talk the past year. They have secured a lease for ten years. Mr. Williamson wil sell out his present stock during February, and it is expected that March will be spent in renovating the store from top to bottom. A modern front will be installed, new floors put down, and the store made thoroughly modern and up-to-date. Brewster & Co. expect to open business on April 1. They already have stores in London, St. Thomas and other places.

After the regular meeting of the Library Board on Wednesday of last week, which was the inaugural meeting for 1908, the retiring chairman, Wm. Anderson, invited his colleagues to a very pleasant supper at his handsome home on Grant St. An enjoyable evening was spent in doing justice to the good things provided and swapping interesting reminiscences. Mr. Anderson is a striking example of a busy grocer who still finds time to attend to other duties.

Thanks to the protracted cold spell which Chatham has been enjoying, this season's ice harvest will be a bountiful one. The ice is of excellent quality. Fleming & Tillson will have competition this year, J. M. Terry & Sons having purchased the old Brundage icehouses.

The cold weather has also been good for the fresh fish trade, the frozen commodity from Lake Huron being strikingly in evidence in the various groceries.

Following the public meeting of the Board of Trade recently, at which fruit culture in Kent and Essex was discussed, a movement is on foot to organize a horticultural society for Chatham and Kent, with a view to promoting fruit-growing on modern and scientific lines. If the new organization proves a practical one, it should result in bringing this section to the front as a producer of early fruit.

It is stated that the shareholders of the Berlin Sugar Company have agreed to a proposition from the Wallaceburg Sugar Company to operate the Berlin factory during the coming year. The Wallaceburg firm will make a thorough canvass among the farmers in the vicinity of Berlin to grow beets for next season's campaign, and in addition it is proposed to import raw sugar from Germany and put it through the granulating process during the summer months. The success of the Wallaceburg people with their own factory renders them confident of their ability to put the Berlin concern on a paying basis. The latter recently wanted beet growers to take their pay in sugar, but

ANOTHER NEW IDEA.

Here's a scheme a Guelph grocer uses to facilitate the selling of marmalade oranges at this time of the year. And it seems to work remarkably well. Here's what he says about it: "We have in Guelph an idea, whether in use elsewhere or not I do not know, but it works all right and sells the marmalade oranges. It is to keep from one to two orange slicers in stock and lend them to your customers to slice their oranges. It certainly is interesting to see how keen Mrs. So and So gets to have her marmalade done first when she knows her neighbor wants the slicer and it is a good ad. also for the grocer, as one tells the other about having her grocer's slicer and that she can get it also if she buys her oranges from him. The slicers only cost about $1.50 and they soon pay for themselves."

*Contributions are invited from grocers or clerks in small places or where there is not a regular correspondent of this paper.

the Wallaceburg factory has always been forthcoming with the good, hard cash when it came to paying for beets.

Clark & Co., of Harrow, are the defendants in an action recently instituted on behalf of the crown and an unnamed informant, the charge being one of neglect to register their partnership certificates. In all cases a firm is required to register a declaration within six months of commencing business a fee of 50 cents being charged. Failure to register involved a penalty of $50, it is understood, half the amount going to the informant.

During the last week's storm the chimney of the Dresden Canning factory was completely wrecked.

CALGARY.

The bankers' and wholesalers' sections of the Calgary Board of Trade met on the 4th instant in the board rooms to consider the advisability of the board taking up with the Provincial Government the question of appointing an official assignee for the southern part of the province. This district includes all the territory from Red Deer to the south, and the question is one of the greatest importance to all who are represented by these two sections of the business men of Calgary. As a result of the meeting it was decided to report to the council that action should be taken by the board to gain the consent of the Government to appoint the board's nominee. And it was further decided to secure the co-operation of all other boards from Red Deer south.

The long line of drays loaded up with groceries waiting outside the freight sheds for shipment day by day disposes of the idea that there is anything very wrong with the trade in Calgary.

Calgary has just passed through the only cold spell of the season. During the last ten days the thermometer readings have been low, reaching one night to fourteen below, the average temperature in the neighborhood of zero. However, the change has now come, and sunny Alberta once more is itself. The great drawback to the climate, especially to easterners, is that there has not been enough snow for sleighing this winter so far, and it is too late to hope for much now.

EDMONTON.

Grocers report business as picking up considerably during the past two weeks and things appear to be assuming their normal tone once more. This is partly due to the fact that the preliminary work of building the G.T.P. into the city from the east and extending it to the west has started. As this line gives Edmonton the advantage of being on a transcontinental line and provides easy access to the Pacific coast, it is of course a great boon to the city and is hailed with delight by the citizens, notwithstanding the rather steep bonus of $175,000 that the city has to pay to the company.

Wholesale grocers report that notwithstanding the financial stringency, about which, by the way, it is claimed too much is written, the business done during the past year has been ahead of former years in volume. The farmers on the whole are still very well situated and their prospects are bright for the coming years. The retail grocers in the small towns are meeting their payments regularly and report business as good, considering the conditions. It is believed that the grocery trade is on a stronger foundation than ever before.

Some quiet, but effective work has been done during the last few months regarding the matter of industries, by the Edmonton board of trade. The first step taken was to ascertain, not what the good points that Edmonton had were, but in what way it was at all handicapped from becoming an industrial centre. First, there appeared the question of the high price of sites; second, the question of the price of fuel; third, the question of taxation; fourth, the question of sufficient skilled labor at a fair wage; fifth, the question of freight rates, and sixth, the manner in which the advantages that Edmonton has to offer to manufacturing concerns should be made known to the world at large.

The first objection to Edmonton as a location for an industry, namely, the high price of property, has been met. Now the city has free sites, with railway facilities offered by private individuals and sites offered by the city at a nominal rental or cost, and also sites situated in the heart of the city, at a fair price.

The second objection as to the price of fuel, does not exist this year. Owing to the increased production of fuel caused by the extension of the mines around the city, coal is again being sold at a fair price. The price of coal will have a tendency to drop as the mines are developed.

The third objection regarding taxes has been met with by the industrial committee of the city council recommending that a fixed rate of taxation be levied on industries already established in the city for a period of ten years, and that new industries be treated on similar lines. But the city has still to contend with the fact that while they are willing to offer water, light and power at cost, they have no surplus of light, water or power at the present time with which to supply a very large industry. This, however, will be remedied when the new power plant is established this year.

It has been advocated, and well advocated, that it would be advisable to have a special industrial agent sent out who would place before certain individual manufacturing concerns the advantages that Edmonton offers as a manufacturing centre. The drawback to taking that step during the past year has been the financial conditions existing throughout the country and the fact that such an agent could not state that the city has any surplus water, light or power to offer, or regarding the tax rate, would have been a serious handicap to him when talking to an interested manufacturer. It was obvious that there was work to be done at home before such an industrial agent could hope to meet with success when abroad. This work is being slowly but surely done at the present time.

Although Edmonton is already recognized by the railway companies as a wholesale centre, it will not come to its own in that respect until further competition is obtained by the advent of new railroads. This is a very important matter and will no doubt receive very careful attention from time to time as the occasion arises. Keen competition for outgoing and incoming freight will no doubt arise as soon as the C.P.R. and G.T.P. begin to operate their roads into this city.

The firm of Abbott & Stewart has opened a wholesale and retail provision store on Namayo Ave. recently.

G. S. Hegler, who has recently moved into this city from Poplar Point, Man., has opened a flour, feed and provision store on McDougall avenue.

Ice cutting has been in progress for some time and a large supply is being harvested and stored for use during the coming summer. Grocers and others use a large amount of ice each year as there is as yet no cold storage plant erected in the city where goods of a perishable nature may be stored.

The Alberta Legislature is in session at present in the legislative hall in the city. Many important matters are being discussed and decided at this third session of the first parliament of Alberta. A unique feature of this parliament, and one that will give one an idea of the extent of this province, is the fact that the members from the farthest north and south constituencies live more than 750 miles apart. They were the mover and seconder of the reply to the speech from the throne.

Messrs. Matheson & Jacobson, who conducted a grocery store for some time on Jasper Avenue, have gone to Vancouver to spend the winter.

LONDON.

Owing to snow blocking the roads wholesale business has been quiet the past week. In every direction railways were blocked and scores of travelers were storm-bound for days. Prices of all leading staples are unchanged. Retail trade is also quiet.

The Retail Grocers' Association expect at least one hundred and fifty guests at their banquet at the Tecumseh, on the night of the 27th inst. Final arrangements were made for the function at the regular meeting of the association on Wednesday evening, Feb. 5th. The association is bearing the entire expense out of its funds and no charge is being made for tickets. The affair will be entirely informal, so that the man who happens to have his boiled shirt in the wash or to have loaned his tuxedo, need not be alarmed. Among the guests, besides all the local wholesalers and their city travelers, will be a number of Toronto people who assisted so much in making the grocers' excursion to that city last summer so successful. The committee of arrangements is composed of Harry Ranahan, president; Thomas Shaw, vice-president; Cyril Hays, secretary, and E. J. Ryan, treasurer, and the reception committee, R. J. Donaghy, chairman, T. B. McCormick, Alf. Johnston, James Haskett, John Diprase, Norman McLeod, F. C. Toon and H. J. Glanville.

Henderson & Son, grocers, corner of Cheapside and Colborne streets, have dissolved partnership and the new firm is Henderson & Graham.

A. Lyons, who was reported in a recent issue of The Grocer, to have bought out F. L. Ross, Hamilton road, will not take possession until April 1st.

The practice of certain millers of selling to consumers direct was brought up at the last meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association, and the secretary was instructed to write the offenders. One member reported a case where twenty-five-pound parcels of flour were sold to consumers at the same price that retailers are charged.

The two companies operating under the name of the Canadian Packing Company, with establishments in this city and at Port Huron, Mich., have been incorporated into one company, capitalized at $599,000. Dominion incorporation has been secured, the following comprising the company: F. E. and W. H. D. Barnes, merchants, of Southwark, England; Ejnor Rechnitzer, merchant; Alma Z. Ginge, widow, and M. D. Fraser, barrister, all of this city. The company will take over the business now conducted by the Canadian Packing Co., under the same firm name. The shares will be of $100 each. The deal is one of the largest that has taken place here for some time. The company is looked upon as one of the growing concerns of the country, its business having increased at a rapid rate. Mr. Rechnitzer, the present manager, will continue in that office. It is understood the big pork-packing plant here will be considerably enlarged.

Geo. B. Gerrard local manager of the Bank of British North America, is optimistic as to the business outlook. In an interview he said:—"We confidently look forward to a brisk spring season in most lines of business. Conditions are brightening up now and the cry of hard times has no foundation in London. Collections among the retailers are reported to be coming in well by the wholesale houses and though some dealers have overstocked themselves, they will find their market sure if they have not gone too deeply into business. Staple goods must be bought. Groceries have to be secured, and those who handle commodities neeed not fear a possible stagnation, though needless warnings have been given out to that effect. I believe that when the next two months have passed we will find a much more cheerful atmosphere among London business houses." Mr. Gerrard's views were generally endorsed by other bank managers interviewed. It is noteworthy that wholesalers generally are well satisfied with the way in which the February settling day passed off.

PRESTON.

Strange, though it may seem, the past week in this town has been the best for the merchants for a long time. For nearly a week a continual blizzard raged, still, one of the largest grocers in town stated Saturday night: "If business has been quiet in town for the past few weeks, this week has certainly seen an improvement. The first three or four days were good while yesterday and to-day we have been as busy as we were just before Christmas." The same merchant showed your correspondent his books and how much better the cash was coming in. Only a small amount of credit was given and that was to those who settle every two weeks or a month. It is certainly encouraging to hear the merchants say business is good. That particular merchant is, however, a good advertiser and it pays him.

Several merchants in town are endeavoring to organize a grocers' association. Some of the grocers object to join the retail merchants association and are willing to associate themselves with an organization for grocers only. An organization such as is suggested has proved a success and an immense advantage in other towns and should do so here.

MONTREAL.

Several grocers have complained recently of the quality of Malaga grapes that are being supplied them this winter. One grocer stated that he had bought 20 barrels and of these he was obliged to return ten. Another stated that out of nearly every barrel he picked an average of from 3 to 4 pounds which could not be sold. The same complaint is made of Fameuse apples, several grocers having found the quality below average.

John Scanlon, speaking to The Grocer, decried the manner in which some of the big departmental stores are conducting food fairs at set dates, and their habit of advertising groceries at reduced prices, such as are prohibitive to the legitimate grocery trade, their reason for this being undoubtedly to draw custom for their various dry goods and other lines. Mr. Scanlan explained that customers going out shopping would pass their own dealers, and make their purchases at the departmental stores, where foodstuffs are obtained at a price, which renders it impossible for the grocery trade to compete with. Going to the departmental store with the intention of buying groceries only, and "saving money," they in the end come away loaded down with other purchases which they would not or could not, have made of their regular grocer. Mr. Scanlan thought that the whole practice should be discouraged by manufacturers, wholesalers and the general public.

John Stetson, the Point St. Charles grocer, suggested a good idea, when he stated that to his mind there should be two separate retail grocers' associations in Montreal. As it is at present, Mr. Stetson said that he, among many others, did not attend the meetings of the Retail Grocers' Association as their proceedings were carried on solely in the French language. Many of the English-speaking grocers not being conversant with this language, are feeling the necessity of having an English association to work in perfect harmony with the French body, the outcome of which would be betterment of trade conditions generally.

In talking of the condensed milk situation recently a grocer stated that he found it difficult to obtain Canadian milk, and as a consequence, American is being imported in larger quantity than ever. The fact of duty having to be paid on this makes it a rather more expensive property than the Canadian. Therefore, any Canadian firms having a stock will find a ready market by placing their surplus stocks in Montreal.

Several grocers have complained of the quality of Malaga grapes that are being supplied them this winter.

VANCOUVER.

The trade in Vancouver and throughout the province is not marked with that activity which was a feature of a year ago, consequent upon the conditions which have prevailed for some time past. Now the great demand is for staples, and fancy groceries are called for so seldom as to almost elicit remark. Yet, on the whole, trade is fairly good, for British Columbia has not felt the stringency to the same extent as other parts of the continent.

With that goodness which Providence is possessed of, and which is shown in kindness to His people, this winter has been a mild one throughout, in great contrast to the severe season of a year ago. Therefore, it is not surprising that such staple articles as butter and eggs, which are generally at a very high price, are reasonable. Good local butter retails for 45c, with Australian at 40c, and eastern creamery at 35c. The Australian product comes here at a time of year when local is at the top price, and if it were anything like the quality of the first consignment of two years ago the demand for it would be so great that orders could not be filled. When it first came upon this market, its flavor attracted attention, but never since has it been up to the same mark. This year there is not as much offering as formerly, and it is simply owing to quality. People use the best they can get for the money, and if Australian was all right at five cents cheaper, its sale would be ready.

Eggs this winter did not climb to the airy heights of seventy cents per dozen as formerly. With the warmer weather, hens have been laying, and the really first-class article brings only 45c. Eastern are much cheaper, and if the weather continues warm there ought to be a clearance soon, for large stocks should be on hand if business has been done the same as in former years.

California vegetables have arrived, and are of fair quality. It is an advantage living within reasonable water distance of the sub-tropical regions that the time is very brief when green vegetables are not obtainable. Prices are reasonable, too. The celery that comes from the south is much shorter than the home-grown article, and much sweeter, but on the whole it does not surpass the celery which is produced locally. California navels are on the market at 25c retail, and are cheaper and better than last year.

Chinese New Year has been going for a week, and chickens are in great demand. The Chinese always have a great fancy for this kind of fowl, and the birds are served up in every conceivable way, excepting in the boiled or soup form. On the market at New Westminster they went at from $8 to $10 a dozen, with some as high as $11.

There is an active demand for apples, and it is expected that this will remain so for the balance of the season. First-class stock is being offered. One of the favorites of early and mid-winter varieties is the Grimes Golden, in fact, it is preferred by many. It attains perfection in the sunny undampened climate of the dry belt, and finds a place in all the new orchards.

The Empress of India which arrived early in the week, brought news from Japan of an oil contract which concerns the trade in Canada. Early last year, the story goes, the Japanese Government gave a contract to a certain petroleum company of Canada for the supply of 1,000,000 cases of heavy oil required at various naval stations. A representative of this company was sent to Japan to carry out the contract, and by the same steamer there traveled the representatives of two American petroleum companies. Between them they formed a syndicate and agreed to divide the supply equally. The contract was eventually taken in the name of the Canadian company. The oil market became very active during the summer and prices advanced, the price in heavy oil being exceptional in the increase, about double of that when the contract was signed. The two American companies withdrew, and the Canadian company will lose heavily if it abides by the terms of the contract. The Japanese Government, according to the advices from Tokio, is strongly pressing for the execution of the contract, the filling of which has been delayed under various pretences.

With a cargo of 15,000 frozen carcasses of mutton, the steamer Oriana, under special charter to Pat Burns & Company, was expected here a week ago, but has not yet been reported. She is a slow sailer, and it is not expected that any mishap has befallen her, as she was reported from Honolulu. In other years, this firm has used the regular steamers sailing between Vancouver and Sydney, and when offered the cold storage capacity again for this season was a little slow in taking it up. When it signified its intention of doing so, the reply was that another firm, the B. C. Market Company, had got it. That has made it necessary to charter this boat for two trips. An odd amount of other cargo is also carried by the Oriana.

Large amounts of sugar are being brought from the various producing countries to the B.C. Sugar Refinery Company in Vancouver. The Henrik Ibsen has just completed discharging a cargo of raw sugar brought from Surabaya, Java, and the steamer Ilford is on the way from the Mauritius with another. Large shipments have also been secured from the Fiji Islands, where a subsidiary company of the local one has a mill.

No wonder that canned milk and cream obtains such a large sale in the west, when the report of the Inland Revenue Department on the milk supply is considered. To people recently from the east it has been a source of astonishment that children are brought up on condensed milk. but even if preservative is used it would not be in greater proportion than what is put in the milk here. The question of a good milk supply is attracting more than ordinary attention, just now, and some very serious statements are made by medical men. A committee has been appointed by the medical association to act in conjunction with the city health authorities to see what can be done. Although several cases have been cited in police court, the law requires that in case of adulteration the complainant must actually see the stuff put in. In one case the adulterant was in such quantity that the milk was thick as paste and exceedingly yellow, but the court ruled that the vendor was not responsible.

Among the freight of the steamer Miowera for Australia was Canadian flour and salmon, food products for the Antipodes. Provisions were also an item in the cargo of the Lonsdale, one of the steamers of the Mexican line. From present indications a good trade will be developed with Mexico. British Columbians, principally Victorians, with Oscar Brown, of Vancouver, are interested in fruit plantations and consignments from there are awaited with interest, as the product is said to be of the very best.

GUELPH.

Last week was a comparatively quiet one in the grocery stores, and even the jolly travelers with their pleasant smiles have been conspicuous by their absence on account of the railroads in this section being tied up by the severe snowstorms. A great many different varieties of stories are being told by both farmers and travelers of their experiences in the snow. The market Saturday showed the effects and prices were pretty stiff. Eggs and butter both sold at 35c., while potatoes went up to $1.50 a bag and chickens as high as 20c. a pound, which is too high to do much business. But when you take into consideration the fact of the risk those farmers take just at this time in coming to town, they deserve a good price, but at the same time some of them try to do the hold-up game and a merchant ought to remember this when the market is glutted again..

The marmalade season is again on and each store is well supplied with seville oranges. But after all there are not so many bitter oranges sold. It is generally a good valencia orange that is used mostly with about three of the bitter oranges to the dozen and so far we have not seen any of the latter oranges.

The collecting of accounts takes a good tactful man all right, but one man in Guelph suggests that we do away with the Division Court, bag and baggage and then, and then only, will the grocers stop giving credit. He claims that if it was not for the fact that a grocer believes he can collect his money through this court, he would not give any credit to doubtful people. Be that as it may, some of the creditors don't seem to care whether they are sued or not, as that gives them generally a longer time to pay as they put up a hard times cry to the judge. One grocer told me he sued a man who owns his own property for $30 and the man got off by paying 25c a week. That is a long time to wait and money paid in that way doesn't seem to do much good.

The Wellington Hotel has been bought by a joint stock company and is to be made into one of the finest up-to-date commercial houses west of Toronto. It is understood the present manager will continue in his position. Some local merchants are supposed to be interested in the new company.

An item under this head in a recent issue unwittingly reflected indirectly on the business methods used by Armour & Co., in a demonstration in Guelph. As a matter of fact the item referred to the handling of lines of cereals and spoke of business methods which Armour & Co. do not make a practice of. The difficulty arose from the fact that the news item announcing the company's demonstration was inadvertently connected with the comment regarding the handling of lines of cereals. The item, indeed, referring to Armour & Co.'s goods, said : "The demonstration has helped the sale of these goods during the week in the grocery stores," and this shows how satisfactory the methods used must have been. Armour & Co., in these demonstrations, follow the system of taking a deposit from every customer, which is turned over to her grocer and thus he is satisfactorily protected.—Editor.

GALT.

The grocery business in Galt is rather quiet, at least trade is not as rushing as it might be. Unlike other lines, the established grocer must continue to do a certain amount of business. Of course, the public may cease purchasing luxuries, but the everyday necessities of life must remain in constant demand, irrespective of dull or prosperous times. In this respect the grocers are better situated than their brethren in other lines—clothing, for instance. A man may be badly in need of a suit of clothes, but the old suit can be made to last, while the inner man must be regularly fed.

The big storm of last week affected Galt in many ways. For two days no Grand Trunk trains arrived, and on Saturday the first freight train in three days passed through. The local grocers will be losers to a certain extent on account of the non-arrival of goods. The country roads were badly blocked, but a number of farmers made a valiant effort on Saturday and managed to reach the market. Prices were unchanged, with the exception of eggs, which advanced two cents, to 30c per dozen.

A native of sunny Italy has opened a fruit store at the corner of Main and Ainslie streets, and up to date is meeting with a fair measure of success.

WINNIPEG.

A round of Winnipeg grocery stores reveals a feeling of optimism among the trade. It is a fact that with very little reason for it, there has been more calamity howling during the last few months in the City of Winnipeg than in probably any other city in Canada. Because real estate speculation has had a set-back a few noisy individuals have been crying hard times but retailers who stick to business year in and year out without risking their capital in speculation are not grumbling about the business situation.

"I have no complaint to make," said a Main Street grocer to a representative of this paper. "Business during the last year, yes during the last six months, has been quite satisfactory. I find that many of my customers have more money to spend than they had a year or two ago. Money which formerly went into real estate speculation is now available to add to the comforts of home and we grocers reap the benefit along with other classes of retail trade. Of course, those of our customers who are tied up with real estate payments haven't too much ready money and for that reason it has been necessary to watch credits closely. Most grocers have realized this and there has been a general tendency towards caution in making advances of credit which has had a beneficial effect on all. We have made credit dear, have in fact been forced to do so owing to the state of the money market and it has been a good thing for us. We have stood together in this matter of credits and through our association have kept each other informed as to bad debts. The result is that as a class the grocers of Winnipeg have not suffered from the little set-back that nearly all classes of business have encountered. There have been no fake sales among the grocers." This grocer's remarks hit the nail squarely on the head. The Winnipeg grocer who has watched his business carefully has come through the slight depression without much damage; and none have used the questionable methods of "bankrupt" (?) sales to obtain ready money.

W. J. Simpson, who for a number of years has been in charge of the crockery and glassware department of J. Robinson & Co., resigned his position recently and last week opened on Portage Avenue a store of his own, to be devoted exclusively to the line of goods he has been handling for years. Mr. Simpson is a connoisseur of fine china and glassware and there is no doubt that his store is a decided acquisition to the city.

Geo. W. Prout, produce merchant, has removed from Main Street to new quarters at 182 Princess St., where he will have additional space made necessary by the growth of his business.

ST. CATHARINES.

Winter, with all of its rigor, has been keenly felt in St. Catharines and surrounding country. With heavy snowfalls and high winds the country roads in many quarters have become blocked with huge snow drifts, making traveling tedious. The different railroads have felt these obstacles, to the detriment of travel. On the other hand, these snow blockades have been a God-send to many poor and out-of-work laborers, who cheerfully grasped the chance for a few days' work now and again. The street superintendent had large gangs of men at work leveling the snow that had been shovelled from the footpaths, which, in a measure, relieved immediate distress to some of the men. The 19th Regimental band, W. Peel, the bandmaster, with the co-operation of Charles Wilson, of the opera house, and the several newspapers, who heralded the news, gave a concery in the opera house on Friday evening, the whole proceeds of which were to go to relieve the prevailing distress. The house was packed and a goodly sum was realized and placed in the custody of a citizens' committee for distribution among the destitute. The various church bodies are looking after the poor of their congregations as far as possible, and the Salvation Army is doing noble work. They give free lunches and distribute clothes, etc., to the needy poor. Willard D. Woodruff has, at his private expense, opened a soup kitchen on Ontario street.

William H. Bunting, one of our most extensive fruit growers and president of the Fruit Growers' Association, has been in Ottawa, where he lectured before His Excellency the Governor-General and a large company, on the value of fruit growing. Mr. Bunting has had long and valuable experience in this branch of business and knows whereof he speaks.

Had loads of hay been on the market grounds last Thursday the owners could easily have realized twenty dollars per ton, as there was a keen demand for that article, but on account of the bad state of the roads there was none to be secured. And on Saturday the market was poorly attended on account of the severe cold weather. Prices in all kinds of commodities were high. Many hucksters who usually frequent the market did not attend.

Alderman James T. Petrie, one of our foremost grocers, has been selected by the council as chairman of the finance committee, and as he has proved to be a successful business man he should acquit himself satisfactorily as an alderman and as chief of the finance department.

Jacob Fritz, of Vineland, is arranging to establish a canning factory at Vineland. He has considerable of the required machinery installed, and will shortly have the remainder in place. The country around Vineland is well stocked with fruit trees and bushes of all varieties, and a cannery at that place should prove a paying concern.

February is the dull season in all branches of trade. The only factory that has a full complement of employes is the Welland Vale manufactory. Some of the manufacturing establishments are almost completely shut down, having only a few employes, whilst others are as silent as the grave. No orders coming in is the general tone, and while this state of affairs lasts the merchants feel the effects by not having ready sale for their goods, or, if sold, are compelled to grant credits to their customers, something they do not care to do in many instances.

SIGNIFICANT TO CANNING TRADE.

The fact that the application of the recently-organized Association of Independent Canners for connection with the National Canners' Association was so favorably received and acted upon at the recent convention in Cincinnati, is significant to the Canadian trade in several ways. First, the fact that these canners were so readily recognized among this representative body of American canners is an evidence of the important position the Canadian canning industry now occupies. Again, the fact that members of the independent association have allied themselves with the National body seems to point to further development of the Canadian organization. It is suggested, also, that one reason for the affiliation was the hope that at some time in the not distant future, the convention, such as has just been held in Cincinnati, may be prevailed upon to meet in Canada, and probably in Toronto.

MUST GUARD OUR EXPORTS.

The report of W. T. R. Preston to the Canadian Department of Commerce, from Hong Kong, mentioned in detail on another page, to the effect that large quantities of Canadian butter of an inferior quality have been shipped to Japan recently, draws attention to a serious condition of affairs which should be carefully guarded against. At a time when Canada is just beginning to develop a market for her produce in Japan the matter is particularly regrettable. We are in a position to supply considerable produce to the east, and the market seems to have been opening out favorably and profitably, but if produce of inferior quality is exported, as is alleged in the report, we cannot hope for any further development. The matter is one which should be most carefully guarded against.

STUDY YOUR TRADE JOURNAL.

Plenty of grocers are trying to work out a successful business single-handed. They are conducting their business enterprises according to pre-conceived ideas, along well-beaten lines, forgetting that improved methods are continually being devised and adopted by progressive merchants, with the result that trade is coming to them easier, and they are finding that business is becoming more and more of a pleasure.

Undoubtedly the most important factor contributing to this is the influence of the trade journal. In it the newest and most effective trade-bringing methods are described, with the results following their adoption, and the merchant who does not spend a specified time periodically reading his trade journal is losing an opportunity of acquainting himself with the most modern thought of the leaders in his line, and should not be surprised if he finds that his competitors are outstripping him in the race for success. The merchants who are the most successful look upon the time given to a study of their trade paper as time well spent.

A MERCHANTS' CLEARING HOUSE

A plan for a "commercial clearing house," an institution through which business houses may settle their debts and collect their bills among themselves without recourse to the banks, has been launched by the Chicago Creditmen's Association.

Representatives of three hundred and fifty large business houses have enthusiastically endorsed the proposal and a special committee has been appointed to make an investigation with a view to devising ways and means to put the plan into operation.

The plan is simply the adaptation of the "bankers' clearing house system" to the needs of mercantile affairs. Large mercantile houses could proceed at once to effect debtor and creditor settlements among themselves by the exchange of cancelled checks, in a manner similar to the settlements made by banks, without the necessity for the exchange of real money. These mercantile settlements would be made on the basis of values of sound mercantile accounts.

The success of this plan in Chicago will place a powerful weapon in the hands of merchants who feel that they are not securing fair treatment from the banks, many complaints of this nature having been heard during the past few weeks.

SHORTAGE OF WORKING CAPITAL.

The great majority of business failures which come to light from day to day, whose assets and liabilities are reported with any degree of detail, seems to show that the amount of working capital is altogether too small a proportion of resources for safety. It is skating on thin ice, says the Wall Street Journal. A concern whose failure was recently announced, which did a manufacturing and commercial business, was found to have something like $300,000 of liabilities, $500,000 of assets, mainly in the form of stocks which could not readily be converted into cash, and but $557 of cash, only about 10 per cent. of which was in bank.

Aside from the question of the proportion of cash to stocks and supplies, it is not likely that a business concern with only $57 in bank, and half a million assets, is likely to stand very well with the bank because of the low state of its account. In time of need accommodations for such a depositor are difficult to get. The bank is more interested in the balance on its own books than it is on the ample supply of goods on hand. Instead of their being a source of strength, large stocks are an element of danger in mercantile enterprise. Large stocks are apt to mean low cash assets. It is far safer to reverse the order by converting stocks into cash, thus improving both credit and cash resources even at the expense of the loss of some custom.

KEEP INFORMED.

Knowledge is power, therefore, get knowledge. Many people realize this, yet few put it into practice. The merchant who fails to keep posted on trade conditions and trade doings, is losing power and losing money at the same time. In this connection, there are two sources of information which a dealer should never neglect—the commercial traveler and the trade newspaper. The dealer is prone to consider the first-named as a personage from whom he must, perforce, buy goods, and the second as a necessary sort of evil, costing a dollar or more a year. Such a mistake! Dealers should get value out of both traveler and trade paper. Consider them as servants and derive as much information and assistance from them as is possible.

QUIETNESS IN NOVA SCOTIA

Small Lumbering Business is Affecting Trade Generally—Butter, Eggs and Poultry Scarce—Shipments of Fish to Brazil.

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 10.

The grocery business is not quite as brisk at this season of the year as usual, and the cause assigned by the jobbers is the quietness of the lumbering industry, very few of the large camps being in full operation. Prices, generally, are steady, and collections are fair. The only change of special note is in the price of canned goods, there being a general advance of 2½c per dozen on fruits and vegetables. This, however, was anticipated, because of the light pack in this class of goods.

The market is well supplied with fresh fish for the season of the year. Salt mackerel are very scarce and the price high, the demand from the American market being very heavy. The shipments of fish are very heavy now, due to the near approach of the Lenten season. Lobsters are high on the local market, the smallest selling for $1.50 per dozen.

Among the large cargoes of fish sent away from Halifax last week was one to Santos, Brazil, the barquentine C. R.C. taking 3,588 packages of dry fish, valued at $37,000. The shipment was made by the C. E. Robbin Collas Company.

Butter continues a very scarce article and the receipts of fresh stock are very small. The price, however, has not changed, but the dealers say that it is probable an early advance will take place.

Very few fresh eggs are now coming on the market. the extreme cold weather having very seriously affected the supply. Good case eggs can be bought for 25c to 26c, but fresh laid are worth from 35c to 40c per dozen. These prices, however, are much below those ruling at the same season last year.

There is a marked scarcity of poultry in Halifax at the present time, and good stock is eagerly sought after. The dealers cannot get sufficient to supply their customers. Nearly all the available birds in Nova Scotia have been bought up, and the farmers received fancy prices for their stock. The dealers say that the demand for poultry is increasing year by year, and that the country is not raising sufficient to supply the home markets. Some of the dealers had to import poultry from New Brunswick last week. Turkeys are worth 22c per pound. and chickens 20c.

At the week-end Halifax was threatened with a beef famine. Three cars of beef. containing in all 480 quarters, were stalled the other side of Montreal, and had not arrived up to Saturday. The city victuallers had considerable difficulty in securing sufficient stock to meet the requirements of their customers.

* * *

The market at the present time is almost bare of apples. The weather has been so cold that it was impossible to move perishable fruit, but as soon as a mild spell strikes us lots of fruit will be marketed.

* * *

S. Y. Wilson. and A. H. Whitman, of Halifax, and E. C. Whitman, of Canso, were the Nova Scotia representatives who waited upon the Government last week, to urge the appointment of a fisheries board.

The retail merchants have appointed A. L. Wood as their representative on the Board of Trade Council. The chairmen of the various committees of the board are as follows: Groceries, H. G. Bauld; hardware, W. G. Robertson; dry goods, E. J. Murphy; flour, U. B. Shaffner; fish. A. H. Whitman; manufacturing, Edw. Clayton; West Indies, A. E. Jones; tariff and customs, H. R. Silver; insurance, Geo. E. Faulkner.

James Kenny, of Clark's Harbor, recently made a shipment of two barrels of live lobsters to Toronto, via Boston, for the purpose of testing the market and the time of transit by that route. The lobsters sold for 8c a pound. The loss in dead lobsters was 25 to a barrel, but the rest were in fine condition.

IMPROVE TORONTO FRUIT MARKET.

Grand Trunk Railway Will Take Steps to Render Present Premises More Satisfactory.

The troublesome question of establishing a more commodious fruit market in Toronto was again discussed on Feb. 6th at a conference between a special civic committee and representatives of wholesale and retail fruit men, the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association and the different railways concerned. The market is at present in the hands of the Grand Trunk, being situated in the old Great Western Railway station at the foot of Yonge Street.

It is generally conceded that the present premises are inadequate both as to size and transportation facilities. It is urged that a market should be secured in such a locality as would be in touch with all the transportation companies bringing fruit to the city. The most suitable place for such a market would be on the water front on the east side of the Yonge Street dock.

But while it is true that the demand for a new market has behind it a large number of people interested in fruits, there is no unanimity among the fruit men. Indeed, the biggest dealers are emphatically opposed to the proposal to erect a civic market. Some of them have invested heavily in their present premises and spent large sums of money in enlarging and improving their buildings. It is not difficult to understand their opposition to a measure which would seriously injure them financially and upset their plans. They contend that an expenditure of a few thousand dollars on the present market would meet the requirements of the trade.

This latter suggestion was most favorably received by the committee. A representative of the Grand Trunk, who was present at the conference, stated that his company was prepared to spend three or four thousand dollars on the present market. They would set apart the whole of the old station for market purposes, place a new roof on it and in every way improve the place. While the committee seems to favor a permanent market, they decided to accept the Grand Trunk's offer and utilize the present site.

LUMBERS AND KINNEARS EVEN.

Toronto Wholesalers' Hockey League Assumes Interesting Position—Last Year's Holders Lose Cup.

A strenuous game in the series of the Toronto Wholesalers' Hockey League at 'Varsity rink on Monday night, in which the Jas. Lumber Co. team won from the Brokers, placed two of the teams on a very interesting basis. The Lumbers team and the T. Kinnear Co. team have each won two and lost one game in the series, and are now on an even footing.

The Brokers, who were the speediest team in the league last year, and who carried off the cup, have been unfortunate in several ways this season and have not been up to form. As a result of Monday's game they lose the coveted cup. Which of the two teams will get it is very problematical- Both have been playing a pretty good brand of hockey lately and a good deal of helpful interest has been taken by each of the respective wholesale houses.

The final and deciding game, which is scheduled to take place at 'Varsity rink to-night at 9 pm., will in all likelihood be a battle royal.

The score of Monday's game, 4 to 0, makes things look worse than they really were. The forward line was the weak spot in both teams, both defence detachments doing good work. For Lumbers Boyd did good work, and Billy Ford played a cracking good game. For the Brokers, Millman, Billy May and Ferguson all showed well. "Ade" Millman, who had his wrist hurt in the last game was an enthusiastic spectator, but his absence was largely felt. The line-up was as follows:

Lumbers Co.—Goal, "Wes" Lumbers; point, Kerr; cover, Boyd; forwards, Ford, Fred. Lumbers, Wylie.

Brokers—Goal, Ferguson; point, P. F. Millman; cover, "Billy" May; forwards, Webber, Geo. Watt, Blackburn.

EFFECTIVE WINDOW DRESSING

Montreal Grocer's Window Artistically and Tastily Decorated, Proves Effectual in Helping to Sell Goods.

That a novel and attractive display will sell goods has again been demonstrated by the window shown herewith, which was in the grocery of George Graham, one of Montreal's most progressive and up-to-date stores, situated on St. Catherine St., in the heart of the shopping district. The window was designed and built by the advertising department of the National Drug and Chemical Co., of Canada.

The cut reproduced herewith hardly does justice to this skilfully built display, which, with exception of the foundation, window frame and roof, which were painted on cardboard, was entirely built of 16 oz. tins of baking powder. The muslin curtains and blinds gave the house a very real look.

The floor of the window was laid with artificial grass and a border of white stones around the foundation made an effective setting to the house.

Autumn leaves were scattered carelessly over the floor of the window, and a few pyramids of tins of baking powder together with a fern and two cutouts completed the display.

This window proved irresistible to the children, who invariably drew their parents' attention to it, and in one instance a little girl ran all the way home (several blocks) and made her mother come and see it.

REVIEW OF PACIFIC FISHERIES.

Fishing and Packing Industry on the Coast Flourished During 1907.

Excellent progress has been made in the fisheries industry of the Pacific Coast during the past year, the value of the products during 1907 exceeding $26,000,000, according to statistics gathered by Miller Freeman, publisher of the Pacific Fisherman, the annual edition of which publication has just been issued at Seattle, Wash. The following facts relative to the fishing industry on the Coast are brought out in the annual issue:

The pack of canned salmon during 1907 for the whole coast was 4,015,169 cases, as compared with 3,817,316 cases for 1906. There was a decrease of 161,873 cases of Reds as compared with 1906, also of 137,427 in Sockeyes. The pack of Pinks and Chums was 457,450 cases larger than last year and exceeded that of any previous year.

The pack in Alaska has been exceeded in only one other year, that of 1902, when the big Pacific Packing & Navigation Company was in its palmy days, the output that season being some 260,000 cases higher.

In British Columbia, the output was considerably below normal, due to the depletion of the Fraser River fisheries. Columbia River also shows a reduced pack, largely due, however, to the fact that the Chinook salmon, which is most plentiful in that stream, is in heavy demand by mild cure packers.

Mild cure salmon, a name given to a specially prepared article, packed in 800-pound tierces, reached a total of over 15,000 tierces. The trade for this product originally began in Germany, but a large demand is springing up throughout America. The hard-salted barrel salmon pack amounted to 37,021 barrels, considerably larger than any other season. The production on Puget Sound was unusually large.

Halibut fishing has made most remarkable gains during the past year. There are now thirteen steamers employed in bringing this fish from the banks to Seattle, Tacoma and Vancouver, B.C., from whence it is shipped to all parts of the country by passenger express. In addition there are thirty-five halibut schooners fitted with auxiliary power running into Seattle. The total production for the year approximated nearly 50,000,000 pounds.

The codfish production for the whole Coast showed a slight falling off from 1906, caused by the arbitrary action of the Russian Government in driving a part of the San Francisco fleet off the Siberian Coast grounds. The prejudice which has for so long existed against Pacific codfish has been largely overcome by reason of intelligent, well-directed efforts of the packers to improve their methods of handling and packing. In this connection the finest codfish plant in the world exists at Anacortes, Wash.

The total catch reached 13,556,029.

On the Pacific Coast the oyster industry is assuming large proportions. The output is increasing rapidly and the market therefore is being constantly extended throughout all the territory west of the Rocky Mountains.

The lesser branches of the industry all show a healthy condition. In fact, it is evident that the entire fishing industry is on a better and more prosperous basis than ever before.

The detailed figures of valuation of Pacific Coast fish products for 1907 are as follows:

Canned salmon	$17,829,607
Mild cure salmon	1,466,990
Salt barrel salmon	385,885
Fresh and frozen salmon	350,000
Halibut	3,000,000
Whaling	500,000
Codfish	667,801
Oysters	1,000,000
Canned clams	140,000
Canned crabs	35,000
Canned sardines	150,000
Miscellaneous fresh and cured fish trade not otherwise listed	1,000,000
Total	$26,525,283

Markets and Market Notes

Canadian Markets Continue Fairly Steady With Changes in a Few Staple Lines—The Outlook for General Business.

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—
Fish—Revised.
Beans—Advanced.
Molasses—Advanced 2c.
Honey—Advanced.
Evaporated Apples—Advanced ½c.
Butter—Advanced.

Montreal, Thursday, Feb. 13, 1908.

This week the feature of interest in the grocery markets was the advance in butter. Stocks held here are quite light, when the possible consumption before the new make is considered, and dealers are chary about releasing their holdings in any quantity. The other produce markets are firm, but unchanged. Molasses was advanced 2c last week. This is due to the scarcity on this market. Beans have scored another advance and are now obtainable anywhere between $2 and $2.10. Honey is another line which is higher this week. Canned goods are selling fairly well at the advanced prices. Sugar, syrups and other staple lines are in good request. Dealers report a very active demand for black teas and Japans. Dried fruits are quiet. The coffee market is firm, as are also evaporated apples, which are higher.

TEA—There is a better feeling in the tea market this week, the demand being stronger than ever, particularly for blacks and Japans. There has been no change in prices.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—

Sugar—Steady.
Beans—Advanced.
Evaporated Apples—Firmer.
Tobacco—Firm.
Collections—Fair.

Toronto, Feb. 13th, 1908.

Business is somewhat more encouraging this week in wholesale circles, and more assurance is evident. The recent storms reflected, and road blockades reflected on the country in a remarkably direct way, and made matters exceedingly quiet. This week the travelers are able to get around on country roads and orders are coming in a good deal more satisfactorily. As a result of the storm also retail business in many localities enjoyed a rush of trade on the opening of the roads.

Collections are not much more satisfactory. Renewals are asked for in a good many cases and it will be necessary for the wholesalers to carry over a good deal of finances till spring.

The markets generally have been fairly steady during the week. The non-arrival of trains from Montreal reduced supplies of sugar and tobacco to almost an alarming extent toward the end of last week, but stocks of these goods have been fairly well filled up again this week.

TEAS—Business locally continues fair with some activity in low grades. Various reports come in from other markets. One current on the street early in the week from London noted a "droop" of a halfpenny in some low grades. Other later advices point to an early recovery. An extract from a letter from Ceylon, received by a prominent local tea firm, says: "All over the world there is a shortage of common tea. Buyers in every country are simply covering their wants from hand to mouth, and waiting in hope of a drop. The output of tea will not materially increase for the next four or five years. In fact, in regard to Ceylon, I look to see a steady falling off, owing to so much tea land having been interplanted with rubber. I reckon that there are 50,000 acres of this, which means in due course reducing the yield of tea from this land by 25 million pounds per annum. As against this there is a steadily increasing consumption and the two things combined, in my opinion point to higher prices for tea in the future than we have ever seen in the past, and it is a factor which should be carefully studied."

W. J. & Hy. Thompson's London circular, dated Jan. 30, gives some interesting information, as follows:

"The return just issued by the Indian Tea Association, giving the estimated quantity still to be sold to close crops forms a valuable guide as to the probable course of events during the next few months. It appears that the balance remaining is much the same as it was a year ago, being sufficient to provide roughly 30,000 packages per week to the end of June—not too much in view of the fact that the country generally is admittedly working on short stocks. A good steady market thus seems probable, although anything in the nature of a further rise in prices seems to be largely dependent on supplies from Ceylon, which at the moment point to being smaller than usual, especially when compared with the heavy outturns last spring. Imports from China of tea of very common quality have been considerable during the past few weeks, and may to an extent affect the market for the poorer sorts, but the quantity is scarcely likely to be large enough to have much bearing on the statistical position."

COFFEE—Business locally is fair, with an active outlook. Of the general situation, Willett & Gray speak as follows: "The markets rule steady, with a hardening tendency. The sentiment of the coffee world in many quarters remains bearish in favor of lower prices, because stocks in the interior, both here and in Europe, are low and dealers are in hopes of being able to replenish at lower instead of higher prices.

"The cables received from Havre have quoted that market as 'barely steady' or 'weak' ever since last year, when prices were fcs. 36.00 for the spot month, although the market to-day is fcs. 43.50 for the spot month, which illustrates that any advance is not based upon speculative feeling for better prices, but upon absolute necessities.

The trade generally looks with fear upon the Government holdings, being afraid that they might be offered in a way to upset the market. The president-elect of the State of San Paulo has declared in positive terms that the Government does not intend to sell until consumption needs and claims the coffee; and further, that the Government is in position to hold its supplies in view of the present smal crop and a small crop to follow, until these supplies are wanted for consumption."

SUGAR—The local market is steady and firm. Stocks were reduced almost to nil at the end of last week as a result of the railroad blockade between Toronto and Montreal, but this week has remedied matters.

A TRIP TO THE MEDITERRANEAN.

Jas. Lumbers, Sr., and Lennie Lumbers, of the Jas. Lumbers Co., wholesale grocers, Toronto, left last Friday on an extended trip to Egypt and Mediterranean ports. A desire for travel seems to have gotten hold of the Lumbers Co. It will be remembered that Jas. Lumber, Jr., is at present on a trip round the world with the News' travelers' party.

RETAIL GROCERS' BALL.

Large Number of Toronto Grocers and Their Friends Enjoy Function Wednesday Evening.

The grocery trade in Toronto, both wholesale and retail branches, was particularly well represented at the annual ball of the Toronto Retail Grocer's Association on Wednesday evening, Feb. 12th. This function is usually one of the most enjoyable of the year and Wednesday evening's entertainment should go a long way to make it even more popular than usual. The various committees are to be commended for the success of their efforts.

About one hundred and twenty couples were in evidence when dancing commenced in the big ballroom on the sixth floor and beside these there were present a number of gentlemen, unattached, so to speak, who enjoyed themselves at the card tables around the corridors of the building.

The ballroom was tastefully decorated, the music was good and everybody seemed to be having a perfectly jolly time.

A pleasing dinner was served between dances in the diningroom off the hall which was specially decorated for the occasion.

The members of the association represented in the various committees having the function in charge were: President, Fred Thorne; vice-president, Tom Clark; secretary, D. Bell and B. Snow, B. Panter, R. Van Loan and Frank Johnson.

Among the members of the trade in Toronto The Grocer representative noticed the following:

J. Mortimer, Jas. Norris, H. C. Scully, W. Martin, T. Holman and Chas. E. Coutts, all of the Christie, Brown Co.; W. J. Bell, of Faromel, Limited; Sam McGiffen and Ed. Oke, of Clemes Bros.; Frank Johnson, J. E. Johnson, J. Butcher, Sr. and J. Butcher, Jr., and Mrs. Butcher; W. P. Eby and Jas. Taylor, of the Eby, Blain Co.; J. M. Wright, of the MacLaren Cheese Co.; S. S. Richardson, of the Wilson, Lytle, Badgerow Co.; W. E. Spittal and F. McCable, of the Pure Gold Co.; R. Van Loan; J. F. Smith, of the United Factories; Chas. Rupert, of H. W. Nelson; C. B. Rennie, of T. Kinnear Co. and Mrs. Rennie; A. Hutchinson, of Jno. Taylor & Co.; J. Murphy of Rutherford, Marshall Co. and Mrs. Murphy; B. Cope, of Gunns, Limited; J. F. Howitt, of the McIntosh Co.; E. S. Addison, of the Bredin Bread Co.; Fred Stewart, of Jas. Lumbers Co.; D. Ratcliffe, Fred Mouthey, Mr. Ferguson, S. Searle, of Douglas & Ratcliffe; R. J. McNichol, of Melagama Tea; Fred Luttrell, of Chas. Kimptons; Capt. J. Adams and R. J. Blackburn, of Davidson & Hay; Jas. Adams, J. M. Bowes and L. Kemp, of J. A. McLean Co.; R. D. McBride, F. Sabine, of the Queen Canning Co.; Tom Young, of Willard & Co.; F. Rodgers; J. J. Craig, of the Vair Produce Co.; James Miller, of the F. T. James Co.; R. Raymond, of the Sunlight Soap Co.; A. C. Maxwell, of the Maxwell Specialty Co.; Bert Dummall, of McWilliam & Everist; G. W. McLelland, with J. J. Fee; Fred Rupert, of Elliot Bros., Lampton Mills; L. Luke, Oshawa; Walter Boyce, of Boyce & Son; J. Beaumont; H. W. Dawson, of the Dawson Commission Co.; R. J. Stewart, W. T. Merrick, of Rose & La Flamme; J. Jolley, of the C. P. R. freight department; A. E. Coggins and Mrs. Coggins; H. H. Brown, J. C. Stephens, of Fred Humphrey; W. E. Sutton, of H. P. Eckhardt & Co. and others.

Between Dances.

The ubiquitous committee had troubles enough without having the uniformed Temple official throw open the diningroom doors before the chicken soup had properly got itself placed.

Dick Van Loan's tally-ho party from the banks of the classic Don woke up the echoes of the morning air. The old grey didn't run away this time and scatter the good things along the Gerrard street bridge abutments.

The rythmic strains of the popular air, "I'm Afraid to go Home in the Dark," was a favorite waltz with the happy couples. Capt. Adams, the old favorite, didn't miss a single number. Talk about favorites. He's it.

There wasn't a misdeal in the Christie Brown & Co. contingent, and what they don't know about euchre isn't down in Hoyle.

Grocers are pretty good judges of food products, but a serious problem for discussion was raised at the banquet as to what the brand of that coffee was.

Jack Wright and Fred. Luttrell told some characteristic 48th Highlander stories in the corridors. We said, corridors.

Wonder what was the matter with Dick Van Loan's buffet? Happy thought. Thanks!

Dave Radcliffe can't dance, but he can play euchre. All he needs is a better partner. Ask Alex. Hutchinson.

Harry Scully's moustache in absentio was much commented upon; but then, Harry's so good-looking anyway, and as sweet as a Christie ice wafer. And what a funny grip he has.

In the absence of James Lumbers, Sr., in Egypt, and James Lumbers, Jr., in Yokohama, Fred Stewart's smiling face was a very good substitute.

For a really handsome pair, W. T. Merrick and W. P. Eby were hard to beat—and they both can dance.

Bob Stewart, of Sherbourne street, dropped in a little late, but in plenty of time to have a hearty laugh with his old running mate, Fred. Manthie. Where, oh where, was Jerry Burns?

John Butcher, Sr. and Jr., were much in demand in the terpsichorean hall, and their dance programmes bear a lot of names.

R. C. Blackburn, the handsome young Adonis of the Davidson & Hay camp, had the proverbial happy smile of a well-enjoyed evening.

The Canada Brokerage Co., Limited, have issued their statement for the year 1907, and have declared a dividend of 7 per cent. on preferred stock, and 5 per cent. on common stock, besides adding a substantial sum to reserve fund. This result must be most gratifying to their many stockholders.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 9 a.m. Thursday, Feb. 13, 1908.)

Increased activity is reported by the wholesale houses. February is expected to be a quiet month, but business so far is exceeding expectations. Payments are being met more satisfactorily now than for some time past and there is a much better feeling among the trade. With an easier money market business should materially improve during the coming month. The mild winter has been a great advantage to all shippers, there having been no interruption of traffic in the west through snow blockades.

BUTTER—Dairy butter is in much better supply than for some time past. Country shipments during the last ten days have been unexpectedly large. For round lots the produce houses are paying an average price of 20 cents per lb., delivered in Winnipeg, and for best quality selected, 22c to 24c per lb. The market for creamery is easier in the west than it has been for some little time, there being considerable local stock on hand. It is selling to the retail trade at 26c to 28c per lb. Strictly fresh commands a price of 30c to 35c per lb., according to brand and quality.

EGGS—Produce houses are selling storage eggs at 24c per dozen and buying new laid at 25c to 26c per pound.

INFERIOR CANADIAN BUTTER.

Prospects for Our Produce in Japan Injured by Unsatisfactory Shipments.

A note from Ottawa this week says that W. T. R. Preston, in a report to the Department of Commerce from Hong Kong, points out an opening for Canadian cheese, leather and butter in Japan, but says the prospects for Canadian butter in that country have been seriously injured by the shipment to Japan of large quantities of butter from Canada of an inferior quality.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

Large exporting houses report receipt of advices from England which state that there has been a material improvement in the situation there in Canadian cheese, demand being considerably better than it has been for some time. Another house in communication with Old Country importers received this week a letter in which it was stated that either New Zealand cheese would have to advance, or Canadian decline before the situation in England would be satisfactory for Canadian houses. From this one would infer that the New Zealand article, selling at a better price for buyers than the Canadian, was capturing the lion's share of the trade, despite the efforts of able agents of Canadian firms, who are handicapped in securing orders owing to the firm price maintained by exporters in Canada.

Quite satisfied, though, are the large houses mentioned in the opening sentence, with the business they are transacting. They are securing a better price to-day than was obtainable a week ago, being in receipt of 13c to 13¼c, the latter figure being obtained for the finest product, an advance of ¼c over quotations given in last report. There are still some lots which are not quite up to the mark which are finding a market at 12¾c, but these are isolated holdings.

Stocks being low, there is noticeable a conservatism in the attitude of men holding them. They are still not in the least anxious to run after orders. Many holders of cheese to-day simply must secure 13¼ to 13½c in order to cover themselves, for they purchased at 13c, and have to make carrying charges, shrinkage, and other such expenses let alone actual profit.

This is one of the chief reasons for thinking that the market wil not decline to any extent, fluctuate however much it may one cent this way or the other.

Receipts of cheese last week amounted to 44 boxes, against 119 boxes previous week, and nil boxes same week a year ago. Total receipts amount to 2,053,635 boxes, against 2,349,270 boxes same period a year ago.

Distinctly firmer is the butter market this week, prices having soared fully one cent and a half in some instances. For all finest fall make creamery dealers are asking and securing 30 to 31c. Creamery is exceedingly scarce, holdings dwindling week by week, at a rate which is rather alarming, under the storm of steady orders which are coming in from all sides.

Current receipts amount to almost nothing, as will be seen from the figures and dealers do not count upon securing any stocks of present make. One house stated that their supply would be quite exhausted within two weeks unless they cut down orders arriving to actual requirements of their customers.

Under the circumstances the tendency of the market cannot be otherwise than toward increased firmness. As stated, receipts of to-day amount to nothing. All the creameries practically, have shut down, and even were a few of them operating they would not be in a position to ship their make to the city owing to the condition of the country roads since the last series of heavy snowstorms. Nor is the situation likely to be relieved within four or five weeks.

Considerable butter was shipped to Ontario during the course of the week, while a nice business was done with points right in Quebec Province, outside of Montreal itself.

The Canadian market is not alone in its firmness, English and American advices noting high prices in those countries also.

Dairy butter is very scarce and quoted at 25 to 26c for solids and rolls, chiefly the latter. Purely nominal prices for current receipts of creamery are 28½ to 29½c.

Receipts of butter last week were 225 packages, against 1,014 packages previous week and 784 packages same week 1907. Total receipts for the season amount to 410,582 packages, against 605,616 packages same period a year ago.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

Reports from Canadian packers this week are no more encouraging than they have been for three weeks past. Business is quiet, dismally quiet, and the outlook is not at all bright. Conditions similar to those described a week ago are still existent, not only in the Canadian markets, but also in the producing countries of the world.

The British market is perhaps a little brighter, though it has not recovered to any great extent from the depression which has been over-ruling it since the end of December.

Surprising activity still continues among the Danish hog raisers and packers. The enormous aggregate of the shipments of last week, 44,000, shows just how great this is. The Americans, too, have been making records. Last week's shipments to the British market were 19,000. This aggregate was the largest that a representative local packer, when questioned, could remember.

In the face of all this, the outlook for Canadian business is very bad. And this is not only the result of unfavorable conditions in foreign markets, but is also due to the fact that supplies being delivered here are practically nil. "We have not had a delivery to speak of for the last ten days," said a Toronto packer on Tuesday, "and there is very little business passing." Of course, the delivery of stock has been practically impossible by reason of the impassable condition of the country roads, but at the prices offered there is no particular inducement to farmers to sell their hogs. Stock f.o.b. is bringing only $4.90 this week, the same price as was offered at last report, and for hogs off cars $5.30 to $5.40 is offered, according to distance of shipment.

The condition ruling in the American markets is summarized in the following report from the New York Journal of Commerce :

"The past week witnessed fair activity in future hog products, at the opening, at concessions in prices under heavy receipts of hogs, until the shorts had covered, because of the strength in grain. But when this was over, selling continued in excess of buying, resulting in weak markets, as the packers seem to have abandoned, for the time being at least, their recent policy of accumulating stocks, as the large number of hogs in the country, shown by the Government report, indicates a good supply of summer hogs and packers are not so anxious to accumulate stock at present prices as they were of late. At the same time, the home trade has been light as well as export, the latter being very dull, indicating a decreased consumption at home and abroad. These have been the controlling factors in the week's market, with but little of interest in any branch of the trade.

Beef products have been a little steadier on moderate production and fair demand, notwithstanding easier hog products ; and exporters have taken nearly 1,500 packages of beef in this market for the week, leaving very light stock with a tendency toward higher prices, which have been paid for extra India mess, while all grades of barreled beef are steady to a shade firmer.

BUTTER—High prices rule in the butter market this week. English and American markets are short and are enquiring in Montreal for stock. It is expected that supplies for the next month will be low, and high prices will prevail. Receipts of fresh roll butter are very light, owing to the snow blockade in the country.

PROVISIONS—The market is in a firm condition. The demand for salted and smoked meats has been quite active. Lard has been moving freely, with a decidedly firm tone. While there have been no advances, prices rule steady. Fresh meats have been quieter.

CANADA TAKES BULK OF PRODUCE.

Commercial Agent in St. Kitts Gives Statistics of Exports of Sugar and Molasses.

The following paragraphs from a recent report of S. L. Horsford, Canadian commercial agent for St. Kitts, Nevis and Virgin Islands, is interesting in showing what a large proportion of the produce of these islands is received in Canada. The report speaks particularly of sugar and molasses.

"The sugar crop for the season just closed was a fairly good one, and the bulk found its way to Canadian markets. Owing to favorable conditions in the United Kingdom, about 2,797 tons were shipped to Greenock and London, while for the first time in the shipments to Canada, a new departure was made by 433 tons being forwarded to Montreal, instead of all being consigned, as heretofore, to Halifax.

"The total sugar exported for the year amounted to 14,177 tons, of which Canada received 11,188, the United Kingdom 2,797, and other places 192 tons.

"The molasses crop was again disappointing, the output being smaller in proportion to the quantity of sugar made than is the case in other islands. Of the 2,157 puncheons shipped, 1,263 were forwarded to Canada and 894 elsewhere. In regard to this article also, there has been a change in the method of disposal, as while in former years the greater portion of the crop was sold locally at fixed prices on definite orders from Canadian buyers, this season, owing to the absence of such orders, the bulk was shipped on consignment."

D. J. Rattray, of D. Rattray & Sons, Montreal, was in Quebec a few days this week on business.

BREAD ADVANCES IN MONTREAL

High Prices of Flour Necessitate Change in Bakers' Price.

The bakers of Montreal have raised the price of bread one cent, to five and nine cents and it is likely that it will go up another cent in the near future. This is in consequense of the steady advance in flour. In explanation of this latter Col. A. E. Labelle, local manager of the Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., attributed it to crop conditions in the West. There is but a comparatively small stock of good milling wheat offering and that is at a higher price than last year. The cost will advance, and in consequence up will go the price of flour. The farmer is the man who is reaping the benefit as he is getting high prices, even for the poorer grades of wheat for export. Col. Labelle said that last April flour sold at $3.90 a barrel and there had been a steady advance until, finally, the present price of $5.65 a barrel was reached.

CEREAL MARKETS BRIGHTER

Business in Ontario Slightly More Active—Quebec and Eastern Markets Continue Firm—Winnipeg Inspections Large for Season.

The Canadian cereal markets continue on about the same basis as last week. Conditions in Ontario in both flour and cereal products seem brighter and business in nearly all lines is somewhat brisker. Quebec and eastern markets continue on about the same basis, with perhaps a little firmer feeling in evidence.

The purchase of a million bushels of seed wheat by the Dominion Government, which, according to market report, was commenced in Winnipeg on Friday, caused Winnipeg prices to advance materially. The Government is endeavoring to procure the best wheat possible for distribution among the Northwest farmers to be used as seed. Considering the scarcity of the best grades of northern, still higher prices may come.

Receipts of wheat at Winnipeg on Saturday were 111 cars, compared with 116 on Friday, and 88 last year. The grading was as follows : No. 1 northern, 4 cars ; No. 2 northern, 5 cars ; No. 3 northern, 15 cars ; No. 4, 14 cars ; No. 5, 9 cars ; No. 6, 11 cars ; winter, 3 cars ; other grades, 50 cars. Other grain receipts were : Oats, 27 cars ; barley, 2 cars, and flax, 1 car.

During the past week the visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States has decreased 465,000 bushels, compared with a decrease of 286,000 bushels last year. Corn has increased 2,263,000 bushels, while last year it increased 855,000 bushels. The supply of oats has increased 10,000 bushels. Last year it decreased 337,000 bushels.

The visible supply of wheat in Argentina has increased 1,120,000 bushels during the last week. Following is the table with comparisons :

	Feb.6,'08	Week's changes.	Feb.7,'07
Wheat	4,800,000	*1,120,000	3,280,000

MONTREAL DISPLAY OF FOOD PRODUCTS

Annual Food Fair of the S. Carsley Co.—Exhibits and Demonstrations of Representative Manufacturing Firms.

The grocery department of the Carsley Company, Montreal, each year conducts a pure food fair for the education of its customers along the lines of pure food products. This year Mr. Foreman, the manager of the department, has just as good a gathering of representative manufacturers as ever.

Magic Baking Powder, according to Mr. Murray, Montreal representative of the E. W. Gillett Company, Toronto, is the only kind in the world. Mr. Murray was in charge of a nice display. Practical demonstrations of the merits of Magic were given twice daily, when an expert chef cooked dainty dishes, which were tasted by a great number of ladies in attendance. The booth was very tastily arranged and looked well in every way.

Ice cream was served by the Imperial Ice Cream Company, who manufacture ice cream for delivery to the trade in al parts of the district. Their booth was one much patronized.

Fred. Hughes & Co., agents for Spratt's dog cake, dog soap, patent bird seed, poultry spice, parrot mixture and other lines, made a very attractive display of these lines. Mr. Hughes, Jr., who was in charge, reported a pleasing number of sales.

The life-size trade mark of Bovril Limited, attracted much attention. It was placed at the end of their booth and carried out, the idea of the strength and other good qualities of Bovril as a cold weather drink.

Crown Brand Table Syrup was to the fore in the displays, as it always is. Two demonstrators were in attendance every day ready and willing to make known to the public the good qualities of this excellent corn syrup. The company's starches were also on exhibition.

J. Albert McLean, proprietor of the Canadian Cocoanut Company, had a very attractive display of White Moss Cocoanut and Jamaica Jams. Mr. McLean informed the grocer that White Moss was being sold in larger quantities than ever.

Quaker Oats, Wheat Berries, Cereta Wheat Food, Maz-All, Quaker Rice, Apetizo, Quaker Barley and Zest were the cereal foods on display in the Quaker Oats booth. These are freely sampled to those attending the fair, and all seemed pleased with the various breakfast foods.

P. McIntosh & Sons, Toronto, occupied a booth at the foot of the stairs where they served tasty samples of Aunt Sally's Pancake Flour, Prize Oats, Beaver Oats, Aunt Sally's Buckwheat Flour, Swiss Food and Farina.

John Taylor & Co. made a specialty of Infant's Delight toilet soap. This is a very popular toilet soap and samples were much in demand. They also had an exhibit of their Eclipse, Gold and other soaps.

Pugsley, Dingman & Co. occupied considerable space with their exhibit of Hand Ammonia. From the number of sales which were made this line would appear to be very much appreciated by housewives.

W. H. Halford and C. D. Cowles were both busy men during the course of the fair looking after the interests of St. Charles Cream. This was served with Madame Hout's and Condor coffee.

A. E. Carson, Canadian manager of Thos. J. Lipton, was in Montreal for a couple of days during the time Lipton's teas, coffees and jellies were on display. D. F. Carter was in charge of the booth, which attracted considerable attention.

The Cowan Company, Toronto, attracted many to their booth, where they were demonstrating Cowan's cocoa, chocolates and their other high class lines.

Everybody was given an opportunity to sample the jams, jellies, marmalades, pickles, chow chow and other specialties of the Ozo Company, whose booth was in charge of T. R. Butt and Jos. Touin. They made a display also of the ingredients of their various lines, showing just what the jars of jam, the pickles, were composed of. Their new Canadian Worcestershire sauce attracted the attention of many.

J. Harry Demars, city traveler for the Colonial Fluid Beef Company, looked after the interests of his firm, which had on display Red Cross fluid beef, O. K. and Colonial shoe polishes, Colonial essences, stove polish, jelly powder. These lines made the booth one which pleased the eye because of the attractive manner in which they were arranged.

Cremo, Small's maple cream chocolates, maple syrup and maple sugar, were shown in the booth of the Canada Maple Exchange. Tasty samples of the maple creams and the maple sugar were served to passersby and were much appreciated.

The Ogilvie Flour Mills Company had a very neat display of their famous Royal Household flour. This has such a number of friends in every part of the country that it needs little comment.

Lowney's cocoa, chocolates and other confectionery lines were there, as usual. The cocoa was served to visitors daily.

Carl Crossman, Chilliwack, B.C., has sold his grocery.

Clare & Young, general merchants, of Nutana, Sask., have sold to B. A. Archibald.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Quietness Prevails in Green Fruits— Another Stiff Advance in Potatoes —Prices Remain Steady for Fish.

Business continues to be dull in the fruit market. This is due primarily to unfavorable weather conditions. Shipping has been demoralized by the heavy fall of snow and severe cold. Mail orders have been delayed also. A change in the weather should brighten matters up considerably. Prices, generally speaking, rule firm. Heavy falls of rain in California have stopped shipping and made the market firm. Lemons are normal. A stronger export tone has resulted in a better feeling in the apple situation. Other fruits are featureless.

Potatoes have taken another jump in their upward climb, and advance of 15c being registered. The rough weather is responsible for this bullish market. A slump will probably follow in the near future. Meanwhile dealers are obtaining all prices according to demand, one lot selling as high as $1.40. In other lines of domestic vegetables things are dull. Parsnips are very scarce. Fancy lines are faring no better and are exceedingly quiet.

With the approach of Lent, there is a firmer feeling for fish. Dealers are laying in good supplies in anticipation of a record business. Like fruits and vegetables, the weather has had a demoralizing effect on business in delaying orders and shipments. Prices remain materially the same, with the exception of live lobsters, which are slightly higher.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUIT—Business is quiet in this line, the bad conditions of the roads and the cold weather being responsible for this. There are a few changes in prices this week, Florida oranges being down considerably, while strawberries also are down 5c. Other lines remain unchanged.

FISH—With Lent little more than two weeks away, the fish market is assuming a firmer feeling. Dealers are preparing for a record business, despite the lateness of the season this year. Some lines already show the effect of the approach of Lent, lobsters being advanced 5c for the live variety. Supplies of sea herring are more plentiful and dealers have reduced their price accordingly. Haddies are up ½c. Oysters are selling well at old quotations.

TORONTO.

GREEN FRUITS—The unfavorable weather conditions of last week have had a depressing effect on business. Shipments could not be moved. Prices rule firm for all lines of oranges. The heavy rains in California during the past few weeks have given the market a strong feeling.

Lemons are steady with a normal demand. A better feeling is noticeable in the apple situation. Cranberries are slow. The quality being offered is not good. Almerias are selling fairly well. Bananas are unchanged:

VEGETABLES—Another big advance in potatoes is the feature of the week. Both Delawares and Ontarios are 15c higher. Weather conditions are responsible for the rise, but it is unlikely that prices will go much higher, and a drop will probably take place as soon as transportation facilities improve. Parsnips are scarce. Other lines are plentiful. Fancy imported stuff continues slow. California celery is in good demand.

ANNUAL REVIEW NUMBER.

Pacific Fisherman Issues Attractive Special Edition.

The Pacific Fisherman, one of the best trade journals on the western coast, has issued a special review number. The edition, which is profusely and artistically illustrated, shows very ably the extent of the fish canning industry on the coast. The issue is a credit to the publishers and judging from its advertising patronage, should be remunerative.

E. Lariviere and J. B. A. Martin were re-elected to the Montreal City Council in the recent elections in that city. J. Lamoreux, President of the Butchers' Association, was also elected, for the first time, to represent one constituency.

BUSINESS BRIGHTER IN THE EAST

New Brunswick is Feeling An Encouraging Briskness—Advance in Canned Goods and Other Lines—St. John Hockey Match.

(By The Canadian Grocer's Special Correspondent.

St. John, N.B., Feb. 10, 1908.

Business in grocery circles is commencing to look up. There is a stronger demand for canned goods. Apparently, stocks of preserves with householders are getting low. On Feb. 1 all canned fruits and vegetables were advanced by local dealers two and a half cents a dozen. There is a decided shortage of canned corn and tomatoes and raspberries, strawberries and peaches are also reported scarce. There has also been an advance in canned corned beef, roast beef and ox tongue.

Dried fish are advancing and already are quoted 25 cents a hundred higher than last quotations.

The receipts in fresh fish have been very light, owing to heavy gales along the coasts. Seeds are very firm. Red and mammoth clover have advanced 50 cents a hundred since last report, and timothy is likely to be ten cents higher in a few days. Quotations on flour, feed and sugar remain unchanged.

* * *

Many merchants and manufacturers who have received notice from the Dominion Coal Co. that the price of coal would be advanced 25 cents a ton are not any too well pleased. They feel that with the market in its present state the rate should be lower, rather than higher. It will mean an increase in the cost of the product to these firms, with small likelihood of a corresponding increase from retailers or consumers.

J. Sutton Clark's new fish curing factory at North Head, Grand Manan, was blown down in the gale that raged along the coast on Sunday morning, Feb. 2, and totally destroyed. A large number of hands will be out of work for the remainder of the winter. The property was a valuable one. The same storm did considerable damage all over the country. At East Florenceville, A. C. Smith & Co.'s big warehouse collapsed and is a total loss. This building was 60x210 feet, the largest produce house in the province. It was built four years ago of wood covered with sheet metal. The loss is fully $5,000 with no insurance. The contents, hay and oats, were saved.

B. F. Smith, M.P.P., who manages the company's business in Carleton county, says the loss will cause much inconvenience at this season, but he will secure storage room elsewhere in the neighborhood. Rebuilding will not be begun before spring.

The new drug and proprietary medicine company to be known as the Brayley Drug Co., Ltd., capitalized at $75,000, was formally organized in this city Tuesday evening and officers were elected as follows: Charles E. Farrand, St. John, president; J. W. Budd, Halifax, vice-president; George C. P. McIntyre, secretary-treasurer; directors: J. Howard Richards, Boiestown, N.B.; H. H. Gunter, Fredericton; Charles E. Farrand, St. John; J. W. Budd, Halifax; Gerge C. P. McIntyre, Sussex; John O'Regan, St. John and J. D. Irving, Buchouche.

The head offices will be in the O'Regan building, Mill Street, and five travelers will be employed constantly to look after the firm's business in Newfoundland and Canada. A western branch will be undertaken immediately.

It is expected to have everything ready for business by March 1, the old established business of Brayley Sons, of Montreal, having been purchased.

ESTABLISHING FREIGHT BUREAU.

Council of Montreal Board of Trade Holds First Meeting.

At the first meeting held by the newly elected council of the Montreal board of trade last week, consideration was given to the effort of last year's council to establish a railway freight bureau, and the railway committee of the new council was authorized to proceed in the matter, in the manner which they may deem most advisable. Immediately after the adjournment of the council a meeting of the above committee was held and they added to their number the following, who are requested to interview the membership of their respective trades, who have not yet agreed to subscribe to the bureau, with a view to securing their assistance: George L. Cains, A. A. Ayer, Wm. Hanson, Alex. McLaurin. The committee also decided to issue a circular, asking those members of the board who have not subscribed to the transportation bureau to do so forthwith. In regard to trade with the West Indies, the recommendation of last year's council, that a committee be appointed to continue the investigation of the subject was approved and the former committee was reappointed as follows: J. S. N. Dougall, chairman; Joseph Quintal and S. O. Shorey. The committees appointed for 1908 are:

Executive—Thomas J. Drummond, chairman; Farquhar Robertson, Geo. L. Cains, John R. Binning.

WANT STRICT SUNDAY CLOSING.

Montreal Retailers' Association Take Steps to Have By-law Enforced.

At the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association meeting which was held Thursday, Feb. 6, it was decided to petition the city in regard to the Sunday-closing by-law. It was thought by those present that sufficient attention was not being given this matter, and the smaller stores were selling goods too frequently on the Sabbath. It was urged that the Chief of Police should be given instructions to see that the law be more strictly observed in this respect. There was no other business of importance transacted and the attendance was small.

CORRESPONDENCE

CHATHAM.

The Chatham Board of Trade is a live and growing concern. At the annual meeting, recently held, there was a first-class attendance, and the treasurer's statement showed that the membership at the close of the year was 202. This is more than double the membership for any previous year, and is pretty good for an organization which a year ago was practically non-existent.

Keen interest was displayed in the proceedings of the annual meeting, the chief feature of the business being the election of officers for the year 1908. Manson Campbell, president of the M. Campbell Fanning Mill Co., was advanced from the post of vice-president to that of president, while W. H. Taylor, of the T. H. Taylor Co., was elected vice-president. W. R. Landon, manager of the Chatham Wagon Works, was re-elected secretary, and Jas. Simon was re-elected treasurer. Ex-President Gray is one of the fifteen councillors, the others being W. T. Shannon, B. Blonde, Geo. W. Cowan, Chas. Austin, Chas. Hadley, J. S. Black, Archie Park, W. M. Stone, A. C. Woodward, S. Stephenson, E. R. Smith, D. MacLachlan, M. Wilson, K.C. and John McCorvie. The list of officers is a good one, and 1908 should see some excellent work on the part of the Board of Trade in advancing the city's interests.

At a subsequent meeting of the Board of Trade Council, the committees for the current year were struck. Quite a few grocers appear on the list, including John McCorvie on finance, H. H. Malcolmson, J. N. Massey, Wm. Anderson and H. S. Northwood on mercantile.

It will be remembered that at the December meeting of the County Council, a petition was presented from upwards of 100 retailers throughout the county asking that the license fees for hawkers and peddlars be increased to a sum more nearly representing the taxes of the average retailer. The petition was laid over till the January session. When the Council re-assembled last week, a counter petition signed by over 1,000 names was presented, and the matter was accordingly shelved quietly and without discussion. Needless to say, the counter petitioners were not retailers.

The subject of house numbering throughout the city is again to the fore, having been recently brought up at the City Council. The topic is one which comes up for discussion at the beginning of every year, and seems invariably to be sedulously shelved. There is a steadily growing public sentiment in favor of the movement, however, and this is particularly strong among the merchants. The advantages of a systematic house numbering are obvious, particularly in facilitating the delivery of goods; on top of which is the fact that a city the size of Chatham and with Chatham's pretensions to being up to date, should not be without such a system. That the merchants appreciate its value is shown by the fact that one firm has a standing offer of $25 toward the work, should it be inaugurated.

E. A. Mounteer, who has for the past few years been conducting one of the largest and most successful bread businesses in the city, has disposed of his bread route to the Palmer Baking Co. Mr. Mounteer will still continue his bakery and confectionery, devoting his attention more largely than heretofore to the manufacture of cakes and many lines of fancy confectionery and baking. The Palmer Co. have recently constructed a fine brick bakery on Patteson Ave., and have just opened the same for business.

The tobacco buyers have commenced to buy from growers on the lake shore. At present they offer only seven or eight cents a pound for the raw leaf. There does not seem to be much demand for tobacco just now, the manufacturers being evidently overstocked. The price has been as high as 17 cents.

Chas. Edmunds, for many years associated with the retail meat business here, passed away on the night of Jan. 31, aged 75. Mr. Edmunds was a veteran of the Crimean War, having served with the fleet on the Black Sea. He formerly resided in London, but came here in the 80's, and up till about ten

KINGSTON.

Kingston, thank goodness, is about free from the price cutting mania which is in vogue in larger and smaller towns and cities. I have just read a paper, published in a small place back of Belleville, and I find two merchants at it tooth and nail. Two whole sides of the paper are devoted to this deplorable disease, which hurts one and kills the other, same as all kinds of fighting. Here are a few items :

25 lbs. yellow sugar for $1 ; 23 lbs. granulated sugar for $1 ; 7 bars Comfort soap for 25c ; 8 lbs. rolled oats for 25c ; 2 dozen lemons for 25c ; 1 dozen clothes pins for 1c ; 10c plugs tobacco for 5c.

No matter how low Jim tries to go his competitor is sure to "Matchett." Stop it ! Shake hands and don't be foolish.

Franklin Clow, who kept a grocery on Earl street, died suddenly from kidney trouble on January 31st. He had been in the grocery business for about sixteen years. He came from the village of Hartington. He accumulated a lot of property. I am told he owned forty-three houses and five stores. He did all his own driving and canvassing. He will be missed on our streets, for no matter where you went you would see Frank and his rig and fox colt, rain or shine, he kept at it.

Larry Murphy, one of our bachelor grocers and cheese buyers, has crossed the Atlantic. He is going in the interests of his cheese business and will visit Ireland, the home of his ancestors, and if he sees anything to suit may bring back a partner. Larry is hard to please and only a real live Irish lassie will suit him.

About ten years ago I urged the Grocers' Association to appoint a good man who had an office with telephone communication, as secretary, each merchant to give him say $5 per year, and to hand him his list of dead beats and slow pays, and add as the beats grew, so they would finally get them all coralled. He would keep an indexed book with all the names of such people in it, with a "D.B." after some, and "S.P." after others. Then, when one of these profit-destroyers opened an account, his or her history could be had by ringing up 888. This system means prevention and all will agree that prevention is better than cure. The present system of collecting is injurious. You may get the account, but you are sure to offend someone.

Tom Stewart, traveler for Geo. Robertson & Son, met with a small but painful accident las week, when getting on the stage to catch the train at Grafton, he made a mis-step and ruptured a small artery in his foot. He will have to hang around home for a few weeks. I hope he will soon be around again for he is a square fellow. I hope during his stay around the fireside he will write up some good things for The Grocer, for he knows how. Say on such subjects as "Grocers I Meet," "Cash vs. Credit," "Window Dressing," etc.

One of the greatest snow storms we have had in ten years visited Kingston Saturday. Snow to the depth of two feet fell, and in the evening the wind and storm were terrific, and no class of citizens know more about it than the drivers, and the greatest sufferers, the poor delivery horses. It was a big contract carrying a big box of groceries to the back door. "The Guelph corres-

And so it goes; one stabs, and the other pours ointment on the wound.

Regarding a correspondent's request as to how to run a smoked meat table, I think most grocers are bothered not a little. The ends left are generally the profits. I find by putting them on a platter and running them off cheap finds a few customers snapping them up. As to arrangement, all depends on your help. Some clerks can save their salary to their boss by being conscientious and careful. A meat cutter for bacon and cooked ham is a good thing. At first it looks expensive, but in time pays for itself.

INGERSOLL.

It would surely be to the benefit of merchants generally if a little life were infused in the local branch of the Retail Merchants' Association. It has been a long time since the association held a business meeting, and there must be many matters which, if generally discussed, the merchants as a whole would gather some beneficial suggestions. In other towns and cities the merchants have made a success of uniting for the common welfare of all, and Ingersoll merchants are as enterprising as any. Why, then, does this happy state of affairs not exist here?

Travelers are once more coming to town in representative numbers. The grocers are placing their orders for spring delivery, and incidentally replenishing the stock for the balance of the winter season. Despite the money stringency and the many other causes which have alarmed, the country business is going along here in the same old way, which is to the satisfaction of all retailers. The grocers report a good trade since Christmas, but now that the heavy fall of snow during the past few days has impeded traffic in the country, there will, no doubt, be a slight falling off in business for a short time. However, there is much to be done in making the store as convenient and attractice as possible for the sunshiny days of spring, and merchants should take advantage of all the dull days, for the rush will soon be on again.

Travelers are very talkative, and at the same time genial fellows, and on many things their opinion is worth a great deal. Here is an instance where Ingersoll is proud of what the travelers have to say. Those who have visited Ingersoll recently stated that in no town the size of this did they find business as good as here, and they were greatly impressed with the volume of trade and the many signs of prosperity. This, along with our distinction of being the fifth export centre of the Dominion, certainly makes us feel cheerful.

WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock merchants have entered upon the new year with a wholesome spirit of optimism, no greater though than is justified by circumstances. They are not worrying very much over the present scarcity of money, believing such condition to be only temporary. Business with all the local grocers is fairly good, and they do not experience so great a difficulty in making collections as might be expected. A lot of men in the city are out of work, but they seem to have money in the bank, and though their living may be on a reduced scale, yet they are able to pay as they go. However, some of the manufacturers, whose works have been partly closed down, are now making preparations for starting again, and it is expected that before many months are over, everything will be running full swing again.

"What's the use of being pessimistic? The farmers will have another crop." This is the terse way one man put it, and in the few words there is a lot of wisdom concealed. It will not be so very long before the farmers have their year's crops, and this will release in the country a good deal of money that is not available just now. After all the farmers hold the key to the country's prosperity. The rural and urban districts are inter-dependent and the condition of one section of the population cannot but affect all other sections. Cultivate a spirit of optimism. There is no better way to hasten good times than to think they are here now. Don't put on a long face and whine about the stringency of the money market, and try to make yourself and others believe that the country is going to the bowwows. Present conditions are apparently world-wide, and all authorities agree that they are only temporary. Cheer up, smile. Get behind the wheel and push.

That is a good suggestion contained in the London correspondence, that a union picnic of the retail grocers of Western Ontario be held this coming summer. It would bring the men together in a spirit of relaxation from duties and in friendship and much good would undoubtedly result from such a venture. Local grocers would probably enter into the affair enthusiastically, for they are an enterprising lot of men.

There is not a grocer either in the city council this year, or in the board of education. The nearest approaches are in the presence of W. S. Bean, senior member of the firm of Bean & Westlake, manufacturers of biscuits and confectionery, on the education board, and Geo. E. Phillips, a feed and grain dealer, in the city council. Geo. Parker, one of the leading grocers of the city, was defeated in the contest for the board of education, but he is considered to be out of the municipal arena only temporarily.

The E. J. Coles Company, running a good-sized departmental store have been conducting a big January special sale this month. They have taken big space in the daily papers, have quoted lots of prices and offered genuine reductions, and have secured the business. Bargains will draw money out of unwilling pockets, even in times of financial stringency.

W. H. Sutherland, of East Zorra, a reputable farmer, showed your correspondent the other day a bag of apples which he claimed were grown in the year 1902, and had been kept by him ever since. This is not a hot weather yarn, but a sober fact. They were of the Spitzenburg variety, and with the exception of being to some extent wrinkled, were in as good condition as when picked from the trees. I can vouch for this, because I sampled one of them. Mr. Sutherland said that the apples preserved were only choice ones. They were wrapped carefully in paper and put in bins, he said, and he kept the remainder of the process of preservation to himself.

In these days of electric light it does not cost very much to illuminate a window during three or four hours in the evening. Too often, however, a grocer allows his window to remain in darkness after he closes up. This, we think, is a mistake. Window advertising is gradually being given the importance it deserves, but a display may accomplish just as much during the evening as during a similar time in the day and perhaps more, for often more people are on the streets. The big dry goods stores here have their windows brightly illuminated until late each evening, and it is no exaggeration to say that scores of people stop each evening to see what is displayed.

Remember
This Important Fact

¶ The makers of Cox's Gelatine believe that "Honesty is the Best Policy." It has paid them handsomely to conduct their business along that line—at its inception the founders laid down stringent rules for its safe progress. And they have never deviated from these rules.

COX'S Gelatine

¶ No chemicals of any sort or nature enter into the manufacture of this world famous product. It is as pure as it is possible for a Gelatine to be. And whether you buy it in the shredded or powdered form it is always the same. Remember "Cox's" for its absolute purity.

Profitable Goods

Are the goods that are a little better than the others : goods that will make sales where the others won't. Ozo Brand Pickles are good pickles, and show their quality. We have special facilities for turning out the best pickles, and we have made the most of them. For instance, we provide the seed from which the vegetables are grown and so get the best from the start ; the cucumbers go straight from the vine to the factory, so that none of the fresh crispness is lost. We make our own vinegar and it cannot be beaten for pickling purposes. It will certainly pay you to specify that you want our goods when ordering pickles.

Windsor Salt

There wasn't a cent's worth of Windsor Salt found in the stock of John Smith, the grocer, who failed last week. Way up on the shelves, though, were no less than six different kinds of salt under various names—every package, box and bag of it was dity and fly-specked.

Seems as if every successful retail grocer in Canada sold Windsor Salt—grocers who are not tempted to buy "just as good" kinds for the saving in price. Poor John Smith was tempted too far! No Windsor Salt for him—rather have dirty salt, salt that cakes, salt that's not all salt, salt sold for its attractive name than the pure white, dry salt crystals of Windsor Salt.

A Page About Ourselves

A Personal Chat With Our Subscribers About Matters of Mutual Interest—Some New Features, Developments and Improvements—What They Say About The Grocer.

It seems wise occasionally for the editor to take his readers into his confidence regarding what they may expect in the future, what plans are being formed for their benefit, what steps have been taken toward improvement, what new features are being introduced. Accordingly, we are presenting herewith some of the matters coming under these heads which should be of particular interest to every reader of this paper.

Continuing the authoritative character of its articles on matters of trade interest, an attempt will be made to make the paper brighter, as regards both illustration and editorial matter, than it has ever been before. The Grocer has had a steady march of progress and improvement during its twenty-one years of life and this must be continued. One of the means contemplated as leading to this end is an enlargement of the space devoted to editorial matter. This will permit considerable attention being paid to one or two departments which we would like to strengthen.

Improvements, too, are being continually made in the mechanical department of The MacLean Publishing Co., proprietors of The Grocer, with a view to improving the typographical appearance and arrangement of the paper.

A few months ago many enlargements were made necessary in this department, both in the form of new machinery and in an increase in the staff of workmen, the change being largely due to the agreement entered into between the employing printers and the journeymen, the new arrangement providing for a shortening of the workday from nine hours to eight hours, as well as allowing an increase in wages on a sliding scale basis, covering a period of several years. This, taken in conjunction with the steady advance in the price of printing paper, machinery, type, ink, etc., has made a heavy increase in the cost of production. Wages of printers, for instance, have increased from $11 a few years ago to from $15 upwards at present, while with the shorter workday not only is a larger mechanical staff necessary, but special men must be employed to keep the machinery in full operation.

While referring to the mechanical department, it might be said that the MacLean Publishing Company has adopted a new system in force in no other office in Canada, and in but few in America. Every year a large portion of the type, borders, etc., is thrown out and the most modern type faces take their place. This has made necessary the recent cancellation of the type book in use by many advertisers in this paper. Only a short time ago a large purchase was made of new series of type specially adapted for advertising purposes, and the introduction of this has made a very evident improvement in The Grocer's advertising pages.

An entirely new feature, which will be instituted next month and continue regularly throughout the year, will be a special monthly article descriptive of some Canadian who has made a striking success in the grocery business, including something of his personal history, as much as can be secured of the business methods which have brought him success, and, in most cases, illustrations of his business premises. We believe these articles will be helpful as well as interesting to our readers generally.

* * *

New correspondents are being continually added to our staff and it is our intention to develop this already well organized department till every section of Canada is represented. Last week, for instance, our columns contained a letter from Brantford, where we have secured one of the city's brightest young men to write for us regularly. New ideas are being continually brought out in this department, such for instance, as the hint to sell oranges by the peck, which has been taken up in many towns, and that concerning the loaning of orange slicers to stimulate the sale of marmalade oranges, which appeared last week, and is commented on favorably by one or two correspondents this week. These new ideas are continually cropping up and are of inestimable value to any enterprising grocer.

* * *

One grocer, in talking of the various good points of the paper the other day, said that it was worth more than the paper cost him to read the advertisements alone. That seems rather a new way of looking at it, but a note this week from our Guelph correspondent seems to bring out something of the same idea. And this paragraph ought to be of particular interest to our advertisers. He writes as follows: "It was quite a treat to see H. Walker & Son's bright advertisement in The Grocer this week, and as one Guelph grocer put it, 'That is what makes a retailer feel like pushing that line of goods when he sees his wholesaler behind him backing him up with a good live ad.'"

* * *

While speaking of advertising we would like to mention a department which we believe could be made use of with advantage by the retailer, as well as the wholesaler and the agent, a good deal more extensively than at present. That is our condensed ad. department. We have arranged this for the convenience particularly of the retailers, and the rates have been kept at a low basis to encourage them. This department is bringing particularly satisfactory results to those who are using it. If you want a clerk or are hunting for some slightly used store fittings, or want to dispose of some article, try a small "Want Ad." in this department for two or three issues. It will be almost sure to put you in touch with a party with whom you can advantageously do business.

* * *

The international character and influence outside Canada, not only of The Canadian Grocer, but also of the other MacLean trade newspapers, is illustrated readily in the recent visit to Canada of J. Meredith McKim, the MacLean Publishing Co.'s representative in London, Eng. Mr. McKim has just returned after a visit of some week's duration, during which he familiarized himself with the present aspects of Canadian business. The MacLean Co's. English and foreign offices are unique, in that, with the single exception of the Toronto Globe, they are the only ones maintained by a Canadian publishing house. For eleven years Mr. McKim has been in charge of the London office, where now a staff of four represents the MacLean papers. Mr. McKim joined the MacLean staff as a boy, and has now one of the company's most important assignments. His father and uncle were both members of the 13th Hussars in the Crimean War, and detailed to membership in the famous "Light Brigade," his father being assigned to the personal staff of Lord Raglan.

The window dressing and advertising competitions carried on recently attracted a good deal of interesting comment. We realize that these subjects are of vital interest to grocers generally and intend to pay considerable attention to both of them during the year. And you can help us in this in a way which will be mutually beneficial. When you have a window of groceries, candy, fruit or crockery that you are particularly proud of, have a fair-sized photograph taken and send it in to us. We'll be glad to reproduce it and to give you full credit for it, at least, as much as you deserve. We'll be glad also to receive ads. for criticism under our advertising specialist. This department seems to have been of considerable benefit in the past and we want it to be of service to you.

AN ATTRACTIVE CROCKERY WINDOW

Effective Scheme of Decoration From Colborne, Ont.—An Illustration of What Can Be Done Under Difficulties—How the Window Was Made.

It is not only in the larger towns that good specimens of window dressing are found. Here's a crockery window from the little town of Colborne, Ont., that for artistic arrangement and practical selling power compares very favorably with anything that has come to our attention. The window was dressed by Arthur E. Prince for Bradd Bros., grocers and crockery dealers, and shows considerable ingenuity. Ordinarily the windows of the store are open. Mr. Prince has built up a pleasing background and furthermore has added a roof, enclosing the display. He has also explained by Mr. Prince himself, as follows :

"The background of the display was light blue, over which white bunting was puffed. The background extended about two-thirds of the distance to the ceiling. The top was puffed in larger puffs than the back, and in each puff there was a ball of blue paper. At the side there were fourrows of puffs which slanted from the top down to the first shelf. The shelves were covered with blue paper and the stepped platform was covered first with blue paper and then with white bunting."

made good advantage of the shelves at the side of the window.

The arrangement of the china is well worked out indeed, the display being just irregular enough to take away any of the tendency to stiffness which is so likely to be evident in a small window of this kind. The step arrangement is an effective form of display and the fact that each piece of china bears a price ticket is another fact calculated to catch the eye of the passer-by.

How the window was built and the puffed background effect obtained are

AMENDMENT TO CRIMINAL CODE.

Member for Montreal Introduces Bill of Importance to Retailers.

From our special Ottawa correspondent.

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—Mr. Gervais, M.P. for Montreal, has introduced a bill to the House to amend section 498 of the Criminal Code in a manner which will be acceptable to the retail trade of the country. The section as it stands today in the statute, reads as follows :

498. Every one is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to a penalty not exceeding four thousand dollars and not less than two hundred dollars, or to two years' imprisonment, or, if a corporation, is liable to a penalty not exceeding ten thousand dollars, and not less than one thousand dollars, who conspires, combines, agrees or arranges with any other person, or with any railway, steamship, steamboat or transportation company—

(a) To unduly limit the facilities for transporting, producing, manufacturing, supplying, storing or dealing in any article or commodity which may be a subject of trade or commerce ; or

(b) to restrain or injure trade or com, merce in relation to any such article or commodity ; or,

(c) to unduly prevent, limit, or lessen the manufacture or production of any such article or commodity, or to unreasonably enhance the price thereof ; or,

(d) to unduly prevent or lessen competition in the production, manufacture, purchase, barter, sale, transportation or supply of any such article or commodity or in the price of insurance upon person or property.

2. Nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to combinations of workmen or employes for their own reasonable protection as such workmen or employes.

Mr. Gervais' amendment is to add the following words to sub-section (2) :— "or to retail or wholesale merchants or employers for their own reasonable protection as such retail or wholesale merchants or employers." An additional sub-section places the onus of any prosecution on the Attorney-General of the province, and it is in these words : "No prosecution shall be commenced under this section without the fiat of the Attorney-General for the province in which the charge is laid."
